Open—The case Klemann versus Grinnell, set for trial May 31, 1922, in the superior court at Los Angeles, California, was opened on that day when testimony from each of the litigants was taken. It is needless to say that this suit is the one instituted by John A. Klemann of New York against George H. Grinnell of Los Angeles for the recovery of $65,000 paid to Mr. Grinnell for a "find" of Hawaiian missionaries that later were alleged to have been pronounced forgeries by competent judges. The courtroom was thronged on the first day of the trial, we are told, and the evidence was most interesting. Mr. Klemann's contention is that if the Hawaiian stamps are genuine they are worth more than $200,000, but Mr. Grinnell contends that the lot was bought by Mr. Klemann without recourse! Bill Bloss is covering the trial for our readers and we suppose that it will not be long before some decision is made judicially in this case, which has phases so puzzling as to confuse even those who have had many a year of experience in a philatelic way.

Oil—In this column there have appeared recently several references to candidates for office in the coming election of the American Philatelic Society and if it were not said actually that Mr. W. C. Michaels was the sole candidate for president, the inference was that he was unopposed. From Mr. J. E. Scott, treasurer of the American Philatelic Society, we have received a correction to the effect that Mr. C. F. Heyerman of Detroit, heads the following ticket: President, C. F. Heyerman; Vice-Presidents, J. A. Harris, W. W. MacLaren and Otto F. Moses; Secretary, Dr. H. A. Davis; Treasurer, Howard H. Elliott; International Secretary, Eugene Klein; Directors at Large, H. B. Phillips and Dr. J. Brace Chittenden. We knew that Mr. Heyerman was the first nominee for the presidency but we were given to understand that a change had come about that affected his candidacy. It is only fair that we re-instate Mr. Heyerman as a candidate for the presidency, so far as readers who remember our preceding comments are concerned. We like to see competition for the offices in our big national organization; and the WEEKLY has no preferences politically itself as a usual thing.

Off—So many of our readers are on the eve of sailing for Europe that we feel that we shall have to keep the home fires burning by sticking to our own gas-log. Each of the prospective travelers tells us that he intends to keep his eye peeled for stamps and we may add that each one hopes to find a cache of old United States stamps somewhere. Far be it from us to raise a voice in dissonance, but we shall say that there is no royal road to rare stamps in Europe or elsewhere. Mr. Lowell J. Ragatz of the WEEKLY staff sails in mid-June. He will live in Paris for a year and in London for the same period of time. He will act as a correspondent for us while abroad and give particular attention to London and Paris auction sales.

Out—In the Literary Digest for May 27, 1922, Mr. Kenneth L. Roberts' book is mentioned favorably and some of the high lights in "Why Europe Leaves Home" are reflected. Counterfeit American ten-dollar consular fee stamps are so numerous on passports in some of the European countries that the consuls there must be counterfeit detectors in reality. It was not until the fore part of 1921 that frauds were suspected, but since that time, large numbers of the forged consular fee stamps have been detected.

Odd—An old-stager writes to say that he was much interested in the reference recently to the pronunciation of philately and its derivatives and he proffers an account of a resolution that was passed by the St. Louis Philatelic Society over thirty-five years ago. It seems that the National Philatelical Society of New York City preened itself upon the "al" appendage, much to the irritation of the other societies that were just "philatelic" and the St. Louis society condemned by resolution the use of "philatelical". The resolutions are too long for insertion here but we must make room for the sentence: "And that copies of these resolutions be forwarded to the press and all compilers and editors of etymological works on the English language." This was a rather large contract but it must have been carried out to some degree. Several months before this resolution was presented, "the word, philatelic, was chosen in preference to philatelical, by the convention of the American Philatelic Association, held in New York City, Sept. 15, 1886." This was bearding the National Philatelical Society in its den.

One—From all points of the compass come clippings of Arthur Brisbane's recent comment on stamp collecting. Among the host of Mr. Brisbane's readers in the newspapers receiving his service are many thousands of philatelists and they are at one in saying that Homer has nodded. Here is an instance where the all-seeing eye is the victim of an illusion and Mr. Brisbane's findings are much beside the point. He says that philatelists with the best of intentions are going to try to spread the gospel of stamp collecting among high school children. He says that this is wrong as stamp collecting "calls for money and is largely a matter of money." Mr. Brisbane says fairly that it is not well to interest them "prematurely" in the mere chase of the dollar with the idea of spending the money "for a purpose not actually useful, merely to gratify a fad." Mr. Brisbane concludes his homily with a cock-sure remark that an hour spent in a museum of natural history will do more to educate the budding mind than five years devoted to stamp collecting. We think that stamps leave Mr. Brisbane cold and that he has no interest in them. He has had little or no experience philatelically, we surmise, and evidently, he has not inquired into collecting conditions of today. The old argument that it was advisable to collect stamps because they taught a formidable list of subjects is no longer emphasized as these advantages accrue only incidentally, let us say. The comparison of an hour in a museum and five years of collecting is so extreme that it is not to be taken seriously. All persons will not like stamps and some will even have an antipathy to them and the unsympathetic mind dismisses them without hearing their claims for recognition. As for the money necessity, the collector now, of all times, is in a position to gather together a considerable number of stamps at little cost. The increase in stamp issues has made available a many common stamps that have value but represent a small amoun handling them. A collection of thousand stamps is easily obtained the outlay for a lot of the kind is s indeed. Stamp collecting is on a s too well established to be called a and Mr. Brisbane's curt dismissal as such weakens his argument whic philatelic ears certainly does not true.

CARE OF YOUR STAMP COLLECTION.

By EDGAR ASHMAN, JR.

One of the most important things to remember in making up a collection of postage stamps is, that their value is always increased by the amount of care and neatness used in arranging them. The neater a stamp collection, the more pride an owner will take in it, and the better the mounting, the easier it will be to find a buyer should its sale ever become necessary.

The most expensive stamps can be readily ruined by a lack of care in handling and mounting them, and a small, inexpensive collection looks like a million dollars if time and thought has been spent in its formation.

In purchasing materials and accessories, such as albums, hinges, envelopes, tweezers, etc., always buy the best you can afford, regarding each expenditure as an investment for the protection and the welfare of your stamps, and certainly the result will justify the means.

The less you handle stamps with your hands, the better condition they will be in. A pair of tweezers, made especially for the purpose, is a necessity in handling good stamps, particularly mint specimens. Little smudges of dirt, a tiny finger print, accidental tears in the perforations, all help to reduce the appearance and value of a stamp and consequently detract from the collection. Therefore, always pick them up and examine them with tweezers, and with a little practice it will be found that every operation necessary in handling a stamp can be done with the tongs, thus saving it from any possible injury.

Clean hands are absolutely essential in working with a collection. There is nothing which detracts from the looks of an album so much as smears and smudges on the pages. Even if you do use tweezers you should always wash your hands thoroughly to prevent any soiling of stamps or album.

Never under any circumstance use a bad hinge in your collection. By that I mean a hinge that does not peel, and it is these that should never be allowed in a good collector's equipment. Buy the best hinge on the market, then test it to see if it is quite peelable, or can be removed with ease from either stamp or album without any chance of tearing the paper. This will save torn stamps, torn albums, etc., and in the end will save the collection and repay the investment.

Even if you observe all the foregoing directions you can easily ruin everything by the way you mount your stamps. The hinge should be folded down from the end about a quarter of an inch, the shiny or gum side out. In affixing it to the stamp always let the folded end extend above the stamp, so that in examining the back of the specimen, or reading anything written in the space beneath, it can easily be bent back without getting creased, the folded edge of the sticker acting as the hinge.

The above method has only been derived by much experiment and several years of trial. I used to stick my hinges in the middle of the back of the stamp, then I tried placing the folded part flush with the top, and finally discovered the way I have just described, which has proven itself best.

Of course, you realize that to achieve an artistic and fine looking collection, the stamps must be arranged according to some definite system, which should be clearly followed out by the owner.

In conclusion I would like to say that a well mounted, neatly laid out collection is a thing of beauty, and something any collector can be proud of no matter how little he paid for the stamps themselves. The neatness and care spent on it will never be regretted, and if this is made a habit, the result will be far greater than you could imagine, and the value, financial and otherwise, will be materially enhanced.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

Under this heading we desire to publish all the news from the various philatelic centers. Correspondents' names will be given unless prohibited, as we desire to give full credit for services rendered.

—We have just received an order for books from the Economist Stamp Co. of New York City amounting to 160. It includes a number of the new Dictionaries and New York subscribers can shortly obtain them from the Economist Co. This is a notable order and well worthy of mention. No other dealer in New York City is carrying our booklets.

—O. S. Cole informs us that Hong Kong now has on sale in the new script watermark the 1, 2, 4, 8, 10, 25 and 30c values.

—Arthur Barger sends us a story from the Blue Book Magazine by Charles Phelps Cushing entitled "A Bit of Old Paper". It is highly flavored from the philatelic standpoint and we do not remember having mentioned it in the WEEKLY before.

—We have received from Eugene Klein a publication Air Mail. It is dated April, though no mention is made as to whether the publication will appear monthly or quarterly. The price of the initial number is 10c and all our subscribers interested in airmail stamps are urged to send that amount for a specimen copy of No. 1. It consists of sixteen pages.

—M. Ohlman will hold an auction sale at the Atlantic City, S. P. A. convention. Mr. Ohlman has had several convention auctions in recent years.

—"I would like to call your attention to what I think is very interesting to philatelists. I have a letter recently mailed from Russia which has 97,500 rubles on it for postage. It is as follows: 8 of the 7,500 rubles blue stamps and 5 of the brown 250 rubles surcharged 7,500 rubles each. The letter is registered. It shows that a poor person cannot send any mail out of Russia."—LOUIS LISSAUER.

"WINDOW ENVELOPES" — AUSTRALIA.

"Window" (panel) envelopes covering correspondence addressed for delivery in Australia will not be accepted for mailing unless the transparent panel forms an integral part of the envelope. Under a recent decision of the postal administration of Australia correspondence inclosed in the so-called two-piece "window" envelopes will not be delivered but will be returned to the sender.

UNITED STATES.—The catalogue is out for the next session of the Ferrari sale which will be held in Paris during the middle of June. There is little of interest to the collector of general United States issues other than some mint singles of the 1847 issue as well as some fine 1851. The latter include two beautiful 5c, judging from the illustrations. There are some nice carriers and locals. The main value in United States items are to be found in a further wonderful lot of the Confederate provisional issues many of which are on the entire cover. I will not attempt to describe them in detail at this time as I will review the sale after a priced catalogue is available.

I have recently seen what was supposed to be a cover with the 90c, issue of 1869. Someone with what appeared to be a very fine looking copy of this stamp, a tear in the southeast corner not being noticeable except on close inspection, thought that they could probably cover up the defect and at the same time add to its value by placing it on the cover. The cover in question was a small cover with the imprint across the top in old English letters of the "Consulate General Norddeutschen Bundes" addressed to Cannes, France. In addition there was a red New York Paid cancellation dated "Mar 18" as well as several French postmarks bearing date of 1869. The stamp was cancelled in black and the work was by no means clever for in carrying the cancellation to the cover the forger used a bluish black ink entirely different. In addition he overlooked the fact that on March 18, 1869, the 90c had not as yet been issued.

In my Chronicle of last week I listed among the plate numbers a lone plate of the 3c surface print No. 13688. In speaking of this plate Mr. A. E. Owens writes, "You may recall that there was some talk a few months back of increasing the 1 oz. rate to 3c in order to receive more revenue and the Bureau in order to meet the possibility of this change started to get ready with the 3c plates. Only one plate was made, however, and they advised me that it was never used."

I have just located a new variety of the 2c on 3c provisional envelope not seen heretofore. New varieties are coming in slowly here of late and I imagine by the time we are through only a few more will be added to the list as today known.

The new Gibbons' catalogue listing United States issues has just reached this country and the publishers are certainly to be congratulated on the forward step that they have taken. As they tell us in the preface "For the past few years we have been hoping to receive a lead from the American catalogue, but the same old list appears year by year with none of the interesting modern details worked out." It is to be regretted that this is the case but it is well that this additional information is available under one cover, even if we must turn to a foreign catalogue for it.

The publishers invite suggestions as well as criticisms and remembering that it is easy to find fault with the other man's work I am sure that Mr. Phillips will understand that the remarks are made in a friendly spirit and as constructive criticism.

In the early issues we find listed and priced for the first time, most of the minor varieties such as shifts, recuts, stitch watermarks and the like. These are rightly listed in small type as secondary to the main varieties and it is to be regretted that they do not list shades in the same way. As usual they price all of the Postmaster Provisionals and the low prices brought by the Saint Louis bears in the Ferrari sale are reflected in the lowering of the prices on several varieties of this issue. The catalogue, however, does not reflect the increased price on the Boscawen and Lockport. In the 1847 issue we find the shades listed by years in accordance with Dr. Chase's list. We might mention here that all of the information relating to our older issues has evidently been gleaned from articles from the pens of students on this side of the water as we have looked in vain for a single piece of information relating to our issues that is new. In the 1851 series all of the types of the 1c are listed and our attention is called to the two types of the 3c. We find the several types of the 10c which are just as important as the types of the 1c and should have been listed by Scott long ago. They list as type I the variety with full shells at the bottom, which are only found in the bottom row of the sheet. Type II is the normal variety with two sub-varieties, line complete at top and line broken. Personally I think these should both be listed as main varieties the same as in the case of the 1c. The third type is the recut type and there is a sub-type for each of the four recut varieties.

In the 1857 issue they class these recuts as additional varieties of type II. Why this inconsistency I cannot say for they are all from the same plate and if the variety is worthy of a type designation in the imperforate issue, it certainly is worthy of the same consideration when perforated. The 3c is listed in three types. We are glad to find that they mention that the 24c red lilac as well as the 24c, 30c and 90c imperforate were not regularly issued but are sorry they make no mention of the 30c black which has just as good a standing.

We take exception to their re[mark] that the 1867 1c grilled all over i[s] gus. The worst that can be said i[s] it is an essay and some in this co[un] will contest even this assertion. [We] are especially to be commended fo[r] 1869 note where they state that [the] 'no grill' varieties should only b[e] cepted with full gum." They te[ll] that the re-issues from 1869 on [were] available for postage. True, bu[t] 1861 re-issues were also available.

The early issues have all taken [a] stantial advances and more or les[s] flect the upward tendency althou[gh] can be seen that in many cases they [do] ply reflect Scott's quotations.

They list all of the re-issues as su[b] rieties in small lettering following [the] stamp itself. This does not seem t[o] as desirable as listing them togeth[er] does Scott. From 1890 on the [cata]logue is of little value to the speci[al]ist for it is nothing more than a list o[f] main varieties. Students of our [early] issues are few and far between a[nd] is possible that having no authori[ty] article to refer to they have simply [left] them alone. It is certainly to b[e] gretted that they did not take the tr[ouble] to even list some of the well know[n] rieties. For instance they omit th[e] Omaha part-perforated as well a[s] part-perforated 2c St. Louis. The [same] remarks apply to similar varieti[es] the later issues. In listing coil st[amps] they have included all of the sid[e] varieties but have omitted all o[f] endwise stamps as well as all of the [issues] of the 1902-'03 design. They te[ll] these are "for use in Government [offices]. We do not know what this mean[s] less they refer to them being [used] coils. They have followed Scot[t] omitting the price of the current 4[c] 5c rotary coil giving the impressio[n] it is rare when, as a matter of fa[ct] is current. They price the 1901 i[ssue] at Scott's prices and put the 5c [unused] imperforated in at £120. If you [have] any on your side of the water at [that] price I would like to buy a few.

They list the 1c rotary perfo[rated] 10x11 as a minor variety whereas [it] a very distinct issue. They omit [the] rotary 1c perforated 10 as well a[s] 1c and 2c perforated 11. In the su[r]prints they list the types of the 3[c] ignore the types of the 2c which [are] just as important. They also list t[he] surface print, type I (Scott's type [I] as imperforated whereas this varie[ty] not known to exist. Later on [in] Phillips, you list the 10c Special [De]livery, green, as on toned paper. P[lease] omit this the next time for it is n[ot] We find a very large list of de[part]ment shades for the first time and [many] of them are priced quite high. A[ll] the "specimen" varieties of the de[part]ments are priced separately for [the] first time which is a good thing. A[lso] in all the publication is to be str[ongly] recommended and a copy should [be] the hands of students of the issu[es] the United States.

We wish to thank Messrs. C. J. [Phillips] and Charles A. Nast for notes o[f in]terest.

of anything fine in early U. S. or foreign stamps. We can pay more than most because we cater to a limited clientele who are willing to pay us well for de luxe items. If you have a collection to sell, or only a few fine duplicates of the issues from 1847 to 1869, or an accumulation of the issues of 1870 to 1880, send them to us with your spot cash price and you will receive returns promptly. Just now we particularly want singles, pairs, strips of the 10c stamps of 1851 and 1857, either on or off cover, and will pay more than catalog for those we can use. [H

EDOUARD LOCHER OF ZURICH.

We present herewith the likeness of Edouard Locher, the well known dealer of Zurich, Switzerland, who has been advertising in the WEEKLY quite regularly during the past two years. The Locher firm is not only celebrated for its fine stock of stamps, but for its stamp catalogs as well. As far back as 1915, Mr. Locher issued a special catalog of war stamps, a booklet of 30 pages only, but the fifth edition recently at hand is a fine book of 220 pages well illustrated and printed. It contains all war and peace stamps as well as novelties overseas. The quotations are in Swiss francs and the text is in French, and collectors will find it very easy to familiarize themselves with the contents of the book.

land have now been selected and the stamps are expected to be ready for sale in about two months' time.—Stamp Collecting.

IRAQ.—Mr. C. Woods, of Portsmouth, writes that he has in his possession a copy of the 2 rupees "On State Service" without cross-bar to the "A" in "IRAQ"; it appears like an inverted "V" and is on unwatermarked paper.—Stamp Collecting.

ITALIAN COLONIES.—Il Corriere Filatelico reports that the enormous quantity of eight million stamps of the general issue for Italy (value or values not stated) have been erroneously overprinted "SOMALIA". They are not required there and, to obviate waste, are to be additionally overprinted for Eritrea.—Stamp Collecting.

MEXICO.—The Economist Stamp Co. submit for chronicle the 4c of the 1916-17 issue surcharged "Oficial" from top to bottom on the right side of the stamp in blue.

NEW ZEALAND.—Mr. R. Roberts reports the 8d King George type stamp in brown color. It is perforated 14x13½ and printed in sheets of 120.

NORTH WEST PACIFIC ISLANDS.—Mr. R. Roberts advises of the 4d violet stamp of Australia overprinted "N.W. Pacific Islands." in three lines in black The stamps are in sheets of 30 subjects of the fifth setting all of the same type watermark as before.

RUSSIA.—Mr. Hyman Guth submits for chronicle a copy of the new 7500r stamp in imperforate condition printed in blue on buff paper. The stamp is oblong in shape and has the figures of value in the lower corners with the Russian letters for currency between.

SURINAM.—The Economist Stamp Co. have sent us the following new colors in the stamps of this colony: 5c green, 10c violet, both in the type of A14; 12½c red, 20c blue and 32½c violet with the figure of value in orange in type A15. Also a new value in the postage due stamps: 12½c violet.

URUGUAY.—The Philatelic Magazine reports two new air-post stamps, viz.:—Overprinted "CORREO AEREO" and aeroplane in red: 5 centesimos grey and 25 centesimos dark brown.—Stamp Collecting.

STAMPS OF THE NEW RUSSIA.

By DOUGLAS B. ARMSTRONG.

In practice the "boom" of free postage, as adopted by the Soviet Government early in 1919, proved to be a not unmixed blessing. It applied, of course, only to unregistered inland correspondence up to 15 grammes weight, with the inevitable result that the postal employees paid scant regard to the letters and a considerable proportion failed to reach their destination at all. Only by registering a letter was it possible to ensure its transmission, and for this purpose high value stamps were required in consequence of enormous increases in the rate of postage, brought about by the rapidly dwindling value of the rouble. The charges for registered correspondence had to be raised every few months. In August, 1920, the combined fee for postage and registration was 10 roubles. Such foreign letters as were accepted by the Russian Post Office were subject to equally high charges.

100 PER CENT. SURCHARGES.

Under those conditions postage stamps of a lower denomination than the 1 rouble were no longer required. Early in 1921, therefore, a decree was enacted authorising the raising of the face values of all Russian postage stamps then current by 100 per cent. The interpolation of this regulation appears to have been left entirely to the discretion of individual postal officials, some of whom deemed it expedient to add the Russian characters "Pyb", signifying "roubles", by means of handstamps, whilst others merely sold their stamps at the higher rate without any outward and visible indication of their transformation.

These value overprints exist in great variety in view of the fact that each post office had its own type of handstamp. For the most part the surcharge took the form of the abbreviation "Pyb" only, but in certain instances figures of value were added, notably at Kosmodamjansk (Tartar Republic) and Rogetschow (Homel). In the Government of Tuba a black cross was impressed over the Russian Eagle.

WESTERN STAMP CO., A.S.D.A. No. 33. 308 LEFLANG BUILDING, OMAHA, NEE

I Desire TO PLACE MY NAME BEFORE the readers of this paper in such a way that when they think of adding anything in scarce U. S postage, Rev., Dept., Cut Sq. Env. or Blocks of 4 or Covers, or British North America stamps, or Early Issues of better grade of any country, they will give me a chance. Just because I am using a 2x2 inch space, it is no sign I have a 2x2 stock. I really have a wonderful bunch of stamps; if you don't believe it, answer this ad with your want list.

I have been in mail order game nearly 35 years. I carry one of largest stocks of curios in the world, in addition to stamps; also fair stock of old and rare Coins.

Just now I have some beautiful Navajo blankets (used as rugs or couch covers). If interested in stamps, coins or curios, write me.

I issue circulars in regard to coins and curios, price 4c. No stamp lists, all business in stamps done thru approvals.

SOVIET STAMPS.

Meanwhile, the resumption of international relations by the Soviet Government in the summer of 1921, caused an urgent demand for postage stamps in denominations which corresponded to the postal rates actually in force. Accordingly a set of designs representative of Industry in its various phases were prepared by native artists and reproduced in the form of adhesive postage stamps in the Soviet Press at Moscow. With the exception of the 40 roubles value, which was recess-printed on watermarked paper, these stamps appear to have been lithographed, and were issued imperforate.

Incorporated in the designs are, in addition to the Russian word "POCHTA" (Post) and value in roubles, the Russian letters R.S.F.S.R. denoting "Russian Socialist Federal Soviet Republic." The first five values made their debut in August, 1921, viz., 1, 2, 5, 20, and 40 roubles. No sooner had they been issued, however, than a further increase in postal charges raised the tariff for ordinary letters to 250 roubles, and the fee to 2,000 roubles. In consequence, no further printings of these values were made, but early in October they were superseded by stamps of the face values, 200, 250, and 1,000 roubles in the same types, followed in November by others of 200, 300, and 500 roubles.

SUMMARY.

300 Roubles, green (Sheaves of corn).
500 Roubles, blue (Hammer and Anvil).

COMMEMORATIVE SERIES, 1921.

On the occasion of the fourth anniversary of the establishment of the Soviet regime, in November, 1921, three stamps of special design were issued, presenting within an oval frame the significant initials of the Soviet Republic, illuminated by a single star and bearing the dates "1917-1921."

SUMMARY.

1921. November. Commemorative of Fourth Anniversary of Soviets. Dated 1917-1921. Lithographed. Imperf.

FAMINE RELIEF STAMPS.

The Moscow journal Prawda for September 30th, 1921, contained an announcement by the Commission of Posts and Telegraphs inviting the submission by artists of designs appropriate to a series of charity postage stamps to be issued on behalf of the victim of the disastrous famine in the Volga provinces. A first prize of 200,000 roubles was offered for each accepted design, the competition closing on November 1st.

Famine Relief stamps in two poorly executed designs duly materialised in January, 1922, but owing to their inconvenient size and mediocre appearance were not brought into general use as was originally intended. The one design, lithographed, depicts a crowd of refugees from the famine area assembled on the bank of a river, whilst the other represents a Red Cross worker succoring a famine victim. The former type is lithographed and the latter recess-printed; each case the face value is 2,250 ro but the stamp of the first type is in three different colours.

In addition to these stamps of s design the two stamps in the Swor Chain type of 1918, have been formed into relief stamps by mea an overprint in three lines of R characters, consisting of the i "R.S.F.S.R.", a Russian inscription ing "For the Starving", and an enh value. The overprint was appli blue, black, and red upon the 70 k and in black, red, and orange upo 35 kop.

DESIGNS SELECTED FOR THE NEW IRISH STAMPS.

The Irish Provisional Government has announced that five postage stamp designs have been accepted of those offered in competition. We picture the prize-winning designs but are not informed how many will be used in the new set to be issued. These designs are all characteristic and the new set will make a valuable addition to historical philately.

MID-EUROPE ITEMS.

By A. KOECHLIN.

The Munich exhibition set as well as the Austria Charity set have made their appearence. The first one contains 6 values, all of the same design. The Arms of Munich (the müncher Kindl) in the center. The values are 1¼ lilac red, 2Mk violet, 3Mk red, 4Mk ultramarine (All four on white paper) 10Mk sepia on brownish and 20Mk dark carmine on rose.

The Austrian set fortunately is a perfect return to the old school. It contains seven little masterpieces of engraving and likeness of the Austrian composers of music, Haydn, Mozart, Beethoven, Schubert, Bruckner, Joh. Strauss and Wolf.

The corresponding values are 2½, 5, 7½, 10, 25, 50 and 100 Kr. The number of issue is said to be 200,000 sets. Only complete sets are sold at 10 times the face value—2,000 Kr.

The franking value is limited at one month.

The Newspaper stamps of the 1922 Austrian set had hardly made their appearance when they were declared out of use. Since March the 1st, they cannot be gotten any more at the post office window; dealers ask now 5 times the face value. I am not sure at all whether we shall not witness a resurrection of these stamps in the next set Austria will donate us. There is certainly no good reason for dropping forever a source of income that has worked so well for years.

STAMP FANS TO CONVERT CHILDREN.

A movement to make stamp fans of the school children of this city will be started immediately, John L. Stroub, President of the New York Philatelic Society, told seventy-five delegates at the annual convention of the United Stamp Societies in the home of the New York Society, No. 20 East 125th Street.

President Stroub urged further that the delegates create new interest among the school children in their home cities. He believes if this is done stamp collecting will become a popular pastime and tend to interest the children in a hobby that is "educational, historical, and of geographical importance, besides an investment."

"The objects of our society shall be to further the interests of stamp collecting and study of postage and revenue stamps among all school children in New York City", President Stroub said. "We will afford school children an opportunity to exchange, buy or sell stamps, and to encourage fraternal feeling among their members. Already we have organized a junior society, and shall have a special students' night on Saturdays."

Newly elected officers of the United Stamp societies are R. N. Osbourne, Brooklyn, President; E. L. Clark, Lynn, Mass., Secretary; L. G. Bixby, Boston, Treasurer, and M. D. Olmstead, Concord, N. H., Sales Manager.

Officers of the New York society are John L. Stroub, President; Karl S. Strand and Samuel Kleinman, Vice-Presidents; Edward Weiss, Secretary; Edmund McD. Bendheim, Treasurer, and David Trautmann, Chairman of the Board of Directors.—World.

SEVENTY BINDERS PAID FOR.

Notwithstanding the fact that 110 persons indicated that binders for the WEEKLY would be wanted in case they could be made a reality only seventy real orders accompanied by cash have been received. This binder is being offered by us at cost. It is supposed to fill a long-time need, and if those who have been requesting a binder now fail to make good we shall dismiss the matter from all further consideration and remittances will be refunded.

INAUGURAL BANQUET.

(The following story of the inaugural banquet for the London International Stamp Exhibition is taken from the "Philatelic Magazine". We have received from Fred J. Melville, chairman and toastmaster of the evening, the menu card of this most successful event. A representation of the penny black is shown upon the cover, while the list of invited guests and philatelists indicates a notable occasion.—W. O. W.)

London philatelists and a number of their country cousins experienced a field day on Saturday, May 6th, an auspicious date which also marked the 82nd anniversary of the birth of the postage stamp. The complete success that attended both the Jubilee Stamp Auction in the afternoon and the Inaugural Exhibition Banquet in the evening, provided a happy augury for the great event of 1923.

The Jubilee Stamp Sale.

Before the advertised time of the sale the Renaissance Room at the Café Monico was thronged with eager buyers, so that there was soon not a seat to be had. Philatelic history repeated itself on this occasion, for in the words used by the late E. L. Pemberton to describe the first London stamp sale, held fifty years ago, the Jubilee Auction "was attended by all the leading London amateurs and many country ones." Bidding was brisk from the start, and a number of the more desirable lots fetched really "fancy prices". The piéce de resistance of the sale was, of course, the magnificent pair of the New York Postmaster's stamp upon original cover, donated to the Exhibition Fund by the late Major E. B. Evans shortly before his death. This was Lot 197, and it provoked a spirited duel between some well-known British philatelists and an American "unknown", who became the runner-up. It was finally knocked down to Mr. Frank Godden for the very handsome sum of £225. The next lot, a mint block of the 3 cents "Première Gravure", realised £24. The 2d Irish Provisional Government with inverted overprint, mint, sold for £8 10/-. A pair of ½d Jamaica War stamps with inverted overprint realised £6, and good prices were paid for a number of other War stamp errors and varieties, including Bahamas 1d War Tax, double overprint, one inverted (£6 15/-). The total amount added to the Exhibition Funds as a result of the Jubilee Stamp Auction was just on £745.

Exhibition Inaugural Banquet.

Upwards of 200 philatelists and guests sat down to the Inaugural Banquet for the London International Stamp Exhibition of 1923, which took place on the evening of the same day, in the International Hall of the Café Monico.

After the usual loyal toasts, the President (Mr. Fred J. Melville) referred to the auspicious occasion and to the magic influence of the Penny Black, whose birthday it was. Every man, he said, ought to have a hobby, and we philatelists believed that our own was not the least attractive of those available to the ordinary mortal. He regretted that the Postmaster-General was unable to be present, as he should have liked to have told him how little philatelists in general approved of his scheme for printing advertisements on the backs of stamps. They did most fully appreciate, however, the return of the 1½d stamp, and hoped that this partial concession might mean that before long the 1d postage stamp would be completely resurrected.

Sir Wm. Berry, replying on behalf of the visitors, said that he too deplored the absence of the P. M. G., for whom he was unwillingly deputizing, as he wished to tell him that he considered the Kellaway 2d stamp to be a delusion and a snare. Personally, he believed that Mr. Kellaway had been afraid to face the ordeal. Stamp collecting, he thought, was in for a good time. Every stamp collector ought to support Mr. Lloyd George because the creation of new boundaries by the Genoa Conference must inevitably lead to the issue of new stamps. Stamp collecting was a useful and instructive hobby and might also be made to prove a source of revenue.

Proposing the toast of the Junior Philatelic Society and success to the Exhibition, Sir Anthony Hope Hawkins said that the postage stamp embodied romance, art and even money, but of the latter the true philatelist scorned to take advantage. Youth was the essence of Philately and the founding of the J.P.S. a stroke of genius. Philately, he had discovered, meant "exemption from tax," but the Postmaster-General had entirely reversed this ancient meaning, and he called upon him to restore it without delay. Philatelists became historians and artists despite themselves, since the postage stamp was a recorder of human activities. He wished every success to the forthcoming Exhibition which would be a power for good in bringing together the representatives of many nations by virtue of a common interest.

Mrs. H. P. Terry (Hon. Secretary), in the course of a brief reply, declared that the Society was "Junior" in name only, and that they had members as old as 74. Most of the leading experts were members and retained their interest in the work of the Society.

The health of the President was proposed by Mr. Percy Ashley, C.B., who pictured the J.P.S. as a league of perpetual youth that had contributed to the rejuvenation of the world. As regards the position of Philately, he held with Prof. Coué that every day and in every way it grew better and better.

During the evening a telegram was received from H.M. the King expressing His Majesty's great pleasure at the receipt of the loyal greetings of the assembly and assuring them of his unabated interest in all matters relating to philately.

An excellent musical programme was provided, and the proceedings terminated with the singing of the National Anthem and "Auld Lang Syne," about 11.30 p.m.

GEO. W. SULMAN, WORLD TRAVELLER.

(We have known Geo. W. Sulman for many years, but not until recently were we aware of the fact that he has travelled much and added largely to his philatelic possessions through personal contact with the sources of supply. He resides at Chatham, Ont., and the local paper recently gave him an interesting write-up, from which we extract a portion for the edification of our readers. His wide acquaintance with dealers and collectors will make this story all the more appreciated.—W. O. W.)

Mr. Sulman enjoys the distinction of being one of the few men in Canada, or probably in any other country, who has taken a foreign trip covering 80,000 miles. For a year and a half he was away from his native city, and during that time he and Mrs. Sulman visited 47 different countries, establishing a record for a trip around the world, which has very seldom if at any time been equalled by any other globe trotter. He has during his life time visited every country on the face of the globe, with the exception of Norway and Sweden, and even he himself is unable to say how he happened to overlook these two countries. During his last trip, from which he has only recently returned, and which was the longest he has ever taken, it is interesting to note that he added no less than 15,000 different varieties of stamps, which, by the way, are among the most valuable he now possesses, so that while his trips were taken chiefly for health, and through a life-longing to extend his knowledge of places and people, he has through his hobby been able to make it profitable in a monetary way as well.

Mr. Sulman's favorite stamp countries are Canada and Newfoundland, and he has in his possession all of the stamps issued in these countries since 1870, in unused blocks, usually four of a kind. If the favorite national indoor game was played with stamps, Mr. Sulman would still find his stamp collection a real winner.

At Honduras in Central America a very amusing incident occurred. Mr. Sulman interviewed the postal authorities with a request for stamps, but was informed that the postal officials didn't sell stamps. He was referred to the dealer who had that particular concession from the government, the object evidently being to make the government offices go around as far as possible. He finally landed in a little ill-kept store which was the most unlikely place to look for stamps, and the proprietor learning of his mission produced a number of discarded tomato cans in which he kept the prize possessions. The cans were put in front of the distinguished Chathamite and he was told to "go ahead and help himself." Mr. Sulman has a keen appetite for tomatoes, but he states that he never in his life before had such a delectable feast served from a tomato can. When he got through with those cans, the dealer might just as well have filled them up again with tomatoes, for there were no stamps left worth saving.

At Mozambique, Africa, however, things were not so easy. It was shortly after the war when Mr. and Mrs. Sulman were on their last trip. Mr. Sulman, as usual, presented himself at the nearest post office, but the postmaster stated that he was short of stamps, and refused to sell any which were not immediately placed upon letters. In fact, the natives of the place were compelled to go to the postoffice and lick the stamps before the very eyes of the postmaster, otherwise the sale was denied. Things looked very discouraging for Mr. Sulman until he returned to the hotel and received the advice of a knowing friend who suggested a bribe of one of the post office boys. Mr. Sulman, being an experienced campaigner in political campaigns, by no means liked the sound of the word bribe, so he called it tip, and he gave it to one of the boys referred to and the result was that he received the set of stamps he was looking for. The total amount of the aforesaid tip was sixpence, which, considering the value of the stamps it brought to Mr. Sulman's possession, has always remained as the bright spot in a list of painful memories on the question of foreign tips.

In Colombia, South America, at every post office he found a different issue, and while he bought religiously at each of the stamp selling stations, he unfortunately was not able to visit every state.

In Samoa, Mr. Sulman was particularly anxious to secure a special issue of stamps of that country, but when he presented himself to the postmaster, he was told that the issue had been sold out. Evidently the postal authorities were "wise" to the operations of stamp collectors and, themselves, knew the value of this particular issue in a foreign country. Mr. Sulman, however, always has been a man of great resource and knew that when all other arguments failed, very often the smiles of a pretty girl would attain the object desired. He went back to the ship and selecting the best looking girl on board suggested that she should try to do what he had failed to do, namely, to induce the postmaster to part with samples of the rare stamp issue. The smiles won, and the young lady brought the stamps back to the delighted Mr. Sulman, who gallantly adds that his Samoan stamps have therefore a peculiar and intrinsic value all their own.

In Tonga Island he didn't experience the same difficulty. There the natives usually have the stamps all done up in packages ready for sale to the collectors. Some of these stamps are particularly beautiful, and the reason why the dealers have them always on hand in convenient shape for purchase is that the tourists' boats stop for such a short time on the island.

At Teneriffe, on the Canary Islands, he visited a post office, and found that the particular sheet which was being offered by the postmaster contained stamps which were badly centered and unsuitable for a choice collection. He tried to induce the official to give him some stamps from another sheet, but the latter stubbornly refused. Mr. Sulman was forced to stand outside the post office and wait until a sufficient number of people had entered to buy stamps, so that the badly-centered sheet was sold out and the unobliging postmaster was compelled to start selling from a new sheet.

Mr. Sulman was lucky enough to be in Siam when the King of that country was issuing a special issue of stamps to the Boy Scouts. The boys were selling the stamps, upon which they received a commission for their various troops. These stamps were all surcharged with a tiger head. Mr. Sulman seized the opportunity to procure several sets of these stamps, which now comprise a part of the nineteen volumes which go to make up his collection. There is no doubt that in future years these stamps will be worth a great deal of money as the issue was not a large one.

He was also on Samos Island at the time when the celebration was held to mark the Greek occupation, the country having been taken from the Turks after the war. A special set of stamps was issued for that occasion, and they were all initialled by the postmaster, and Mr. Sulman had the privilege of seeing his own stamps personally initialled.

It is a strange thing, Mr. Sulman states, than in many countries it is impossible to secure at the post offices all of the sets of stamps issued by that country. For instance, in Costa Rica he asked for the highest value of stamps, but was told that it was not in stock. Moreover the postmaster with whom he was conversing had not seen the particular stamp which was asked for. Mr. Sulman met the President of the country and asked if he could secure one of the desired stamps, and the President also was forced to confess that he had never seen one either. Mr. Sulman finally got one of these stamps from a dealer in New York, after his return home.

A very amusing experience befell Mr. Sulman in Jaipur, India. He went to a native post office and asked for stamps, and was told that he would have to secure them from the "stamp dealer." The latter gentleman, he found to be a native, squatted down by the roadside on a bench with a very strong, padlocked box by his side. The purchase was made. The native ceremoniously unlocked the mysterious box and produced the stamps. He, however, was unable to make change and Mr. Sulman offered to take the change in stamps. The box was unlocked once more, and more stamps produced. The deal concluded, the native once more closed the box, adjusted the heavy padlock and sat waiting for more customers. "I don't know why he was so careful to keep the box securely locked," said Mr. Sulman, speaking of the incident, "because at the time there wasn't a soul in sight except myself." One of Mr. Sulman's friends volunteers the probable solution that probably the native had heard that Mr. Sulman was at one time a successful politician.

In Indo-China Mr. Sulman found the postmaster particularly obliging. He immediately went to his safe, picked out all the stamps he had and told him to take what he liked. Evidently he didn't place very much value upon them, being probably unacquainted with the gentle art of stamp collectors.

Another very remarkable collection are those from Ascension Island in the middle of the Atlantic. Ascension Island is a British Cable station, with only about 300 people on the island. They use British stamps, and the only way to identify them as coming from the Island is through the Post office cancellation on the face of the stamp.

PHILATELIC STORY CONTEST.

The Garfield Perry Stamp Club has launched a story contest open to all philatelists, the idea being to give philately publicity. The story must have stamps for a plot, not merely a story about the history of a stamp, but a real snappy story, one that will hold the interest of non-philatelists as well as philatelists. Attempts will be made to have the winning story or stories published by some of the leading national magazines. Judges and prizes will be announced later. Contest closes Nov. 13. Start in now and write that story. Address The Garfield Perry Stamp Club, care W. J. Zink, 4607 Denison Ave., Cleveland, Ohio.

GEO. C. GINN & CO.
115 MOORGATE,
Est. 1882. LONDON, E. C. 2, ENGLAND. [JE3&24

BRITISH HONDURAS, PLATE 3, 1921-22.

By HARRY E. HUBER.

A special Bulletin issued by the Crown Agents in November, 1920, notified that: "Early this year it was found that the dandy roll used to manufacture the all-over watermarked papers used for issues of Colonial Postage and Revenue stamps since the year 1903, was completely worn out. It was decided to manufacture a new dandy roll, bearing an Imperial Crown and the letters C A (Crown Agents) shown in script capitals. This has now been done, and the old roll has been destroyed. Supplies of white and blue papers have already been made from the new roll, and as the existing stocks of green, yellow and red papers are used up, the new paper will be brought into general use."

The first stamps to be printed on white paper with the script watermark were the 1d and 2½d of Bermuda's first Legislative Tercentenary series, issued at Hamilton on Nov. 11, 1920; the new blue paper was first used for the 2s of Barbados' small Arms type series, issued at Bridgetown, on Nov. 14, 1921.

The script lettering of the watermark is similar to that introduced in 1912 for the Georgian stamps of Great Britain, while the Victorian Tudor Crown has given way to the Edwardian Imperial Crown.

No plate 2 printings of stamps for British Honduras appeared on this new paper, and in their Bulletin of March 31st, 1921, the Crown Agents advised that "Postage & Revenue" keyplate, 1912 design, No. 2, having been condemned and destroyed, it is replaced by a new 120 set plate numbered 3."

1c and $5 stamps printed from plate 3 were dispatched from London in August, 1921, the former being on paper with the script watermark, while the latter was on red paper, with the old watermark. This red paper, originally made for 1d stamps, was assigned in the Crown Agents' color scheme of 1907, to stamps of £1 or near equivalent. The demand is naturally very small, and unless transferred to a value used more extensively, the stock in hand at present will last for many years.

The 1c stamp was issued on Nov. 26, 1921, but the plate 3 printing of the $5 was withheld until Feb. 10, 1922, pending exhaustion of plate 1 printing of this value. The 120-stamp sheets of both values were cut into panes of 60 before being sent out.

Plate 3 differs from plates 1 and 2 in that the plate number appears only twice on the sheets of 120 stamps, i. e., under the 2nd and 5th stamps of the lower row, on the left and right panes, respectively. On the earlier plates, the number appeared four times, twice in the upper and twice in the lower margins.

1921-22. King George V, multiple Crown CA (script for 1c, upright for $5), comb perf. 14, plate 3.

1c green, Nov. 26, 1921.

STAMP COLLECTING IN PEKING.

By G. W. TWOMEY.

The oldest capital in the world offers many interesting experiences to the collector of porcelains, bronzes, old paintings and other things, but it is reserved for the stamp collector to have the time of his life. There are many Chinese stamp dealers. These men have no idea of the value of the stamps they offer for sale and the result is that they demand ridiculous prices for the commonest varieties of current issues. There are no good old issues to be found. German Colonies, German Offices in China and Russian offices in China are not to be found. The earlier issues of China are almost as rare. Faked surcharges are the specialty of the Chinese. The various surcharged issues of China are counterfeited in a very crude manner. A great favorite with these gentry is the Foochow provisional, Scott's No. 88.

The Chinese aerial mail are just as bad. Everyone admits that there was a first trip of the air mail service, but no one believes that it carried any letters. It is known that a number of officials were carried on this trip, and, to one given to speculation, the question occurs, where did they carry the mail? Used sets of this first trip air mail, faked, of course, with the first trip cancellation, are sold to the unwary in Peking at thirty dollars a set. In spite of all this, Peking has some advantages, for in few if any cities is it possible to purchase eleven sets of stamps in current issue. (The Chinese postal department furnishes six sets.) The current issue, the junk and reaper set, the set issued in commemoration of the republic and the postage due. All of these can be bought surcharged for use in Eastern Turkestan.

In the Legation post offices, French offices in China, Japanese offices in China, Italian offices in Peking and Tientsin, India C. E. F., can all be purchased The India C. E. F. are used by the Indian troops who are detailed as guards at the British legation. Some varieties of the King Edward C. E. F. issue are still on sale.

THE POSTAGE STAMPS OF BELGIUM.

By BERTRAM W. H. POOLE.

The perforation has a gauge of 14, as before, but it is obvious the same comb-machine could not have been used on account of the extra line of perforation required for each stamp between the design proper and the Sunday label. But the machine used was evidently one of the comb variety and the sheets would be perforated from one or other of the sides and not from the top or bottom. The extra lines of perforation made the sheets very difficult to handle without tearing.

The paper was similar to that previously employed, wove and unwatermarked, but for some printings a poor quality seems to have been used. Mr. de Bont says, "During 1904-5 all values excepting the 2 francs, were printed on a very thin transparent paper, very lightly striped vertically. This printing is quite distinct from all others, and may easily be recognised if the stamps are held up to the light; the impression does not show through on the back, and the paper appears as though it had been impregnated with tiny dots of oil."

A printing of the 2 centimes in yellow was also made on the paper intended for the Parcel Post Stamps. This paper was watermarked with the Royal Arms on a large scale covering a number of stamps. A certain portion of the stamps on the sheet, therefore, showed part of this watermark and these varieties are easily recognised. Regarding this variety, Mr. de Bont writes:—

"A variety of this stamp is known on the watermarked paper used for the Railway stamps. It is difficult to explain how this could have occurred, as in Belgium the Administration of Railways is quite distinct from the Administration of Posts and Telegraphs, and each has its stamps made in its own separate printing works. Further, the paper used for the Railways stamps is not supplied by the mill supplying the paper for the postage stamps. It is only since 1907 that similar paper has been used by both administrations. It is manufactured by the Godin de Huy Mill, and is supplied through Messrs. De Ruyssche, of Brussels."

Curiously enough Gibbons' makes no mention of this variety though it is well-known and obviously more important and collectible than many of the trivial broken letter varieties accorded catalogue rank.

With the exception of the 1 and 2 franc denominations a large number of printings were made of all the stamps of this series. It is obvious that a great many plates must have been used for some of the values but there appears to be no published evidence with regard to these.

No less than twenty-eight separate printings were made of the 1 centime, according to Mr. de Bont, giving the enormous total of 1,134,000,000 stamps. Every year one or more printings took place and sometimes the demand for this value was so great that for weeks at a time the printing office was engaged in the task of printing this value entirely.

Of the 2 centimes in yellow, both Mr. de Bont and Mr. Bouvez agree there was but one printing, but while the former says this consisted of 4,580,000 stamps, the latter insists the number was 9,000,000. There were many printings of this value when its color was changed to red-brown, the total quantity produced being 42,500,000 stamps. According to Mr. de Bont, the numbers printed of the other denominations were as follows:—

	No. Stamps.
5 centimes, 15 printings,	118,000,000
10 centimes, many printings,	567,000,000
20 centimes, 5 printings,	12,600,000
25 centimes, 12 printings,	36,000,000
35 centimes, 8 printings,	6,920,000
50 centimes (bistre), 2 printings,	747,000
50 centimes (grey), 8 printings,	1,305,000
1 franc, 2 printings,	224,000
2 francs, 2 printings,	168,000

Shades are to be found in connection with all these stamps and especially in those values that were printed in big quantities but they are not so well marked as one would expect from the number of different printings extending over a period of many years.

As usual there are many minor varieties due to broken letters or defective printing, and one supply of the 1 centime printed in 1905, containing some sheets that were so poorly printed that the inscriptions were almost illegible. The most interesting of these varieties occurs in the 25 centimes. The second stamp in the second row of the first plate has the "5" in the upper left-hand corner incomplete, the small ball at the end of the curve being omitted.

The use of the Sunday label did not at first lighten the Sabbath day duties of the postal officials to any great extent for, from careful statistics made at the time, it was found that only about 10% of the stamps used, still had the label attached. But the administration persisted in its use and it was not the Hun hordes overran the country during the Great War and a new issue was produced in London that the Label was finally eliminated.

Even the postal employees, for whose benefit the label was supposedly issued, took scant notice of it at first and there were many complaints that letters were delivered on the Sabbath in spite of the fact that they were franked with the Sunday label stamps. Complaints became so numerous that Mr. Vanpeereboom finally had to address a circular to postmasters as follows:—

"Despatches bearing the domiciliary stamp, with the legend attached thereto, have been delivered on the Sunday contrary to the regulations of the order of 17th May last.

These irregularities must cease completely, and the immediate chiefs must take care that this is done. Negligence on this point will be severely repressed.

On the present occasion it seems useful to remark that the use of the domiciliary stamp is not indispensable to prevent a despatch being delivered on a Sunday. The sender may indicate his wish in this respect by a written or printed notice on the address, and this wish must be respected in whatsoever mode it is manifested.

The only exception is for express despatches. These are delivered as soon as they arrive, on Sundays as well as other days, whatever stamps may be applied on the address. The mode of sending chosen must be deemed exclusive of any intention to delay the delivery of the despatches."

Early in 1894 the post-office department felt some way must be devised for lessening the labor of cancelling the stamps on printed matter, this class of mail on some days almost swamping the larger offices. It was, therefore, decided to try the system of pre-cancelling the stamps and this was found so successful that the privilege of selling stamps uncancelled before sale was extended to several of the larger offices and the following decree was published:—

"Art. 1.—There shall be placed on sale in certain post-offices postage stamps of 1 and 2 centimes cancelled in advance for use on newspapers and printed matter.

Art. 2.—These stamps are not to be sold in quantities of less than 1000.

Art. 3.—They are obliterated by a rolling stamp bearing the name of the office and the indication of the year in which they are obliterated. Until further orders they are valid for that year and the first month of the succeeding one.

Art. 4.—Articles prepaid by stamps cancelled in advance must be delivered at the window of the receiving office in quantities of not less than 1000. These stamps are not valid when affixed to articles placed in letter boxes.

(Signed) J. VANDENPEEREBOOM.
BRUSSELS, June 21st, 1894."

The system was found to save much time and labor that it was gradually extended and after a time the precancelling was done by the printing machine instead of roller hand-stamps.

THE TECHNIQUE OF PERFORATIONS.

By Geo. E. Danielson.

I wonder how most of you collectors about it when you want to find out ther a stamp is perforated 10, 11 or Do you glance at a stamp and imiately decide that it is perforated 10, do you look all over the house for auge and then when you do find it, riously compare each stamp with the ted diagram? One collector told me he did not collect perforations be- se they gave him a headache. That ns to be the point with many col- ors. They take their detecting too ously.

In the first place, what are perfora- s, and what is a perforation gauge? forations may be of many kinds, but are interested in those of the later es of U. S. Perforations in our , then, are a series of holes punched veen stamps to facilitate their separation. A perforation gauge is a gauge for use in measuring the holes on any one or more sides of a stamp. It has been universally adopted that the number of holes in 20 millimeters shall be a stamp's perforation.

(The metric system is used in stamp articles because it has been universally adopted. Roughly speaking, 20 millimeters equals ¾ of an inch.)

Therefore, if 20 millimeters there are 12 holes, a stamp is perforated 12, if there are 11 holes it is perforated 11, and so on.

Here is one thing that you should familiarize yourself with as it has an important bearing on what will follow. The perforation holes in our later U. S. stamps are all the same size. We get the different perforation by spacing the holes, not by making them larger. If the holes are spaced closely, the stamps naturally all tear apart more easily than if they were spaced farther apart.

The important thing I am trying to bring out in this article is that it is foolish for a precancel collector to use a gauge if he can get along without it. He must necessarily examine many stamps, and it is necessary that he be able to classify them quickly. Lack of ability to detect perforations may mean the loss of scarce varieties for your collection.

To begin with, if you want to break away from the gauge, look at the back of the stamps, as the design has tendency to confuse the eye. Remember that the holes are all the same size. Look at the "teeth" made in tearing the stamps apart. On the perforation 12 the teeth are almost pointed and on some stamps are actually sharp. The perforation 11 are little more blunt, while the perforation 10 appear still more blunt, and the space between the holes is about the same as the holes themselves.

Look over your stamps carefully and decide which of the three perforations apply. Then compare with the gauge and see if you are right. Like anything else requiring special skill, it will be some time before you will always be sure of the perforations, but once you have the ability you have something worth while.

While on the subject of gauges, I might mention that it is easier to find the perforations if you match the "teeth" of the stamps with the top of the balls than trying to fit the perforations between. If you have a gauge with lines, it is best to match the teeth with the lines. A gauge printed on colored card has been found best.

Other helps in detecting perforations are issues in which there is only one perforation. A study of Scott's catalogue will give you these in detail. For instance, the 1898 and 1902 issues come perforated 12 only. In the 1908 issues the 1c, 2c, 8c, 10c, 13c, 15c, 50c and $1.00 come perforated 12 only. The 3c, 4c, 5c, 6c of this issue are used, in later issues perforation 10 and 11. The surface prints and 13c are perforated 11 only. The 11c is perforated only 10 and 11. All the aeroplane, Victory and Pilgrims are perforated 11 only.—Precancel Gazette.

COLLECTIONS FOR SALE!

In our recent purchase of a foreign dealer's wholesale stock, involving eral thousand dollars cash, a number of excellent collections were obned. We are not retail dealers and have neither the time to break up collections nor the market in which to sell single stamps. It is our ire to sell each collection intact at a price low enough to draw immediate rchasers. Many of the offerings are no doubt priced at less than replacent cost, and while we do not know the catalogue value of each individual lection, it is our belief that any one of them will prove a good investment only for collectors, but also for dealers or exchangers, and will net an ellent profit when remounted on approval sheets at 50% discount.

OUR GUARANTEE:....We give an unqualified guarantee that each coltion offered by us contains all different, undamaged, genuine, Postage mps Only—no "cast-offs", telegraphs, revenues, or unlisted minor varie- s. We will accept the return of anything which does not meet the above cription and the purchase price, plus all expenses, will be refunded with- question.

Twenty Thousand Variety Collection

Our best and most valuable offering. A collection containing more n 20,000 all different stamps in good condition and covering the widest sible range of countries. Twentieth century issues are well represented, well as a goodly number of the older stamps, both used and mint. The lowing scarce United States stamps, all in very fine condition, are included:

1847, 5c brown, 10c black, Nos. 28, 29,	cat.	$30.00
1851, 30c orange, No. 53,	cat.	20.00
1861, 3c August, No. 56, o. g., Fine,	cat.	25.00
1869, 1c to 30c cpl., Nos. 112-21,	cat.	30.96
1893, Columbian Issue Complete,	cat.	31.37
1898, Trans-Mississippi Complete,	cat.	13.35
1865, Newspaper, 5c, No. 2001, scarce,	cat.	20.00

The collection absolutely does not contain the many telegraphs, revues, and minor varieties found in most foreign offerings. We recomnd this collection in the highest terms for the collector who wishes to er the "advanced 'class" with the least expenditure of money, or to the aler needing a large variety for counter trade or approval sheets.

PRICE ONLY $1,250.00

Ten Thousand Variety Collection

Similar to the above collection, but containing fewer of the "hard-to-" varieties. Will catalogue high enough to make it a good buy for the proval dealer, and also for the collector, who can in this way add to his lection at wholesale prices. All the stamps are different and in good ndition. Mounted by countries in ten blank books. (European price is 00 francs—$270.00). We have three of these collections and offer them absolute rock-bottom prices to clear.

Portuguese Colonial Collection

Wm. F. Anderson, 4828 Roscoe St., Chicago, Ill., a prominent collector of years' standing, writes under date of May 10th as follows: "Acknowledging with thanks yours of the 4th, permit me to say that I was very much pleased with the collection of 1500 different Portuguese Colonies. My collection numbers about 25,000 varieties, but during my entire experience I have never received the value which this lot contained."

A collection of 1,500 different stamps from Portuguese Colonies only, (no Portugal), mounted by countries in three blank books. Most of the stamps are unused and the condition is practically perfect throughout. Such hard-to-get varieties as the Vasco da Gama issues surcharged, scarce provisionals, etc., etc., are included in large numbers. Catalogue value guaranteed between $350 and $400. Collectors and dealers all over the country are beginning to recognize the investment value of Portuguese Colonies, many of which are underpriced in the catalogue and destined to become quite scarce within the next few years. Only a very unusual and fortunate purchase enables us to offer this collection at practically one-sixth of catalogue price!

Wholesale Approval Department

Our Wholesale Approval Service has for many years been recognized as the most moderate-priced and efficient in the country. In most cases prices are lower than abroad, as we purchase in large quantities to insure lowest quotations. We have a complete line of the popular picture sets, as well as a very fair stock of medium and rare stamps. A written application, supplemented by commercial references, will receive prompt attention.

EDITORIAL.

Came—T'other day, Mr. F. H. Lord of San Jose, California, casually dropped in, and as it had been some little time since we had seen Mr. Lord, (twenty-five years ago, if the truth is to be told) we perked up a bit. We are pleased that he has been true to us for so many years and that he has saved the story of his wonderful accumulation of five cent 1847's for us. It was Mr. Lord who so successfully started out in 1905 to obtain as many of the five cent brown Franklins as he could and who later, removing to California, continued his impressment of the stamp. Mr. Lord had a great experience in combing the markets for what practically is Number One in U. S. stamps; and a long story could be made of his pains and pleasures. It was in 1905 that Mr. F. H. Lord, then residing in Minneapolis, was puzzled by the scarcity of the stamp, price considered, to which as an admirer of Benjamin Franklin, our first postmaster-general, Mr. Lord was strongly drawn. Mr. Lord was in the employ of a railroad and in his travels through stamp towns he was impressed by the small number of five cent forty-seven in stock. He became curious about the conditions surrounding these stamps, and from analyses that he made, he concluded that five thousand copies taken out of the available supply of the stamps would leave comparatively few copies in sight. Mr. Lord consulted with Mr. H. G. Smith, who then was treasurer of the American Philatelic Society, and Mr. Smith agreed with Mr. Lord that the five cent was under-rated. The two men then decided to buy up all the stamps possible and Mr. Lord began his campaign for gathering the stamps. The stamp catalogued seventy-five cents at the time, and the first thing that Mr. Lord did was to send in a trade column ad to the WEEKLY offering to buy good copies at fifty or sixty cents each. The chase was on and we shall tell of some of the high-lights in the next number.

Card—"I send my card in the shape of the following clipping from a paper of 1869, which, in the light of the Ferrari sale causes me to indulge in a few thinking moments," writes an old-timer who sends in the squib: "The collection of Mr. Stewart, the sugar merchant, for instance, is variously estimated by the postage stamp dilettanti from $500 to $2,000, and it is probable that the first figure is the more correct."

IMPORTANT NOTICE

In the June Issue of the Scott Monthly Journal we announce that we are prepared to publish a specialists catalogue of U. S. Postage, if there is sufficient demand for same. This will be, if published, the most complete catalogue of its kind ever attempted.

Specimen page is shown in this announcement, to which we take the liberty to call your attention.

SCOTT STAMP & COIN CO.

Care—We have spoken several times about the desirability of maintaining a "bureau" even though it be no more than a committee of three members of the American Philatelic Society, for the purpose of refuting unjustifiable allusions to philately in the press of the day. A centralized seat of authority could pass on clippings that might be sent in to it and it certainly could give instant attention to ignorant or calumnious comment in print. If the protection of philately in this way was the chief office of the bureau, unfair criticism would be met with refutation couched in terms that would invite rather than repel. As it is, "slanders" may remain unanswered, one collector leaving it to another to attend to a correction. In our opinion, the American Philatelic Society, at its coming convention, should establish a department of publication whose duty it would be to meet misrepresentations with truth.

Clip—They cannot come too fast to please us. Here is another piece of fiction with a philatelic plot, "A Bit of Old Paper," by Charles Phelps Cushing, that appeared in the Blue Book Magazine for July. If one regard the story merely as a finished product, it is readable indeed, but if the writer is one really conversant with philately, we are neatly fooled. It would seem to us that the writer saw a good plot in philately and recruited himself with just enough knowledge of stamp collecting to give his conclusions an air of verisimilitude. However, as one author of a stamp story told us when he was taxed with having an academic rather than practical knowledge of stamps, he could not be at all technical when it came to writing for the public who knew nothing at all of philately.

Cuts—A reader has sent us a sharp letter because we had a few words in defense of the Neurope issues in recent numbers. What stirs his ire to the extent of four pages is not evident as he says that he does not complain about the prices asked for them as they are low enough generally taken. If these stamps get on his nerves to the extent we fear they do, why does he not drop them from the roll.

Case—Here is an instance of philatelic depravity that we wish that we could draw the mantle of charity over, but there are some deeds so dark that for the benefit of the whole organization of philately should be exposed. We are calling up the society of prevention of cruelty to philatelic wives to report this case: "I have a grievance. My husband, who is a reader of your paper, has a collection of stamps with which he toys for hours at a time. I have considered this a harmless occupation and was glad that he had something sufficiently interesting to keep him home nights. So far so good. The first of this week I had a birthday, and knowing—as only a wife can know—how dense he is at times, I started a month ago to drop hints about how much I needed a pair of gray silk hose to match my new dress. This morning I came down expectantly and found a package at my place at the breakfast table; it felt too heavy and bulky for hosiery but I cherished the hope that it might prove to be a snappy piece of fiction. I opened it—my hopes crumbled as the Walls of Jericho; it was a copy of your Philatelic Dictionary!"

Call—About a dozen readers, we are pleased to say, showed their interest in Arthur Brisbane's editorial on stamps by sending it in to us with comments more or less caustic. Mr. A. H. Pike and others suggest that we send an answer to Mr. Brisbane's unappreciative dismissal of philately. This is all right and as it should be; and we have sent in a good many rebuttals to arguments against the claims of collecting that have been made in public prints. In the main the results of our defense have been of some benefit, but we suspect that the greatest weight is given to communications that come from persons who have no professional axe to grind in championing a cause. The "other side" clearly conceived and calmly presented by a person who in no way may be said to receive material support from his pursuit makes a deeper impression than our own words, which may be said to be open to the impeachment of self-interest. However, we do know that the editorial in question will call forth a chorus of "nays."

"TURKEY TROT" CANCELLATION.

WASHINGTON, June 3.—A resolution authorizing the post office department to issue a specially designed cancellation for the approaching annual "Turkey Trot" celebration at Cureo, Texas, was introduced in the senate by Senator Sheppard. This cancellation is to bear the words: "Don't Forget the Turkey Trot." A similar resolution was introduced in the house by Representative Mansfield.

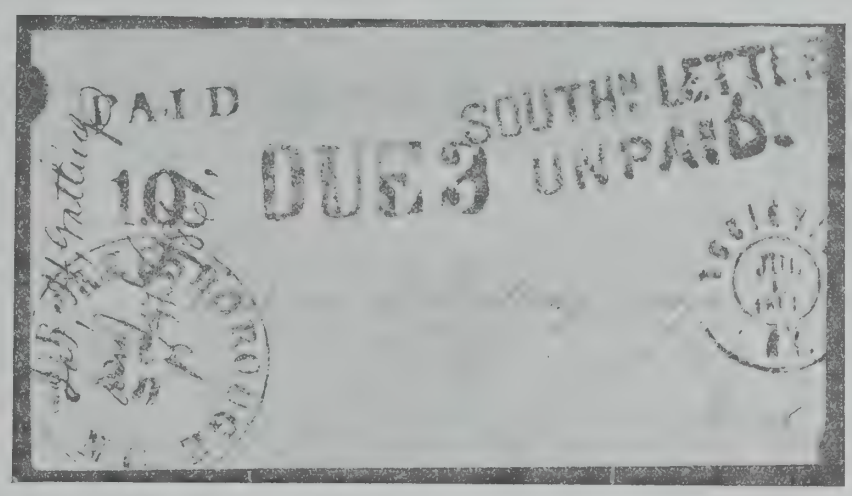
AN INTERESTING CONFEDERATE ENVELOPE.

By Edward S. Knapp.



"SOUTHn LETTER—UNPAID"

The small-sized United States Nesbitt envelope illustrated here, shows the postmark . "Murfreesborough, N.C." and "PAID 10" (Both in black, postmark is dated "JUN 28") also shows postmark "Louisville, Ky. JUL 6 1861" (in blue) and is handstamped "SOUTHn LETTER UNPAID" and "DUE 3" (Both in blue). Manuscript notation at left end of envelope reads: "Jos. H. Gatling ans. July 15th 1861."

This letter was sent "Through the Lines" in direct disobedience to Postmaster Blair's Order that "All Postal Communication with the States in Rebellion Shall Cease, After May the Thirty-first."

Letter also should have been held for insufficient postage, as the "Murfreesborough—Paid 10" Confederate Provisional carried it only to the lines and the U. S. Envelope Stamp had been cancelled with a penmark.

The Louisville Office, however, stamped it "SOUTHn LETTER UNPAID" and "DUE 3" and allowed it to be carried to its destination.

Why did they do this? may be answered by noting to whom it is addressed.

Letter is addressed to Richard Jordan Gatling, the inventor of the Gatling Revolving Battery Gun. Mr. Gatling was born and lived in Murfreesborough until 1849, when he moved to Indianapolis. He conceived the idea for the gun in 1861; first guns were made in Indianapolis in 1862, and General Butler used twelve of them against the Confederate forces, on the James River, in 1863. This letter may have contained information valuable to Gatling and as he was known to be a distinctly Northern sympathizer, he was permitted to receive it.

The "SOUTHn LETTER UNPAID" handstamp is a new one to me, I would like to hear from anyone who has a duplicate of this.

A STAMP COLLECTING BOOM.

One of the most favored "indoor sports" of a generation ago and one which still has many followers, was stamp collecting. There were few youngsters who did not have a collection and few who did not strive to best his playmates in excellence and diversity of possession. To have a valuable and large book of stamps of various nationalities was a mark of great distinction. Nor was the craze confined to youngsters. Many men and women of mature years spent much time and money perfecting their collections and many have had carefully tended groups worth thousands of dollars.

The universality of the fad passed for a time, but now it gives signs of renewed activity. A movement has been started by the New York Philatelic Society to interest school children in the science—for it is a science when given its full import—because of its "educational, historical and geographical importance." and its investment possibilities. To aid the movement the society will establish an exchange where stamps can be traded, bought and sold.

The plan is commendable. It will give the present generation a fascinating hobby and will turn the minds of the young from other things which have far less value and will afford that broader knowledge of foreign countries which is sadly lacking. The old lands with which we were familiar in our boyhood through their postage stamps will again be more than names; they will be concrete places with a definite location; facts about them will be known and the general education of youth advanced. Stamp collecting puts geography and history on an interesting plane that is not afforded in books. —Syracuse Post-Standard.

ADVT. OF JUGO SLAVIA.

We have a piece of advertising copy in this office announcing offers of Jugo Slavia stamps. No address is signed to the same. In opening the mail the envelope became misplaced and we are at a loss to know to whom to credit the advertisement. Is it too much to ask that our advertisers add their name and address to each piece of copy as they write it?

Information regarding new issues and varieties will be gratefully received. We cannot give the addresses of correspondents.

The chronicle of United States is edited by PHILIP H. WARD, JR., Box 4216, Germantown, Phila., Pa. The foreign chronicle is edited by PERCY C. SMITH, 40 Packard Ave., West Somerville, Mass. Correspondents will please be careful to send their matter to the right address.

UNITED STATES.—Mr. B. K. Miller calls my attention to the fact that he has recently received a sheet of seventy (7x10) of the 1c rotary, perforated 11x10 from the coil waste. I find upon investigation that the post offices were having considerable trouble with the former sheets of 170 stamps made from this waste and that as a result the Bureau is now cutting these sheets of 170 stamps into sheets of 100 and sheets of 70 and distributing them accordingly. The individual stamp of course does not differ in the slightest and as the stamps are torn apart by means of the perforations they cannot be told even in the sheets. It is of interest, however, to follow the workings of the "stamp factory."

In further reference to the odd plate of the 3c offset type bearing number 13688, which has been mentioned in the last two Chronicles, I am officially informed that this plate was started on April 4, 1921, and cancelled on August 5, 1921. It was an experimental plate and never went to press.

The Scott Stamp and Coin Company send for inspection a block of the 2c postage due, perforated 11, unwatermarked in a somewhat different shade, which they classify as "claret". I have not as yet seen the other denominations in this color.

A correspondent recently inquired as to the number of proofs in the well-known set on card board and while I was able to inform him that there were 211 in the set I could not tell him how this number was made up. Reference to my library, which is rather extensive as far as U. S. matters go, failed to produce the desired information. The Scott people tell me that this is made up of 80 postage, 92 departments, 2 carriers, 3 special delivery, 27 newspapers and 7 dues, and the information will no doubt be of general interest.

The next issue of Scott's Monthly will make an announcement that will be of great interest to all collectors of United States stamps. They contemplate issuing a special catalogue devoted entirely to our emissions and they will not only list all known varieties, both major and minor, but will at the same time give information relative to blocks, cancellations and the like. Such a publication will fill a long felt want and will enable the collector who has not the time to follow the market to know what odd varieties are actually worth.

Mr. J. V. Nielsen sends for an inspection a block of the Confederate 1863, 10c blue, mint, wherein one vertical row is much below the other rows of the sheet. I have seen quite a few panes of 100 of this variety, but have never noticed this peculiarity before.

COSTA RICA.—Mr. Eugene Klein submits to us for chronicle the 5c purple commemorative of the "Centenario de La Independence de Centro America" surcharged "Correos 1922" in two lines in black.

CZECHO-SLOVAKIA.—Mr. Ferdinand F. E. Kopecky informs us that the new postmark mentioned a few weeks ago "Piste v Adresach Vzdy Ulici a Cislo Domi" is equivalent to the American one which reads "Address your mail to street and number." Literally it reads "Write in your addresses the street and number of the house."

JAMAICA.—Mr. J. A. Galbraith has shown us the 1½d, "Contingent Embarking" and the 2½d "Return of Contingent 1919" printed on the script watermarked paper.

LEEWARD ISLANDS.—Mr. J. A. Galbraith reports the following values on script watermarked paper: 2d, 4d, 5d, 2sh, 3sh, 4sh.

LATVIA.—Mr. Paul Kalnozol, of Riga, writes:—

"A change will come into force on June 1st in the foreign postage rates: foreign letter rate will be reduced from 15r to 10r (registered from 30r to 20r) and post cards from 9r to 6r (registered from 24r to 16r)."—Stamp Collecting.

NORTH BORNEO.—Mr. Fred A. Jekel submits to us a cover franked with the 2c green and 12c blue surcharged "Malay-Borneo Exhibition 1922" in red and in three lines. Mr. Jekel takes exception to some of the notes regarding this issue of surcharges and calls attention to their use for postage purposes and advises that he thinks the wrong position is taken regarding this issue by some of the new issue dealers.

SWEDEN.—Mr. E. C. Tomlin shows us a novelty:—Posthorn Type (S. G. 22), 70 öre brown.—Stamp Collecting.

RUSSIA (Bolshevik Govt.).—Our Riga correspondent, Mr. Paul Kalnozol, writes:—

"To begin with May 1st there exist new postage rates in Soviet Russia: post cards, 120,000r instead of 18,000r; letters, 200,000r instead of 30,000r; registered letters, 400,000r instead of 40,000r.

"In event of corresponding values of postage stamps, old Russia stamps (eagle values perforated) are used at the price of 10,000r a kop. Till now, values of 1 kop. up to 14 kop. have been on sale (1 kop. for 10,000r, 2 kop. for 20,000r, 3 kop. at 30,000r, &c.), and the 'eagle' 1r and 7r values also, the prices for these two being: 1r=10,000r and 7r=70,000r.

"In the near future a new issue of stamps is to be expected in South Russia, for Aerial and Famine Relief Fund use also."—Stamp Collecting.

ST. KITTS.—Mr. J. A. Galbraith informs us of the appearance of the ½d, 2d and 2½d current issue on the script watermarked paper.

THE MOUNTING PROBLEM.
By A. H. ROBINSON.

I have read with a great deal of i est the recently published articles H. Brigham and a reply by Fra Applegate, regarding the proper m ing or hinging of stamps and fully with Mr. Applegate, as his method most satisfactory. I have tried bo much prefer the hinge "bent well the top of the stamp."

On the other hand, should one to lift the stamp well up from the have a simple method by which it done, without damage to either sta page. It's just this, take a hinge down such a part of it as one may to the bent down portion attach a hinge, this gives one a double hing mucilage on either side; at one e "stickey" is up, the other end it's It's so simple, now all one has to d bend the hinge to suit their par fancy, as this final bending deter the height the stamp can be lifted the page. So it's entirely up to own idea and fancy and in one's to fully regulate the height the can be lifted from the page.

It's perfectly true that once o found and properly classified the va one seldom has occasion to ex stamps further. I have tried many of keeping a record of the variet my collection and find that by Scott's catalogue numbers, the best with a minimum of work can be But one is confronted with thee changing of the catalogue numbers of us like to throw bouquets, an like to throw brick bats. I feel th Scott Company should have the pra all collectors, as it is mostly a lab love with them, getting out the catal but there is one fault, that is of cha the catalogue number of any stam can see no reason for it, can't see h it can possibly aid them and I fin great drawback, and one that I c explain. Believe that the publ should be made aware of this, and they have some reason for conti feel that they will fall in line and future when a stamp has been as a number, let it carry that n throughout the ages to come.

of anything fine in early U. S. or foreign stamps. We can pay more than most because we cater to a limited clientele who are willing to pay us well for de luxe items. If you have a collection to sell, or only a few fine duplicates of the issues from 1847 to 1869, or an accumulation of the issues of 1870 to 1880, send them to us with your spot cash price and you will receive returns promptly. Just now we particularly want singles, pairs, strips of the 10c stamps of 1851 and 1857, either on or off cover, and will pay more than catalog for those we can use. [H

POSTAGE STAMPS OF KEDAH.

By R. F. Healy.

There is nothing to chronicle in the postal story of Kedah during the first seven years of its existence as a stamp-issuing State. The year 1919, however, was full of surprises, including two provisionals, the supply of Straits Settlements stamps to remedy a temporary shortage, changes of colour, and the addition of new values. There appears to be a good deal of uncertainty as to the precise details relating to these provisionals, and the official source of information has not done very much to clear up the matter.

The Provisional Issue.

Early in 1919, owing to a shortage of the 50 cents and $1 values, a quantity of the $2 and $3 denominations were surcharged with the required values by Messrs. Rebeiro & Co., of Penang, the stamps being overprinted in blocks of thirty—six rows of five. The surcharge consists of the new value in fancy type capitals in two lines, and the original figures obliterated by two squares, all in black.

50c on $2, green and brown.
$1 on $3, black and purple on blue.

From what can be gathered the stamps appeared some time during May; some reports maintain that the provisionals were issued separately, but the Treasury at Alor Star state definitely that both were placed on sale at the same time. As to the numbers overprinted, the information is equally vague and conflicting. From the Philatelic press at different times the figures were given as:—1200 of the 50c and 2000 of the $1; again we have 3600 of the lower and 4800 of the higher value; while another claims 3600 of each. No doubt these figures influenced the fact that the 50c is regarded as being the better of the two. The official figures are given as 3598 of the 50c and 3184 of the $1, which rather discounts the popular idea as to the relative value of these two stamps. It may be assumed that 120 sheets of thirty stamps were sent in to be overprinted, and that the official figures represent those stamps received at the post office from the Treasury.

The standardising of the Dollar, changes in postal rates, and the adoption of universal colours, were responsible for what may be called the second permanent issue. These began to appear in July, 1919, and may be summarised as follows:—

2c deep green.
2c yellow green.
3c deep purple.
4c (two plates) rose.
4c (combined plate) rose.
21c purple and mauve.
25c blue and purple.

The first consignment of the 4c stamps was printed from a key and duty plate, the other printings from a new combined plate. These two may readily be distinguished, as the central design in the later emissions stands clear of the oval frame, and shows a clear white margin, while the early impressions shows the central design merging into the border. An easy method of picking out those of the first type is to look at the back when the central design will be seen in silhouette.

From this period, too, a very decided change in shade is to be noticed in some, if not all the other values of the series. It is quite distinctive in the 10, 20 and 30 cents stamps, where the ploughing scene appears sharper and in deeper tone. The paper, too, is not so thick, and the stamps are not so heavily gummed. The latter change is fully apparent when cleaning any used copies which, with the early printings, was quite a long process.

Straits Used in Kedah.

Prior to the arrival of the first consignment of the new stamps, the supply of the old bi-coloured 4 cents gave out, and to avoid introducing another provisional, a supply of the 4c carmine, of the Straits Settlements was received via Penang. These stamps were in use from about the middle of March to the middle of June. It was at first thought that the use of these Straits stamps was confined to the Capital, but it would appear that their use was general throughout the State, as I have copies bearing the postmarks of Jitra and Baling, and the latter town is over forty miles from Alor Star. My earliest dated cancellation is 15th of March, and the latest 14th of June.

In January of this year there were further changes in the postal tariff, which would make it seem necessary to replace the 10c by a 12c value. The 10c was the first to appear on the new Script CA paper, so that this, with the 25c on the old paper may be regarded as being quite good things in their way. The 3c deep purple, on the Crown CA paper, exists with watermark inverted.

Those collectors who take an interest in postmarks might find a list of the post offices in this little State of use to them; here they are:—Alor Star (the capital), Bagan Samak, Baling, Gurun, Jitra, Kuala Ketil, Kuala Muda, Kulim, Langkawi, Lunas, Perlis, Padang Lanjut, Padang Serai, Semilling, Sungei Patani and Yen.

At the Padang Serai office a peculiar cancelling stamp is, or was in use, consisting of a large oval bearing the date in the centre, with "Post Office" at the top and "Padang Serai" below. It is struck in both violet and in black. The "Bamboo" marks, familiar on Siamese stamps, are also to be found, and are used no doubt to obliterate uncancelled mail matter arriving from outlying places. The type used differs from the variety in use in Siam, being oval in shape and very much like the postmark so well known to collectors of old English.—Stamp Collectors' Monthly Journal.

ES ON THE PENNY KANGAROO.

By JAMES POLLARD.

e more one studies this stamp, the fascinating it becomes, for it va- n a way that is not monotonous, nteresting and instructive.

e thing that strikes you on survey- number of these penny stamps is, he centering of the design is very for a common stamp, and one 't see many copies on which the rations cut through the edges of esign. Compare this stamp with in the same class—our current s Heads, for instance—and you nd that there is something in what measuring the design we find a lit- ifference. Horizontally the stamp ures from 18¾ mm. to 19 mm., little variance there is being due y to the impression and quantity of Measuring vertically there is a more difference. Most copies from 25¼ mm. to 25½ mm., a oing almost 25¾ mm. One stamp have I found that measured less 25¼ mm., and this was one that fairly heavily printed, is a good copy, and measures exactly 25 mm. cases I have measured from the ne outside edges of the design. the difference of ¼ mm. is hardly y of significance in this stamp, n the horizontal measurement I advise that little notice be given unless some further difference is ered. But in the vertical meas- nt, where the smaller design oc- only very rarely, it would be as o give prominence to it. Special- ists could mount, together with two others, measuring 25¼ mm. and 25½ mm. respectively, taking care that the designs measure exactly to the fraction.

Turning to the printing of the design we have to admit that this is also very good, for we don't see so much of that blurred and blotched printing, as usually goes with the commoner stamps (again I would ask you to compare with our current King's Head). There is one little variety here which often stands out plainly. It is what I term "uneven print," and can be easily distinguished, when portions of the stamp is printed heavier than the rest. Sometimes one side of the design shows up much more strongly than the other half.

In the ink itself we find a little more difference for, whilst the composition of the normal colouring varies a good deal in intensity, there are one or two colours which are slightly fugitive, a notable one being almost pink in shade. There is also a beautiful rich colour on some of the stamps of the later issues in the early days of 1914. These are on a clear white paper, softer than the papers of the earlier issues and on which the design and colouring show up to perfection.

Lately I came across a couple from worn plates, in both of which the design measures 18¾ mm. by 25¼ mm. In each of these stamps the whole of the lines of background are broken in innumerable places, where the lines on the plates have failed to register the ink; in several places the outlines are worn and thinned; the kangaroo's head is very slightly shaded, and the usually pronounced line of colour outlining the animal's back is very irregularly defined.

The watermark of this stamp—and of all the first issues—varies a little in size and shape, but as it does not show very distinctly and is therefore somewhat difficult to measure and examine, collectors may prefer to pass it by.

Some specialists may, however, like to find out all there is to know about this wmk., and to those I would offer a few suggestions. It would be as well to only deal with the stamp whose wmks. show up fairly well in the hand or on the table, for it is of course hardly possible to measure the watermark in the detector tray. For the purposes of measurement and inspection, the stamp should be laid face downwards on the table, and if the table or tablecloth is of some dark substance they will show up to the best advantage for the work. After inspection and sorting, they can be mounted in the album, and notes on them be written, in the manner that best commends itself to the collector. He might, for instance, if he finds a few good and distinct variations of the wmk., mount the stamps face downwards, taking care to use a good peelable stamp mount, and moistening it lightly.

Coming to the minor varieties of printing again, it might interest readers to know that it is almost impossible to find a copy of the penny—or of any of the Kangaroo series—without one or more letters joined, either in "Australia" or in the letters forming the value below. In some of the Penny values I have noticed the whole of the letters in ——RALIA joined at the foot. In my humble opinion the little varieties of this nature are too insignificant even for the specialist, but it may perhaps be of some interest to some readers of this article. Of a like nature is the variety commonly seen in the Penny, in which value the lines of background between N.N., are generally joined by a bar of colouring. Also in the same stamp a little spot of colour appears in the right lower corner, joining the lowest line of background to the bottom line, or to the corner of the inner frame line.

Amongst other minor varieties are many little defects in the lettering, some of which I gave notice of in a previous article. A few of recent discovery are: Broken R, in which a fine line of colour breaks the upper stroke of the letter exactly in the centre; broken N in ONE, in which the upper outline of the serif on the right-hand stroke has broken in the printing. Of a like nature is a break in the upper outline of the top-stroke in the E in ONE, and also a break in the d, in the value in circle. A little different from these is one that I have, wherein the last A in AUSTRALIA is badly distorted, due to the corner of the stamp having blurred before drying.

It would be interesting to know if any reader has noticed the same defects of lettering, as I have mentioned in this and my previous article, for so far as I know, most of them may be only "casual" varieties, and it would need more stamps of the same value, and containing exactly similar defects, to convert them into "regular" minor varieties.

An attempt at describing the shades and minor shades is at present beyond the power of my pen. Suffice to say that S.G. are quite correct in classifying it as red. But there are many shades of "red," and in this direction—as in many others—the specialist must be his own judge and expert.—Aust. Stamp Journal.

SEVENTY BINDERS PAID FOR.

Notwithstanding the fact that 110 persons indicated that binders for the WEEKLY would be wanted in case they could be made a reality only seventy real orders accompanied by cash have been received. This binder is being offered by us at cost. STAMP PAPERS AND MAGAZINES.

By L. H. BRIGHAM.

We would have but a poor knowledge of the Bible, of history, or of geography if it were not for the Bibles, histories, geographies, and maps which we find all about us. How much would we know of what is going on in the world today without the newspaper and the camera?

Likewise it would be impossible for the philatelist to keep in touch with all of the changes which are constantly taking place in the stamp world, without the aid of publications of some sort which gather together all of this mass of information and present it to us while it is yet new, interesting, and of value and importance.

One of the chief values of these stamp publications is their "new issue" columns. Here each week or month can be found a chronicle of all of the new stamps which have appeared in all of the various countries since the last issue of the paper. The information usually includes the reason for requiring a new issue, how many different stamps in the issue, a description of the stamps or a cut of them, how many were printed, on what kind of paper, where, and by whom, etc.

In addition to the "new issue" feature found in these magazines, we can also find complete biographies of the stamps of the different nations. Stamp problems are discussed and much valuable information is obtained on some of the more confusing older issues of some of the countries. Responsible stamp dealers carry advertisements in these columns, and many a good bargain can be obtained by closely watching each number as it appears. Here, also, can be found other collectors from all over the world who are desirous of buying, selling, or exchanging stamps with you. There are "question and answer" columns and definitions and explanations given of the many strange words and characters we find printed on many stamps.

In short, if we are constant, faithful, and interested readers of some stamp paper, we have the advantage of knowing all that there is to know about stamps—past, present, and future. We will always be in a position to help, advise, and explain to others the many things that are still puzzling them, but which no longer puzzle us.

Almost any stamp dealer or collector can suggest or recommend a stamp paper or magazine which is low in cost and which will prove a most valuable aid in your collecting of stamps.—The Haversack.

ADLETS.

Minimum two lines.

This column is for the use of our patrons who desire only a few lines of space. If you want to buy, sell, or exchange, it is without doubt the best advertising medium in the world. It is impossible to guarantee advertisers in this department and patrons must satisfy themselves as to the reliability of the parties with whom they desire to engage in business relations.

RATE.—80c per line, cash in advance. No display allowed. Six words (32 letters) to the line, including address. We offer 50 lines for $12.50, where cash is paid in advance. This space can be used at such times and in such quantities as may be desired.

NO MONEY—NO POSTAGE STAMPS.

MONTEVIDEO, April 5.—The British island of Tristan da Cunha, in the middle of the South Atlantic, with its 120 odd souls, mostly descendants of Napoleon's St. Helena guards, who hardly hear from civilization more than once in two years, is at last to have a missionary and radio communication.

For more than 18 months an English clergyman named Roger and his wife have been trying to reach the island from Cape Town and finally induced the captain of the Japanese steamship Tacoma Maru, which left Cape Town on March 26 for the River Plate, to deviate from his regular course and land them at Tristan da Cunha.

W. Denis Myers, a passenger on the Tacoma Maru and a lawyer of Cape Town, who has just arrived here, tells of the vessel's call at the island with Mr. and Mrs. Roger and thinks the population is truly in need of a missionary.

A FORGOTTEN COMMUNITY.

"The student of evolution, the psychologist as well as the missionary, would find much to interest him in this curious, forgotten community," says Mr. Myers. "The settlement originated, it is said, when a detachment of soldiers who were guarding Napoleon at St. Helena, to the North, were despatched to Tristan da Cunha to forestall the remote possibility that Napoleon might attempt to escape thither. Two of the soldiers remained and importing wives from St. Helena, laid the foundations of one of the strangest settlements in the world.

"From time to time shipwrecked mariners have added to the inhabitants on the island, who have married and intermarried till relationship after a century has become a hopeless tangle. Nearly all the present population were born on the island and have a colored strain in their blood. They speak English with a peculiar drawl, resembling West of England speech. There is one old Italian among them, shipwrecked from a sailing vessel, who appears to have forgotten his own name and in fact his mother tongue.

CULTIVATE POTATOES.

"Continued intermarriage has in this generation produced some pitiful children. Some of them are idiots, some lack limbs, some are deaf and dumb. The population does nothing agriculturally except to cultivate potatoes. On this food, together with fish and penguin eggs, they chiefly exist. There are few wild cattle and a few sheep and out of the wool of the latter the women knit rough woolen stockings. That is their only manufacture. They wear old clothes, mostly seamen's, begged from the ships, usually wandering windjammers, that visit the island at rare intervals. There being no commerce, there is no need for money.

DO NOT SMILE.

"The islander's attitude toward visitors is curious; as he stands before one his head droops, his arms fall listlessly to his side and he answers limply and uninterestedly questions as to his life and mode of existence. He seems to have no other interest than to trade a penquin, an albatross skin, or a seal's flapper for an old shirt, a little tobacco, or anything from civilization that would be useful. He articulates slowly and with difficulty as if he had almost forgotten speech. I did not see one smile.

"Tristan da Cunha is a mountain 4,000 feet high rising out of the ocean wastes like an inverted bowl, and as we saw it, was wreathed in swirling mists. The little colony lives in stone huts on a green strip of pasture land at the foot of the mountain.

"Having no commerce and no money, these people certainly worship Mammon, but it is doubtful if they worship God.

The two plucky missionaries who h... been exiled themselves among them ... at least two years will try to teach th... They brought large quantities of supp... and civilized comforts and a radio set ... that henceforth Tristan da Cunha ... not be cut off entirely 'from the outs... world'."

WASHINGTON DOINGS.

By PHILIP H. WARD, JR.

Of late months, my frequent visits to Washington have been purely for business but during the week on June 12th, I was home for pleasure and consequently had much time to devote to meeting new officials, of interest to the philatelic world. There have been great changes here of late. There are all new faces in the higher positions in the Post Office Department and in the case of the Bureau the few remaining chiefs have moved to different positions. Younger men throughout seem to be holding down the chairs of the mighty. In the Senate, philately is ably represented by the Hon. J. S. Frelinghuysen, who has only recently become known as a follower of the King of Hobbies. In the House of Representatives we find one of our foremost collectors, the Hon. E. R. Ackerman, owner of one of the leading collections in America.

Reaching the Senate early in the afternoon, I send in my card but find that the Senator is at lunch. I stop in the Senate Gallery and hear the tariff bill discussed, 400% duty on razors, but thank goodness no duty on stamps. Pretty soon I see a tall well built Senator enter on the right. His hair is gray and bushy, streaked with black. Alert and firm in his movements I recognize him from his portrait in the WEEKLY as Senator Frelinghuysen. Down a floor again and into the Senate reception room. My card goes in and out comes the Senator. I can see almost from his first remark that he is a real student of philately and really interested in stamps. It is not a question of collecting for his children as so many have thought. We are hardly seated when there arrives a delegation of school children from New Jersey. The Senator has them shown around. Then a machinist who wants to be transferred from one department to another and so for a while I was beginning to think they would never leave us alone. Finally we located a quiet corner and philately reigned supreme.

The Senator makes a general collection and while he favors the issues of the 19th century, he has not neglected the 20th Century varieties, including the many new Europe. His pet hobbies are early United States and British Colonies and of these he has a wonderful lot. He not only collects our regular issues but has some unusual pieces in the way of carriers and locals. His British Colonies are built around an old collection that he purchased, mounted many years ago, in an old plush album and containing only the classic issues—the early Barbados with a split five shilling surcharged besides many of the old ones, a number of Cape triangles, early Canada and an unusual lot of Ceylon, Victoria and the like. He went over the Needham collection when it was broken up and picked out many fine pieces. He runs almost entirely to singles off cover, although he possesses many fine covers. His entire collection in so far as early issues are concerned is mounted in loose leaf blank albums. In the case of his late varieties he uses a Scott's printed album. His new issues are very extensive and not only strong in British Colonies but he has an unusually fine lot of Portuguese. If the Senator continues as he is going, I can see the making of what will be one of our leading American collections. The Senator has invited me to his home to see his treasures and I hope to give a further account at some future date.

Walking over to the House I send in my card to Mr. Ackerman but find that he is not on the floor. Some one says they think he has a 30c black on the cover of the 1860 issue. Is it so? One of our best posted dealers is his philatelic secretary and if it exists he probably has it.

Back towards Union Station and the New Post Office and I meet Mr. M. L. Eidsness, Jr., the new chief of the Stamp Division. A tall young man of medium build in his middle thirties with a youngster of nine who will some day be a stamp collector. An extremely pleasant gentleman and one who is very alert to the possibilities of the Philatelic Stamp Agent. He realizes the stamp collector is entitled to every consideration and he impresses you as the type of business man who sees that the interest of his department can be advanced by catering to the philatelist without overstepping the ethics of his division.

Many "odd size" packets are in stock at times through our purchasing large accumulations and due to our return of duplicate plan. Every packet is guaranteed to be even better than a packet of similar size. This is because a buyer from say a 3000 packet selected 1100 stamps and returned 1900. While he had the privilege and opportunity to select the best in the packet, he merely selected those he needed, irrespective of actual value.

Only one of some of these packets on hand. Address your order to "Special Packet" department today and avoid delay. These prices strictly

H. F. COLMAN SECOND NATIONAL BANK BLDG., WASHINGTON, D. C.

He has a knowledge of stamps but would not think of starting a collection in his position. He is certainly not bound by red tape as many others have been before him and he does not hesitate to tell you what they are doing or contemplate doing. Watch his division, for I believe more is coming out from it of interest to philately than ever before.

His assistant, Mr. Gibbons, while not a collector is extremely well-posted on philately. It is under his supervision that a very fine postal exhibit is being arranged to be sent to Rio. On its return they are going to place it in the office of the Chief of the Stamp Division for reference purposes, and it will be added to from time to time as new varieties appear. Mr. Gibbons tells me that some of the dies for overprinting the 3c envelopes have been returned and that after the several cities finish their work they will have them all sent in to Washington.

Around the corner from the Stamp Division on the same floor we find the Philatelic Stamp Agent, Mr. Howard A. Mount, with a young lady to assist him. Mr. Mount's entire time is devoted to stamps and as he is the one who had charge of the window that catered to collectors some years back he is well posted as to their requirements. I remember fifteen to eighteen years ago buying the 10c coil stamps from Mr. Mount at face. Sorry, but he had none of this issue on sale when I called upon him this time. They had nothing especially new with the exception of the $1 in a very fine shade. All of the denominations are especially well centered and he is especially careful to pick out what is wanted. He has a Scott catalogue on his desk so that he will know what you are talking about if you mention it.

At present he has on sale all of the current series, the 1916 $2 and $5, the Victory, the Pilgrims and the Aeroplanes as well as the Shanghai overprints. He also has a small supply of the overprinted reply postal cards in addition to a few overprinted envelopes. Mr. Mount is willing to go out of his way to please the collector, but remember that they have no old issues to offer, not even the preceding varieties which were perforated 10, nor have they any of the 5c errors to offer at face or at any other price. Nothing special is made at the Bureau for the Stamp Agent, but he is simply furnished with finely centered sheets of all varieties still available.

For years past, in visiting the Bureau I have always made it a point to stop in at the engraving division to see what was new in the way of dies, methods of making plates and the like. Mr. Louis B. Hill during this time was the Assistant Chief Engraver and he always went out of his way to furnish us with as much information as was consistent with the Bureau's rulings. It seemed odd, but pleasing, to find him on this visit, as Director. Mr. Hill is a man of medium build, no excess flesh, smooth shaven with dark hair, streaked with gray. He is the son of a former chief engraver and has himself been in the Bureau employ for a number of years. The Bureau has been entirely reorganized under Mr. Hill's direction and every division is running smoothly. Being an engraver by profession he can naturally see the advantage of making all securities of this government from engraved steel plates and if he has his way we have seen the last of the offset printed postage stamps.

He tells the story of the famous 5c error. We knew that the wrong transfer roll was used, but never as to exactly how it occurred. It seems that plate No. 7,942 was completed and as is the usual custom a proof was run before it was hardened in order that any defects might be corrected. The Assistant Chief Engraver inspects the sheet and around three subjects which were not satisfactorily entered he put a blue penciled circle together with the letters "RE" meaning re-enter. The transferrer goes to the tray and picks up a transfer roll and noticing the head of Washington, imagines that he has the 2c roll in hand. He then takes the unhardened plate and re-enters these three subjects in the same manner as the first entry was made. It is not necessary to turn the plate over and beat the original entry out as some have supposed, but the steel being soft the second entry eradicates all signs of the first transfer. The new proof was then passed, the plate certified, hardened and went to press with the result that the collector today has three new varieties to add to his collection,—the perforated 11, the 10 and the imperforate.

Mr. Hill is much pleased with the work of his Engraving Division and informs us that if he is called upon to design a new series of postage stamps that he will give us something real. I hope he will be given the opportunity, and if you think the same way write to the Postmaster General, or to his Third Assistant, who has charge of all stamp matters.

BRITISH HONDURAS, 4c 1922.

By HARRY E. HUBER.

The seventh congress of the Universal Postal Union, which should have been held in Madrid, in September, 1914, and which was postponed in consequence of the war, was formally opened on the 1st October, 1920, in the Senate House, Madrid, by the King and Queen in person. Subsequent meetings were held in a suite of rooms in the Madrid Post Office.

At this congress many radical changes were approved, bearing on the interchange of mails between the members of the Union. Maximum rates for postage on international mail were fixed, and international payment for transit of mails was established on a gold dollar basis instead of the former franc.

In the matter of letter rates, a scheme had to be found which would satisfy those members who desired increased postage rates for revenue purposes, as well as those who desired no increase. With existing conditions, the long cherished uniformity of postage had to go, and it was finally decided to fix the maximum rates on a gold basis, with the proviso that members might retain the rates previously in force, or fix new rates according to their own ideas, so long as they did not exceed the maximum approved by the Congress, viz.—
Letters: first rate, 50 centimes; subsequent, 25 centimes.
Post cards: 30 centimes.
Printed matter, commercial papers and samples: 10 centimes for 50 gr.
Registration fee: 50 centimes.
Literature for the blind: 5 centimes for 500 gr.

The revised conditions and arrangements were approved November 30, 1920.

In the past the Universal Post Union made the rates and insisted that they be adhered to, except in the case of special agreements between governments, as between the United States and British Honduras, etc. But now each country may set its rates, providing the amounts set by the congress are not exceeded. As the new transit charges are on a gold basis, many countries suffering from a depreciated currency find it impossible to continue the previous charges.

Britain's penny postage with the Colonies, instituted on Christmas Day, 1898, was abandoned on June 1st, 1918, in favor of a 1½d rate. Two years later, June 1st, 1920, this gave way to a 2d rate for the first ounce, and 1d for subsequent ounces, only to undergo still another change on June 13th, 1921, when the rate for "subsequent ounces" was made 1½d, the first ounce remaining 2d. Post cards, inland, Empire, as well as foreign, were raised to 1½d, and at the same time the foreign letter rate was made 3d for the first ounce, with 1½d for each succeeding ounce.

By an order of the Governor in Council, dated 13th April, 1921, new letter rates were made effective as from the 1st June, 1921.

1916, the rate in the Colony became 3c, while in the United States this same rate was made effective on Nov. 2nd, 1917, and continued until July 1st, 1919, when the old 2c rate was restored. On 1st June, 1921, the letter rate in the Colony was reduced to 2c, but raised on letters to the United States, to 4c.

The Washington authorities were advised of the proposed increase, in a letter dated 28th April, 1921, by the Colonial Postmaster, viz.,—

"I have the honour to inform you that the rate of postage on letters from this Colony to the United States will from the 1st June next be for the first ounce four (4) cents, and for every succeeding ounce two (2) cents."

Two courses were open to the Washington authorities; agree to the one-way increase, or cancel the convention. In the latter event, letters to and from the Colony would have been charged at the foreign letter rate of 5c. As the increase was considerably less than authorized by the Madrid convention, with respect to letters destined for other countries, the United States Post Office Department did not question the increase, and considered the agreement modified to such extent by the action taken by the Colony.

Furthermore, the increase was agreed to "in the interest of maintaining the existing reduced rate from the United States, which otherwise could have likewise been terminated by the abrogation on the part of the Colony of the agreement in force." This action was suggested in one or two instances by other British Colonies in the Western Hemisphere, in case the Washington authorities did not agree to the proposed increase in one direction only.

A 4c stamp being now required, the necessary instructions were given to the Crown Agents, and in September, 1921, they announced that the stamp was in preparation to be "in the same design as the 2c Peace stamp, but with the word 'Peace' omitted."

The stamps were dispatched from London on October 14, 1921, and issue took place in the Colony on January 4, 1922. The design is the same as for the 2c Peace, with the exception that the word "Peace" is omitted from the ribbons on either side of the Crown.

The stamp was printed in gray, by the copper plate process, in sheets of 60, on thick white paper, watermarked multiple Crown CA, script, sideways, with the top of the Crown to the left. The perforation is single line, 14, the side margins only being perforated through, and the marginal markings are the same as for the 2c Peace stamp.

Jan. 4, 1922. Peace design modified. King George and Arms of Colony. Watermarked multiple Crown CA, script, sideways.

THE KLEMANN-GRINNELL SUIT.

Reported by BILL BLOSS.

Philatelic history is being made daily in Department Seven of the Superior Court of Los Angeles County, California, in the civil suit of John Klemann vs. George H. Grinnell, for the recovery of $65,000, paid for forty-three Hawaiian Missionary stamps claimed to be counterfeits by the plaintiff.

At the time of writing, the case is still in its infancy, and for this reason, and in justice to both parties concerned, it is deemed advisable to eliminate the full details of the case until the decision of the court permits a more complete account.

Suffice to say at this time that the case in question dates back to November, 1919, when a large find of Hawaiian Missionary stamps was reported by Mr. Grinnell, a Los Angeles collector. Mr. John Klemann, of the Nassau Stamp Company, hastened to the coast and acquired the stamps for $65,000. Returning to New York, Mr. Klemann made certain discoveries which caused him to believe that the stamps were not genuine, and suit was filed against the vendor for recovery of the amount paid.

Needless to say, this case has attracted international attention in the stamp world, and no small amount of interest from the public at large. It is without doubt the most important philatelic litigation which ever took place in any court.

After several legal delays, the case was set for May 31st, and opened on that date before Judge Perry Wood.

Anyone wishing to locate a Los Angeles dealer or collector on that morning would have had no difficulty, for they were all assembled in that court room, ready to receive their expert instruction in the whys and wherefores of the Hawaiian Missionary.

The case opened by the calling of the plaintiff to the witness stand, where he spent a busy day and a half answering some ten or twenty thousand questions shot at him by his counsel and the counsel for the defense. The stamps in question were entered as Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 5, and known genuine stamps in the collections of Mr. William H. Crocker of San Francisco, and Mr. Storrow of Pasadena, were exhibited, together with photographs of stamps in other great collections.

On the afternoon of the second day, Mr. Henry Marcus of San Fransisco was called for the plaintiff, as an expert, and gave a detailed opinion based on the exhibits in question. On the third day, Mr. B. W. H. Poole, a Los Angeles dealer of international repute as a philatelic expert, was called to the stand to testify and give his opinion.

A delay of eight days occurred due to illness of the attorney for the defendant, only one short session being held in that time to take the testimony of Mr. Charles J. Phillips of London, the head of Stanley Gibbons, Ltd.

The case resumed on Tuesday afternoon, June 13th, when Mr. Poole was again called to the stand, followed by Captain Walsh of the U. S. Treasury Department, Mr. Charles J. Goodman, a local dealer, and Mr. Harry J. Lelande, a local collector.

On Wednesday morning following, Mr. M. Galvez, the well-known dealer and philatelic publisher of Madrid, Spain, gave testimony bearing on technicalities of the manufacture of the Hawaiian Missionary stamps, stamps in general, and his opinion on the exhibits in question.

The case will doubtless be prolonged for at least a week, since there are many witnesses yet to appear for the plaintiff and all of the defendant's side to be heard.

It is entirely too early to prophesy the outcome of the case, except that it is popular belief that the ultimate winners will be the attorneys on both sides, and that the judge will doubtless take up collecting, since he is absorbing a remarkable knowledge of philately in general and Hawaiian stamps in particular, and will certainly be qualified as an expert on the Missionaries. He has had a wonderful eye-full of philatelic gems in the collections exhibited.

Among the out-of-town philatelists at the trial are Messrs. Charles J. Phillips of London, M. Galvez of Madrid, H. W. Marcus, H. W. Doscher, F. O. Selianoff of San Francisco, and E. T. Wallis, of Indianapolis.

THE PAIR OF 5c NEW YORKS

(New York Times.)

Stamp collectors and dealers have much interested recently in the from London that a superb pair o New York 5-cent postmaster's st on the original envelope sold at au in London on May 6, for £225, eq lent, at the rate of exchange the about $1,000. Good copies of the s are quoted by dealers here at fron to $50, and while pairs on origina velopes often sell for high prices, Bartels said last week that $250 or would be an exceptional price.

The stamps were purchased b Leon Adutt, an English collector, has specialized in rare United S varieties. The sale in which the st appeared was held under the auspi the Junior Philatelic Society of L in commemoration of the fiftieth versary of the first postage stamp tion in London. All of the stam the sale were contributed by privat lectors and dealers, the proceeds toward the expenses of the national Stamp Exhibition in L next year. Mr. Adutt is actively ested in the coming event and dealers are inclined to believe buyers virtually contributed their of the funds for the exhibitio making far more generous bids would have been the case in any re auction. Many other stamps at anniversary sale brought price excess of their catalogue value.

The forthcoming London exhibi which will be held in Horticu Hall, will attract a number of A cans and plans are being made to over portions of some of the bes vate collections in the United S The Collectors' Club of this city h tested to its interest by offering a gold medal as one of the awards.

he presents an opinion which seems the plausible.

"There are indications," he says, which lead me to the opinion that the engraver was no other than that gifted British artist, William Humphrys, who engraved the triangular Cape of Good Hope stamp die (1853), the first New England die (1855), Ceylon (1855), St. Helena (1856) and others. Humphrys had spent many years in America prior to coming back here and in his obituary notice in The Art Journal (1875) it is stated that he engraved the portrait of Washington for United States stamps. This might have referred to the first Government issue of 1847, and if so, the same printers printed the 5c New York stamp and the 1847 United States Government issue and may have employed the same engraver."

The New York stamp, which was printed in black, was printed by Rawdon, Wright, Hatch & Edson of New York, the firm that later became the American Bank Note Company. There is record that they paid the engraver for the steel plate $40.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

Under this heading we desire to publish all news from the various philatelic centers. Correspondents' names will be given unless omitted, as we desire to give full credit for services rendered.

Siegfried Schachne leaves June 24 on an extended stay in Europe. He informs us that he will not return until late in the year.

From Triest, Italy, we receive greetings from J. Saulnier, who on the first day of the Congress sends us a post card designed especially for the Italian Philatelic Congress and which bears a mark of appropriate character.

The Yonkers (N. Y.) Herald of June 14 contained an illustration covering one-third of an entire page. It pictured a cover received from Russia on which were stamps to the value of 10,000 rubles. There were sixteen stamps of 22,500 rubles each, and four of 10 rubles. The letter was received by Charles W. Richmond, Smithsonian Institute, Washington, D. C., who sent it to William L. Richmond of Yonkers, who for many years has been interested philately and is a long-time subscriber to WEEKLY.

We are indebted to Howard Starr Levy for copies of two songs written and published by him. One of them is entitled "What Remembrance Means" the other "Everything is Round the Corner in this World for Me."

Arthur Barger of the Northern Co., Montreal, Can., sends us a copy of the new 2c green. The existence of green 1c and 2c stamps is provocative confusing to the postal employes.

Frank F. Wills informs us that the 1c, 10c, also the 2, 3 and 5c caribous have been issued in distinctly new colors. The proposed new issue for Newfoundland is for the time postponed.

M. Saulnier writing from Triest, says—"Prices here are so low that the cards I took along with me do not find purchasers at my prices. The dealers here have no U. S., their stock consisting principally of old Italian States on entire cover, but for these they ask inflated prices. I have been in Venice and it is the same as here."

THE POSTOGRAPH.

Stamping, Postmarking, Canceling and Sealing Accomplished by New Machine.

Stamping, postmarking, canceling and sealing first-class mail in large quantities can hereafter be accomplished at one operation, by utilizing a little machine called the "postograph", invented by Luther L. Mack, a Los Angeles man.

The device has just been authorized by the United States post office department and will be manufactured in this city. It is a small printing and recording mechanism, which can be set on a desk or table and is so simple in operation that a child can handle it efficiently.

A small cylinder contains the dies which print the stamp and the postmark, and also a meter which counts forward up to 1,000,000, for record, and backward from whatever number indicates the number of stamps which have been paid for. This cylinder is taken to the post office, where payment is made for the number of stamps desired.

The mechanism is set to correspond and sealed by the postal authorities, and is then returned to the machine and the number of pieces of mail desired printed.

The postograph will stamp 300 letters a minute, any size up to 12 inches in length at an equal speed. Letters may be any thickness up to three-eighths of an inch, without affecting the speed of handling.

The size of the whole machine is 12 x 24 x 16 inches, and it is run by a small electric motor of one-sixth horsepower, concealed from view. A smaller machine will later be built which can be run by hand for businesses which do not require handling of large quantities of mail.

The stamp dies will be for any denomination of stamp desired and the ink used will be of the same tint as that of the adhesive stamp of like denomination. Postograph mail will go directly to the sorting boxes on reaching the post office, having been identified for its delivery to the receiver in the office where it is addressed.

The system will do away with over 80 per cent of the time and labor now required in affixing postage stamps, sealing and canceling. The sealing device will do away with the present plan of using water or wet rollers. It is accomplished in the same operation with the stamping.

The printing die is of steel and is so arranged that it can not print unless a piece of mail is in the proper position, and the counter will not work until an actual impression is made. The inventor claims that it is mechanically impossible to waste postage in this manner. A set of interchangeable steel type for the date and hour of mailing is furnished with each machine.

THE LATEST FERRARI SALE.

(Press Despatch.)

PARIS, June 15—Philatelists yesterday paid 400,000 francs for stamps, most of them American Confederate States and local provisional issues, at the opening day of the fourth instalment of the auction of the famous collection of Ferrari de la Renotiere. The collection was willed to the museum at Berlin by Ferrari, who died in 1915, but it was sequestrated by the French government and is now being auctioned for reparations.

The highest price paid yesterday was 28,850 francs for a pair of Livingston, Ala., five-cent blues on a letter. Nearly all the important issues sold yesterday went to Americans, principally to Warren H. Colson of Boston, who bought back stamps he had bought for Ferrari whose agent he was in the United States prior to the World war. These stamps have more than doubled in value.

The collection which up to the present has been hardly half disposed of, already has fetched $666,000. The collection represents 50 years of work by Ferrari and is said to have cost him about $1,000,000. Before the sale began it contained practically complete groups of Confederate and local issues, most of which have now been sold to Americans, Arthur Hind of Utica, N. Y., getting a majority of those not taken by Colson.

Probably the rarest stamp in the present sale is a Hawaiian first issue two-cent blue, which will be auctioned today. Two other copies of this stamp were sold recently respectively for $9000 and $15,000.

EDITORIAL.

Bite—Just as our airs were getting insufferable in consequence of the widespread publicity of a favorable nature on the whole, that philately has been receiving in the public press along comes Arthur Brisbane, whose fame as an editorial writer for the Hearst papers is based in many minds on the high salary that he receives and whacks us with a club. The contributing cause of Brisbane's outbreak evidently is the story of the high prices realized for many of the stamps in the recent Ferrari sale when bidders ran amuck in their pursuit of rarities. Brisbane's first offense has been mentioned and as it was a comparatively mild one, it did not rankle as his after-claps have. Brisbane's second criticism was provoked by the report that the two cent Hawaiian missionary brought 94,000 francs at Paris. He says that if men care to waste time and money collecting stamps, let them do so but he thinks that the children should not be encouraged to collect. Brisbane says that there is but one kind of stamp collection that is good for children,—one of United States government thrift stamps; they should get as big a collection of these as they can. Here we have the triumph of triteness. Of course children should get all the thrift stamps possible; they may still do this and collect stamps which need not cost the children anything to speak of. Because some enthusiast who has the money to spend gives a small fortune for one of the recognized rarities, children are in danger of doing likewise! The Ferrari sale is the most remarkable that has ever been held and we shall not look upon its like again, in all probability. Its magnitude makes it a law unto itself and all signs fail when discussing it. There are not enough missionaries to get around to the children and little Rollo is too wise to save all his pennies in the hope of being able to buy one of these Hawaiian stamps. The auction prices at the Ferrari sale were given due attention in the press and cable editors gave generous space to the sky-rocket prices. Mr. Arthur Hind of Utica, New York, was advertised as the buyer of the two-cent missionary for $9,000; and the prices on the rare Confederate locals and some of the other select things were quoted.

Bosh—Mr. Brisbane returns to the attack and in the third episode says that more than seven million francs are paid for a part of the Ferrari collection, which he avers is valueless or to be exact "is not worth a franc and a half" except as a record for museums. He adds that stamp-collecting is futile as a substitute for constructive effort; and that collecting is an inheritance from our animal ancestry of the remote past. His climax is to the effect that the jackdaw is a collector and that the lowest savages are, as well. Good for the jackdaw and the lowest savages; and while we shall not expect them to exhibit at the London Exhibition yet it is something to know that they collect. Collectors of stamps are the same as every-day folks, as a rule, and have no more time or money to spend foolishly than the average person. Stamps have an appeal to them in the way that books, coins, china, pictures, rugs, etc., do to others who collect. Utility is a good watchword and material advancement is not to be belittled but to harp on the practical side of life unceasingly is deadening to sentiment; and it does not take a Schopenhauer to say that life devoid of sentiment is a humdrum affair for anyone who does not qualify for the class of genius.

Bait—Resuming our story of the corner of the five-cent of 1847, we may say that results from Mr. Lord's campaign of advertising were soon forthcoming. In addition, Mr. Lord wrote to all the dealers asking them to send him all the copies of this stamp that they had on hand as he could use an unbelievably large number of the stamps if in good condition as he was shading on a scale of refinement, never before attempted. Also he was interested in cancellations and too many stamps could not be sent him. Dealers responded generally and with a fair degree of liberality, but even so, the returns were such that Mr. Lord's suspicion of the scarcity of the five-cent of 1847 was confirmed. He had estimated that five thousand placed aside would sweep the market of good copies and he knew rather soon that he could revise this figure downwards. Some of the dealers were inclined to hold aloof for one reason or other. One of the oldest dealers, now, no longer in business, said that he would not sell his copies under catalogue price, as he knew that the five-cent of 1847 was scarcer than its catalogue price indicated. Another big dealer said that he had a considerable number of the stamps still on hand but sent on only the varieties that showed the shades. Mr. Lord said he wanted to see everything, and finally, all the stamps came never to return to their former home. The price kept mounting and the work of gathering the stamps in was considerable. Mr. Lord offered to sell all the stamps to Mr. Smith at a price, or buy Mr. Smith's stamps at the same price. Mr. Smith who was satisfied with his part in the transaction decided that he would sell and so Mr. Lord became the owner of all the stamps which numbered several thousand. Mr. N. Haskell Withee of LaCrosse, Wisconsin, who was a well-known collector, had a lot of four hundred five-cent browns of '47, which Mr. Lord purchased. Mr. Lord's removal to California did not cause him to slacken his chase for the stamps, but Mr. Lord was becoming busier in his other work and really did not give the attention later to the stamps that he did at first. Assuring himself that each copy met the standard of requirements, he put the stamps away in the vaults, and did not look at them again. Mr. Lord gathered together three thousand, two hundred and seventy-one stamps at a cost of one mill under one dollar and ten cents each. He disposed of some of the stamps, one lot of four hundred in particular, and finally sold two thousand six hundred and eighty-seven stamps that remained to an enterprising eastern dealer. The stamps that cost Mr. Lord a dollar ten cents each were sold for $2.00. Mr. Lord, who was actuated in his experiment with no particular aim, was afforded much instruction and entertainment in his market sweep, and no doubt he had no little satisfaction in vindicating his judgment in appraising the value of this stamp. Even to this day the stamp comes in to Mr. Lord as a result of the work that he did in rounding it up, and we suppose that in the years to come, he will be confronted with the fruits of his enterprise. Mr. Lord had many experiences that are amusing in the telling, while intensively engaged in capturing the stamp, and if they were not of a personal nature, they could be published, Mr. Lord says; as it is, we must forego the printing of them.

"MUSIC" STAMPS FROM AUSTRIA.

Some of the most artistic postage stamps recently come from Europe is a series of what may be called "music" stamps, just issued by Austria. There are seven values, each bearing the head of an eminent Austrian composer, among whom is Beethoven, who, although a native of Bonn, Germany, spent most of his time in Vienna and did the greater part of his musical work there.

The pictures follow a chronological sequence in respect to values. The oldest of this famous group of seven, Haydn, is on the 2½ crown value. Mozart appears on the 5 crown, Beethoven on the 7½ crown, Schubert on the 10 crown, Anton Brückner on the 25 crown, Johann Strauss, the younger, on the 50 crown and Hugo Wolf on the 100 cr... stamp, the highest value in the ... THE POSTAGE STAMPS OF BELGIUM.

By BERTRAM W. H. POOLE.

CHAPTER XVI.

The Antwerp Exhibition Stamps.

An International Exhibition was held in Antwerp in 1894, and to celebrate the event in a fitting philatelic manner, it was decided to issue special stamps. A Royal decree, dated October 31st, 1893, announced: "During the International Exhibition, which will take place in 1894 in Antwerp, special postage stamps shall be issued, bearing the Arms of that town. These postage stamps will be available in exactly the same manner as ordinary postage stamps." Two days later the usual ministerial decree appeared describing these stamps, their values, colors, etc., viz.:—

"Pursuant to the Royal Decree dated October 31st, 1893, authorising a special issue of postage stamps during the International Exhibition to be held at Antwerp:—

DECREES:—

Art. 1.—The above mentioned postage stamps shall bear the inscription "1894—ANVERS—ANTWERPEN—BELGIQUE—BELGIE". They will also be provided with a detachable label inscribed "NE PAS LIVRER LE DIMANCHE—NIET BESTELLEN OP ZONDAG", the purpose and use of which are determined in Art. 1 of our Decree of May 15th, 1893.

Art. 2.—The values and colors of the stamps will be as follows:—

5 centimes, green on rose.
10 centimes, blue on rose.
25 centimes, carmine on blue

Art. 3.—The above mentioned stamps will be sold and may be used in the same manner as ordinary postage stamps during the period for which they are available, which shall finish on December 31st, 1894.

Art. 4.—These stamps will be issued on the day the Exhibition opens.

BRUSSELS, November 2nd, 1893.

(Signed) J. VANDENPEEREBOOM."

A further decree was published in January, 1894, in which the colors originally chosen for the 10 and 25 centimes respectively were changed and new dates of issue were announced. The revision fixed the colors and dates as follows:—

5 centimes, green on rose, to be issued Feb. 20, 1894.
10 centimes, carmine on blue, to be issued Mar. 20, 1894.
25 centimes, blue on rose, to be issued Mar. 20, 1894.

The three stamps are all alike in design and were drawn by Mr. H. Hendrickx, while the dies were engraved by Mr. V. Lemaire, of Ghent. The latter's name is shown in minute letters at the lower right portion of the design. The design is anything but handsome and has suffered by the designer trying to crowd in too many small details. In the centre are the Arms of Antwerp on a shield within a circle inscribed "ANTWERPEN" and "ANVERS" above and below respectively in Gothic letters. At the sides are "BELGIQUE" at left and "BELGIE" at right while above the shield is a Polar star. In the upper left corner is a head of Mercury on a small oval and in the upper right corner is the Belgian lion on a shield, while in the lower corners are small squares for the numerals of value. At the top of the design is the date "1894" in open numerals and at the base the usual Sunday label is shown.

The plates were presumably like those of the normal stamps of the period, consisting of 300 stamps divided into six panes of fifty each. The stamps were printed on unwatermarked paper and have the regular 14 perforation.

Mr. de Bont tells us there were two printings of each value, and that the total quantities printed were:—

5 centimes,	12,300,000
10 centimes,	17,050,000
25 centimes,	2,810,000

Mr. Bouvez gives very much smaller estimates, viz.:—1,500,000 of the 5c 3,000,000 of the 10c and only 600,000 of the 25c.

While the stamps are all still so common that it would not be unreasonable to suppose Mr. Bont's figures the more accurate, we find in the Philatelic Journal of Great Britain for March, 1898, a statement of the official quantities used which corroborates the estimate given by Mr. Bouvez. Of the 5c, 1,121,643 were used, of the 10c, 2,362,916, and of the 25c, 483,377.

The stamps vary a little in shade, especially as regards the tinting of the paper used for the 5c and 25c values. The first named is catalogued by Scott as on "white paper"—a variety discovered soon after the stamps appeared and just as promptly discredited as being due to fading or to doctoring by chemical means.

Before the final decision was made regarding the colors chosen for the different values numerous essays were made. Small sheets showing all three values were prepared and others with one value only, which were printed on plain and tinted papers. Consequently the 10c may be found in blue on rose, and the 25c in carmine on blue—the colors chosen in the first place.

As the administration had fixed a certain limit during which these stamps were available for postage, and this time expired on December 31st, 1894, a special notice was issued to postmasters concerning the exchange of these stamps for ordinary ones. By the terms of this notice these stamps could be exchanged for similar values in the regular series any time between January 1st and February 28th, 1895.

CHAPTER XVII.

The Brussels Exhibition Stamps.

The design chosen for the Antwerp Exhibition stamps was unmercifully criticised, particularly by the Belgian press, so that when it was contemplated that the Brussels Exhibition of 1897 should also be advertised by the issue of special stamps the Government decided to open a competition for suggested designs. In the early part of 1896, therefore, a lengthy document was published "Concerning a Competition for the designs of Postage Stamps" in which very exact instructions were given as to the size of the designs and the inscriptions to be shown, though the artists were given a free hand as to the actual subjects they might care to depict. Several prizes were offered and a committee, composed of three government officials and four artists, were appointed to act as judges. The competition was open to Belgians only and though some 252 designs were submitted, the larger portion were immediately disqualified as they were not in accordance with one or other of the voluminous regulations.

The first prize of 1000 francs was awarded to Mr. Alfred van Neste de Berghem, a young artist of Bruges, who was then doing his term of service in the Belgian army. His design was adopted for the 10 centime stamp.

The second prize of 500 francs went to Mr. G. Portielje, of Antwerp, and his design was used for the 5 centimes stamp.

Other awards, in the nature of consolation prizes, were given to eight competitors—four receiving 250 francs each

United States Provisional Envelopes
1920-21 2c on 3c Surcharged Envelopes

We have never had a series of envelopes so interesting as the surcharged varieties of 1920-21, which should really be classed as a war issue, as they are the direct result of the rate of postage having been increased due to war conditions. The overprinting is practically over and those who go in for cut squares require only about 450 varieties.

I offer a very interesting collection from the many cities on white, amber, blue and buff in the four dies A, E, F and H in the several sizes, entire. The collection includes six window varieties, seven from Frederick which Scott catalogues up to $2 each in addition to the three errors 2c on 2c on white, blue and buff. In all, four hundred varieties, properly classified. If purchased separately, they would cost you in excess of one hundred dollars. The entire collection for $50.00.

A smaller collection consisting of 200 varieties at $20.00 and this includes several Fredericks, or can furnish a very representative lot of fifty varieties at $5.00.

If you have a want list, let me have it. All unused, entire.

NORFOLK, VA., ORGANIZES.

By JOHN L. HOWARD.

On Tuesday, May 30, at an informal meeting at the residence of Dr. William Evans, it was decided to form a local club or society for the promotion of interest in philately. Accordingly, we acted and the outcome of this meeting was the Hampton Roads Philatelic Society.

The following collectors were elected as officers for a term of one year Dr. William Evans, President; Lemuel Bowden, First Vice President; Wadsworth Bugg, Second Vice President; John L. Howard, Secretary; Monroe Nash, Treasurer, and Frank W. Boling, Librarian.

The first regular meeting was held Tuesday, June 6th, at which the plans for running the society and the By-Laws were discussed and adopted. It was decided to apply for a Branch Membership in the American Philatelic Society and since there are eight A. P. S. members on the roll, we have reasons to expect our application will pass favorably. For the present we will have one meeting a month with the privilege of calling a special meeting at any time it becomes necessary. We have made provisions for a Junior Department that we hope to make popular with the collectors under sixteen by eliminating fees and dues and giving them the benefit of experience along the lines that will be of most benefit to them in the future. At present we have fifteen paid up members and have the prospects for that many more, as we missed a great many on the first call.

GENERAL COLLECTORS, ATTENTION!

During the summer months, (until Oct. 1), we will allow an extra discount of 20% on all purchases of $5.00 or more, from our approval selections. These are priced net at substantial discounts from Scott, so that the added 20% will mean an appreciable saving to you.

We have made a specialty of these selections for years, and they will prove an agreeable surprise to you. Used and unused Br. Col., Old European, South American, and some of the better grade of recent issues.

This is an offer of which you should take advantage at once.

Reference necessary.

UNITED STATES.—On June 14th I had the first opportunity of visiting the Bureau of Engraving and Printing since the general upheaval early in April. It seemed odd to find Mr. L. B. Hill occupying the Director's office after having associated him with the Engraving Division for so many years. We have possibly never had a Director so familiar with the workings of the large printing and engraving plant as Mr. Hill for he has been with the Bureau since early manhood. They have had a general housecleaning, the report is in the hands of the Secretary of Treasury and will no doubt be made public in short order.

As for matters of philatelic interest, there have been quite a few rumors here of late, regarding the Bureau doing away with the rotary presses and again starting offset printing and before even mentioning these remarks I desired to get official information at first hand. Mr. Hill informs me that they have no intentions of scrapping the rotary presses, in fact more have recently been ordered. The demand for coils has been so great that practically all of these machines are being used for coil purposes. This is one of the reasons we have not as yet seen the 2c perforated 10, in sheets of 100 of the rotary type although a number of plates have been made. When the new presses reach the Bureau it is possible that this variety may appear on short order.

As for the offset varieties, I can positively state that there will be none unless some unforeseen emergency arises. The Bureau has sufficient transferrers to take care of laying down the required plates of the engraved type, in fact, I am informed that things are running smoother than ever. Mr. Hill appreciates the possibility of counterfeiting in the case of these offset varieties and it is his desire that all securities of this government be from line-engraved plates.

As for the 1c electrolytic plates turned out by the Rose formula and described in this column some time back, would advise that this method has been discontinued and no plates will be produced. It is found that stamps from these plates do not show up clearly and they look as if the plate is badly worn. In fact, I have been informed that regular plates are often cancelled that would produce better results than these electrolytic plates when new. I desire to thank Mr. H. F. Colman for letting me have a block of this variety imperforate. I have never seen it perforated, although a large number were made and they will no doubt turn up in time. It is difficult to tell the variety from an impression from the worn plate although I hope to study the stamps closely under a glass and possibly find some difference.

Regarding plate No. 5,990 which recently appeared, I learn that when they were going over the old plates at the time the new administration took charge that this plate was located and put to press. It was what is designated as an experimental plate in that it was a master plate from which they were making electrolytic plates. The plate itself however, was laid down in the regular way and of course does not differ in the slightest from the normal variety.

The Bureau has recently turned out a new portrait and judging from its appearance they have a portrait engraver at the Bureau who has reached the Smillie class. Should the Post Office Department call for a new series of stamps Mr. Hill assures us of an issue that will be highly satisfactory and most pleasing. It has been fourteen years since our present series started, a longer period than ever before. If you feel that it is time for something new, write your thoughts to the Third Assistant Postmaster General, for I believe that with a little persuasion it can be brought about. All of the officials of the Post Office and the Bureau are new and I believe that they would like to show what really can be done.

The Department has prepared an exhibit of stamps to be sent to the Exhibition to be held in Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, very shortly. They have had a case prepared with twenty-four slides, similar to those used at the National Museum for housing the government collection. Mrs. Manning of the museum has mounted in this case the set of die proofs on India paper which were originally exhibited at San Francisco in 1915. In addition a complete sheet or pane of one hundred of each of the current series from 1c to $5 inclusive are included. In order to have the proof series complete and up-to-date the Department ordered the Bureau to print two each of the following die proofs: 1917, 11c, 13c, 3c Victory, $2 carmine and black, $5 green and black, Pilgrim 1c, 2c and 5c, Aeroplane 6c, 16c and 24c in addition to a die proof of the 24c aeroplane with an inverted center. This is the first error proof ever made to my knowledge. The second set is mounted in the regular proof book which is retained as a part of the records of the Stamp Division.

I also learned while in Washington that the second printing of Shanghai were made to fill a request of the Shanghai Postmaster and that the entire printing was sent to China. The Department had to cable to Shanghai requesting the return of a certain number to be sold at Washington. This will answer the question of many as to whether these were made at the Bureau just for the collector or if they were actually required to fill a postal need. I might also mention that of the higher values there were only a few in the second and not a great many of the denominations.

I desire to record the finding of current $2 variety in a lake and shade wherein the red is much deep and darker than those seen heretofore. The variety has been shown me by John G. Herndon.

The Associated Press has been giving information in the daily papers regarding the prices being paid, at the session of the Ferrari sale, for stamps. I will review the sale as soon as complete information is available.

ALBANIA.—The Bulletin Mensuel chronicle a set of seven values of different designs in oblong shape and perforated 12½. The values and colors as follows: 2q orange, 5q yellow green, 10q carmine, 25q blue, 50q green, 1f violet and 2f olive green.

EWARD ISLANDS.—Mr. R. Roberts rts the 2sh stamp on script water- ed paper.

EW ZEALAND.—The appended cutting a recent N. Z. newspaper (for h we have to thank Mr. E. C. Wilt-) evidently refers to the surcharged tory" provisional:—

he discontinuance of the halfpenny ge rate on newspapers in New nd has left the Postal Department a surplus supply of stamps of this mination. These have been over- ed in red and made to serve as two- y stamps. This step should be of est not only to philatelists, but to who are interested in examples of Government's efforts at economy."

an interesting letter, dated Auck- March 22nd, 1922, Mr. D. L. ne, whose home is at Wallerawang, W. writes:—

he officials at the post office here in- ed me that their stock, sent from ington, was £10,000 worth, so if a sponding lot was sent to the other cities there should be no scarcity is stamp.

hey also informed me that the half- y of the Victory set was the only mination called in, but that the pence, sixpence, and shilling values all sold out except at some of the er offices. The penny and penny enny values are still obtainable at uckland G. P. O. and at a number her offices, I understand.

of anything fine in early U. S. or foreign stamps. We can pay more than most because we cater to a limited clientele who are willing to pay us well for de luxe items. If you have a collection to sell, or only a few fine duplicates of the issues from 1847 to 1869, or an accumulation of the issues of 1870 to 1880, send them to us with your spot cash price and you will receive returns promptly. Just now we particularly want singles, pairs, strips of the 10c stamps of 1851 and 1857, either on or off cover, and will pay more than catalog for those we can use. [11

NICARAGUA.—The Metropolitan Stamp Co. submit the following new colors of the 1914 design: 1c plum, 15c brown, and 20c yellow brown.

POLAND.—Our Special Correspondent at Lodz, Mr. H. Berowicz, sends a warning that the "brand new series of postage stamps with inscription 'Na Skarb Narodowy na zakub zlota 1 srebra', chronicled in Stamp Collecting three weeks ago, is absolutely bogus, not having been issued or authorized by the Polish Government. This is the second time during recent months that bogus Polish "stamps" have been circulated, the previous examples being the so-called "Pro Juventute" labels of Poland, which were designed and put on the market by some unscrupulous person in Vienna.

Will all dealers and collectors please note this warning?—Stamp Collecting.

ST. KITTS-NEVIS.—Mr. R. Roberts and the Metropolitan Stamp Co. advises us of the 2½d Peace stamp on script watermarked paper.

SYRIA.—From Messrs. Yvert and Tellier we have news of the new series of Aerial Mail provisionals, comprising the denominations of 2, 3, 5, and 10 piastres, surcharged in the following type:—

Post par Avion
O. M. F.
Syrie
3 PIASTRES

We are assured that the overprinting has been so carefully done that there is not a single error or variety in the sheet.—Postage Stamp.

ZANZIBAR.—Mr. R. Roberts informs us of the following new items for this country: 3c orange, 6c purple on blue, 12c red, 20c deep blue, all on script watermarked paper. Also the 10c green on new yellow paper and 8c purple on the same with multiple CA watermark. The 4c yellow green has already been issued on the new watermarked paper.

MATSUMURO MUSHO WRITES ABOUT COLLECTORS IN GENERAL.

Hon. Editor Phila. Stamp News,
(Who are most intelligently wise.)
Hon. Sir:—

Little Jap Boy are commencing to begin to wonder where Hon. Summer Wages have went to, for Hon. Jack Frost are here.

Minora Obata who are not muchly acquainted with Hon. Philately makes me this Hon. Question ask: Who was first Hon. Collector?

"Oh!", I remark with slight wink, "that are muchly easy. As nearly as little Jap Boy remember Hon. Adam was first Hon. Collector."

"What mostly did Hon. Adam collect?" he ask.

"Hon. Adam was some General Collector," I remark. He collect everything from a to z."

"And Hon. Eve," I continue, "who are come from one spare rib have most fine collection of Hon. Original Covers. Hon. Adam he get jealous and raise muchly Cain, but he wasn't Abel to stop Hon. Eve from making sending for Hon. Scott's Cat at 50c per. Hon. Adam collect Hon. Stamps for 130 years which are some time," I remark.

"Yes it are," say Minora Obata.

"Who was next Hon. Collector?" ask Mr. Obata. (Who are getting muchly interest.)

"The next Most Hon. Collector was Hon. Noah," I remark. "Hon. Noah collect some 600 years by the clock. He was an Hon. Specialist for he collect muchly in pairs, and have one fine complete collection. But little Jap Boy are sorry to hear it. Hon. Noah strain his eyes on 601st birthday looking for Hon. Watermarks so he bust up his Hon. Collection. Little Jap Boy no can tell if Hon. Noah sell Hon. Collection by Auction or to Hon. Stanley Gibbons who are the Power of Broadway.

But little Jap Boy do know, that many Hon. Collectors have follow Hon. Noah's feetsteps. Which are no fat woman's dream.

Hoping your rent are paid in advance,
I remain, Absolutely yours,

ARRANGEMENT OF STAMPS.

By L. H. BRIGHAM.

The arrangement of one's stamps is a great deal like one's dress, purely a matter of individual taste. One of the chief appeals that stamps have for the ordinary individual is their great beauty, color, and shape. This can be increased tenfold by proper and careful arrangement.

If the young collector houses his collection in one of the several varieties of junior albums, special arrangement is impossible owing to the fact that the space allotted to the various countries is altogether too limited. If the standard printed album is used, here again one is prevented from indulging in neat arrangement because of the fact that each space on a page is reserved for a special stamp and the issues follow along in consecutive order according to the date of issue.

For really artistic arrangement the loose-page album is the only thing. Some collectors are of the opinion that only specialists or the advanced collector can use the loose-leaf, blank-page album to advantage. The writer has seen small junior collections made up of complete sets of very cheap stamps which were mounted up in books of this style and which most certainly were a work of art and a joy to gaze upon. Many a non-collector of stamps has had his interest in the subject awakened simply by having sensed the possibilities open for beautiful arrangement after having seen some such simple display as mentioned above.

If one cannot afford to buy one of the many styles of blank-page albums now on the market, a very serviceable album can be made up by using either a spring back or ring binder filled with plain quadruled sheets varying in size from 6x10 to 8½ or 9x11½ or 12 inches. The quadruled ruling, outside of making a splendid background for mounting the stamps, greatly aids in spacing them equal distances apart by simply counting off either so many whole squares or so many squares and a half.

The appearance of one of these pages is greatly enhanced if one is handy with the ruling pen, or, for that matter, even common pen and ink. Plain, attractive borders can be drawn around the outside edges of the page and about each stamp or row of stamps, which in every instance will very plainly set them off and add greatly to the general attractiveness of the page.

The number of stamps in a set varies, as also do the individual sizes of the stamps. The general tendency among the new issues seems to be to have either all of the lower denominations small in size and the higher values larger, or all of the stamps large in size.—The Haversack.

J. M. BARTELS CO., Foreign Department

116 NASSAU STREET, NEW YORK

and four 100 francs each—but none of their designs were utilised.

Having decided on the designs a Royal decree was promulgated announcing that "special postage stamps shall be issued during the International Exhibition to be held at Brussels in 1897" and this was followed by the usual ministerial circular, viz.:—

"Pursuant to the Royal Decree dated October 2, 1896, concerning the issue of special postage stamps during the International Exhibition to be held at Brussels in 1897:—

DECREES:—

Art. 1.—The above-mentioned postage stamps will be inscribed BRUXELLES 1897 BRUSSEL and POSTES—POSTERIJEN. A label will also be attached to them, which will be inscribed NE PAS LIVRER LE DIMANCHE—NIET BESTELLEN OP ZONDAG, and which is intended to be used according to the terms of the first article of our decree dated May 15, 1893.

Art. 2.—The values and colors of the stamps will be as follows:—

5 centimes, violet.
10 centimes, brown.

Art. 3.—The 10 centimes stamps will be issued on October 15, 1896, and the 5 centimes on November 15 next.

BRUSSELS, October 5, 1896.

(Signed) J. VANDENPEEREBOOM."

The dies for both stamps were engraved by Mr. E. Mouchon, of Paris. The design of the 10 centimes, which was the first value to appear, represents, in the foreground, St. Michael the patron saint of Brussels, overcoming the Dragon or His Satanic Majesty. In the background is a perspective of the principal monuments of the capital. Those at the left being the city hall and its tower, then the column of the Congress house, and to the right the Palace of Justice with its fine dome. At the top is "BRUXELLES — BRUSSEL" in fancy letters on an equally fancy tablet, to the right of which is the date 1897, from which hangs a seal containing the Belgian lion. The value is on a prominent disc at lower left and across the bottom is "POSTES—POSTERIJEN". The latter word was apparently spelled "POSTERUEN" and the engraver cut a space out of the left side of the U and thus converted the letter into a rough resemblance of "IJ". Much sarcastic comment was made of this design, one critic asking the name of "the lady in the coalscuttle bonnet and divided skirt" engaged in prodding the gentle-looking individual on the ground.

The 5 centimes value depicts the same episode only in this case St. Michael is shown in a suit of armor trampling on a much defeated dragon. The treatment is entirely different, and though the stamp was not greeted with much enthusiasm, the meaning of the allegory is much more apparent than in the case of the 10c.

The usual Sunday label is attached to both designs, the lettering of the inscriptions on the 5c being in Gothic characters.

The dies are said to have been engraved on wood and the plates represented an entirely new departure for Belgian stamps, for they contained 25 subjects only—five horizontal rows of five. This was probably on account of the unusual size of stamps, making it necessary to perforate them on a special machine. The perforation has the usual guage of 14, and the stamps were on unwatermarked paper.

The color first used for the 10c was purple-brown, and the ink was of aniline composition. This was found to be extremely susceptible to atmospheric influences of when exposed to dampness the color had a bad habit of penetrating any other paper, sometimes to the extent of several thicknesses, near it. Consequently the number of shades is infinite and it is almost impossible to say what was the chosen color. Most collectors have suffered from this stamp discoloring album pages, and other stamps near it. A philatelist, with experimental leanings asserts that if these stamps are dipped into a solution made of 25 grammes of shellac dissolved in 100 grammes of pure alcohol, the aniline die will be "set" and will not then pass on some of its color to other stamps that happen to be near it in a collection.

The attention of the Administration being called to this stamp's shortcomings its color was changed, as shown by the following Special Order:—

"The brown color used for the 2 centimes postage stamp has been adopted for the 10 centimes inscribed BRUXELLES, 1897. Since January 11th the stamp Department has been issuing postage stamps inscribed BRUXELLES, 1897 in the new color, but none of these must be sold at any post-office, until the existing stock on hand of the same stamp in the old color has been disposed of."

The color of the 5 centimes varies hardly at all and there was probably but one printing of this denomination. According to Mr. de Bont the numbers printed were as follows:—

	No. Stamps
5 centimes, deep violet,	6,406,80
10 centimes, purple-brown,	5,493,00
10 centimes, brown,	1,814,00

A minor variety of the 5 centi worthy of mention has a short dash stead of a dot over the "i" of "Niet the Sunday label. This occurred on of the stamps in all the sheets.

These stamps have been reported existing imperforate. Mr. de Bont s that these varieties were never on sal a post-office, but that a few were p sented to certain officials as souvenirs the issue.

The sale of these stamps ceased December 31, 1897, and though t ceased to be valid after that date, public had the privilege of exchang any they might have for regular 5c 10c stamps.

DICTIONARY SUPPLEMENT.

It is our desire to publish in due season a supplement to the Dictionary and it is no doubt probable that by Jan. 1, 1923, there will be sufficient new material to make such a supplement desirable. Without doubt the eyes of keen philatelists will discover many old items that should have been covered. For instance, new history has been made on the Boscawen local, and the definition given in the Dictionary may well be revised. Again, it would have been a good plan to have inserted the meaning of "A29" and similar cancellations on British stamps used abroad. A29 was used in Bath, Jamaica, and a comprehensive dictionary might well include such items.

We frankly confess that the Dictionary as it appears is only the forerunner of a great book to be published in future years. We desire the co-operation our readers in connection with the p posed supplement, and offer three c prizes of $15, $10 and $5 respectiv for the best lists of additions turned by Jan. 1, 1923. We require, howe that there shall be at least ten lists award the first prize, twenty to award second and thirty to award the third.

As you are coming in contact with p atelic terms not covered in the Diction note them where they belong alphal ically. This will be an indication t they should be covered in the supplem to be issued later.

We shall give ample credit for s assistance as may be rendered us in p fecting the book, in which we tak great deal of pride.

CHAPTER XVIII.

Some Color Changes.

Late in 1898, there was a revision some of the inland postal rates, c of which was that after the initial minimum charge of 10 centimes m weight was carried for each additio 10c than had hitherto been the case. the following year the Postal Congr met at Washington, and the differ countries belonging to the Univer Postal Union agreed to use unifo colors for the denominations corresp ing to 5, 10 and 25 centimes. This m a change of color for the then current centimes Belgian stamp, and on Janu 1, 1900, it appeared in the proper P Union color of carmine. During the f years this value was current, many pri ings were made, according Mr. de Bont, a total of 486,000,000 stam

As the new color for the 10 centim was deemed likely to lead to confus with the 1 franc, it was decided to is the higher denomination in orange, a while changes were the order of the the tinted paper hitherto used for two franc denomination was dispen with. A Decree was published annou ing the change as follows:—

"The Minister of Railways, Po and Telegraphs

DECREES:—

The 1 and 2 francs postage stam shall in future be printed on white toned paper, in orange and lilac resp tively. Brussels, March 31, 1900.

(Signed) J. LIEBAERT."

Mr. de Bont says there were f printings of the 1 franc producing total of 270,000 stamps, and three of two francs with a total of 140,000 stam

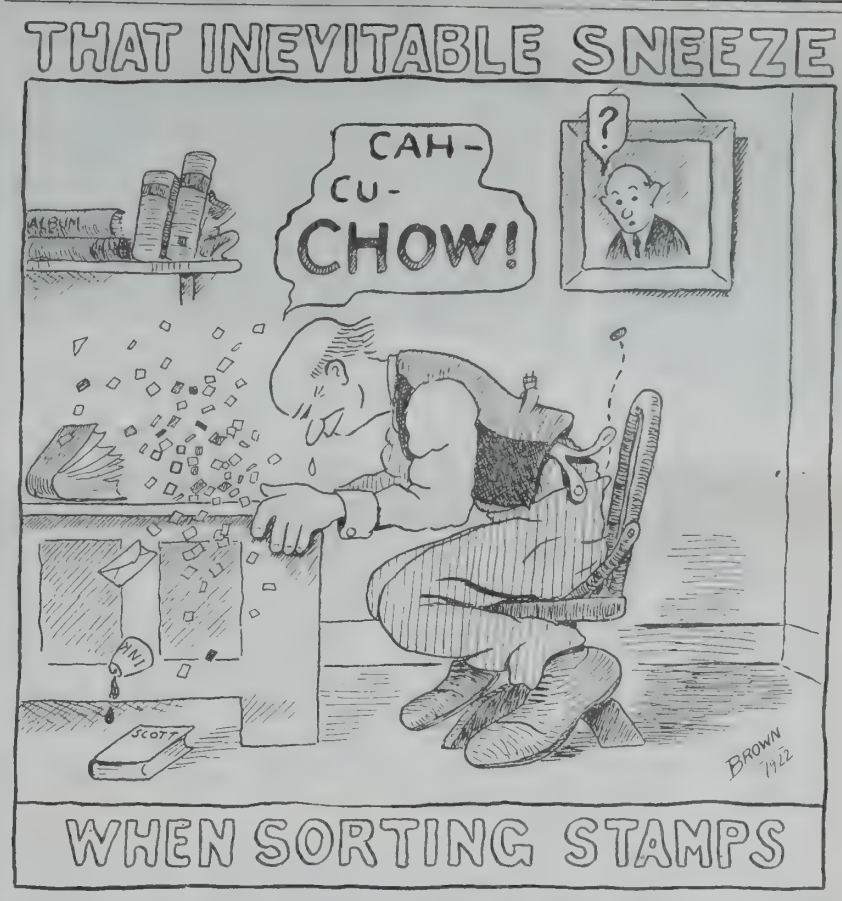
THE RED-HAIRED LITTLE FAIRY.

By CHARLES H. BALL, Buffalo, N. Y.

It was a beautifully bright summer afternoon in August, and as I sat in a comfortable armchair in the waterside pavilion at Cedar Point, it certainly seemed good to be there, to be away from the tedium of the class-room, and to find myself in an environment of nature and of care-free persons enjoying their holiday to the full. It was grateful, too, to be fanned by the gentle breezes from the lake. Nor did I find it at all disagreeable to watch the bathers disporting themselves in such numbers in the warm waters of old Erie, or upon the smooth, clean sands along its shores.

I must admit that the surroundings were quite unfamiliar, if entirely congenial. My work as assistant professor of psychology at Corinthian University, an institution not so well known perhaps, as it should be, and somewhat circumscribed in its activities for lack of adequate funds, had kept me withdrawn to a great extent from mixed society and from scenes of gayety. A slight feeling of regret over the rather prosy life I had been living hitherto, and a like feeling, not akin to a yearning, filled my mind as I realized that while one of the crowd here assembled I was not, in a sense, a part of it.



My reverie, or fit of introspection, was interrupted suddenly by the remark of a man sitting beside me, evidently addressed to myself.

"They are all having a pretty swell time of it today, aren't they?"

The speaker was a good-looking young fellow, and of apparent breeding and social position, so I momentarily decided that a brief conversation between us might be somewhat diverting.

As our talk continued he indulged in various confidences.

"That red-haired little fairy in the green bathing suit is the daughter of old Judge Harrison, of Belmont," he said. "He is one of the smartest men in the state. It's a funny thing, but he has one particular hobby he is daffy over. He's a postage stamp collector; has one of the finest collections in the country. Mostly old varieties, I understand. I suppose he's spent a fortune on old stamps. Why, they say—"

I did not catch the entire burden of his remarks, for at the moment I was struck forcibly by a rubber ball, which knocked my straw hat from my head and over into the sand. I climbed over the rail of the pavilion to recover my headpiece, no little disturbed by the accident, which focused many eyes upon me.

Turning about, I saw before me a young woman, none other than the "red-haired little fairy," — the description being in the terms of my young man acquaintance, although I must admit it to have been apropos.

"I'm so sorry to have made such a wild throw," she said, and the expression of her countenance, and the contrite tone, banished all petulance from my mood.

"It was but an accident, a trifling one, I assure you, I pray you to forget it, Miss—Miss Harrison."

Her face expressed curiosity, if I have my psychology mastered. As she returned to her game of ball upon the beach I saw her conversing briefly with another young lady. They both glanced in my direction and the glances of the second young woman seemed to indicate displeasure. I was not conscious of giving offense. To have offended the "little fairy" would have pained me, indeed. I now saw the analogy in the fairy-like movements of her limbs as she entered wholeheartedly into the tossing and catching of the ball. Already, I presumed, she had forgotten me entirely.

"I was saying that old Judge Harrison is an inveterate stamp collector," resumed my young man acquaintance, as I reseated myself beside him. "They say he

BLANK LOOSE LEAF ALBUM

We have tried for a number of years to perfect an album to supply the varied needs of collectors, and we have at last succeeded in producing the finest loose leaf album on the market. NO NAME OR ADVERTISING ON THIS BOOK.

It is finely half bound in morocco leather and comes in three colors, red, dark green or dark blue. It is neatly decorated with gold, which makes it a fine and rich appearing album. The pages contained therein are of the best quality of linen paper, with quadrilled lined background. They have the finest gold edge and will not tarnish. Each page is linen hinged and when open the leaves lie flat. The binder is patent peg style, which is a vast improvement over the spring back. Each page is interleaved with a glossy tissue sheet for the protection of the stamps. There is a front and back fly leaf for the protection of the pages. A felt lined box to match the color of the binder is furnished with each album.

This album is made in two sizes.

Binder size 10¼x10¾ inches contains 50 leaves size 8½x10¼ inches. The quadrill lined background for mounting is 7x8½ inches. The price of this size album as above described is $11.50 postage or express extra, additional leaves are 12c each. Binder alone $5.50 with box.

Binder size 13¾x14¾ inches contains 40 pages size 12x14 inches. This book is especially adapted for mounting complete sheets, blocks, covers, etc. The quadrille lined background for mounting is 10½x12½ inches. This album exactly as above is priced at $14.50 expressage extra, additional leaves are 20c each. Binder alone $6.50 with box.

Note—Each Binder will accommodate 5 to 10 more leaves than noted above.

gave $1,000 for a stamp just the other day. What do you think of that?"

"Well," I responded, "if he has abundant means, I see little, if any harm in it. It is a curious fact that mankind seems to find some sort of avocation desirable, outside the regular scheme of money-making pursuit. I myself have found pleasure in the pursuit of languages, of unravelling the hidden mysteries of unknown tongues. That may be accounted for, I think, by inheritance, for my father, who was the son of a missionary to the Hawaiian Islands, was a deep student of languages. He was—"

I proceeded no further, as the young man had risen unceremoniously from his chair and had placed his hand upon my shoulder.

"Hawaii, did you say?" he eagerly queried. "And did he ever have any of those old missionary postage stamps? They are worth fortunes, and, what's more, that's the very country old Judge Harrison is most interested in."

I never allow myself to become excited, or, at any rate, to display warmth or urgency of feeling. My mind, however, was in a strange state of exaltation.

Concealing my thoughts, I spoke, with assumed nonchalance.

"Will you kindly advise me, Mr. Salters," for that was the name he had given as his own, whether you enjoy the acquaintance of this young lady, Miss Harrison?"

"Sure thing," he replied. "We live in the same block."

"In that case," I persisted, "would you introduce me to her. I assure you I am what I purport to be, a man of some education, of good habits, not schooled in social rules and formalities, it is true, but nevertheless a gentleman."

"I can tell that from the cut of your talk," he responded. "I'll be happy to make you acquainted."

It was with no little feeling of trepidation that I approached Miss Harrison and the group about her. When a formal introduction was over, I spoke as follows, or in words which approximate these:

"Miss Harrison, my grandfather was a missionary. The mere fact may not interest you, but when I elucidate you will find my story relates, though indirectly, to yourself."

My ears seemed to detect suppressed laughter near us. Miss Harrison was blushing. That I should be placing her in any sort of embarrassing predicament was most distressing to myself.

"Can we not walk a little apart from the others?" I queried.

She assented, and in that walk I told her of my grandfather's struggles as a missionary, of my father's career in mercantile life, of my own work as a college teacher. In the end I informed her that I had some of the early Hawaiian postage stamps and that these I should be pleased to turn over to her father. I begged permission to wait upon him at his home.

That was our first walk together, but not our last. Hortense, for that is her beautiful name, is now my wife. Few things, outside the society of my wife, please me more than the company of my father-in-law. He talks most volubly of cancellations, blocks of four, and other matters in which he takes deep interest. I fear I cannot always share his enthusiasm over stamps, but when he speaks of "first issues," then, indeed, his talk stirs my soul into reverie.

PORTUGAL.

The Companhia Portugueza de Navegacaco Aeria, it is reported, intends to open a regular Air Mail Service between Lisbon and Paris, shortly, with intermediary landings at Castello-Branco, Valladolid and Bordeaux. The Portuguese Government has, it is stated, placed the main airdromes and various intermediary landing grounds on Portuguese territory at the disposal of the company gratis, and has promised that these grounds shall pass into the possession of the company in five years' time. The working capital of the undertaking is stated to be two million escudos. The following lines are projected: Lisbon — Sines — Faro, Lisbon, Pannilhosa — Opporto, Lisbon — Portalegre — Madrid. The regular Portuguese postage stamps will be overprinted Correios Aeria Portugueza and in various new values to cover the excess charged for air mail delivery.

Written for MEKEEL'S WEEKLY.

BRITISH VIRGIN ISLANDS, 1913.

By HARRY E. HUBER.

Just as the British Virgin Islands were late in bringing out their King Edward series of stamps, issued on June 1st, 1904, so there was delay in connection with their King George series, which did not make appearance until February, 1913. The new series of stamps was advised by the Federal Executive Council of the Leeward Islands, but no formal Order in Council was made.

The design of the new series is the same as that of the series it replaced, being printed from De La Rue's "Postage & Revenue" keyplate, in the 1888 design (originally containing the head of Queen Victoria, but subsequently altered in 1901 and 1911, on the accession of King Edward VII, and King George V, respectively). Two keyplates were made up in this design, with the head of King George V, one producing sheets of 120 stamps (2 panes of 60 stamps), and the other sheets of 240 stamps (4 panes of 60 stamps), both being numbered 1. For the stamps of the British Virgin Islands, the latter plate was used, i. e., producing sheets of 240 stamps, 4 panes of 60 stamps (10 horizontal rows of 6), separated by a plain gutter, with plate number 1 over the 2nd and 5th stamps of the first horizontal row of the upper left and right panes, and under the corresponding stamps in the lower row of the lower left and right panes. In other words, the lower margin of the two upper panes was without plate number marking, and similarly, the upper margin of the two lower panes. Surrounding each pane is a marginal line, not continuous as for the King Edward series, but broken at each line of perforation, to overcome trouble at press from air pressure in inking.

Before the overprint plate impression was added, these sheets of 240 stamps were cut into Post Office sheets of 120, and for the British Virgin Islands, as for the Cayman Islands 1d, 4d and 6d issued in the same month (February 25, 1913, to be exact), only the lower halves were overprinted. Therefore, plate 1 appears only in the lower margin, under the 2nd and 5th stamps in the lower row of the left and right panes respectively.

The series consists of nine values, as for the previous series, and the same duty plates were used. On all values the name of the Presidency is in colored letters; on the 2d, 3d, 1s and 2s6d the figures and letters of the value tablet are in color enclosed in a thin hexagonal frame, while on the other values, they are colorless on a solid ground of color.

The stamps were printed on mulitiple Crown CA watermarked paper (chalk surfaced for 3d and above), in colors agreeing with the Crown Agents' color scheme. The perforation is comb 14 for all values.

The revenue for the Presidency for 1913-14 (£7335), greatly exceeded that for the previous year (£4795), and was occasioned, as the Commissioner explained in his annual report, by the abnormal sales of postage stamps of the new series, to collectors and dealers, and also to the bringing forward of cotton sales belonging to the previous year. However, in the following year, 1914-15, there was a marked decline, when the revenue fell to £4905, occasioned by smaller sales of postage stamps, and to the confiscation of cotton held at Hamburg at the outbreak of the war.

In January, 1916, the ½d exhausted, and a new printing in blue green was received in the following August. In the interim, the ½d Leeward Islands stamp was used exclusively for this value.

February, 1913.—King George, Postage & Revenue watermarked multiple Crown CA, comb perf. 14. Plate 1 (2 lower panes from 240 plate).

the plate number in the usual positions, four times to the sheet.

October, 1917.—Plate 5.

½d and 1d Plate 6, 1919.

Plate 5 becoming worn, it was replaced by plate 6, also 120-stamp plate, producing sheets with four controls, in the same positions as for plate 5. The stamps of this consignment, received in March, 1919, are quite different in shade to those of previous printings.

March, 1919.—Plate 6.
½d blue green and deep green.
1d carmine red.

½d Plate 8, 1920.

In March, 1920, another printing of ½d stamps was received, this time from plate 8, which also produced sheets of 120 stamps, with the plate number appearing four times to the sheet, in the usual positions.

March, 1920.—Plate 8.

½d and 1d, Plate 10, Script Watermarked—1921.

The dandy roll used to manufacture the watermarked papers used for Colonial Postage and Revenue stamps, becoming worn, it was replaced early in 1920, by one "bearing an Imperial Crown and the letters CA (Crown Agents) in script capitals." At first only white and blue papers were made up with this new watermark, pending exhaustion of old stocks of the yellow, green and red papers.

The first stamps to be printed on white paper with the script watermark were the 1d and 2½d of Bermuda's first Legislative Tercentenary series, issued at Hamilton, on November 11, 1920; the new blue paper was first used for the 2s of Barbados' small Arms design series, issued at Bridgetown, on November 14, 1921.

The script lettering of the watermark is similar to that introduced in 1912 for the Georgian stamps of Great Britain, while the Victorian Tudor Crown gives way to the Edwardian Imperial Crown.

In June, 1921, the Crown Agents announced that supplies of ½d and 1d for the British Virgin Islands, were being printed on the new watermarked paper, from plate 10—plate 8 having been condemned and destroyed in 1920.

During the summer of 1921, these stamps on the script watermarked paper were released to London stamp dealers by the Crown Agents, but the stamps did not reach Tortola until November, and were issued on the 18th of that month. The requisition was not a large one "and dealers' requirements to the extent of one half the requisition have already been received through the Crown Agents". (Aug. 29, 1921.)

The paper is thin, and the colors much brighter than previous printings. The stamps are in sheets of 120 stamps, 2 panes of 60, with the plate number 10 in the lower margin only, under the 2nd and 5th stamps of the left and right panes, respectively.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

Under this heading we desire to publish all the news from the various philatelic centers. Correspondents' names will be given unless prohibited, as we desire to give full credit for services rendered.

—E. Paimann, 25 W. 42 St., N. Y. City, would like to know the present whereabouts of Charles Ninasky, formerly at 212 E. 22 St., Chicago Heights, Ill. He has moved and "left no address."

—A subscriber suggests that we publish a check list of script watermarks. In the incipient stages of the lives of these stamps we were able to do this and may attempt it again. The list has now become so extended as to consume a great deal of space. Possibly we can profit in the near future by the industry of some collector who is interested in these issues.

—Benj. Cadbury calls our attention to a story entitled "Strawberries and Stamps" in the Youth's Companion for June 22. The philatelic feature deals with the use of stamps for money in 1864.

—"I am the author of the Lockport stamp article, which has the place of honor in your this week's issue, and which was reprinted by you from the Buffalo Evening News. I feel complimented at your kind editorial remarks in reference to the article, and wish to say that I am one of your subscribers and a constant and appreciative reader, who finds your reading matter entertaining and enlightening and your advertising columns seductive. I read the ads over one by one and find them all tempting.—Charles H. Ball.

—The Alaskans want a memorial postage stamp to commemorate the visit of President Harding this summer. The probability is that they will get a postmark.

—The June number of Linn's Stamp News is a 16-page publication. Its reading matter is interesting but attention must be attracted to the fine line of stamp bargains crowded into its pages.

—Edwin Mooers sends for our inspection the 1c yellow perf. 8 sidewise coil new issue Canada.

—L. W. Prentice of Philadelphia sends us a detailed account of the doings of the stamp club connected with the Germantown High School of Philadelphia. We do not have the space to print these reports but recognize the splendid activities of this club, in which Mr. Prentice is a leading factor.

—The Precancel Club of America, organized one year ago, now boasting 125 members, is to hold its first annual convention at Denver, Colorado. The date, August 1, 2 and 3. For precancel collectors or others mildly interested, a good time is assured, by the Denver collectors.—V. W. Rotnem.

—James D. Havens has designed and the Gossip Print has printed a handsome philatelic gift card advertised elsewhere in this issue. A sample has been submitted for our inspection and we cordially recommend that the invitation to send for a sample be accepted.

—J. A. Smith, after reading the experiences of F. L. Applegate and others regarding mounting stamps, sends us a specimen of his style of mounting accompanied by the following description:—"Bend one-third of hinge down and attach this one-third to stamp slightly below perforation. Moisten lower half of the remaining two-thirds of hinge and attach to album page, at the same time centering stamp in ruled space. If it is required to see back, same can be done by drawing stamp toward bottom of page thereby making a crease in hinge just above where attached to page. Stamp can then be turned over on lower fold exposing back for examination. If this is not done too frequently, stamp will always lie flat to page, be correctly located in space, look neat, with no danger of damage to stamp."

TO BE AT SPRINGFIELD.

The following have expressed their intention of being at the Springfield convention of the A. P. S.:—

Mr. and Mrs. Wendover Neefus, Hudson, N. Y.
A. W. Batchelder, Salem, Mass.
Willard O. Wylie, Beverly, Mass.
J. W. Sampson, N. Y. City.
Mrs. L. W. Kellogg, West Hartford, Conn.
Charles E. Severn, Chicago, Ill.
Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Jewett, Portland, Me.

If you plan to attend write the Weekly to that effect.

The next discontinuance of subscriptions will concern all subscribers whose wrappers bear the numbers 1644 to 1648 inclusive. Just glance at your wrapper immediately in order to make sure that your subscription is paid up. You have ample time in which to renew and be saved the inconvenience of a discontinance. Moreover, under our new system we are making no plans for furnishing back numbers and subscribers must not expect that we can supply back numbers when we have made every effort to notify them.

We are satisfied that the system we have inaugurated is the only one under which a newspaper can do business these days, and subscribers must understand that free copies of the Weekly will not be sent to those who are in arrears.

OUR BOOK REVIEW.

Some two weeks ago Mr. Ward, our Washington correspondent, reviewed at length the Stanley Gibbons Catalog, Part 2, American Edition. We hardly need to supplement what was written excepting to give editorial endorsement to a remarkably strong catalog.

Various countries have been revised or rewritten and this is especially true of the United States, France, Hayti and Sicily. The publishers pay a fine tribute to the philatelic literature of the United States and compliment Dr. Chase and Messrs. Ashbrook, Stevenson, Jacobs, Owen and Perry for their labors in research. The special attention given to United States stamps by the publishers of the catalog and their assurance that they are prepared to go still further in meeting the needs of U. S. specialists will be warmly appreciated.

In the descriptive matter, notes and general information scattered throughout this work the collector will find a tremendous amount of data. Price $2.40, obtainable from the publishers, Stanley Gibbons Ltd., 391 Strand, London, England.

THE POSTAGE STAMPS OF BELGIUM.

By BERTRAM W. H. POOLE.

CHAPTER XIX.

The Last of the Leopold Stamps.

In 1901 there were rumours that an entirely new set of stamps bearing King Leopold's portrait were to be issued. One writer stated "The new type is quite different from that of the preceding issues. It is extremely simple, and is wanting in all the many details with which the designs of many of the later Belgian stamps have been overwhelmed. It is composed of a few clean-cut lines, and the King's portrait is very striking. New methods have been followed in making the die." Nothing more was heard of the matter until 1905, when it was decided to mark the seventy-fifth anniversary of Belgium's Independence by issuing a new series of stamps comprising values from 10 centimes to 2 francs.

A Royal decree was promulgated, authorising the "new designs bearing Our Portrait" and this was followed by a Ministerial decree given the colors and values it was proposed to issue, viz.:—

"Pursuant to the Royal Decree of March 25, 1905, ordering the issue of postage stamps of 10 centimes and upwards in new designs

DECREES:—

Art. 1.—The Postage stamps shall be provided with a detachable label inscribed "NE PAS LIVRER LE DIMANCHE—NIET BESTELLEN OP ZONDAG," the use of which is set forth in a Ministerial Decree dated May 15, 1893.

Art. 2.—The values and colors of the said postage stamps will be as follows:—

25 centimes, blue.
35 centimes, red-brown.
50 centimes, grey.
1 franc, orange.
2 francs, lilac.

Art. 3.—The 20, 25 and 35 centimes stamps will be the first three values of the new set to be issued; they will be placed on sale on May 1st next.

BRUSSELS, April 15, 1905.

(Signed) J. LIEBAERT."

Other notices and orders to postmasters were published, pointing out that the old stamps were to continue in use until all stocks were exhausted, and that in the meantime the new ones were only to be given out when specially asked for. Furthermore, it was absolutely forbidden to sell any of the stamps in the new design until the official date of issue as set forth in the above quoted decree.

Later decrees fixed the dates of issue for the other denominations as follows:—

10 centimes,	June 1st, 1905.
50 centimes	July 21st, 1905.
1 franc,	July 21st, 1905.
2 francs,	July 21st, 1905.

The designs all show an excellent portrait of King Leopold II in military uniform, looking to left, on a ground of solid color. The portrait is the same for all values, but on the 25 centimes it is on a larger scale than on any of the others. On the 10c, 20c and 35c denominations, the portrait is on a circular medallion, while on the 50c, 1 and 2 francs it is within an upright rectangle. Each value has a distinctive frame, as shown in the accompanying illustrations, and on these, with the exception of the 25c, either oak or laurel leaves form the chief parts of the ornamentation.

The designs were all drawn by Mr. Henri Meunier and he also engraved the dies, his name being shown in minute capitals below the lower frame on each stamp. The Sunday label is now quite distinct from the stamps proper, the narrow space between design and label being entirely devoid of ornamentation. The two lines of inscription are merely enclosed by a thin frame line and the letters are thinner and slightly taller than before. There is, thus, more space between the frame lines at the sides and the lettering, and it will be noted that there are no periods at the ends of the two inscriptions.

The plates, presumably, were of the 300 format divided into six panes of fifty stamps each, as in the case of the preceding series.

The stamps were all surface printed, as usual, on white wove unwatermarked paper, and they were perforated by the 14 comb-machine.

The 25 centimes is known entirely imperforate.

There were quite a number of printings of most of the values, consequently variations in shade are to be found on all of them. New printings made in 1909 were all in considerably brighter tints than those previously issued.

REFERENCE LIST.

1905. Designed and engraved by Henri Meunier. No. Wmk. Perf. 14.

THE FUN OF STAMP COLLECTING.

(Clipping Fall River (Mass.) News.)

e collecting of stamps used to be ognized hobby of Young America. e are a few collectors in Boydom but they are the exception, and he rule. But when Dad was a boy he "fellers" were busy at it, and ad albums. Dad and his mates busy most of the winter begging, g and—sometimes—buying stamps. when the automobile came in, when g pictures became common, when, ct the old went out and the new , stamp collecting became almost a rt to the boys.

w the New York Philatelic Society, sed of adults who take philately seriously, is going to try to revive terest of the youth of the country e sport of the Nineties. It is as is about its intentions as it is about hing else it does—and ponderous, and dull talk is going to scare the away from stamps. "Stamp colg is educational historical and of aphical importance," according to resident of this New York society. w, we submit, this is not the talk use enthusiasm among the young s. They are preached at, admonand charged to do this, that and ther. If they are to be re-interin stamps they must be approached different lines. Dad and his collected stamps, and got all the s as side lines. They collected for re joy of collecting. If the New collectors want to do something will really revive the interest in collecting, let them tell the boys fun of the hobby.

the way not to do it is to make collecting look like work. Tell ys about the fun. The rest will care of itself.

BERMUDA POSTMARKS.

By BENEDICT PRIETH.

So many readers of your paper have been writing to me about Bermuda postmarks, that I simply cannot answer all of them, or even one-quarter of them. It therefore occurred to me that possibly you might be willing to publish a short article on this subject, thus enabling me to kill several thousand birds with one stone, as it were.

All told, there are 18 Post Offices in Bermuda and their names are as follows: Bailey's Bay, Devonshire North, Devonshire South, Flatts, Hamilton, Harrington Sound, Ireland Island, Mangrove Bay, Paget East, Paget West, St. George's, St. George's West, Somerset Bridge, Southampton East, Southampton West, The Crawl, Warwick East and Warwick West. I have enumerated them in alphabetical order, but when we consider the list from the standpoint of relative importance, it has to be arranged quite differently. Hamilton, being the capital of Bermuda, is quite naturally the most important town in the islands. St. George's comes next. It is the ancient capital and here lies the body of Sir John Somers, who first settled the islands and after whom they were formerly called Somers' Islands. St. George's is rapidly regaining some of its former importance, although it is very doubtful whether it will ever catch up with Hamilton, where most of the large hotels, shops and banks are located. After St. George's I would place Ireland Island, at the very mouth of Hamilton Harbor, or rather Grassy Bay, as that part of the harbor is called. Here is where the British Naval Station is located, and by reason of the large number of naval workers resident there and the constant arrival of British Naval vessels, the post office there does a very good business. After Ireland Island comes the two Pagets, then Mangrove Bay, Bailey's Bay, Somerset Bridge, the two Devonshires, the two Warwicks, the two Southamptons, Flatts, Harrington Sound, St. George's West and lastly, the Crawl.

I think I am safe in saying that I have handled upward of 1,000,000 used Bermuda stamps, and in my opinion the postmark of the Crawl is the scarcest of all. Of every 100 stamps about 75 bear the Hamilton postmark, 5 that of St. George's, and the rest scattering. I do not believe that more than one The Crawl postmark will be found among every 2-3,000 stamps examined.

The student of Bermuda postmarks will no doubt wish to collect the old numeral obliterations, but here is where I throw up my hands and admit myself stumped. All the light I can shed on this subject is that I have the numerals from 1 to 16, and the Hamilton postmark bore the number 1, and St. George's the number 2. Beyond these bare facts my knowledge does not extend, although I believe that Ireland Island was number 3. Perhaps some of your readers can supply the desired information. A complete set of the current postmarks of Bermuda adds very much to the interest of a collection of the stamps of these lovely islands, and while possibly of no great intrinsic worth, will give the patient collector much pleasure. Current low value issues can be bought very cheaply by the hundred, and no doubt duplicate postmarks can be readily exchanged with other interested collectors. I would advise the acquisition of current stamps on pieces of the envelope, as in this state the postmarks can be most easily made out.

A CONFEDERATE STATES "HANDBILL"

SHOWING THE PRECARIOUS POSITION OF RICHMOND, VA. IN 1864.

By EDWARD S. KNAPP.

We know that early in 1864, owing to the fear that Richmond would be captured, a contract to print stamps from the Archer & Daly plates was entered into with Keatinge & Ball, of Columbia, S. C., and the plates were sent to Columbia.

The following handbill explains very clearly why Richmond was in such grave danger, and is of distinct historical interest:

"Charlottesville, June 30, 1864.

The undersigned with others have received from the authorities in Richmond, a circular telling us that in consequence of the interruption of our Southern Lines of Transportation, General Lee's army is short of supplies; and appealing to us to work Night and Day to forward to Richmond every peck of Corn and other grain (but especially Corn) which it is possible to furnish. The danger is most pressing. If our army, and especially our cavalry, cannot be fed for the next thirty days, Richmond, and with it Virginia, must be given up. We entreat you, therefore, to go to work. Appeal to your neighbors. Implore them as they value all that men hold dear—to send to the nearest depot Immediately every peck of corn, wheat, rye, or oats, within their control.

It is not worth while to say We Have None To Spare. If Gen. Lee be compelled to give up Virginia, All We Have Falls into the hands of the enemy; and the simple question is, shall we quietly surrender to them, or send it to our brave defenders, to enable them to hold their present position? If they can do so for the next thirty days, the new wheat crop will be in, and the Government is confident all will be well.

Let every man send what he has Forthwith, whether he can load a wagon, or a cart, or a horse or Carry His Offering In a Basket. The Government will return all, or pay for it, if we prefer that.

I also have the "circular from the authorities in Richmond," described in this handbill. It is from the War Department of the Confederate States, is dated "June 26, 1864" and is signed "James A. Seddon, Secretary of War."

EDITORIAL.

Aegis—The height of fame for philately has been reached in London during the past month and the newspapers of the world's metropolis do all honor to the occasion of the Exhibition of Rare Stamps held under the auspices of the Royal Philatelic Society on June 1st and June 2nd, at its rooms on Chandos Street. His Majesty, the King of England, visited the display and spent an hour inspecting the superb stamps; and moreover, he loaned from his collection selected copies of stamps of highest merit. The King's showing included fine things in Australian stamps with the inverted swan, four pence of the first issue of Western Australia and the four pence of the same issue with the word "Australia" in letters much smaller than ordinarily and of this stamp it is said that there is but one other copy extant. It is needless to say that the exhibition presented the classics in brave number and that to the confirmed philatelist, the showing was one that will never be forgotten. On the first day, only members of the society were allowed to examine the stamps but on the second day, it was open to all upon "presentation of a visiting card." We rejoice that King George's patronage of philately is an active one and that his interest in stamps is genuine.

Abler—While on the other side, something is to be said about the programme of the Ninth Philatelic Congress of Great Britain that was held at Bath on June 19th to June 23rd, inclusive. The calendar is a decidedly attractive one and it makes an impression on us. Six papers are entered and the order of other business is definitely arranged. We notice that "Re-entries: their Occurrence, Characteristics, and Importance," will be illustrated with lantern slides. The interpolations, "music and light refreshments"; "adjournment for tea"; "evening dress," etc., lead to the belief that "congresses" of England are rather more formal than the conventions of America but on the count of earnest endeavor, recent conventions of our American Philatelic Society have set an enviable standard.

Alarm—We have been deluged with Brisbane criticisms of philately as well as the "Inexplicable and Yet Undeniable" editorial from the New York Times of June 16: and we find that some of our correspondents are unduly exercised over these contradictions. Neither of the critics, able as they are in given lines, has the Samsonic strength to topple over the temple of philately. While many subjects glow under the Brisbane scrutiny and of the Times' man as well, their trenchant pens are dulled by philately. They have as much knowledge of philately as a blood-sweating behemoth has of Colley Cibber. Again, it is not unflattering that philately has grown to that estate where it attracts the attention of writers who write only on subjects that appeal supposedly to a considerable number of people. The fact is that as stamp collecting becomes more engrafted into the life of the times, the more critical will be the comments from some quarters upon it and its followers.

Aside—Here is real life. We have received a clipping from Mr. G. B. Sloane telling how John Lester Andrew Gagnon, "prominent philatelist of Staten Island" has entered the Evening World freckles contest and that if he wins he "will invest his prize money in stamps." The World pauses in its mad pace to say: "Young John Gagnon, in other words, is a stamp collector. His home is at No. 73 York Avenue, Brighton, and he is eleven years old. 'I began my collection of stamps' John says, 'in July of last year and now have more than 1,500. Most of the countries and most of the subdivisions of the world are represented.' John says he got freckles without collecting. He thinks they're a kind of stamp." We hope John wins the $25; anyway, we shall send him a few stamps.

Aided—We have received a number of letters on the problem of insurance on stamps that was propounded several weeks ago. There are a number of collectors who have had trouble in getting insurance on their albums. However, from Mr. B. K. Miller, Wild Rose, Waushara Co., Wisconsin, comes the definite statement: "On my United States collection, I carry a Lloyds (of London) policy for $45,000 against fire, theft and burglary in any situation. Rate 1% per annum."

Again—We have spoken of the dash of philately that was served by Aldous Huxley in his clever Chrome Yellow and now we have to record another reference to our pursuit in Mr. Huxley's "Socratic Dialogues of the Moment," in a recent number of Vanity Fair. Steatocephalus, a newspaper editor whose ambition is to make his Daily Firelight "so human" unbosoms himself to Evander, a man in the street, to the effect that newspaper readers seek to keep their minds occupied "while not subjecting them to the slightest strain or fatigue" or for the same reason that they go to the movies or hearken unto brass bands "or collect postage stamps." We have no quarrel with the grandson of the great Huxley for this observation; it is no mean fate to provide occupation for, let us say, a fairly inteiligent mind without causing brain-fag.

Apply—Now that we are supposed to be in the off-season of philately, we believe that collectors should give thought to the formulating of plans for their progress during the coming season, which will be upon us almost before we know it. It may be remarked that many philatelists who are seriously engaged in their collections on the score of the investment of money have not adopted definite lines on which to build their collections. Finally, they will be driven into the proper channels while now they sail about at will but with no destination in mind. When decision may no longer be delayed, these collectors will find that they have on hand some little surplusage in the shape of stamps for disposal, as being outside their field of endeavor. It is best that the collector does not have many stamps to market as it takes patience and some time to sell miscellaneous lots of stamps with fair results. The wiser course to take is one that will keep the number rejected stamps at a minimum and in order to achieve this end, it is necessary to plan the scope of activity beforehand. There is now so great a wealth of material at hand and so many angles to collecting that some sort of system in collecting is highly advisable. At first when every philatelic prospect pleases, it is difficult to align ideas but the collector who early in his career decides upon his advance will find himself least encumbered for the long march.

CORRESPONDENCE FROM CHINA.

By E. G. YOUNG, Shanghai.

My last communique dealt with the Three-portrait commemorative set. All of the values were supplied in reasonable quantities, and it was possible to get about all you wanted, though at times there was a sharp shortage of one or other varieties, especially the one cent. It was amusing to go into the general post office and watch the scramble—I suppose that this issue brought out a lot of money hidden in socks (only that isn't the way they do it here—some day I shall tell you how!) as I saw rickshaw coolies buying them in sheets. The Hsuan Tung (Temple of Heaven) issue went the same way, with the result that sheets in mint condition may be bought at face and sometimes below, as, of course, the stamps are demonetized. I think the three-head set will be commoner ten years from now than it is today. The present price is double face, with used and unused equal in value. We also suffer from the fact that "cancelled by complacence" stamps are always present when used stamps are at a premium. It is no trouble at all to obtain special cancellation, and I have recently heard of a case of a subordinate P. O. setting its canceller date back to Nov. 11, 1921, (the date of issue) and "chopping" a lot of these stamps for a buyer.

This is true of the air-mail service. The air stamps were withdrawn about the middle of September, but an ever increasing crop of "air mail covers" appears. In most cases, the important fact is neglected that the cover must bear regular stamps to the full value of the postal service rendered in addition to the special air stamps. Real bona-fide covers are very difficult to find. Foreigners, in general, here lay the Chinese airmail "splurge" to the desire to obtain a lot of airplanes and trained flyers which would be useful for military operations, and the pressure of the sellers and others along the line of "peaceful purposes only" proved a great discouragement. As far as I can learn the history of the airmail was as follows:

Flights were begun (from Peking to Tsinanfu only—the service never reached Shanghai) July 1st.

Service suspended by notification July 10th.

Resumed July 18th.

Suspended August 5th.

Resumed again? (I do not think so.)

Finally suspended and stamps withdrawn Sept. 23.

The suspension notices in each case were issued after a day or two had elapsed without a flight, due to lack of equipment or machines out of repair. There should have been six flights a week, leaving the termini alternate days—in this way the maximum number of flights was about twenty-five; however, I doubt if half that number were actually made successfully. Mail carried on unsuccessful flights was forwarded by train, and arrived in Shanghai from eight to twenty days after mailing.

Speaking again of the three-portrait series, they received the usual Sinkiang Province (Chinese Turkestan) overprint. This is made necessary by the fact that Singkiang money is depreciated considerably, and this surcharging is the only way to prevent speculation. The Japanese methods are strongly suggested by this overprinting, as only two or three thousand of the ten cent were surcharged. These accordingly bring a price of two or three dollars today, while the other three bring about a dollar.

In the March 18th issue, Mr. Ward's ad—long life to him and his chronicle of U. S.—has an amusing misstatement of the conditions under which Shanghai on U. S. surcharges are sold. Now I read Mr. Ward's and Mr. Perry's ads with as much interest as the reading matter, and do not like to see misinformation go abroad. The Chinese dollar reaching a high point would simply by that much more enhance the profits on the sale of the stamps. The Chinese dollar reaching a low point is what takes the stamps off sale: for example, if a silver dollar were worth forty cents gold, the U. S. P. O. would be compelled to carry a letter from Shanghai to Washington or Portland for less than the U. S. letter rate. Hence, when the "Mex" dollar reaches 50c the stamps are taken off sale, and only unsurcharged stamps sold for United States money, which can be obtained at any exchange shop. So far, the history of the stamps is as follows:

On sale from date of issue (late in 1919) until about January 1, 1921.

Off sale until October first.

On sale till March 1, 1922.

Off sale about two weeks, and now on sale. The present value of the silver dollar is fifty-five cents and it is inclined to rise to a higher level due to the present political conditions,—so the stamps will remain on sale.

Personally I should think that the Shanghai stamps purchased in Washington would have exactly the same flavor as French Colonials from Paris. Probably the used stamps on the covers will far overtop the unused in value, and they surely deserve to. We are curious as to the change to be made in the surcharge, and wondering if it may mean a change to no surcharge at all, in view of the probable closing of the office soon. Recent improvements in the office itself do not point toward an early abolition, however.

We have had quite an auction season here, perhaps twenty sales have been held. There has been competition savoring of the cut-throat variety. Perhaps the most notable item sold has been a Mauritius, which I should place as No. 3d, and for which the only adjective is wonderful. It brought only Taels 234.—say $170 gold. This is not the biggest price of the season—one of the German Tientsin provisionals brought that. China old issues are in demand to such an extent that all recognized values are forgotten, fancy copies of the first issue bringing five or six times catalogue at times. The catalogue listing and values of early China are very inadequate.

One more matter. Singkiang surcharge (Scott 501, etc.) comes in two very distinct types, the first as illustrated in Scott, having been printed here in Shanghai, the latter at the Bureau of E. and P. in Peking. The Peking print is lighter, the bottom character is noticeably different, and the top character is in line with the rest. Also we have officials, perforated with four characters in all of the low values of both sets.

THE GREAT TRIAL.

The famous trial at Los Angeles, involving Mr. Grinnell as seller and Mr. Klemann as buyer of the Hawaiian missionary lot has been progressing at Los Angeles, California, and while adjournments and recesses have delayed the decision, we expect to hear of the outcome of the case at any hour. The defense argued that Mr. Klemann bought the stamps with his eyes open and maintained that the law of caveat emptor should prevail, as secondary considerations to the contention that the stamps are of a second printing, a circumstance that explains the differences between the genuine stamps as known and the stamps bought by Mr. Klemann for $65,000. The Spanish dealer and catalogue publisher, Senor Galvez of Madrid and Mr. Charles J. Phillips of London were among those who gave testimony at the trial.

C. E. SEVERN.

LATER.

Simultaneously with the receipt of the above by mail Mr. Severn's wire is received and reads: "Klemann wires that he won his case on all counts."

DID YOU EVER SEE ONE?

I have been collecting postage stamps for upward of thirty years and while during that time I have always been interested in United States varieties, I have recently located a little lot of a stamp on cover that I have never seen in this condition before.

I refer to the old Green Registered Post Office Seal that was issued in 1872. The variety has always been more or less scarce in fine used condition and as mentioned, I had never seen them on the entire cover before. These were found in a small Vermont Post Office and are mostly from small New England towns. While the little lot lasts you may have one at 60c or can furnish ten from ten different cities at $10.00. There are only a few and they will not last long, so order quickly.

If you have anything to offer in fine United States, I am always in the market to buy.

Information regarding new issues and varieties will be gratefully received. We cannot give the addresses of correspondents.

The chronicle of United States is edited by PHILIP H. WARD, JR., Box 4216, Germantown, Phila., Pa. The foreign chronicle is edited by PERCY C. SMITH, 40 Packard Ave., West Somerville, Mass. Correspondents will please be careful to send their matter to the right address.

UNITED STATES.—We note from the June issue of the Scott Journal that Dr. William Evans has located a new Confederate provisional, namely a 5c envelope issued in Norfolk. It is one of those varieties that it is difficult to establish due to the fact that it is made from the same figure "5" within a circle and "PAID" that was used by the postmaster in postmarking the letter which passed through his hands and was paid for in cash. This envelope however was one of several that had been put away at the time and were recently unearthed, and Dr. Evans states that they come from an undoubted source. The signature of the postmaster is on the back. Unfortunately all but this one were thrown in the fire before their value was realized.

The same number of the Journal calls attention to the fact that the Scott Company will issue a specialized catalogue of the stamps of the United States provided there is a sufficient demand for it. Now that Gibbons has issued one dealing extensively with our early issues it certainly is to be hoped that Scott will follow with one covering all of our emissions to date. If you receive the Journal do not delay in sending the postal telling them as to your desires. They contemplate listing all dies, shifts, varieties, blocks, cancellations, etc., something never attempted before. Such a list will add much interest to the subject and will increase the number of specialists of our issues.

Mr. H. Clay Reed has recently shown me a new provisional 2c on 3c envelope from Philadelphia and Mr. George P. Smith has found quite a few unchronicled varieties from other cities.

Mr. Edgar L. Green has shown me a copy of the City Despatch Local 1c black on a thick bluish paper. The stamp is on a very small piece of orange cover. The variety has not been noted before and little is known of the history of this copy. It has all of the ear marks however of the real thing.

We wish to thank Messrs. M. S. Ryan, E. H. West and F. B. McGown for notes of interest.

AUSTRALIA.—Mr. R. Roberts reports the following values of the postage due set on narrow crown watermarked paper perf. 14: 1d, 2d, 3d and 4d all in carmine and pale yellow green.

CANADA.—Mr. Ralph H. Dawson submits copies of the 1c in orange color and 2c in green color and advises they were put on sale at the P. O. in Montreal the 23rd inst.

Mr. W. W. Randall also kindly favors us with copies of each.

DOMINICA.—Mr. R. Roberts submits for chronicle the 2sh purple and blue on blue script watermarked paper.

GOLD COAST.—Mr. R. Roberts informs us of the appearance of a 2½d orange on script watermarked paper in panes of 60. Also a 1d brown on the same paper in sheets of 240.

GUATEMALA.—Mr. Alfonso Bravo advises of the appearance of the $5 stamp of the 1921 issue surcharged "25 Centavos" in two lines in black. Mr. Bravo also adds that he has received the $3 value of the 1919 issue overprinted in like manner in red, the surcharge being a trifle larger than that of the $5.

INDIA.—Mr. R. Roberts shows us a copy of the ½a current type stamp surcharged ¼ in black.

NEW HEBRIDES.—The same journal is responsible for the following:—"As is usual with stamps withdrawn for destruction, a few of the inverted surcharges appear to have leaked out. We recently saw a vertical stamp of three 1d. on 5d, with surcharge inverted at the top of the stamp. We understand that only a portion of one sheet was 'saved.' In the sheet of the 10c on 50c of 1920, we have noticed one stamp in the bottom row shows 'CONDCIJINIUM', the 'o' and 'M' being broken."—Stamp Collecting.

10 kop. blue and red.

The first three are in a uniform type, having the Arms enclosed by a laurel wreath, surmounting a double post-horn, and inscription "UOYTOBAR MAPKA" in Russian characters at the top. The design of the fourth stamp is practically the same. All four are imperf.—Stamp Collecting.

STRAITS SETTLEMENTS.—Mr. R. Roberts sends us the following new issues: 1c blk., 2c green and 4c rose on script watermarked paper. Also the 5c orange, 10c ultramarine and $1 black and carmine on blue on the same style paper.

VIRGIN ISLANDS.—Mr. R. Roberts shows us a new set of stamps for this colony in a combined type with the head of the King in the upper left corner and the likeness of a virgin with a series of lamps around her. The name of the colony is at the base and the value in the upper right corner. The values and colors are as follows:

HOW TO OBTAIN STAMPS.

By L. H. BRIGHAM.

A stamp collection does not grow very rapidly unless new stamps are continually being added to it. Where and how to obtain these stamps is often a puzzle to the young collector. Let us divide our young collector friends into three classes, as follows:

1. The collector who lives in the sparsely settled districts covered by the R. F. D. and who seldom comes in contact with other collectors or with any quantity of mail matter and who cannot afford to buy stamps.

2. The collectors who live in the cities and more thickly settled centers where manufacturing goes on and great numbers of business offices exist, but who, like the collectors in the first group, have little or no money to spend for stamps.

3. The more fortunate class of collectors who, regardless of where they live, are enabled to buy quite liberally of the stamps they desire.

It is easy to see that the collector belonging to class Number 1 has the most difficult job to get his collection to grow. Perhaps the following may help him: There is hardly an R. F. D. route in existence that has not a family or two on it who regularly receive mail from some foreign country or other. You may not know who these people are, but your mail carrier does, and if he is at all accommodating he will be more than glad to ask for some of the stamps for you. There are also a number of boys' papers having a circulation among some of the foreign English-speaking countries, principally the British colonies. Find out what some of these papers are and request the editor to supply you with the names of a few of the subscribers from the countries you are most interested in. These boys will be more than glad to correspond with you and to send you stamps of their native country. Your minister can also put you in touch with some missionary who is located in China, India, Japan, or elsewhere. If your family does business with any of the big mail order houses in this country, here is another source from which to obtain stamps.

The collector in the city or large manufacturing town has many opportunities to get all of the stamps he wants, provided he goes about it in the right way and is willing to put a little effort into the procuring of them. Your postmaster can furnish you with the names of the concerns receiving any quantity of foreign mail through his office. Many of these concerns have no use for the stamps which come on their mail and simply cast them into the waste basket. A polite request to the proper individual should obtain some of these stamps.

Banks and brokerage houses maintaining foreign departments for the convenience of their customers are also an excellent source from which to obtain stamps, as great quantities of foreign mail are received almost daily. Nearly every large mill and manufacturing plant employs some workers of foreign birth who have relatives or friends with whom they correspond in their native country. Sometimes a dozen or more nationalities will be found employed in the same concern. In all probability you are acquainted with some one working at some of these plants who would take the trouble to request some of these foreign workers to save some of the stamps they get for you. The home offices of the various foreign missionary societies also receive quantities of foreign mail. You should be able to obtain some of these stamps by getting in touch with the proper persons.

For the young collector who is able to buy the most of his stamps, collecting does not present any real difficulties. Every city of any size has a number of stamp dealers who keep all kinds of stamps from all over the world for sale, at prices depending entirely upon the stamps. One can buy packets containing hundreds of different varieties.

If you desire to buy most of your stamps and do not live reasonably near a dealer, many of the boys' magazines carry the advertisements of a dealer or two who will be glad to supply you. —The Haversack.

I'M HERE TO SERVE YOU

Maxwell Krause, Lebanon, Pa.

I AM PUTTING OUT SOME WONDERFUL SELECTIONS of early U. S. postage stamps. On my net cards you will find such stamps as 5c, 10c 1847; 5c, 10c, 12c 1851; 5c brick red, 5c red brown, 5c brown, 5c orange brown, 12c, 24c, 30c, 90c of 1857; 5c Nos. 67, 67a, 67b, 24c Nos. 70, 70a, 70b, 90c Nos. 72 and 72a of 1861; 5c No. 75 of 1862; 5c, 24c, 30c, 90c 1868; 24c, 30c, 90c 1869; all the Columbian issue, the Trans. Miss. issue, etc., etc. I have 3 grades in this line, fine, good and trifle damaged, state which stamps you need and which grade you wish to inspect. Every stamp priced net, according to rarity and condition.

I am sending out selections every day, so speak quick, no knowing when some values may be sold out.

If you collect pairs, strips, etc., or original covers, I have many of above in that condition as well.

Also very good line of revenues, and of B. N. A. postage stamps.

If you have a den, let me send you my curio lists.

SUMMER CLEARANCE SALE

Stamps accumulate during the busy season, and to make room for new stock, and to raise money for a certain purpose, I offer the following at prices that I have a hunch will move the goods. In the first column of figures I give the catalog price and in the second my NET price. Terms, cash with order, 3% discount on orders over $20 at one time, 5% on $50, and 10% on $100. On approval to parties I know or who may be vouched for by such, but cash orders will take precedence. I offer only stamps of merit, good old stabilized issues, no speculative trash. I say nothing about condition because if you are not satisfied that the stamps I send you are worth all I ask, you may return them and I will send back your money without comment. Of many, I have but one copy to sell at these prices, of others several, so it is well to send a supplementary list, as I shall return money if any line is sold out before I get your order. You cannot lose no matter where you live, so get busy, check up and let me hear from you.

Collections by Countries

All are in excellent condition running very fine. These are very useful to collectors who wish to start a new country, fill up a weak one, also to small dealers, or to lay away to the time when they will be so scarce as not to be had at all. Catalog value as given is guaranteed with approximate accuracy. They may contain either unused or used or both.

I have many more and always have something in this line as I make them. My old collections I buy from time to time. It is not feasible to print a list of them, but a selection can be sent you if agreed, then you can see what you want.

ARGENTINE.

A call for bids to be opened in July, 1922, has been received from the Argentine Director General of Navigation and Posts for 4 hydroplanes, with two extra motors, spare parts, etc., to be used on the Bemmejo River. The hydroplanes must have a carrying capacity of 6 persons, seated, including the pilot, in addition to a mechanic and ample capacity for 300 lbs of mail per flight. Delivery of the planes must be made in Buenos Aires within five months after award has been made. Special rates in excess of the regular postage will be charged on the Air Mail and a new distinctive design of postage stamp is contemplated.

FOREIGN AGENCIES IN CHINA.

(This very interesting article is taken from the Peking and Tientsin "Times" of May 24. It is sent us by George W. Twomey of the Tsing Hua College, Peking. We feel that it will be of wide interest.—W. O. W.)

Hongkong will have a good deal to do, this year, with carrying into effect one of the decisions of the Washington Conference,—the abolition of the foreign post offices in China. Great Britain, France, Japan and America are the four Powers which have such offices at the present time and they have agreed, in deference to the wishes of China, to give them up as from the end of 1922. A representative of the Daily Press gleaned some interesting information on this subject, yesterday, from Mr. S. B. C. Ross, the Postmaster General of Hongkong.

The Japanese have the large number of these offices—23—and the United States have only one—at Shanghai. Great Britain has ten; it has also Wei-hai-wei which is in a somewhat different case. Although it is run as an agency, that office is in British territory and not in China. The others are British administrations in a foreign country. Wei-hai-wei Post Office is run under the control of London Post Office. Taking them from south to north, the British postal agencies are at Hoihow, Canton Swatow, Amoy, Foochow, Shanghai; up the Yangtse, Ningpo, Hankow, Chefoo and Tientsin.

Part of Hongkong Post Office.

Up to 1910 British postal agencies in China were a part of the Hongkong Post Office but in that year they were transferred to London control; any profit made would then go to London, and any loss would be borne by London. At that time, on the charges made, losses were inevitable, and it was agreed that Hongkong ought not to have to bear expenses which were obviously an Imperial charge. Moreover, Hongkong did not make the treaty by which the postal agencies were established. The Great Powers wanted these arrangements made because, in those days, China had no organised system of posts—only a somewhat antiquated system of internal posts—and she did not belong to the Postal Union. Under the Treaty of Tientsin provision was made by which post offices could be opened at the consular agencies for consular and other mails.

China In The Postal Union.

In 1914, four years after Hongkong succeeded in throwing off its responsibility for the British postal agencies up and down China, that country joined the Postal Union and the Chinese Post Office became a fully-fledged organisation. It has, indeed, been singularly efficient, China owes her Post Office, like her Customs, to foreign initiative and management. The resolution passed at the Washington Conference stipulates that the Co-Director-General, Mr. H. Picard-Destelan, shall be retained and makes other stipulations to secure continuity in the Chinese Post Office when the foreign postal agencies cease to exist. As the Chinese Post Office is self-governing and makes its own financial arrangements, it is quite independent of the clash of North or South or of any of the warring sections in China; it is not affected, for example, by the present difficult situation. The Commissioner in each province is a foreigner.

As its Post Office is so exceedingly efficient, China naturally felt it an affront that these foreign post agencies should exist. The only other country in the world which has them is the Levant. Turkish posts are so notoriously inefficient that all the Powers, under the Capitulations, insisted on having postal agencies, and these are still in existence.

Levelling Up Postal Rates.

Before 1914, persons using British post offices in China were able to send letters to England at the British domestic rate; that is to say, a letter could be sent from Shanghai to London for four cents; whereas, to send a letter from a place just outside Shanghai [illegible] no British postal agency would cost 10 cents. When China joined the Post Union, however, British postal agencies could not undersell the Chinese Post Office in its own country and the foreign rate was raised to 10 cents in connection with the Chinese foreign rate. It now costs just the same, therefore, to send a letter to England from Shanghai whether it is entrusted to the British postal agency or to the Chinese Post Office.

In 1914, therefore, one of the few remaining advantages of the postal agencies was removed. When they are withdrawn at the end of the year, no one in China will have to pay more than they do at the present moment.

A Costly Postal Route.

The increased charges made at the postal agencies in 1914, when China joined the Postal Union, have had the effect of making the postal agencies pay. In other words, after bearing the burden of the lean years, Hongkong handed over the management to London only a few years before higher rates converted losses into profits. But then, it was not foreseen, in 1910, that China would be ready to join the Postal Union by 1914. Before that date, the postal agencies lost money on all the four cent mail and at that period there were very large mails going across Siberia—the most expensive postal route in the world.

For purposes of postal arrangements, by the way, China does not count as a "foreign" country to the British postal agencies in China. There is a special agreement, as there is between Canada and the United States and between China and Japan and as has been proposed between France and the United Kingdom, whereby each country communicates with its neighbour at the domestic rate.

In conducting the postal agencies in China, there is an important rule: one cannot allow people to post, at a British postal agency, letters addressed to a place in China where there is no British postal agency. If the postal agency accepted such a letter it would be receiving payment for a service which it could not perform. It would have to hand over the letter to the Chinese Post Office for delivery and the letter would get nothing for doing so. What is done in practice, when such letters find their way into a postal agency, is to put a ring around the stamp and hand the letter over to the Chinese Post Office, which delivers it and collects the usual fine for an unstamped letter. None of the Post Offices through which the letter passes defaces the stamp, which has no interest for them. The recipient is at German and Russian Offices Closed Already.

Closing down the foreign postal agencies in China is a somewhat smaller business than it would have been before the war. The German agencies closed when China declared war. Indeed, for all practical purposes, they closed when the war broke out. Similarly the Russian agencies dropped out after the Revolution. The Russians found the service particularly useful because they had post offices at Peking and Tientsin and a Russian line of steamers between Tientsin and Vladivostock. Their letters from the legations in China thus reached Russia without ever passing through foreign hands,—an important consideration in times of international crisis. Before the war, the Germans had 12 postal agencies in China and the Russians six in China proper, and a large number in Manchuria and Mongolia.

It must not be supposed that a great number of imposing public buildings will be left derelict when the foreign postal agencies are given up. Practically the only permanent structure is at Shanghai and most of the postal agencies are conducted in one of the rooms of the Consulate, the Vice-Consul attending to the postal business as part of his ordinary duties. The change will simply mean that time and accommodation will be made available for other work.

Arrangements for Closing.

The only convenience that the British public will lose will be the post office order, otherwise known as the postal note, but as the Chinese Post Office has a money order arrangement with the United Kingdom, the deprivation will be of no consequence. Hongkong of course, will still retain the post office order.

At the end of the year, when the time for closing the British postal agencies draws near, no postal articles will be sent to the agencies after a date early enough to ensure that the packet will be delivered before December 31st. Articles will be sent from the agencies up to the last moment. All stores and stamps which cannot be disposed of locally will be sent to the Hongkong Post Office, which, by the way, still supplies the British agencies in China with stamps, although no longer financially responsible for them; and the Hongkong P.M.G. is responsible to London for their management and annual accounts. At the end of the year the Hongkong Post Office will be in the position of liquidator to the British postal agencies.

WILSON WHIFFS HIM OUT.

The Brisbane clipping goes to show that it is easy sometimes for a writer to speak authoritatively about something he doesn't know anything about at all. Brisbane, who has succeeded largely by following the style and material of Herbert Kaufman, and Samuel Smiles, (and by the way Kaufman wrote little if any that he did not get from Smiles), sometimes writes some very good stuff, mainly I think because he changes it so little from the original source of supply and Smiles about exhausted the subjects he wrote on. But whenever Brisbane attempts to cover a subject a la Samuel Smiles that Smiles himself did not cover he shows that the pupil is not equal to the master and makes himself just a trifle foolish to people who know. It's too bad, I think sometimes, that Samuel Smiles' books are not more generally circulated in these days and times because if they were more generally read Brisbane would have a hard time getting by at all.

Let us not blame Brisbane, however, too much. It's a trying job to have to look through several volumes or as much material as Smiles wrote trying to find out just what Smiles had to say about the subject and in the high-pressure rush of turning out so much a day for people who haven't time to think for themselves and have to have their stuff handed to them on a platter in predigested form, the editorial writer is apt to think from his former study of the Master that he can handle the subject pretty well himself and so when he slips we should perhaps pity rather than censure him. You recall the old sign over the Organ in the Western Church, "Don't shoot the Organist. He is doing the best he can." Possibly if we had to buy a set of Smiles and fill Brisbane's shoes for a while and write on all the possible subjects coming up every day we would slip more often than he, because to do him justice he sticks close to what he has learned o various subjects from people wh themselves know what they were v about, and his followers are su admiring bunch they swallow it line and sinker as he feeds it to for "it's in the Paper, isn't it?"

PERMITS FOR MAILING WITHOUT STAMPS AFFIXED.

By A. H. PIKE,

Publicity Manager International Postmark Society.

AUTHOR'S NOTE.

The facts contained in the following history of the adoption and use of first class mail permits were obtained from manufacturers of permit making machines, users of permits, government employees and collectors interested. We have been requested to advise our readers not to communicate with postmasters, users of permits or manufacturers of permit printing devices. The Postal Laws and Regulations strictly forbid postmasters giving out names and addresses. Communications to postmasters are usually referred to the P. O. Dept. at Washington. Users of postage meters are among the largest concerns in the United States. They use this device to facilitate their work and it is too much to expect of them to be continually replying to letters from a class of people whose wishes they cannot seem to understand or appreciate. They are paying face value for these impressions and there is no more reason why they should send these out on requests than they would uncancelled postage stamps. On account of the fact that the writer is an officially elected officer of the International Postmark Society and chairman of the research committee, permission has been granted for him to obtain, as long as he is in office, certain facts connected with postal marking devices and their use as well as historical facts of importance relative to the postal service. New issues and additions to the check list will be published in the WEEKLY as often as seems necessary, providing we can retain the confidence of business men and officials. We ask the urgent co-operation of our readers in depending on this service in the WEEKLY and to report direct to the writer any corrections, omissions, new issues or any facts of importance relative to the service. Please address all mail on this subject to A. H. Pike, 80 Grant St., Buffalo, N. Y.

Third Class Mail.

On April 28, 1904, permit for mailing without stamps affixed was first allowed in the United States. The regulation form has changed very little since that date. Some of the early users neglected to include the name of the post office, but this was soon remedied and all postmasters refused to accept a mailing without the three features of this service indicated: the denomination of postage, place of mailing and the permit number. The first permit granted at each post office was numbered "1" and the rest were followed in numerical order. Although the P. O. Dept. order plainly stated that this information should be enclosed in a rectangular frame, many varieties can be found where the frame was omitted. It has been the custom of late years, when a permit has not been used for twelve months, it has been recalled and the permit number has been given to the next applicant. Since these permits were granted, considerable pressure has been brought to bear on the P. O. Dept. in order to persuade them to allow first class mail to be treated in the same way. It also encouraged inventors to experiment on machines, anticipating the time when this privilege would be granted.

Mr. A. H. Pitney.

For many years, Mr. Pitney had experience with time-saving mailing devices. He was the first to use ordinary perforated postage stamps in reels, or coils, in connection with a mailing machine, and after many experiments sold out to Shermack. Mr. Pitney was of the opinion that the use of postage stamps in a mailing machine was impractical, owing to the difficulty of making the spacing between the stamps fit the carrying device of the machine. The time consumed in joining the strips of stamps and the charge made for this work and the punching, made it expensive to the user. His inventive genius enabled him to continue experimenting until 1914, when he was able to complete an electrically-operated machine that would automatically seal the envelope and print an indicia, showing the amount of postage, permit number, name of city and a descending series of numbers from which

AN ENGLISH IRISH ERROR!

The 1½d "PENCF" error of Great Britain has been found on a limited number of sheets overprinted for the Irish Free State. This cannot be attributed to any speculative tendency of the Irish Free State, as the error arose with the English printers of the stamps before overprinting. I offer a limited number of same in mint blocks of 4, three stamps normal.

PRICE $2.50 POST FREE

Having specialized in the Provisional Irish Free State overprinted on the stamps of Great Britain, I can supply a number of interesting varieties of the overprint, etc., etc., and selections will be sent on approval to collectors in America on receipt of first class references or deposit.

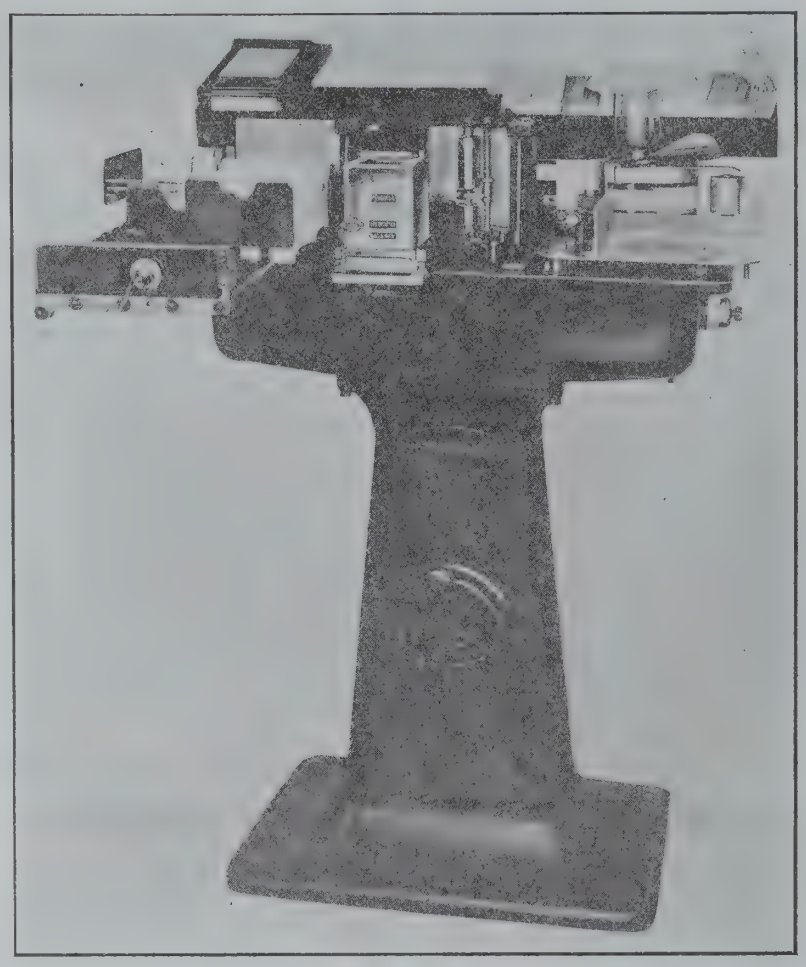
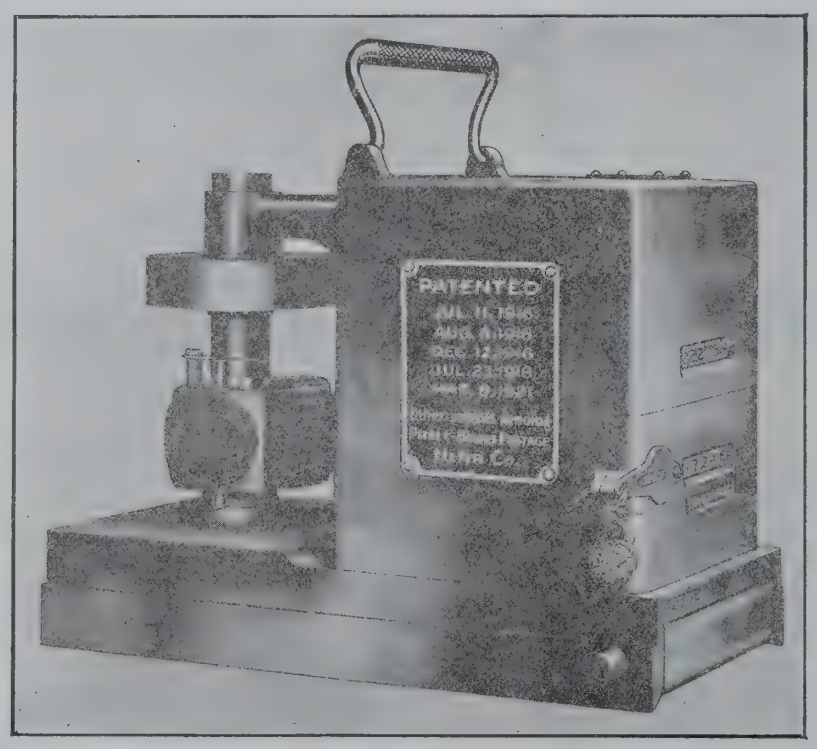
the total number of pieces could be determined from each mailing. This was the most forward step that had ever been advanced to replace postage stamps. This machine was given its first thorough test in a business house at the office of the Addressograph Co., Chicago, on January 28, 1914, under the supervision of committees appointed by the Postmaster General and Postmaster Camp-



POSTAGE METER MACHINE.

Model "A" complete, as illustrated, comprises two units: first, the electrically driven machine which separates, feeds, seals, and stacks the mail matter; second, the meter itself which automatically postmarks, stamps, and registers the matter as it passes through the machine. Operates at a speed of 250 per minute up to a size of 12x14.



THE POSTAGE METER

A combined register and printing unit, easily detached from the machine. The upper register is an ascending total indicating the amount of postage used, the lower register is a descending total indicating the stamp impressions of the last purchase still remaining unused. The meter automatically locks when the lower counter entirely discharges. The registers will not record unless a printed impression is made by the die.

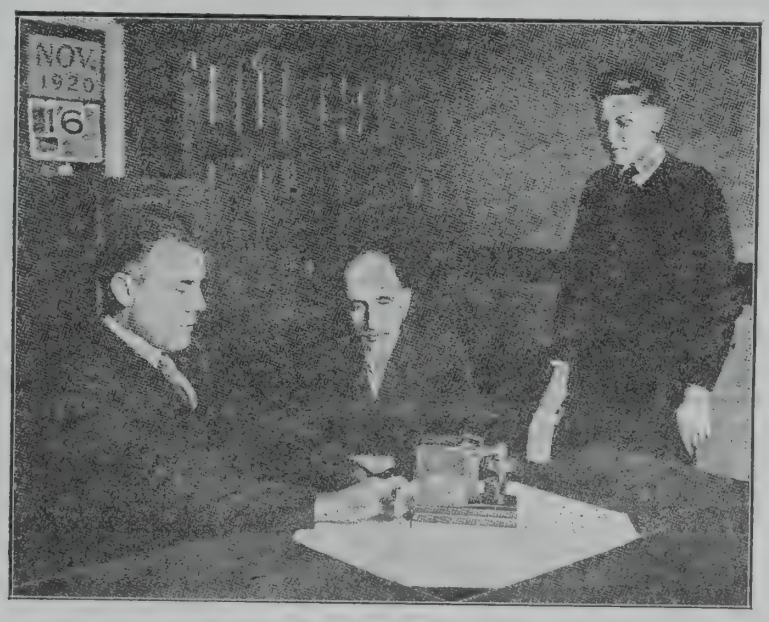
bell of Chicago. In the test made, ten thousand identical pieces of mail matter were handled in less than one hour's time, to the complete satisfaction of all present. Further particulars of the various mailings in Chicago during 1914 will be given further on, under Type A classification.

First Class Mail Permits.

Early in 1920, the Postmaster General asked for and obtained from Congress legislation, authorizing the extension of the Permit system to First Class Mail, subject to rules and regulations provided by his department. The Postal Laws and Regulations were amended on May 10, 1920, and on June 8, of the same year, Messrs. Lansburgh & Bro. of Washington, D. C., sent out an announcement of a fur sale to their local customers under permit number 134, using the design which we illustrate as Type B. This was the first use of a first class permit by any firm or individual in the United States under the new amended order. This was soon followed by the Columbia Postal Supply Co. of Silver Creek, N. Y., in advertising their machine to be used for this purpose. During the months following, firms in New York City and elsewhere took advantage of this service.

Metered Mail.

Early in 1920, while the legislation was being enacted in Washington, Mr. A. H. Pitney, referred to above, joined forces with Mr. W. H. Bowes, President of the Universal Stamping Machine Co. of Stamford, Conn. Mr. Bowes had had many years of practical experience in the development and manufacture of cancelling machines and had been working along the same lines as Mr. Pitney. Thus was created a new classification in the Postal System which will be known to the business man and stamp collectors as "METERED MAIL". The firm is designated as the Pitney-Bowes Postage Meter Co., and in their branches as the Postage Meter Co. Our illustration shows the setting of the first postage meter ever used on actual mail. The calendar in the picture shows the date to be November 16, 1920. This was under permit number 1, and was of a 10c denomination. The first imprinted envelope was mailed to Ex-Postmaster General Burleson as a souvenir, the second impression has been framed and now hangs on the wall of the New York City branch office of the Postage Meter Co.



THE FIRST OFFICIAL SETTING OF A POSTAGE METER NOV. 16, 1920

Centre—Postmaster J. J. Bohl, Stamford, Conn., who is witnessing the setting, as per the Post Office rules and regulations applying to the use of this device.
Standing—Office boy tendering check in payment for postage purchased.

Advantages of First Class Mail Permits.

To appreciate the advantages it is only necessary to consider the disadvantages of the adhesive postage stamp. The postage stamp came into existence as a government institution in 1847. From that time to 1920, the greatest inventions of the world were perfected and brought into popular use. The adhesive postage stamp remained practically the same. The Governments of the World spent hundreds of thousands of dollars each year printing and disbursing adhesive postage stamps—then they spent millions of dollars each year for labor and expensive machinery to cancel these stamps. At the same time, business concerns spend thousands of dollars in labor and hours of time affixing these stamps separately to each envelope. Peculation of stamps is one of the disturbing factors that every business house with a large employment roll is apt to face sooner or later. Stamping of mail by this obsolete method is more or less a slow and expensive operation. Loss by spoilage, accident, carelessness, appropriation for personal use, etc., costs the business concerns of the country thousands of dollars each year. When first class mail is received at the post office and before the stamps are cancelled, each piece must be separately handled and faced, with all stamped corners in the same position, it is then run through the cancelling machine and afterwards sorted, or routed. An effort is being made by the P. O. Dept. to secure the co-operation of large mailers so that mail will be routed before delivery to the post office. These modern methods mean a saving of from one to twenty-four hours in the despatch of mail, and to most business concerns this is a most important feature.

Machines Used for First Class Permits.

First class permit No. 134, referred to above as the first one used in the U. S., was printed on a Multigraph machine, having a curved plate with changeable date type. This machine as well as the Addressograph, has been used in a number of instances as well as the ordinary printing press. It is practically impossible to determine from the looks of the impression from what machine it was made. Some concerns, especially the Larkin Co. of Buffalo, use a two color press in their own printing department for their one cent denomination under Permit No. 7. It is a little more difficult for the ordinary printing devices to handle this work since the government order requiring the indicia to be printed in the color of ink to correspond with the amount of postage. Practically all of Type B were printed in black ink. The colored ink was not required until Type C was adopted, and even some of these early impressions are found in black. Besides the machines above mentioned, the following manufacturers have produced machines for first class mailings, but none to date have used a meter in connection: Mail-o-Meter Co., Standard Envelope Sealer Mnfg. Co., International Postal Supply Co. and the Columbia Postal Supply Co. There may possibly be others, but we have never heard of them. The business is in its infancy and there are no doubt many bright minds working on devices along this line. There is a slight difference in some of the indicias manufactured by the above concerns, but they can only be classed as sub varieties of the regular types we are illustrating. We understand that any machine or device which will make a legible impression of the indicia, regardless of its other attributes, will be accepted by the Department for this work. Machines can be secured on a monthly rental basis, or purchased outright. The lowest priced machine on the market is $25.00, manufactured by the Columbia Postal Supply Co., while with others the price will run as high as seven hundred dollars or more. Printing dies cost the user in addition up to $25.00.

Extracts from P. O. Dept. Orders.

Practically all the regulations effecting the use of permits for any class of mailing are numbered orders and amendments to Section 459 of the Postal Laws and Regulations. Many of these amendments are a repetition of previous orders, including some additions and corrections. It would be impracticable to include these orders in full, and it would be of very little interest to our readers to list the many order numbers. These have been read over very carefully and the following extracts cover the main conditions effective at the present time. Although permits were first issued only for third class mail, changes have been made from time to time to include all four classes under the same permit number. The early users of first class permits did so under their old third class permit number. This is why the early permits can be found with high numbers, where later permits of the same firm have low numbers. Any number of pieces of first class mail which need not be identical as to contents or weight can be mailed at one time as there are no restrictions as formerly. For second or third class not less than 300 pieces can be mailed at one time, and with fourth class not less than 250.

Permits must be obtained from the Third Assistant Postmaster General through the local postmaster. First class permits can be used for all other classes. They must be numbered consecutively at each post office from number 1 up and be independent of the old series for third class mail.

The indicia for this class of mail must be placed on the envelope by some form of printing press and not hand stamped. The name of the postal station of the mailing office may, if desired, be shown in the outer circle in connection with the name of the post office. On first class matter the hour may be shown in the indicia in connection with the date of mailing, and in such cases the matter should be presented for mailing not later than one hour prior to the hour so indicated.

Under one cent postage, date slugs are removed. The indicia should show the correct amount of postage paid, but when the indicia do not show the full amount chargeable on tthe matter, additionable postage may be paid by stamps affixed.

Matter of subsidiary companies, or officers of a concern holding a permit, may be mailed under the same permit number. This accounts for the various names that collectors have noted on the corner cards of the same permit.

Where a postage meter is used, the mailer must bring the printing or numbering head to the post office and have the postmaster set it for a given number of impressions, and this must be witnessed by a responsible employee of the post office. All keys to the device must remain in the custody of the postmaster.

These impressions are entitled to a place in every stamp collection, for they are printed under government supervision, paid for like stamped envelopes, and a refund is made on impressions for which no service has been rendered. This is not the case with other than metered mail.

The Universal Postal Union Convention agreed to accept the impressions of the dies of machines, the same as postage stamps on international mail providing Arabic figures were used in the indicia, to denote the amount of postage paid, and if the die impressions were printed in bright red ink, with the name of the country of origin shown. This order went into effect in January, 1922.

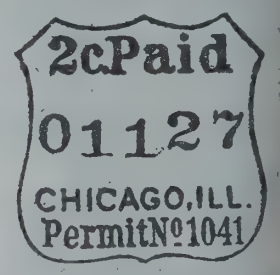
Where permits are used without meter attachments, postal employees are required to run the entire mailing thru their regular cancelling machine, removing printing dies, in order to get an accurate count.

Denomination and Color.

So far we have noted the following denominations of meter marks in regulation color, 1c, 2c, 3c, 4c, 5c, 6c, 10c. There are only two exceptions that we know of, as follows: the 5c denomination for foreign mail must be printed in red to conform to our 2c postage; a package of third class of a weight sufficient to require 2c postage must not be printed in red. This probably due to the fact that the Dept. wishes to aid postal employees all nations to readily distinguish all class mail by the red color. A number of errors of color have been noted, no doubt, to the insertion of a meter in the wrong machine. Users are required to obtain a meter for each denomination of postage that they intend to use, and it is reasonable to expect that mistakes of this kind will occur.

FIRST CLASS PERMITS.

Classification of Types.



Type A.—Although not officially permitted under Postal Laws and Regulations, there were close to 900,000,000 impressions of this type of meter-stamp passed through the Chicago post office without cancellation, during the first months of 1914. We have in our possession the original envelope, the first to receive this form of impression. It was mailed on January 28, 1914, and addressed to Mrs. J. E. Pitney, the wife of the inventor, Mr. A. H. Pitney. It was under Permit number 1041, and the particular envelope was numbered C6. It was sent out by the Addressograph Co. and contained a copy of the "Addressograph-er", a trade paper which contained an account of the postage meter and its advantages.

Some facts regarding Permit No. 0 we feel sure will be of interest to our readers. The authorization for this was contained in a letter to Mr. F. E. Cy formerly Postmaster of Chicago, the President and General Manager of American Postage Meter Co., and was dated February 13, 1913, and signed by James J. Britt, Third Assistant Postmaster General. The significance of this is apparent when it is considered that this was the first time anything in the nature of a government security was ever printed outside of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing in this form. Stamp collectors who have in their possession, or can secure specimens of these early meter marks will possess something of far greater value than any postage stamps of that period.

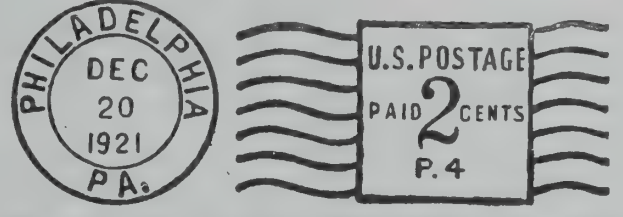
Type B.—This was the first regular design adopted under amended order No. 4164 of Section 459 of the Postal Laws Regulations dated May 10, 1920. This conformed with the maximum and minimum size of design as well as the size of lettering as prescribed on Form 3601, as well as those modified on Forms 3610, and 3612. These will be found invariably printed in black ink. Our illustration is a reproduction of the first one of these designs used and dated June 8, 1920. This was first used under the old Third Class Permit No. 134, which was later changed to Permit No. 1, to conform to the new series for first class mail permits. A few minor varieties have been noted, such as the absence of dates, two outer circles, etc. It is impossible to distinguish the machines from which these were printed, but with the exception of the Multigraph and the Addressograph, the majority were made on an ordinary printing press.



Type C.—The P. O. Dept. on December 28, 1920, again amended Section 459 of the Postal Laws and Regulations, requesting the use of this design for concerns using an ordinary printing device as distinguished from metered mail. On early dies, the abbreviated "P." was used for the word Permit but by the request of the P. O. Dept. later dies were made to spell out the word in full. These early dies will be another item of interest for the stamp collector.

Type D.—This design was adopted at the same time as Type C. (Dec. 28, 1920) and is a duplicate of the above, with the exception of the meter number added in a perpendicular line between the postmark and cancellation. This was arranged especially to accommodate machines using a meter unit. The first machine installed (outside of the Postage Meter Co. at Stamford) using this style of indicia, was on August 4, 1921, at Utica, N. Y., and used by the Commercial Travelers Mutual Accident Association of America. The first two machines installed in New York City, were with the National City Bank and the New York Times. Our check list will show many other concerns that used this style of indicia before another change was made.

HARRIS & CO. 6000 LINES CONTRACT.

Right in the midst of the vacation season H. E. Harris & Co. of Boston has made a 6000 lines advertising contract with us. This speaks well not only for the value of the WEEKLY as an advertising medium but also for the firm, which has always been a generous user of WEEKLY space.

THE DICTIONARY PRAISED.

By GEO. W. LINN, Columbus, Ohio.

I have just received my copy of the Philatelic Dictionary and feel that I want to offer my congratulations to both Mr. Poole and Mr. Wylie for the wonderful work that they have done.

When I say that I believe that next to the postage stamp catalogues, this work is the most remarkable and at the same time the one most needed by all collectors, I have said as much as anyone can say for the book.

May a future edition embrace all points that have been overlooked in the present edition and I might suggest that you ask collectors at once to start sending in notes with a view to the next edition.

UNITED STATES ERRORS AT 50c EACH

A Wonderful Bargain

The Bureau of Engraving and Printing is known to be the most careful and accurate Printing Establishment in the world. A glance at our Catalogue will show how few errors have been made considering the vast amount of stamps issued.

We just found by mere chance two varieties which will take their places with other famous 20th Century errors. Numbers 440 and 441 in our Catalogue are listed as perf. 11 x 10, but the varieties just found are

EDITORIAL.

On June 30th, a month or so after the trial was begun at Los Angeles, California, we received the following telegram signed by John A. Klemann, plaintiff in the case, involving his purchase of the Hawaiian missionary stamps from Mr. Grinnell: "Verdict for me on all counts in Hawaiian case. Sweeping decision in this case will put stamp dealing on its proper legal basis for all time. Perry Wood an eminently fair and impartial jurist. The loan of William Crocker's stamps of greatest help." Judgment has been rendered in a most mystifying case whose importance was based not alone on the substantial amount of $65,000 at stake, but also on the baffling circumstances, from the point of view of the on-looker, that surrounded it. Without a transcript of the court proceedings, we recognize the futility of trying at this time to comment upon the result. From a description of the unfolding of the case given us by one who attended the earlier sessions of the hearing, we know that many angles were considered and no doubt the decision was arrived at only after a full and impartial analysis of the evidence was made. That there was a wide-spread interest in the case was apparent to us by the calls made on us for information in regard to it. Preliminary comment on a court action is idle, if no worse, and such news as has been given was based upon authentic report that was not to be gainsaid.

The newspapers naturally did not ignore a case of the magnitude of the one at Los Angeles and many columns in the aggregate indicated that the editors were alive to the importance of the case. While the treatment of the details did not always reveal the certainty of philatelic knowledge, yet it was seen that much progress has been made in philatelic understanding, in a newspaper sense. The news of the verdict was spread far and wide in the newspapers on the day it was given and the following example from the Chicago Post, headed, "Stamps Forgeries, Judge Rules in $65,000 Suit," is a good one: "The Grinnell Hawaiian postage stamps, famous among collectors, have been declared forgeries by Judge J. Perry Wood, and the federal government has confiscated them as such. This brought to an end a suit brought by J. A. Klemann of New York for the recovery of $65,000 he paid George H. Grinnell of Los Angeles for the forty-two stamps. Klemann said they would have been worth $200,000 if they had been genuine."

Again Arthur Brisbane has a fit in our front yard and his rampings around our premises are mussing things up. This time he pays his compliments to The Collector in one of his syndicated editorials in a way to cause them pain, from excess of laughter. He says that the inmates of lunatic asylums in many cases will pick up paper scraps and put them away mysteriously. When it comes to collecting postage stamps, he adds that the specimens are unsightly as a rule and that as for the geography and history that they are supposed to teach, "you could put it in your eye." As a correspondent points out, when Mr. Brisbane ventures out from shore, he flounders about in a way to make the judicious grieve. Goodness knows that in our happy philatelic hunting-ground, there are many who handle their blunderbusses with almost criminal carelessness and perhaps one of our nimrods hit him once upon a time with a pot-shot, but it is still not easy to understand why stamps are undergoing so much discipline from him. We rather like a clever thrust at stamp collecting when it is shown that the foil is in the hand of a master. We wish we could find the famous old Town Topics roast that was published when one of the A. P. S. conventions was held in New York City. That would be a rush-light to Brisbane's farthing candle.

From Mr. L. Meister, we have received news that Gambia has passed an ordinance charging a commission of five per cent. on stamps shipped out by the postmaster. Mr. Meister says that he has had to pay the commission twice thus far and complains that in addition they do not properly fill his orders for blocks,—he "got strips; also, several damaged copies in the bargain." We should think that with the long set in use and a proposal of a new issue of higher values, as Mr. Meister says, Gambia would be willing to let well enough alone and not discriminate against the buyer from afar.

From Reval, Esthonia, a correspondent writes that "Russian money changes very much." He says that several months ago, a million rubles was worth about three dollars but that now the quotation is about one million for one dollar. "The stamps are dearer because it is difficult to get the small values," our correspondent says, speaking of the Russian stamps. He continues: "I thought to go to Petrograd for two weeks, but the last time the Russians have shot some Esthonian citizens. It is not agreeable to travel in such country as Russia. As soon as I get some new stamps from Russia, I shall send you some."

That clever chap whose job it is to provide the questions that make up the "memory tests" that are syndicated to many newspapers deserves well of us; and right here we wish to say that his questions exceed in interest and instruction those of his imitators. As proof of his intelligent treatment of his work, we cite the following from recent instalments of his tests. "What is the pet indoor sport of Pauline Frederick, movie star? She's a philatelist. She saves postage stamps. What is the highest denomination postage stamp ever issued by the United States? The $100 purple newspaper stamp of the 1895 issue, used in connection with second class publications mailed in lots of five tons or more at a time. How did postage and revenue stamps come to be called stamps? The earliest stamps were revenue stamps that were literally stamped, not printed, in embossed relief without ink, each one separately directly on the document itself."

Now the good old New York Sun shines on philately and one of the editors bearing the torch of truth in one hand smacks the typewriter keys with the other. His head, "Passion for Stamps," is not particularly taking, but his comments are interesting. He says that the most clinging of all bugs is that of philately and he proves it with fair words. While his climax is not soul-stirring, it is just as well that he does not excite us this hot weather. He says: "There must be some explanation for the price of $32,077.50, which was paid recently for one stamp issued three generations ago in British Guiana." Just so.

A BIG CUT

We have made a "Big Cut" in our mailing list and reduced it about 35 per cent. All names that have not been heard from for the past 18 months have been deleted. Next Sale July 26th. "THE MOONSHINE CREATION" A Distinctly Different Packet

"There is nothing new under the sun"—verily, the sage hath spoken. But by the light of the moon we have created something that is new, and yet it has quality. It will appeal to the man with a thirst—for adventure, and it will satisfy his expectations.

It is a pleasure, Ladies and Gentlemen, to introduce "THE MOONSHINE CREATION." 350 separate and different kinds, 95% distilled since 1914. A plethora of value (cat. $10). Never before has there been such a galaxy of "good stuff." We defy competition!

Discount the above 50% for "Hot-air," Boil it down, skim it, and behold—350 varieties, cat. $10. 95% new and recent issues. No junk, but some fine stamps. Just the thing for vacation. The price? $1.02 (1/10 cat.!).

Buy a "Creation," examine it, if it's not worth more than our price to you—return it. You'll receive your money and a souvenir besides! Could anything be fairer?

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—Derek Ingram and F. H. Vallancey send the WEEKLY greetings from the Ninth Philatelic Congress held at Bath, England, June 20-23. A Congress post-office was established and all cards mailed from the office bore a special postmark. "Philatelic Congress-Bath" accompanied by hour and date of mailing.

—It may be of interest to you to know that we have received a cover postage paid from Calcutta to London which we presume is cancelled by one of the new automatic machines, similar to those that were used in New Zealand. It may also interest you to know that the 10c current stamp of Holland has been re-engraved, the horizontal lines of the background in the centre around the Queen's Head are now much wider apart than originally and it is very distinct when compared with the old ones.—BRIGHT & SON.

—W. Randall of Montreal sends us a clipping from the Star of June 29. It pictures a syndicated halftone cut that is being used to the benefit of philately. It is a double column cut showing Milton Carlson examining a 2c Hawaii. Over the cut is the caption "Fortune at Stake in Stamp Suit". The comment beneath the cut includes this statement, "If genuine this stamp is worth $20,000. John A. Klemann, N. Y. dealer, who says he bought 43 of them is suing a Los Angeles dealer alleging that the government pronounced them forgeries."

—F. E. Hook of Detroit, Mich., would like the present address of John Hopkins, formerly 6020 Wyandotte St., Kansas City, Mo.

—The Broadway Stamp Co., 115 Nassau St., N. Y. City, would like to be similarly favored with Charles Birdsall, 258 Stegman St., Jersey City, N. J., Chas. Babb, 50 Ireson Av., Lynn, Mass. and Mr. Steljes, 200 Union St., Flushing, N. Y. These dealers are unable to secure replies to letters addressed these parties.

—There is a letter at this office for Mr. R. F. Healy. Will subscribers please note that we are unable to furnish addresses of subscribers. We have stated time and time again that our mail list is arranged by sub-divisions in such a manner that it is absolutely impossible for us to furnish addresses.

The next discontinuance of subscriptions will concern all subscribers whose wrappers bear the numbers 1644 to 1648 inclusive. Just glance at your wrapper immediately in order to make sure that your subscription is paid up. You have ample time in which to renew and be saved the inconvenience of a discontinance. Moreover, under our new system we are making no plans for furnishing back numbers and subscribers must not expect that we can supply back numbers when we have made every effort to notify them.

We are satisfied that the system we have inaugurated is the only one under which a newspaper can do business these days, and subscribers must understand that free copies of the WEEKLY will not be sent to those who are in arrears.

THE MANAGING EDITOR.

ST. LOUIS STAMP COLLECTORS SOC.

By W. D. HELMAN, Pres.

We started out on our this year's campaign with a beautiful exhibition of stamps in the Public Library, and advertised in the daily papers that we would have the exhibition, to be followed by a lecture on stamp collecting. We had colored slides made for an illustrated lecture and a projecting machine, and the lecture, which was given by one of our members, Mr. L. F. Yeckel, drew a capacity house. Mr. Yeckel also exhibited in the lecture room, 8 large frames filled with a wonderful specialized collection of Netherlands, No. 1, No. 2 and No. 3, which are his particular pets.

Inasmuch as we advertised that every one attending the lecture would receive a souvenir in the shape of a packet of 300 different stamps, you may be sure that we didn't lack attendance. The lecture room in the library only holds 300 people and we had standing room only.

The exhibit filled thirty-two display cases, three feet by four feet each, and was filled with portions of collections by members, making an extremely interesting exhibit, and incidentally we got quite a few new members on the strength of it. We have no trouble at all in getting publicity in the newspapers for same.

On July 1, we are to hold our first stamp bourse in Tower Grove Park, an open-air meeting where we will sit in the shade of some wonderful old trees, and swap duplicates and sell and buy. If we have the attendance that we expect, we will make the Bourse a monthly occurrence.

We think that if the average club were bitten by the go-get-em bug, they would find that there are lots of collectors eager to join them. Just "Kick up the Dust" a little, and the collectors will come out.

COMMUNICATIONS.

To THE EDITOR:

In your issue of June 17, I notice an article of Russian stamps. As I have several covers from register letters from Russia not more than two months old, I can mention one cover with 16 7,500 rubles blue; two 3 Kopek red; one 2 Kop, total 120,000r 8k.

Another: eight 7,500r surcharged on 250r violet; four 5,000r surcharged 5r blue; four 10,000r surcharged 40r blue; two 3k red, total 120,000r 6k.

Another: eight 22,500r br. violet; two 7,500r blue; one 5,000r surcharged on 2r brown, total of 200,000r.

I have also some freaks in Hungary, Austria and Czek Slavick.

Hungary—16 60 fillers brown on one.
12 1 kroners red on another.

Respectfully yours,
GEORGE W. WAGNER,
Brooklyn, N. Y.

To THE EDITOR:

In your editorial columns of June 10, '22, I notice your article on Fire Insurance on Stamps.

I have tried for ten years to obtain such insurance on my stamp collection, coin collection, also paper money collection, but in neither instance have I been successful, although I have applied to large agencies who represent practically all the leading Fire Insurance Companies.

On account of personal friendship, special effort has been made by the representatives to place such insurance but the answer has always been, that no company could be found which would accept the same.

I find no difficulty in obtaining adequate Theft and Burglarly Insurance, although the rate is somewhat high, and for fire protection I have found it necessary to use a fire proof safe cabinet.

Will be glad if any of your readers can furnish the name of a Fire Insurance Company that will cover any of the items above mentiond.

JOHN W. HAARER,

A CORRECTION.

To the Editor:—

My attention has been drawn to an article with the heading "Out-bid King George" in the number of your paper dated May 27th last.

Will you please correct the misleading statements contained in the article: (1) that His majesty King George "was a bidder through an agent for the British Guiana postage stamp which recently sold for more than $32,000 at the auction sale in Paris of the Ferrari collection" and (2) that His Majesty "was disappointed in not obtaining" the stamp. Far from this being the truth, His Majesty never gave a commission to anyone attending the auction to bid for this stamp and never had any intention of trying to buy the specimen.

The result of the sale, therefore caused him no disappointment.

Yours faithfully,
E. D. BACON,
Curator of the Philatelic Collections of His Majesty, King George.

ATLAS STAMP CO. (P. C. SMITH) W. Somerville 44, Mass.

Another U. S. Error

Another error of perforation in the case of our stamps has been located, namely the 1c green and 2c carmine from the rotary compound waste sheets, imperforated horizontally. I offer fine mint blocks of each, Scott's Nos. 440a and 440b in the new edition, at $4.00 for the two blocks. Just think, two blocks for $4, whereas the 2c alone when first found sold at fifteen times this figure.

If you require these same two stamps perforated all around, that is, perforated 11x10, I will send you a fine block of each together with a block of the 3c, Scott's Nos. 440-441 and 442 at 75c for the three blocks.

Always in the market to purchase any finds of U. S. varieties similar to above. Watch your post office and make your collection pay for itself.

Information regarding new issues and varieties will be gratefully received. We cannot give the addresses of correspondents.

The chronicle of United States is edited by PHILIP H. WARD, JR., Box 4216, Germantown, Phila., Pa. The foreign chronicle is edited by PERCY C. SMITH, 40 Packard Ave., West Somerville, Mass. Correspondents will please be careful to send their matter to the right address.

UNITED STATES.—Some months back there was located in the Washington Post Office several pairs of the 2c rotary prints from the coil waste sheets of 170 stamps wherein the horizontal perforations were missing. These were from the ends of the sheet, the perforating wheel having failed to cut between the last two rows of stamps. Coming from the sheets with compound perforations, these imperforate horizontal varieties are naturally perforated 10 vertically. Because of the small find at the time the pairs commanded quite a fair premium.

Quite a fair quantity of the same variety have now been found in New York, and I desire to thank Mr. E. N. Costales of the Scott Stamp & Coin Co., and Mr. J. M. Bartels for an early view of blocks from this find. Stamps of the 2c denomination from both the early and late find are from die III.

At the same time I have been favored with blocks from the rotary press of the 1c unwatermarked in the same condition, that is, imperforate horizontally and perforated 10 vertically. These two stamps will be listed in the new Scott's catalogue as number 440a in the case of the 1c and No. 441b for the 2c.

1921-22, Rotary Print, Perf. 11x10, unwatermarked.

2c carmine, Imperf. horizontally.

The 2c has not been found in this condition from die II and it is not likely that it will, for even in the case of the compound perforated variety, only about a couple sheets were located and these were discovered when the Bureau of Engraving and Printing first started to make use of the coil waste.

Collectors will learn with regret of the death of Mr. William J. Barrows, for several years Chief Clerk to the Third Assistant Postmaster General. He acted as Third Assistant for many months, and collectors making inquiry through his division regarding stamps, will recall the many courtesies extended. He is succeeded by Mr. Harvey Lovejoy of Saint Louis. Mr. Lovejoy has a post office record to be envied, for during his thirty years' service in the department he has never taken a day sick leave.

While speaking of government officials, past and present, of interest to the philatelist, it will be news to many to learn that several of the former officials of the Bureau who were ousted last March by executive order have now located elsewhere. Mr. George U. Rose, for many years chief of the Engraving Division, has signed a five years' contract with an English firm at a salary said to be four times that which he formerly received. Mr. G. F. C. Smillie, reputed to be the best vignette engraver in the country, is now with the American Bank Note Co. of New York, the firm that printed many of our stamps previous to 1894. The former Director, Mr. James L. Wilmeth, is the head of the loan department of a Washington firm. Mr. G. C. Cole, former head of the Surface Division that turned out the famous or rather infamous surface or offset printed stamps, has established a printing plant of his own in that Old Virginia town of Alexandria, where one of our early postmaster provisionals were made.

I had the pleasure quite recently, of meeting the owner, and inspecting the much written about Boscawen, Lockport and Annapolis Postmaster Provisionals, as well as the unique 1c British Guiana, all from the world famed Ferrari collection. In an early WEEKLY I hope to have a few notes regarding them.

In the Chronicle for June 10th, I have made an error in designating the lone 3c surface plate, although I give the correct number in the issue of June 24th. Will our readers kindly correct their list to read:—

AUSTRIA.—The Stamp Shoppe, Inc., have shown us the 500h in the latest design in an orange shade.

BRUNEI.—The Rev. L. Meister calls attention to our Chronicle of No. 42, and advises that he thinks we are in error. Mr. Meister adds "If you carefully examine No. 30, you will find that it is a white back, though not as clear as the other white backs. I got a recent shipment of 10c which are on thicker, very yellow paper never known before. Confer Gibbons, who has no price for all yellow No. 33, but quotes the white back, No. 33a, at 5c, very moderate, unless current."

BULGARIA.—The Economist Stamp Co. have shown us three new values of the 1915 set of postage due stamps. They are 1L green; 2L red, and 3L light brown.

CANADA.—Mr. F. L. Belanger and Mr. George A. Wilkens advise of the 1c in yellow and also the 2c in green. Mr. Belanger also adds that he has the 2c in side wise coil perf. 8.

To the excise tax stamps of Canada have been added a ½ cent in a red about the same shade as the present U. S. 12 cent postage.

Also recently added, a 1 cent brown excise tax stamp coiled lengthwise perf. eight surcharged in two line gothic type, Div. 17, surcharged with rubber stamp in red. This is used on small boxes foreign matches, which heretofore had the same stamp surcharge printed in black in sans-serif type in two lines. There is an error of above printed surcharge with the 1 of 17 missing.

The 1 and 2 cent postals have appeared in same colors as the new postage of same value.

PERMITS FOR MAILING WITHOUT STAMPS AFFIXED.

Type E.—The P. O. Dept. having recognized the need of having a distinctive design for permit postage imprinted by postage meters where the words "permit" and "meter" were spelled in full, again amended Section 459 on Dec. 8, 1921, and adopted this design. They also ruled that all postage meters in use must have the printing design changed to conform to the new ruling, but gave the Postage Meter Company a reasonable time to make the change. At the present time, the Pitney-Bowes manufacture the only postage meter used in this connection. Others may be placed on the market later, but unless this section of the Postal Laws and Regulations are again changed, this design will be used. All Postage Meter machines that have been sold or rented since the first of the year 1922, have gone out with this style of indicia, and gradually the machines that were in use previously, are either having the old dies replaced by the new designs, or in some cases it has been noted that entire meter units have been exchanged.

Interesting Features.

Let us not make the mistake of classing these meter marks as a "philatelic side-line" and in consequence giving them a lowly place in our estimation. The stamps that are rare today were at one time as common as some of these early meter marks. Some will say that art plays a part in the valuation of rare stamps, but when we consider the one cent British Guiana at $32,000, the Boscawen at $15,000 or the Hawaii at $14,000 the meter mark stands pre-eminently the better chance of taking the prize for artistic workmanship. We are not claiming that meter marks will ever reach prices quoted above, for the present generation produces collectors who are broad minded enough to see opportunities outside of the beaten path, and there would be a few that would collect them regardless. They will never replace the postage stamp entirely in their present form. The manufacturers acknowledge that they see only a possible 20,000 prospective users. There are already five distinct types and many sub varieties. There may be other changes in the near future. The main object of this article is to get collectors acquainted with the specimens while they are current, and to give all an equal opportunity to make a collection at a nominal cost.

It is altogether possible that many of the early permits issued in New York City, used Type B or C, and later installed a postage meter. The period between May 10, 1920, when first class permits were first authorized, and August 4, 1921 (nearly fifteen months) when the first postage meter was installed, would lead us to believe that there are many of these early types still to be located.

The fact that the Postage Meter Co. rent their machines by the month, it is altogether possible that some concern might experiment with the machine for a month or two and discontinue its use. There is nearly a twelve month period between the adoption of Type D and Type E, still we can only trace sixty-five (65) machines that used the Type D impression. Some of these were for a limited period and most of the early dates were during a time when few collectors were interested in them. The supply, without doubt, is very limited. Within a period of a little over two years we have something in current philatelic material that is reasonably rare, and it is safe to say that it would be impossible for even a thousand collectors to obtain a complete collection at the present time. There are still a few of the Type D that are current, but these will probably all be replaced with Type E dies before the end of June, 1922.

Arranging a Collection.

We note a desire among some collectors to keep meter covers entire. We have noted sizes ranging from 2¾x4 to 8x14. The majority of those we have corresponded with prefer to cut these from the envelope four inches long by two inches wide. If this size could be universally adopted, it would assist greatly in the exchange of specimens. With a uniform size it is possible to arrange a collection alphabetically by states, using guide cards 2½x4 and for the cities a guide card 2¼x4. The city card can be made out something like the following,

Pittsburgh P-5 M-1022 D-2 T-D

With a guide card for each distinct variety one can keep their collection constantly in check. At any time varieties from this file can be removed, trimmed smaller if necessary and mounted in blank books or albums in the proper arrangement.

There is no advantage in collecting these entire except for the benefit of the corner card with the name of the user, for color, size, knife, gum and other features of envelope collecting would not be of any value or interest in connection with meter marks. The check list we are publishing, identifies practically all meter marks, and additions which we will publish from time to time, should be sufficient identification. We would, however, appreciate suggestions which we will gladly pass on to those interested.

AKRON OHIO CELEBRATES.

By Ernest E. Thoma.

June 24, the Rubber City Stamp Club of Akron, Branch 51 of the A. P. S., held its third annual banquet at the Elks' Club, with a total attendance of fifty members and guests. Thirty-three were from Akron, fifteen from Cleveland, and one each from Medina and Wadsworth.

Starting in the afternoon at three o'clock with "how-de-doos," attention was then turned to sales and exchanges of stamps for the men, while the ladies engaged in cards. Shortly before dinner a spirited auction was held, at which time exceptionally good prices were realized on those items offered.

The dining room presented an attractive appearance, as in place of the usual place cards, vari-colored balloons were found tied to the backs of the chairs, the names and addresses of the guests being printed on these, while at time of drinking the water, those present saw a postage stamp showing thru the bottom of their glass.

Immediately after dinner, Miss Kathleen Ream, daughter of Vice-President and Mrs. Ream, presented some very enjoyable esthetic dances. A number of interesting talks were given among those speaking being the Messrs. Otto Moses, Louis Hanford, William Whitaker and W. W. MacLaren, all of Cleveland, and Si Weatherby of Medina.

The regular dance was then given, all present finding it an agreeable entertainment until ten-thirty, at which time the party closed.

HEARD AND SEEN IN A CITY STAMP SHOP.

Deaf Collector: Where's this stamp from?

Dealer: Azerbaijan.

Deaf Collector: Where?—I'm a bit deaf.

Dealer: Azerbaijan.

Deaf Collector: How say?

Dealer: Azerbaijan.

The following guests were from Akron: Miss K. Howe Bennett, G. Brohez, James E. Crouch, Miss Ethel M. Crouch, Mrs. Olive Wood, Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Ewing, Delbert and Walter Gibson, Miss Dorothy Burge, Walter P. Gordon, O. S. Hart, Cornel Kmentt, Arno Kmentt, Miss Gerda Kmentt, Edward Korach, Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Kruse, L. C. Lovejoy, Mr. and Mrs. Harry G. Ream, Miss Kathleen Ream, Herbert S. Rose, Ernest Elwood Thoma, Miss Harmon Todd, Basil Wingrove, B. A. Zaremba, Louis Jiacomini, H. Wolcot, Eddie Church, Miss Margaret Reed, J. F. Cherry and C. A. Bensinger.

Cleveland was represented by the following: Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Chamberlin, Fritz and Karl Jansen, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. MacLaren, Mrs. C. R. Moses, Otto Moses, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Osterheld, Miss Dorothy Osterheld, Miss Eleanor MacLaren, Louis Hanford, W. G. Whitaker and Miss Dorothy Whitaker. C. W. Stiles of Wadsworth, was also present, as was Si Weatherby of Medina.

The following Saturday thirteen of Rubber City spent a delightful afternoon and evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Cornel Kmentt, who live near Northampton, a small village close to Akron. A "feed" which rivaled the preceding week's banquet, was enjoyed by all, and in addition to seeing Mr. Kmentt's collection of rare stamps, those present had the privilege of seeing his collection of several thousand butterflies, many of these having been brought across from Europe.

Violin selections by Mr. Kmentt, impromptu (esthetic?) dances by Messrs. Gibson and Thoma, the singing of songs and many other informal entertainments by those present, all of these combined to make the "July Scramble" the most enjoyable gathering ever held by the club.

TO BE AT SPRINGFIELD.

The following have expressed their intention of being at the Springfield convention of the A. P. S.:—

Mr. and Mrs. Wendover Neefus, Hudson, N. Y.
A. W. Batchelder, Salem, Mass.
Willard O. Wylie, Beverly, Mass.
J. W. Sampson, N. Y. City.
Mrs. L. W. Kellogg, West Hartford, Conn.
Charles E. Severn, Chicago, Ill.
Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Jewett, Portland, Me.

If you plan to attend write the Weekly to that effect.

NEW YORK "SUN" EDITORIAL.

Probably every normal boy passes through a period (it has been compared to measles time) when he collects something violently. Frequently he becomes more of a collector and can show a series of collections, as the disease becomes chronic—cigar bands, campaign buttons, or pictures of ball-players or the like that accompany cigarettes. Often enough he bears the mark of his boyhood love for complete sets of something into manhood, where he does systematically what he formerly did unconsciously.

The most devastating variety of the collecting bug is philately. It is practically the only variety which is carried on from youth into years of extreme age. When a man becomes a specialist in Japanese prints, in porcelain, in silks or rugs, there is an æsthetic quality on which he can fall back when a friend taxes him with his hobby. But in old postage stamps æsthetic taste plays but slight part. A perfect copy of a United States 10-cent black, 1847, is not particularly handsome, yet it is a necessity for all who specialize in "early U. S." The Hawaiian "Missionaries" are neither handsome nor accessible, except to a few rich collectors, yet how many long for just one of them to stand in isolated splendor in the beloved album. Philately seems as unreasonable as any other affliction.

Boys are caught first by the highly colored, odd shaped and out of the way issues of postage stamps. Something of the romance of the East, the mystery of Africa or South America lingers in stamps from these places. If in boyhood this was the appeal, could not a psycho-analyst trace the grown-ups' enthusiasm to such a source, existing unnoticed and urging the elders on to further interest? There must be some explanation for the price of $32,077.50, which was paid recently for one stamp issued three generations ago in British Guiana.

THE POST OFFICE DEPARTMENT SEAL.

It has always been something of a mystery to people interested in postal affairs why there was no definite knowledge of the origin and history of the Post Office Department seal which is seen upon all official publications of the department. No one seems to know anything about it and attempts to find out among department people brought no results. * * *

It appears that the original design for a Post Office Department seal, according to Francis Huebner, an accepted authority on postal affairs, volume 32, No. 5, L' Union Postale, records of the Columbia Historical Society, was that of Mercury riding upon the clouds, but the introduction of the pony express in 1836, it is said, induced the Postmaster General, Amos Kendall, in an order dated May 1, 1837, to change the seal to its present design of a galloping pony with a mail messenger astride.

This historical statement is, however, contradicted by the historian, Benson J. Lossing, who stated in an article published in Harper's Monthly Magazine for February, 1869 (Vol. XXXVIII, p. 319), that Benjamin Franklin, when first appointed Postmaster General, issued a circular concerning the Postal Service on which was a picture of a galloping pony, which he assumes was the origin of the present seal.

The records of the year 1837 are not available in the Post Office Department, and the order of Postmaster General Kendall can not be found to verify the statement of Huebner, and it is left to conjecture whether the seal as at present originated with Kendall in 1837, or with Franklin as stated by Lossing.—By LOUIS MELIUS, author of The American Postal Service; reprinted from The Postmasters' Advocate.

COLLECTIONS FOR SALE

In our recent purchase of a foreign dealer's wholesale stock, involving several thousand dollars cash, a number of excellent collections were obtained. We are not retail dealers and have neither the time to break up the collections nor the market in which to sell single stamps. It is our desire to sell each collection intact at a price low enough to draw immediate purchasers. Many of the offerings are no doubt priced at less than replacement cost, and while we do not know the catalogue value of each individual collection, it is our belief that any one of them will prove a good investment not only for collectors, but also for dealers or exchangers, and will net an excellent profit when remounted on approval sheets at 50% discount.

OUR GUARANTEE: We give an unqualified guarantee that each collection offered by us contains all different, undamaged, genuine, Postage Stamps Only—no "cast-offs", telegraphs, revenues, or unlisted minor varieties. We will accept the return of anything which does not meet the above description and the purchase price, plus all expenses, will be refunded without question.

Twenty Thousand Variety Collection

Our best and most valuable offering. A collection containing more than 20,000 all different stamps in good condition and covering the widest possible range of countries. Twentieth century issues are well represented, as well as a goodly number of the older stamps, both used and mint. The following scarce United States stamps, all in very fine condition, are included:

1847, 5c brown, 10c black, Nos. 28, 29,	cat.	$30.00
1851, 30c orange, No. 53,	cat.	20.00
1861, 3c August, No. 56, o. g., Fine,	cat.	25.00
1869, 1c to 30c cpl., Nos. 112-21,	cat.	30.96
1893, Columbian Issue Complete,	cat.	31.37
1898, Trans-Mississippi Complete,	cat.	13.35
1865, Newspaper, 5c, No. 2001, scarce,	cat.	20.00

The collection absolutely does not contain the many telegraphs, revenues, and minor varieties found in most foreign offerings. We recommend this collection in the highest terms for the collector who wishes to enter the "advanced class" with the least expenditure of money, or to the dealer needing a large variety for counter trade or approval sheets.

PRICE ONLY $1,250.00

Ten Thousand Variety Collection

Similar to the above collection, but containing fewer of the "hard-to-get" varieties. Will catalogue high enough to make it a good buy for the approval dealer, and also for the collector, who can in this way add to his collection at wholesale prices. All the stamps are different and in good condition. Mounted by countries in ten blank books. (European price is 3,000 francs—$270.00). We have three of these collections and offer them at absolute rock-bottom prices to clear.

Portuguese Colonial Collection

Wm. F. Anderson, 4828 Roscoe St., Chicago, Ill., a prominent col of years' standing, writes under date of May 10th as follows: "Ack edging with thanks yours of the 4th, permit me to say that I was very pleased with the collection of 1500 different Portuguese Colonies. M lection numbers about 25,000 varieties, but during my entire experi have never received the value which this lot contained."

A collection of 1,500 different stamps from Portuguese Colonies (no Portugal), mounted by countries in three blank books. Most stamps are unused and the condition is practically perfect throughout. hard-to-get varieties as the Vasco da Gama issues surcharged, scarce visionals, etc., etc., are included in large numbers. Catalogue value anteed between $350 and $400. Collectors and dealers all over the try are beginning to recognize the investment value of Portuguese Col many of which are underpriced in the catalogue and destined to b quite scarce within the next few years. Only a very unusual and fort purchase enables us to offer this collection at practically one-sixth of logue price!

DECISION IN KLEMANN vs. GRINNELL CASE.

In the Superior Court of the State of California in and for the County of Los Angeles

Hon. J. P. WOOD, Judge.

JOHN A. KLEMANN, Plaintiff, vs.

GEORGE H. GRINNELL, Defendant.

ORAL DECISION OF THE COURT.

June 29, 1922.

The Court: There is only one phase of the matters that have been presented to the court upon which I would be unwilling at this time, if the case hinged upon it, to express my conclusions. Since this case will doubtless be ultimately passed upon by another court, and this particular phase could only be finally determined by it, and since, as I say, this question is not necessary to a determination of this action, I think that I shall express my conclusions at this time.

This case has taken approximately two weeks of court days. It has certainly been well tried. It has been exhaustively argued. It might seem almost unseemly that the court should off-hand decide a case so tried and so argued, but during the whole course of the case the issues have been so well developed, the court has had opportunity to give to them an amount of study which I think justifies the court in deciding this case at this time. I will say that if I felt there could be any change in my final conclusion, I certainly would take the case under submission for longer deliberation, for the case is important in many aspects, and in one aspect which has given the court a good deal of anxious thought, and that is the effect of this case upon the parties thereto.

Now the first thing, and the most important thing, to be determined is, are these stamps genuine? It is clear to my mind that they are not, that they are forgeries, constructed by a process of photo-engraving. And I say it is clear to my mind that that is so, regardful of all that that necessarily implies. I have carefully studied and examined these stamps as we have gone along, and I spent two or three hours upon them last night with the few exemplars of genuine stamps that I had, and I am convinced that those stamps, that is the Grinnell stamps, were never made with type. I appreciate the fact that there may be a difference in the different examples of typeset stamps. These differences, however, can be explained. The differences, however, between the Grinnell stamps here and the genuine stamps are such as they cannot be explained away. To attempt a philatelic dissertation on this subject would require an amount of time that has been rendered unnecessary by the arguments of counsel, in which, as in the testimony of the various experts, the differences have been pointed out. We have the testimony of a number of experts, all of whom were to the mind of the court endeavoring to testify truthfully and in accordance with their best ability. I cannot believe that any of those men was actuated by ulterior motives, and the reasons by which or with which they fortified their opinions are and have been convincing to the mind of the court. Incidentally, upon that subject, the opinion of Klemann, the plaintiff, that these stamps were forgeries, would not have been arrived at except by an utter disregard of his highest financial interest. Certainly it cannot be thought that any break in the market for these stamps, due to the presentation of the Grinnell stamps to it, could upon any hypothesis be an actuating motive for Klemann to attempt to establish as spurious these stamps, unless it was perfectly plain to his mind that they were, and I think he was amply justified in the conclusion that was reached that these stamps are forgeries.

Now, I will not attempt to support the conclusion that they are forgeries by the circumstances and inferences in connection with or arising out of the testimony as to the source of these stamps. I will content myself in that connection with saying, regretfully, that the story of the discovery and acquisition of these stamps by the defendant bears marks of improbability which make it difficult for the court to accept it.

Now, taking it, as I must, that the stamps are not genuine, what is the legal situation? A written contract was made whereby Grinnell sold to Klemann certain stamps known as "Hawaiian Missionaries". The receipt that was

UNSOLICITED TESTIMONIALS

New Order enclosed. I "cleaned up" on last packet I received from you (1000 variety) already realizing more than I paid after securing 400 varieties for myself.—B. Buchanan, Liverpool, Ohio.

Well satisfied with 2000 packet. Secured 900 stamps for my collection, selling the rest to my friends. Have already cleared over $5.00.—A. Wahlberg, Oakland, Calif.

Very much pleased with 1000 packet. Order enclosed for a 2000. I was greatly surprised at the quality of the stamps in the packet.—F. C. Elmes, Berwick, Pa.

Use bonds sent as payment for 10,000 variety packet. The packet proved highly satisfactory as a basis for a general collection.—F. M. Bigelow, Chicago, Ill.

Received 1000 packet some days ago and have had a fine time looking them over. Secured 250 new stamps for my collection of 3700, traded 43 for other new varieties and replaced 100 that were better specimens than mine. I never saw any stamps in such good condition, not a poor one in the lot. Order for 2000 packet enclosed.—T. Herrick, City Treasurer, Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

H. F. COLMAN

given for the $1,000 is a very significant indication of what was in the minds of the parties, and I think that it was not until the conversation at the bank, when Mr. Grinnell brought up the question whether he guaranteed the genuineness of the stamps—it was not until then that there was any suggestion by either of the parties that Grinnell was not selling what he was representing to be genuine stamps. His statement as to the source of the stamps, and the fact that there were others to be had from the same source, bears out that hypothesis. At the time the contract was made certainly both proceeded upon the mistaken hypothesis that these stamps were genuine, or the purchaser believed them to be genuine and the seller suspected their genuineness. There can be no other alternative. So that at that time this contract was made under a mistake which legally amply justifies a recision.

With respect to the meaning of the contract, and as to what the contract between the parties was, which more accurately puts it, I think we must entirely disregard the transactions and arrangements between the parties subsequent to the making of this written instrument which is in evidence. That was a binding contract. Klemann sought to have Grinnell change it in certain particulars. Grinnell stood upon his contract. That contract was never changed, was never abandoned, another contract was never substituted for it. The only things that were done in connection with the delivery of the stamps that might be said to differ from what was in contemplation of the parties when the written instrument was made, were in favor of Mr. Grinnell. There was no change. The contract provided no place of delivery, although the law implies, perhaps, a certain place of delivery, but the contract specified no place of delivery, and the arrangement to deliver the stamps in San Francisco did not modify or change or abrogate the contract, in my opinion, in any respect. As a matter of fact, the stamps were delivered and the money paid all within the thirty-day term fixed by the contract. The contract was carried out. Now, when the contract was made and the rights of the respective parties by it established, Mr. Grinnell could not afterwards, when the stamps were about to be handed over, or at any other time, say, "I won't carry out this contract unless it is understood I do not guarantee the genuineness of these stamps". He has received a consideration upon the contract. The mutual obligations to sell and buy established the contract, had no money been paid over—although, perhaps, to be accurate, I would have to say, except for the fact that the contract provided it should be paid over, which was a fact—and the circumstance of Mr. Grinnell stating that he would not guarantee the stamps and would give the money back unless Klemann would take them without such guarantee, must be entirely disregarded, in my judgment. It might be considered as evidence upon the question what the intention of the parties was, as to a warranty of the genuineness of the stamps, if we were to examine into facts extraneous the contract to determine the intention. But if we did that, I could not deduce from the circumstances that occurred at the bank an intention upon the part of the parties thereto that there should be no warranty, because if there was an intention that there should be none, and it was definite, it might better have been expressed. And unless Grinnell understood that Klemann thought there was a warranty, express or implied, in his agreement, why should he at this time have suggested what he did? It must be remembered that Klemann repudiated the idea that there was no warranty of genuineness. Now I refer to that, gentlemen, only in passing, because the question of warranty is the one that I had in mind when I said I would be unwilling to decide this case at this moment if it had to be decided upon the question of warranty, speaking technically and legally. I am of the opinion that the implication of this contract is that the stamps are genuine Hawaiian Missionaries, and not pieces of paper which the purchaser was taking at his risk.

It is true that Klemann is an expert and he had an opportunity to examine these stamps, but it has been thoroughly demonstrated here that the sort of inspection that was possible there was not such as to conclude Klemann against disputing the genuineness or claiming that there was a warranty. And I think counsel points out with aptness that the representation as to the source of the stamps would naturally lull a purchaser into a sense of security, particularly when made by a man of Mr. Grinnell's occupation and standing. But, as I say, my judgment is based primarily upon the theory of mistake, which is open to the court certainly under the last cause of action, and if it was not, it would be the duty of the court to open it by appropriate pleadings, because the evidence is before the court which justifies a finding, which ought to be made, and to make which the pleading should be made, if necessary. I think, under the doctrine of the case cited by counsel, which has not been to my knowledge changed by subsequent pronouncements of the Supreme Court, that under the common count for money had and received a judgment based upon the theory of mistake is open to the court and to the parties.

That leaves for consideration the question, has the plaintiff precluded himself from the aid of a court of equity through failure to tender back the consideration, or to tender back what he received, and demand what he paid, before the action was commenced? We, of course, all understand what the general rule is. We all know that it is based upon a maxim that he who seeks equity must first do equity, but that maxim was never intended to require an idle or a useless thing, nor to prejudice a suitor in equity. I think Mr. Grinnell was not prejudiced in any substantial or indeed in any manner, by the failure to tender to him these stamps. I have in mind authorities or rather principles supported by authorities—counsel referred to them, though I think he cited none of the authorities—but based upon the doctrine that an idle act is not required. A demand is not required if it is known that it will be refused. A tender is not required, certainly of something which is valueless, and which very plainly would have been refused. I think that it would be little less than a travesty upon justice if the court should attempt to cease upon the failure to tender, to deny the plaintiff relief here. It would be to grasp at a straw to do injustice. Now, I am not unmindful of the argument of Mr. Lawlor upon the conduct of the plaintiff with respect to the disposition of these stamps, but so far as any real prejudice to the defendant is concerned, I think there is none. It might have been of advantage to him to have these stamps for the purpose of comparison in the preparation of his case, but there were some stamps of his that the Government had, which could be used for this purpose, if they were needed; and, if any of them could have been gotten from the Government, these, I take it, could have been gotten by Mr. Grinnell himself.

Now counsel refers to the plaintiff using the power of the Federal Government to collect this debt. I think it is plain that Mr. Klemann hoped for some advantage from the fact that the Federal Government should become interested in the question of the genuineness of these stamps. The Government readily could become interested in finding out who could make such clever reproductions, because he who makes reproductions of such things as these could make reproductions of other things; and so there was certainly, it seems to me, no impropriety in calling the District Attorney's attention to the facts, as was done by counsel for plaintiff. Under the testimony of Mr. Loeb and the testimony of Captain Walsh, I do not think that I could hold that the possession of the Government was the possession of the plaintiff, although it is true his action instituted the steps which resulted in the stamps being taken. But whether the Government was legally justified in taking the stamps or not, they were taken under color of authority by Captain Walsh, and the fact that Klemann acceded to it, it seems to me, was not harmful to Mr. Grinnell, and certainly would be very slight foundation for the court to hold that he withheld these stamps when he should have tendered them. So that I am of the opinion that these stamps had no appreciable value, (I think they probably will have a good deal more value as curiosities after this lawsuit than they possessed at any other time) and that on that account Mr. Grinnell was not prejudiced by failure to return them and that the evidence here shows that a tender would have been unavailing. We must not lose sight in this connection of the fact that Mr. Klemann, acting quickly and vigorously, as he was justified in doing, having concluded these stamps were forgeries, was obliged to act before he could make a tender, if he was to secure by an attachment any judgment which he should get.

I think I have sufficiently covered, for the purpose of indicating to counsel what the findings must be, my conclusions on the facts and the law in this case.

Judgment will be rendered in favor of the plaintiff against the defendant for the sum of $65,000, less the $5,000 that came back to Mr. Klemann from Mr. Wood, which Mr. Grinnell had paid to Mr. Wood. Plaintiff will also have judgment for his costs.

BRAZIL.

According to a correspondent of the London Times, the President of Brazil has given his assent to an Act authorizing the expenditure of one million dollars for the establishment of two aerial mail routes, between the capital and Porto Alegre (in Rio Grande Do Sul). The one route, which is for hydroplanes, will follow the coast, while the other will be inland, following the railways where possible.

The routes are to be inaugurated before the opening of the Centennial Exhibition next September. Their primary object is military defense, but the routes will be used for mail and commerce. Wireless telephone and telegraph stations with a range of 300 miles are to be established at convenient points at a minimum distance of 190 miles apart, and at the terminal points there will be powerful plants capable of direct intercommunication. Modern meteorological stations are also included in the scheme. Brazil has already issued postage stamps showing picture of airplanes in flight, but it is reported special aero stamps of larger size in two colors will be used on the new Air Mail routes to cover the extra air-post fee.

DIFFERENCES IN STAMPS THAT LOOK ALIKE.

By L. H. Brigham.

We now come to the place where it is necessary to put on our spectacles, take our magnifying glass in hand, and keep our eyes wide open.

Many different stamps of the same country resemble one another quite closely in color and design, and yet there are noticeable differences in them that oblige us to recognize and classify them as being distinctly different from those of some other issue which they so closely resemble.

Hundreds of different stamps could be named and described from a score of different countries which come under this heading, but those of us who use a "World Standard Catalogue" find all of these many stamps both illustrated and described. Therefore for the benefit of those who do not possess one of these "treasure books" we will briefly describe a few of the most commonly known varieties which always come into the possession of the young collector.

In this article differences in watermarks, printing, shades, surcharges, size, perforations and paper will be given no consideration; all stamps referred to show marked differences in design.

Three issues in particular which confuse the young collector ofttimes are the 1900, 1904, and 1906 issues of Austria. The stamps of these three issues are very nearly alike, with the exception of the fact that the circle in which the numerals of denominations are enclosed, are "filled in" with color design work in the 1900 issue, while certain denominations of the 1904 issue show the figures in black on a plain white background; and others of the 1906 issue show the values on the same white background, but instead of being printed in black as in the 1904 issue, they are of the same color as each respective stamp. The foregoing may seem rather a complicated statement to the beginner, but if Scott's Nos. 75-91, and 105 of Austria are obtained, these three distinct types of the same stamps are quite apparent.

The above is an illustration of a major difference in color and design. the next is a semi-major difference in design engraving which is quite noticeable after a short study of the stamps. We refer to the 1912 and 1913 Albert issues of Belgium. The 1912 issue shows the head and shoulders of the king in military uniform; two buttons of the blouse and a starshaped medal of honor showing very plainly on the stamp. The 1913 issue was printed from an entirely new engraving and shows a slightly larger head. The king's shoulders are also much closer to the bottom of the frame enclosing the design, and only one button shows on the blouse, and no medal. Illustrations of the differences in this type are found in Scott's Nos. 95 and 103 of Belgium.

The 1913 and 1914 issues of the British Solomon Islands show another type of difference. Beneath the head of King George the words "Postage"—"Postage" appear on the 1913 issue in very small type. The 1914 issue is identical with the preceding one, only instead of the words "Postage"—"Postage" we find "Postage"—"Revenue" at the left and right of the stamp respectively, beneath the head of the king, in the same small type. This difference between the two issues in this case would be apt to be overlooked unless a collector were on the alert, owing to the type being very small and the words being placed so inconspicuously. British Solomon Islands Nos. 19 and 28 show this variety difference—one of wording.

Ecuador is a country with a number of issues closely resembling one another, but differing in color arrangement and slightly in design.

A real difference in engraving is found in the 1899 and 1905 issues of Cuba. For the purpose of illustration, we will simply refer to the 2- and 10-cent denominations. The 2-cent denomination, which is a very beautiful stamp, showing a number of tall, stately palms and printed in deep rose, shows foliate ornaments inside of the oval which incloses the numeral "2". In the re-engraved plate of the 1905 issue of this same 2-cent denomination, these ornaments were removed from the inside of the oval which inclosed the "2."

The 10-cent denomination of the 1899 issue has the word "Cuba" inclosed in a square-ended label. The re-engraved plate used for the same denomination in the 1905 issue, shows a small ball added at both square ends of the label.

The foregoing illustrations will give the young collector some idea of the types of differences to be found in stamps, which may at first glance appear to be the same in every respect. Keeping our eyes open shows us these things, and with a little experience, we should in a short while be able to "spot" these things for ourselves in stamps which we never knew before contained them.

Almost any country of any size, or ones which have long years of stamp issues behind them are rich in these "variety differences," and searching them out is the greatest exercise in the world for training the eye to greater keenness of vision for small details.—The Haversack.

LETTER CARRIER SAVES LIFE OF BABY —CAUGHT IN SATCHEL AFTER TWO-STORY FALL.

July 10, 1922.

The ability to think quickly and act instantaneously, coupled with courage and self-confidence, were displayed by Henry Druckman, a city letter carrier of the Brooklyn, N. Y., office, on June 21, last, when he saved the life of a 2-year-old child.

Carrier Druckman describes his erperience as follows:

"I forgot everything and dashed across the street. My baby is 3 weeks old, and I could not have acted quicker if he were mine on that ledge.

"I was halfway across the street when the little tot started to crawl on the ledge. Then one little foot slipped over the edge and with a slow roll the tot went over. I got the mail bag off my shoulder somehow, and the baby landed square in it, safe and sound. I was scared stiff, and shaking as I looked into the bag, but the baby seemed more scared than hurt.

"I was mighty proud to save the youngster, you bet. I know how I'd feel if some one would save mine if it fell from a window. I've been carryin' that bag around for a long while, and I'm proud now that she is a life-saver."

Carrier Druckman is deserving of the greatest praise, and I want him to know that his brave and humane act has not gone unnoticed. Men of this character are a credit to, and the bulwark of the Postal Service.

JOHN H. BARTLETT,
First Assistant Postmaster General.

THE POSTAGE STAMPS OF BELGIUM.

By BERTRAM W. H. POOLE

CHAPTER XXI.

The King Albert Stamps.

Although King Albert succeeded to the throne of Belgium in December, 1909, it was not until some time later that steps were taken to provide new stamps. In the meantime Mr. Ason, the deputy for Tournai, started an agitation for the suppression of the ridiculous Sunday label making the practical assertion that those people who do not desire their correspondence delivered on the Sabbath can best ensure the fulfilment of their desire by the simple expedient of not mailing it on Saturday night! But although a goodly section of the public agreed with Mr. Ason's commonsense suggestion, long established precedent was too much for the conservative Belgian adminstration, so that when the new series appeared they were, as usual, decorated with the Sunday tag.

In the early months of 1911 it was rumoured that the proofs of the new stamps had been finally passed by Mr. de Broqueville, the Minister of Railways, and that the work of printing would shortly begin at the State Printing Works at Malines. It was announced that they would be ready for issue by October but it was not until April 15, 1912, that the first three values, the 1c, 2c and 10c, made their appearance. The advance press notices had been highly eulogistic so that bitter disappointment was expressed when the stamps did appear. The following comment from the Monthly Journal is typical of the feelings of the philatelic press:—

"For the past year and a half the whole philatelic world has been awaiting the new issue of this country, stimulated in our expectancy by frequent notices in the Belgian press as to the progress made in preparing and the expected beauty of the designs. We have now seen the stamps, and are wondering what all the shouting has been about. Three values have reached us, and three stamps more commonplace in their ugliness we never saw. Cheaply drawn and cheaply executed, no doubt they will serve to pay postage as well as any other 'sticker', but to the artistic side of philately they add nothing."

The 5 francs value appeared in May, the 40c, 50c and 1 franc in July, the 20c, 25c and 35c in August and the 2c and 2 francs in October.

The designs were the work of Mr. Edward Pellens, professor at the Academy of Fine Arts in Antwerp. The three low values are not unpleasing in design, but the denominations showing the King's portrait are anything but handsome. The 1c shows the value in bold type on a horizontally lined ground in the centre surrounded by a highly ornate frame in which "BELGIQUE" at the top, and "BELGIE" below are the chief features. The 2c shows the Belgian lion in the centre, within a girdle with buckle and projecting tongue, which is inscribed "BELGIQUE" at left and "BELGIE" at right. Above, and partly impinging on the girdle, is a Royal Crown, while in the lower corners are a large "2" and "C" at left and right respectively, all being on a ground of solid color. The 5c also shows the Belgian lion as its chief motif but the treatment is entirely different. The lion is on a ground of solid color and is surmounted by a crown which partly covers the letters "GI" of "BELGIQUE" above. Below the lion is "BELGIE" in colored letters on a plain tablet and at left is a plain tablet containing the value.

The values from 10 centimes to 2 francs inclusive, all show a portrait of King Albert in uniform on a rectangle shaded at left and right with small dots, while in the upper angles are tiny squares. Above is "BELGIQUE" in white letters on a ground of solid color and below is "BELGIE" with the value in numerals at each side. The 5 francs is similar, but of much larger size and its general effect is more pleasing than the smaller stamps.

The 25c though issued with this series is of slightly different design, and to prevent confusion we shall deal with t value with others of similar type i next chapter. It will be noted tha 40c and 5 franc values, which were pressed many years ago, have bee instated in this series.

All values have the name of th signer "EDW. PELLENS" shown in letters below the centre of the desi foot, and it is perhaps of interest to that the lettering is larger in the ca the 1 centime than in any of the with the exception of the 5 francs.

The Sunday label shown below value follows a different plan as re the arrangement of the inscriptions that of earlier issues. It is divded two equal sections by a thin vertica and in the left hand half is "NE LIVRER—LE DIMANCHE" in lines, and in the right hand portion "N BESTELLEN—OP ZONDAG", a two lines. There is a period after "Z DAG" but none after "DIMANC and while the period is in the no position for this mark of punctuati the 1 centime, it is raised to the of the centre of the "G" on all the denominations.

The dies were evidently engrav the State Printing Works and the presumably were like those of the pre ing stamps of similar size—300 sub arranged in six panes of fifty e except as regards the 5 francs whic believe, was printed from a small of 25 stamps.

The stamps were printed on the unwatermarked paper and were forated 14. Owing to the compara short time they were in use they but slightly in shade.

CHAPTER XXII.

The Re-drawn Type of Albert St

Although the 25 centimes stamp issued at the same time as the denominations it was in a slightly d ent design, the portrait being larger the small squares omitted from upper angles on each side of the It was considered that this larger trait so greatly improved the design it was decided to discontinue the sm format and make new plates fo values with the larger effigy of Albert. The 10 centimes in the type appeared in January, 1913, the followed in April and the 20c in De ber. It was also stated that the 2 f was prepared in this type but, if s copies appear to be known now.

veral correspondents have asked explain how it is that copies of centimes stamp of the 1913 issue Belgium can be had imperforate. explanation is that in 1914, just the siege of Antwerp, the Boches the State Printing Works at es (which they subsequently de- d) and there captured very large ties of the stamps in most common viz., 10c and 1c, ready for issue except that they had not visited the perforating machine. For some months past the wily Teuton has been unloading these relics in large quantities, both here and in Germany, with the result that many dealers in both countries have large stocks."

SCARCENESS OF PRECANCELS.

Precancels have a greater value than ordinarily cancelled postage stamps, because when the name of a certain town is printed on a stamp making it a precancel, it is different from most other stamps. A 7c stamp, for instance, precanceled Williston, North Dakota, is worth 20c; one from New Orleans, La., is worth 15c; Ann Harbor, Mich., 12c; Plainfield, New Jersey, 15c; Rochester, New York, 8c; and Chicago, Ill., 3c. Scott lists the 7c stamp at 3c. The price however is for an ordinarily cancelled stamp. There are fewer of the Williston, New Orleans, Plainfield, and Ann Harbor 7c precancels than there are 7c stamps ordinarily cancelled. There is a question partly of the supply. If the town is a small one, the price is of course higher than for a stamp which is precancelled with the name of a larger city. Notice the price of the Williston which is 20c, the Rochester which is 8c and the Chicago which is 3c. The different values of the stamps of the different sized towns and cities is clear enough; the larger the city, the more precancels there will be from that place.

But the best point is that finds are possible for any collector of the new hobby. That the garret is obsolete, even the most ardent searcher will gladly admit. However, the "precancelist's" garret is everyday's mail. A package from Dakota is as likely as not to be franked with a couple sevens from Williston or Fargo or perhaps Sioux Falls. Twenty cents automatically falls into the collector's fingers. A parcel from Cincinnati will include a ten-cent Special Delivery, and you have its face value in full precancel worth even after it has been used. To an ordinary collector of United States postage, a twenty-cent Bethlehem, Penna., would have a commercial value of from a penny to two cents—to the precancel enthusiast, it jumps in value from ten to fifteen times that.

Thus we see there is that added interest of getting something for nothing. Who likes that better than a stamp collector in these times? Who does not like to see his collection wax fat with new varieties which have real commercial value.

The universal use of the precancel is what makes much of this "unearned increment" value possible. This collector will be near a certain group of towns using precancels, another will be near a different group, and in exchanging they get a more representative collection. For instance, I used to find that Red Wing, Winona and Mankato, Minn., precancels were readily exchangeable in any part of the United States. I could get almost any kind. Napa, Calif., Biloxi, Miss., Amarillo, Tex., or North Abington, Mass., would find their way into my collection through the exchange of the cities that I mentioned above. Every collector then has a little sphere of cities where he can get precancels from very readily, and which are scarce when the collectors of the whole country are considered.

So we see that the hobby is popular because it is financially reasonable, it offers plenty of variety and intricacy, and it has that added inducement of obtaining value through the capitalization of knowledge. It is an ideal hobby.—Precancel Gazette.

HOSPITALITY.

I write to advise you that in case you are preparing to attend the convention of the A. P. S. at Springfield that we will hope to see you en route in New York.

I am proposing to such members as I can reach, and whom I think would be likely to attend, that they endeavor to be in New York on Sunday, the 13th, in which case we will dine together at the Collectors Club, and proceed to Springfield together in the morning.

You may consider this suggestion as worthy of mention in your WSSKLY, and will, I am sure, if occasion arises, endeavor to persuade your fellow members to include this meeting in the program.

EDITORIAL.

Decided—We can imagine nothing of more interest to the philatelic reader than the actual court decision in the Klemann-Grinnell case and we make a feature of the oral decision given by the Hon. J. P. Wood, the judge. As Mr. Klemann writes: "The thanks of all philatelists should be extended to Judge Wood, an eminently able and impartial jurist who without experience as a philatelist became an expert in fourteen court days and handed down an epoch-making decision." That the judge was alive to the importance of the case is shown by his observation in his opening sentences to the effect that the case "will doubtless be ultimately passed upon by another court." Those who read the judge's verdict will recognize that in a legal sense the case was one of deep interest and while it is evident that in the judge's mind, the plaintiff had the better end of the argument, there were certain points that remained to be rounded off legally. Sometimes, a sorry mess is brewed when stamps get into court and judgment is given by hap or circumstance, but in this instance, the case was argued with philatelic acumen on both sides. A friend who was present at the trial and who had no vital concern in its outcome informs us that it was a well-contested controversy but that it became apparent as the days wore on that Klemann's star was brightening. Mr. Grinnell's attorney, Oscar Lawlor, was district attorney at one time and enjoys the reputation of an astute and successful lawyer. It seems that Irving M. Walker, Klemann's attorney, although a stranger to stamps in a philatelic sense, made an impression by his painstaking and intelligent presentation of argument. We have been promised a transcript of the case by Mr. Klemann which, no doubt, will be a very human document.

Defined—The judge said that the underlying premise in the case was the character of the stamps and he did not hesitate to say that in his opinion the stamps were flat forgeries produced by a process other than type-set impression; and it is likely that the evidence brought out details that would lead the judge to conclude that they were manufactured by a process of photo-engraving. The question of how the stamps sold by Mr. Grinnell were made was debated at length and expert testimony regarding paper, ink and impression was brought to bear on the question. The defense found it difficult to controvert the sworn statements of experts who testified for Mr. Klemann and that the judge was impressed by the sincerity of those who qualified on this score is indicated by his tribute to them. He said in effect that they were to be considered as truthful and unbiased. The court said that it was beyond belief to assume that Mr. Klemann through fear of market conditions made by the access of these stamps to the visible supply would attempt to prove that the stamps were counterfeit, unless they really were, in his estimation. The story of the finding of the stamps is dismissed as one that does not invite credence and is tossed aside. The transcript of the case will show how the story of the finding of the stamps was presented and attacked. In fact, to comment upon many of the most interesting phases of the case with assurance, it will be necessary to have the report of the case before one for reference.

Details—No doubt the mind with legal training would scrutinize the procedure whereby the federal government became interested in the case and it is developed that although Mr. Klemann may have hoped for some relief through the intervention of the federal authorities, there is reason to believe that the federal government would be curious to know how such clever counterfeits could be evolved on the theory that "he who makes reproductions of such things as these could make reproductions of other things." Whatever the course of the government in impounding the stamps, it could not be believed that its action should endanger the rights of the plaintiff. The conclusion of the judge's oral decision tells the whole story: "Judgment will be rendered in favor of the plaintiff against the defendant for the sum of $65,000, less the $5,000 that came back to Mr. Klemann from Mr. Wood, which Mr. Grinnell had paid to Mr. Wood. Plaintiff will also have judgment for his costs." The decision is a sweeping one that establishes philately in the courts, by the way, and we await word whether the case will be carried to the highest court by the defendant.

Delayed—Recently, we spoke of the incapacitation of Mr. Theodore Siddall of Shanghai, China, and now we have received a letter dictated by Mr. Siddall, as follows: "Last winter I had an advertisement in your paper advertising Stamp Topics asking for subscriptions and I got a bunch of them. I sent off the February number but none since. The reason for this was at the end of February, I had a stroke of paralysis and I have it yet. I am still on my back in the hospital and the doctor will not tell me or cannot when I shall get out. He says that I will get out some time as good as new and in the meantime, the subscribers and the whole crowd of other folks are waiting for answers to their letters. I hope to resume operations in about three months. Can you spare a few lines to the effect as stated and say that everybody will get dues as soon as I am out; and the Stamp Topics will come out again as sassy as ever if not more so. I cannot recommend paralysis but I haven't any doubt that you can get worse things,—but I hope that you will not." We hope that we shall have good news from the man who has for so many years been helpful to collectors the world around.

Devised—The following letter has been received: "The name of your excellent periodical has been handed to me by an esteemed correspondent whose address is Tsing Hua College, Peking, China, Dr. Geo. W. Twomey, who suggests that you would be interested, doubtlessly, to learn something about the Automatic Postal Franking Machine which is being manufactured and used in this country, and which is also on the point of being introduced into Great Britain by a company that has acquired the world's rights in the machine, exclusive of New Zealand. I am, therefore, posting you under separate cover, booklet illustrating the machine and giving a considerable amount of information regarding it." This is the machine that franks the New Zealand envelopes that have occasioned comment from collectors. As early as 1903, Mr. Ernest Moss, the inventor, brought his ingenious device to the attention of the postmaster-general of New Zealand; and successive improvements have perfected it to a high scale of efficiency. Its use by the New Zealand authorities is an indication of its practicability and as it is introduced into other countries, it will have its effect in curtailing the use of postage stamps.

MAYBE BRISBANE'S BALMY.

I never knew, for sure, that I was a maniac, and have been for thirty years, for I've collected stamps that long. If all stamp collectors are crazy, then God help the rest of humanity, for some of the world's brightest minds are topsy-turvy.

THE MOONSHINE CREATION

Behold, the "Theory of Evolution" has fallen! We have produced a CREATION. It is without ancestors or descendants. Mr. H. G. Wells came, saw, and was confounded. Mr. Darvin revolved four times. Mr. Einstein admitted that it was an exception. Geniuses, scientists, stamphounds, and Innocent Bystanders, we crave your attention!—THE MOONSHINE CREATION——350 Different Stamps, 95% recent issues, Cat. $10.——$ONE and 2c. No junk or damaged goods, guaranteed to please you, money back if——CRASH! ——"Stand by——one minute." We regret that our tank of superheated air has burst. While we are preparing another you might examine the CREATION. It will be just the thing for a rainy day in camp.

We must say emphatically that a packet and THE CREATION are different. The best way to prove it is to examine THE MOONSHINE CREATION.

THE HOME OF THE POSTAGE STAMP Joseph V. K. Wells Manager BURNT HILLS, N. Y.

AFTER TWENTY-EIGHT YEARS.

By David C. Turnbull.

How the memories crowded around as I dug down into that box of old books. For nearly thirty years they had traveled around, from New York State to Nebraska, Tennessee, Alabama, Pennsylvania, Indiana, Kentucky, and now here they are, the friends of my boyhood days. Huckleberry Finn, Tom Sawyer, Tom Brown's School Days, The Blue and the Gray by Oliver Optic, The Five Little Peppers. The Leatherstocking Tales, and others.

Oh, the thrills of those journeys over the western plains with buffalo and Indians on every hand. It does not seem so long ago since I pulled the old hair cloth sofa over to the sitting room table where the big oil lamp stood, turned up the wick until it just did not smoke, and with a paper under my feet and a cushion for my head, settled down with one of those books into a state of mind and body that only a boy can know. Faintly at first, then very distinctly a call is heard above the crack of rifles and whoops of warriors attacking the blockhouse—"David, come to bed now, it is after nine o' clock." And the reply, "just let me finish this chapter, mother, it is only two more pages."

But what is this big flat book down in the bottom of the box wrapped in an old weekly newspaper? It proves to be a Scott's International Postage Stamp Album, 1894 Edition with about 800 stamps mounted with thick white paper hinges with real "stickum" on them. I remember buying this book in Chicago on our way to Nebraska. It was my own money and represented about two tons of snow shoveled, a cord of wood piled, coal carried in for the base burner for a week, and the ashes carried out. The joy of possession of that album comes back to me even now.

How I debated whether to pay five cents for that nice big green Mexican stamp, or take three others at one cent each and two at half a cent each and have a cent left for possible trading emergencies. There is no doubt about my decision for there is the big stamp stuck on the margin of a page because I could find no space for a Mexican revenue.

I wonder where the boys are now with whom I traded or bought stamps at the prices marked on the approval sheets they had. (I learned later about 50% discounts.) Wyatt is in Alaska catching salmon, Lorenz is a physician in the Middle West, and George was going to the devil from last accounts. Where is Paddy McDonald with whom I must not play because he swore and smoked and wanted to teach me to swim? And here am I, a mechanical engineer, breaking into the Philatelic Press on the strength of a kid's collection made twenty-eight years ago and then forgotten.

With the album were two boxes filled with duplicates, including over twelve hundred one and two cent Columbians, tied in bundles of fifty. I remember that I dried these after soaking the paper off by sticking them flat on a smooth vertical portion of the back of our hard coal burner from which they dropped of their own accord when sufficiently dry.

Shortly after making this "find" we were building up a troop of Boy Scouts in the Methodist church here and remembering what I learned of countries, rulers, money values, neatness, patience, and efficiency, I told the boys one night about stamp collecting and offered to help them get a start. I expected six or seven of the thirty might be interested and you can imagine my feelings when twenty-two good right hands went up in a pledge to collect stamps. To prove myself a good scout, I had to increase my supply of "starters" at once by buying by the pound and in packets, which has taught me much, concerning the present day business of buying and selling stamps.

A great deal of mail from foreign countries comes to Mishawaka, so I have not urged the boys to buy from approvals until they have cleaned up the local source of supply, which can be had for the asking.

This was a year ago last May. Not all the boys have stuck to it, but it has been worth while and some of them have good collections already.

Maybe one of these will write a story like this about his collection for Mekeel's in the year 1950.

One old boy has recovered something of his youth again, for there has been much of interest in the quest after the good ones of long ago. But that is another story.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—The ninth philatelic congress at Bath, England, held several weeks ago was an unqualified success. We have to thank A. Leon Adutt, President of the Thanet Philatelic Society for a card from Bath with remembrances and best wishes, the stamp on which is cancelled with the special postmark, "Philatelic Congress, (date), Bath." The card illustrates the pair of New York, five cents, on cover, "presented by the late Major E. B. Evans, R. A., to the Jubilee Stamp Auction in aid of the London International Stamp Exhibition, 1923, and sold for the record price of 225 pounds to A. Leon Adutt, Esq., J. P., of Margate." An attractive sticker for the congress was beautifully engraved by Perkins Bacon & Co., London.

—The fashion of illustrating Russian ruble covers has spread like wildfire and it is no exaggeration to say that we have a dozen clippings from newspapers showing covers with sheets of the Russian stamps. For instance, Mr. Chas. L. Head of Natchez, sends a Memphis Commercial Appeal clipping, picturing 56 stamps valued at 397,720 rubles. The Washington Star's cut depicts a letter with a tail of 300 stamps and the other papers show similar examples of the despair of the once-proud ruble. The shop paper of the General Electric Company, Pittsfield, Mass., Current News for June, relayed to us by Mr. John F. Pendergast, has a stamp-illustrated article, "Value of Russian Money."

—A tramp was arrested at Marysville, California, for cruel and inhuman treatment of postage stamps. For some time the post office there had been receiving letters with the stamp pinned on! The suspicions of the P. M. were confirmed when he found that the pan-handler was using stamps that were "used" but not canceled.

—Pith from Paulson: He who spends his money on passing follies has a recollection worth nary a penny but he who spends his ducats on stamps has a collection worth many a penny.

—On the 22,500 rubles of Russia, the inscription in Russian, we are informed, is to the effect that the proletariat of all countries should unite.

—We have seen one of the Lethbridge, Alta, Canada, special flight covers, which bears the "Greeting—via the First Canadian Air Plane Mail Plane, from Lethbridge, Alberta, The Little City with the Big Future." The covers were sent from Lethbridge to Ottawa and thence to Chicago, St. Paul and Detroit, under some understanding between the Canadian and American post office departments. The cost of the service was one dollar.

—Geo. T. Edson who once upon a time published a stamp paper in Spanish in Kansas has now the distinction of publishing the Stewart Clan Magazine at Filley, Nebraska. Of all things, a genealogical gazette in what some of us remember as such an ungentle country!

—Reading the article in Weekly of July 1, "The Pair of 5c New Yorks", I note the price paid $1000 for a pair on original cover is considered high, and am reminded of a sale of Morgenthau's held some six or eight years ago in which two of the covers were sold, one bringing $900, and the other $800. Perhaps you will recall this, for I think you had an article about it. They were used by a prisoner and posted from Sing Sing prison to a judge in N. Y., and found about the time of the Morgenthau sale of them by the grandson of the judge, etc., etc.—W. F. Ferguson.

—Fred S. Martin of Greene, N. Y., informs us that he has an order from Mr. Dan de Beixedon of Montclair, N. J., which will be forwarded upon receipt of a more complete address.

—We have received from A. A. Wasserscheid a specimen of a new advertising cancellation, sent out from St. Louis, Mo., and reading as follows:—"Fashion—Pageant—Aug.— 8 16 1922—Saint Louis" in five lines.

ATLAS STAMP CO. (P. C. SMITH) W. Somerville 44, Mass.

Another U. S. Error

Another error of perforation in the case of our stamps has been located, namely the 1c green and 2c carmine from the rotary compound waste sheets, imperforated horizontally. I offer fine mint blocks of each, Scott's Nos. 440a and 440b in the new edition, at $4.00 for the two blocks. Just think, two blocks for $4, whereas the 2c alone when first found sold at fifteen times this figure.

If you require these same two stamps perforated all around, that is, perforated 11x10, I will send you a fine block of each together with a block of the 3c, Scott's Nos. 440-441 and 442 at 75c for the three blocks.

Always in the market to purchase any finds of U. S. varieties similar to above. Watch your post office and make your collection pay for itself.

UNITED STATES.—I learn through a Washington despatch that Mr. Warren I. Glover, Third Assistant Postmaster General, has decided the time has come when the boy on the bicycle, a familiar figure on the blue special delivery postage stamp, ought to have a faster mode of travel. A new special delivery stamp it is said, will appear Wednesday, July 12th, the central figure being a boy on the motor cycle. The new stamps will not be distributed generally until the supplies of the old design shall have been exhausted; but patrons of the Washington Post Office will have the "motor cycle boy" at once. Mr. Glover hesitates to predict what progress in transportation may suggest for an appropriate "special delivery" stamp within a few years.

If the information proves correct, we will be glad to see a new design, for we have had the present design since 1902, just twenty years, with the exception of a few months, during which the famous green special delivery "merry widow" type was in use. All hail to the authorities that be, and may the time soon be here when we will have an entirely new series. The current design has been in constant use for fourteen years and we would like a new series with not only Washington and Franklin, but Lincoln, Jefferson, Jackson, Hamilton, Roosevelt, McKinley, Cleveland and many others who have done much for their country, and have since passed to the happy hunting ground where, it is to be regretted, stamps are not collected. Then too, we should shortly be talking about the Sesqui-Centennial Set for Philadelphia, to commemorate the 150th anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence. It is true that the Committee having the affair in charge in Philadelphia has gone absolutely to sleep, but they will possibly wake up in time to have Congress authorize a special series.

So far, outside of holding committee meetings they have issued a little sticker in sheets of ten (5x2) about 1½"x2" in blue and yellow, the colors of the city of Philadelphia, illustrating Independence Hall and showing a Continental Soldier ringing Liberty Bell. At the top we find in yellow lettering "The Sesqui Centennial of American Independence." At the bottom "Philadelphia, 1926".

During the early part of the year I described a patent granted to Mr. George U. Rose, covering the formation of electrolytic plates for use in engraving stamps and other securities. Later attention was called to the fact that several plates of the 1c, beginning with No. 13376 were made by this method. Quite recently I recorded the finding of the variety imperforate, and I now wish to thank Mr. E. A. Young for sending me a block perforated 11, unwatermarked. It seems that these were on sale in New Haven, Conn., some little time back. As explained before, the variety cannot be distinguished from a similar stamp produced in the regular way, from a worn plate.

Mr. P. M. Wolsieffer has shown me quite an interesting cover, namely, a vertical pair of the 3c 1867, grilled all over on the entire cover, postmarked, "Beaver Dam, Wis., August 13, 1867." Mr. Wolsieffer tells me that in the olden days this stamp was listed as having been issued in 1868, and that this cover changed the date for the catalogue. He has had it in his reference collection all this time.

Mr. Charles Huscher calls my attention to the fact that other plate varieties in the case of the 2c 1890 may be found equally as interesting as those with the cap. He has located several copies wherein the right figure "2" has a broken tail and others where the same figure has the two bottom strokes joined. Those interested in such items will also find many oddities in the case of the 1c 1890. Collectors are studying their stamps more carefully every day, and a little observation will show that there are just as many interesting variations to be found in our late issues as there is in our early emission.

We wish to thank Mr. H. A. Thatcher, Chas. Metz, H. W. Porter, E. W. Murray and M. J. Fenster for notes of interest.

BAHAMAS.—Mr. J. A. Galbraith sends us copies of the 1d staircase type and the 1d George design on script watermarked paper.

EGYPT.—The Economist Stamp Co. report the 5m pale red of the 1914 type with the surcharge "O. H. H. S." and native characters on the watermarked multiple star and crescent.

Mr. R. Roberts informs us of the 15m new mummy type on the same watermarked paper as above.

GERMANY.—Messrs. Whitfield King & Co., show us the 2 mark value, purple, on "chicken-wire" white paper, in the Posthorn type, perf.—Stamp Collecting.

HUNGARY.—The Economist Stamp Co. submit to us for chronicle the following values of the Reaper type stamp with the surcharge "Soproni nepszavazas 1921, dec. 14", in three lines in red: 10f red violet; 20f brown; 40f olive green; 50f green and 60f black brown. Also the following in type A14: 1kr red; 2kr brown; 2.50kr blue; 3.50kr dark blue; 5kr dark brown and brown, and 10kr violet brown and red violet.

ST. KITTS.—The Economist Stamp Co. report the 2d and 2½d Peace stamps on script watermarked paper.

TANGANYIKA.—Mr. R. Roberts sends us four values of a new design recently placed on sale for this colony. The stamps show a picture of a Giraffe's head, printed by Bradbury Wilkinson Co., New Malden, Surrey, in she[e]t 120, two panes of 60, with plain [g]utter between. no marginal frame, script, [w]mk. perf. 16x14 comb. No plate nu[m]bers or control marks of any sort appe[a]r on the sheets, except the engraved [i]mprint with the name of the printers, in [t]he case of sheet at foot.

The first appearance of the th[e] coinage in cents of a shilling. 100[c] equal 1sh.

TAKING ART BY THE EAR.

The following extract from an [a]rticle in the July issue of Printers' Ink M[on]thly, entitled "Practical Hobbies [for] Salesmen" (Donald Argyle) ou[ght] to make our friend Arthur Brisba[ne] "Today" fame sit up and take [n]otice:

"When, after the war, a certain [A]merican firm decided to develop its f[oreign] trade, it found that one of its [best] salesmen was almost ready equipp[ed] to take an important role in the f[oreign] department. For an American, h[e] was remarkably well posted on comm[ercial] geography.

It all grew out of a stamp coll[ection]. The salesman's son had started [one] his tenth year. There are now so[me] thousands of different varieties of [foreign] age stamps that the salesman wa[s] impressed by the futility of attempt[ing] to make anything like a complete coll[ection]. As his son got into it, he became [very] much interested himself. Finall[y] the two decided to collect together. [It] was to save stamps from 1840 to[day]. Son took up the issues from 19[00]. Each had a separate album. [They] bought from dealers in many [of the] larger cities through which he [passed] and from consignments sent on ap[proval] to his home address. Stamp coll[ecting] teaches some history, geography, c[urren]cy systems and the colonial posse[ssions] of the various countries. It w[as] this man's appetite for more know[ledge] along these lines. He began with [the] light travel books and ended up [with] statistics, history and the deeper [study] on foreign peoples. And all the [time] without knowing it, he was prep[aring] himself for a better job."

PERMITS FOR MAILING WITHOUT STAMPS AFFIXED.

CHECK LIST OF FIRST CLASS MAIL PERMITS.

The following check list was originally compiled from actual specimens, or from check lists sent us by collectors. On May 29th, 1922, we received direct from Mr. Pitney, inventor of the Postage Meter, a complete list of all meters that were in use on May 19th, 1922. This practically assures our readers that the following information is correct as far as the meter marks are concerned. On May 1, 1922, we received from the P. O. Dept. a list of all cities in the United States where first class permits had been granted. In some cities, permits have been issued but never used. We are listing all cities under each state and where there is any doubt we have inserted a question mark (?), It will be greatly appreciated if our readers will make a special effort to locate specimens from these doubtful points and report them to us promptly.

We wish to give credit to the following individuals who have sent us specimens or in other ways assisted us in compiling a list of varieties: R. E. Cushing, George H. Myers, P. F. Robertson, George Bye, Burt B. Hyde, O. B. Prouty, W. F. Ferguson, Gustave Detz, Edward Ryan, George H. Hakes, Charles F. Heyerman, Charles R. Fairlant, Thomas Semmes, Jr., A. W. Line, L. S. Holt, Jr., Wm. F. Lang, William Mannheimer, James J. Prendergast, and others.

Types or meters marked with an asterisk (*) have been checked up with specimens we have seen. A dash in the meter column denotes that no meter so far has been used with this permit.

LIST OF POSTAGE METERS WITH NAME OF USER.

Record Complete to May 19, 1922.

NOTE.—Due to the fact that the P. O. Dept. required a change of the design of the indicia used on postage meters, The Postage Meter Co. was compelled to replace dies that were in use previous to December 8, 1921. In some cases the entire meter unit was removed and placed with another user, and in other cases only the dies were changed. This accounts for some of the following meters being used by two separate concerns, and the same meter being used with both Type D and E.

PLAY THIS ON YOUR SPINNET.

"Or again, less commonly as an elder member of the family, with resources and subtleties of his own which may or may not be inferior, and which lie as far outside the chart of the Western mind as a quadratic complex lies outside of a postage stamp."—The Slanted Beam, from "Where the Pavement Ends", by John Russell.

AN OPEN LETTER TO POSTAL EMPLOYEES.

Will the Postal Employee who is removing stamps from foreign registered mail please note? If the Post Office Clerk, Railway Mail Clerk or Sea Postal Clerk who has been removing stamps from the covers of my registered foreign letters, will write me I will gladly send him some stamps and a little friendly advice along with them.

The latest offence was the removal of a set of the new Austrian Charity stamps from the cover. I have been receiving a number of letters from the Dutch Indies and rarely one gets through without some of the stamps being removed. I know these stamps have not fallen off the covers of their own accord, as in several instances a knife had been used so effectually that the heavy envelope was nearly cut through, and I am sure that the stamp was in first class condition—not thinned or torn in removing.

It is not so much the value of the stamps involved, as it is the disappointment one feels on receiving the covers denuded of their stamps. However, I had paid a friend in Austria some good U. S. A. money to mail the charity stamps to me.

In connection with this I might state that I am a postal employee and have been for about 18 years. I have never removed from the cover a stamp, without the owner's consent, and am not going to until I have a change of heart in regard to this practice. I have handled thousands of registered letters and parcels of foreign origin, as part of the time I was a railway mail clerk on a run with a heavy foreign mail.

I have in my collection a great many stamps obtained from the mail handled by me, but as I have said, none without the owner's consent.

I asked the owners for them (and offered to pay in most cases) and some of the owners were thousands of miles away. I had at hand, stamped envelopes and a few typewritten letters. When I saw in the mails, stamps that I wanted for my collection, I sent the addressee one of these letters and enclosed a stamped envelope.

I very rarely failed to receive the desired stamps, and have made some good philatelic friends in this manner. In a few instances, I have received the stamps and others along with them. In one or two cases, they wanted to know what they were worth, etc., etc., and why should one want to collect cancelled stamps. I always sent some literature dealing with stamp collecting. One young German out on a ranch in Wyoming sent me the stamps asked for, and some others, stating that he had some more like them. He said stamps had always appealed to him, but he did not know that anybody collected them. Maybe you think I didn't send him some stamps and stamp papers, and the last I heard of him he was in the game.

Now you postal employees who can't resist the temptation to take other people's property, try this out and see if you don't get more stamps and feel better. Just remember that the stamps you are removing are not your property, and that the letter might be going to a fellow collector.

Yours truly,
W. A. CULLERS,
Springfield, Missouri.

WITHIN THE LAW.

Congressman Hull, of Iowa, sent free seeds to a constituent in a franked envelope, on the corner of which were the usual words: "Penalty for private use, $300." A few days later he received a letter which read:

"I don't know what to do about those garden seeds you sent me. I notice it is $300 fine for private use. I don't want to use them for the public. I want to plant them in my private garden. I can't afford to pay $300 for the privilege. Won't you see if you can fix it so I can use them privately? I am a law-abiding citizen and do not want to commit any crime."—Houston Press.

MAIL AND PARCEL POST EXCHANGES.

Between the United States and Mexico, under the Pan American Conventions of Buenos Aires, September 15, 1921.

WASHINGTON, June 26, 1922.

The United States and Mexico each having ratified the Pan American Principal Convention and the Pan American Parcel Post Convention, concluded at Buenos Aires September 15, 1921, the provisions of said conventions will become effective July 1, 1922, and as regards mail and parcel post from the United States for Mexico, the rates of postage heretofore in force, together with certain new conditions, will apply as follows:

Letters: 2 cents for each ounce, or fraction therof.

Postal cards: 1 cent for each single card; 2 cents for each double card.

Samples: 2 cents for the first 4 ounces or less, and 1 cent for each additional 2 ounces or fraction of 2 ounces. Maximum weight limit, 18 ounces.

Commercial papers: 5 cents for the first 10 ounces or less, and 1 cent for each additional 2 ounces or fraction of 2 ounces. Maximum weight limit, 8 pounds, 12 ounces.

Printed matter:

Newspapers and periodicals, entered with the Post Office Department as second-class matter: When mailed by the public generally, 1 cent for each 4 ounces, or fraction of 4 ounces; when mailed by publishers or news agents, the rates prescribed in paragraphs 1, 2 and 4, section 429, Postal Laws and Regulations, as set forth in paragraph 6 of that section, apply, the eight-zone rate being applicable to advertising portions of publications subject to zone rates, without limit of weight.

All other printed matter: 1 cent for each 2 ounces, or fraction of 2 ounces. Maximum weight limit, 8 pounds 12 ounces (single volumes of printed books, 11 pounds).

Reading matter for the blind: 1 cent for each 18 ounces (500 grams) or fraction of 18 ounces. Maximum weight limit, 8 pounds 12 ounces.

Registration fee: 10 cents in addition to postage.

Parcel post: Postage rate, 12 cents for each pound or fraction of a pound, as heretofore. Maximum weight limit, 22 pounds instead of 20 pounds, as heretofore. Maximum dimensions, 3 feet 6 inches in length and 2 feet on any side.

The sender of a registered parcel is entitled, in case of loss, damage, or rifling thereof, to an indemnity equal to the amount of the actual loss incurred, but such indemnity may not exceed the equivalent of 25 francs (approximately $4.83) per parcel up to 11 pounds (5 kilograms) in weight and the equivalent of 50 francs (approximately $9.65) per parcel exceeding 11 pounds up to 22 pounds (10 kilograms) in weight.

In order to be dispatched, letters in the usual and ordinary form must be prepaid one full rate, while all other articles, including parcel-post packages, must be fully prepaid.

PAUL HENDERSON,
Second Assistant Postmaster General.

POOR POSTMARKING.

June 28, 1922.

The attention of postmasters is again called to the necessity for clear and legible postmarks.

Poor postmarks reflect great discredit upon the Postal Service in general, but especially upon the post offices at fault, and continued carelessness in this respect will not be tolerated.

Postmasters will at once make a thorough inspection of their postmarking equipment and establish a rating system whereby the employees responsible for poor postmarking may be properly disciplined.

Special attention should be given to hand stamps, and when they become so worn that good impressions are impossible, requisition for new ones should be sent to the Fourth Assistant, Division of Equipment and Supplies

EXEMPTION FROM MILITARY SERVICE IN THE CONFEDERATE STATES.

By EDWARD S. KNAPP.

I recently came across the following letter, written on a lettersheet, bearing a late issue 10c Confederate States stamp, which may be of interest, referring as it does to two Confederate States Exemption Laws.

Addressed to "Major Wm. M. Stone, Mobile, Ala." It reads:

"Camden, Wilcox Co., Ala.
27 June, 1864.

Major Wm. M. Stone,

Dear Sir,

I write to call your attention to the case of James L. Godbold, who before the passage of the last Exemption Act, applied for exemption from Military Service under the "20 Negro Law," and paid 500 dollars to the Post Quarter Master at this place. The receipt was sent to your office, in accordance with orders to that effect, and as he has since had to apply for exemption under the "Meat Law" and has received no benefit from the payment of his money—not even an exemption—he is entitled to have the money refunded. This cannot be done without the production of his receipt. If not sent off, you will oblige by enclosing it to me.

Yours very truly,
S. G. COCHRAN."

The general purpose of these two laws seems to have been as follows:

"The 20 Negro Law."

It was considered necessary to the good of the community, that there should be one superintendent over every 20 negro slaves, to look after them and keep them under control and, therefore, any owner of 20 negro slaves might secure exemption under this law, on payment of a certain sum of money to the government, and, for each additional 20 slaves that he owned, he could procure exemption for one additional white man, to assist him in managing those slaves.

"The Meat Law."

Any man who owned a certain number of cattle might secure exemption from Military Service, in order that he might take proper care of those cattle—but—he must give a certain percentage of those cattle to the government, to provide food for the army.

Can any of my readers give me further information concerning these two laws, or concerning other Exemption Laws of a similar nature? Address E. S. KNAPP, Islip, Long Island, N. Y.

BRITISH VIRGIN ISLANDS, 1922.

By HARRY E. HUBER.

Late in 1920, the Executive Council of the Leeward Islands decided upon a new design for the stamps of the British Virgin Islands, and in March, 1921, the Crown Agents announced that "Postage and Revenue stamps have been prepared in the conventional size, showing a figure of the Virgin in addition to the King's head."

Of late there has been a pronounced tendency on the part of many of the Colonies to discard the De La Rue key-plate designs, and adopt ones of a distinctive character, with the result that the general standard of stamp designs has greatly improved over the low level to which it sank in the last decade of the 19th century.

The "King's head and Arms type," so popular at present, is an adaptation of that used by Barbados, for the 3d, 4d and 6d stamps of the series issued August 13, 1912, though its effectiveness has been spoiled in subsequent designs, by crowding the seal portion into a small oval or shield. Stamps of "conventional size" (18½ x 22½ mm.) in this design have been issued by British Guiana (1913), Montserrat (1916), and Antigua, (1921), but the same general design has been treated in a larger form (30 x 25 mm.), for St. Kitts-Nevis (1920), Bermuda's first Legislative Tercentenary series (1920), Bahamas Peace (1920), and British Honduras Peace (1921). The copper plate process was used for Bahamas and British Honduras, and typography for the others.

The figure of the Virgin is not a new one to stamp designs of the British Virgins, as it has been used on three previous occasions,—for the 1d and 6d (1866), 4d and 1s (1867) and the 1899 series, but only in the first named is the representation of the seal of the Presidency correctly shown. This, as it appears on the seal of the Leeward Islands Colony (which contains the six shields of the Presidencies forming the Federation), has the Virgin robed, facing the left, with six lamps at either side (one of which she holds in her right hand), arranged vertically. The female figure represents the Constellation of Virgo, the sixth sign of the Zodiac, and the twelve lamps indicate the twelve signs of the Zodiac.

The formal Order in Council respecting the new series was made at an Extraordinary meeting of the Executive Council, held at the Court House, St. John's, Antigua, on Friday, March 24th, 1922.

Order-in-Council.

WHEREAS, it is enacted by Section 3 of the Leeward Islands General Stamp Act, 1890, as amended by the Leeward Islands Stamp Act, 1902, that there shall be a uniform stamp or stamps for use throughout the Colony whereby all Postage Rates and Stamp Duties may be respectively denoted or expressed, and such stamps shall be adhesive or embossed or impressed or otherwise as the Governor shall by Order-in-Council from time to time direct. Provided that the Governor may from time to time by Order-in-Council direct that a special Stamp or Stamps may be used in each or any Presidency concurrently with such uniform stamp or stamps aforesaid.

AND WHEREAS, it is further enacted by Section 4 of the Leeward Islands General Stamp Act, 1890, that the Governor shall from time to time fix the design or designs and the mode in which each design shall be used and the several values of the stamp or stamps to be used in accordance with the said act.

AND WHEREAS, it is desired that there should be a special Stamp of the designs and denominations set out herein for use in the Presidency of the Virgin Islands concurrent with the stamps of the Colony.

NOW, THEREFORE, the Governor-in-Council doth hereby order and direct as follows:—

On and after the 1st day of April, 1922, Special Stamps may be used in the Presidency of the Virgin Islands concurrent with the uniform stamps now in use throughout the Colony of the Leeward Islands.

The several values of the said Special Stamps shall be ½d, 1d, 2d, 2½d, 3d, 5d, 6d, 1s, 2s6d, 5s.

The design of the said Special Stamps for the Presidency of the Virgin Islands shall be in two medallions, one containing the Head of His Majesty, the King, the other the device taken from the Arms of the Seal of the Presidency.

This Order-in-Council shall come into force on the 1st day of April, 1922.

Meet Me at Springfield

I am planning to attend the American Philatelic Society convention at Springfield, Mass., on August 15, 16 and 17.

I shall be glad to renew old acquaintances and to make new personal friends.

I am looking for about anything that is in truly fine condition in United States and shall be glad to consider offers. Bring your stamps with you and we'll talk business about any old time, except from midnight to 7 A. M.

"THE HOUSE OF SATISFACTION."

H. F. COLMAN
2ND NATIONAL BANK BLDG., WASHINGTON, D. C.

Leeward Islands this 24th day of March, 1922.

E. D'A. TIBBITS,
Clerk of the Council.

Considerable delay attended the cutting of the die, and manufacture of the plates, and it was not until Thursday, June 15th, 1922, that the stamps were issued at Roadtown, Tortola. They were released by the Crown Agents to the London dealers about the same time, and were advertised and listed in the stamp journals of 24th June.

There are ten values in the series (only the 5d is a new duty), for all of which the design is the same—two medallions—that in the upper left corner having a profile portrait of King George V, in a pearled oval, surmounted by a crown, and partly enclosed by a wreath of laurel,—and in the lower right, the figure of the Virgin (facing the left, like the portrait of the King), holding in her right hand, a lamp, and in her left, what appears to be a sceptre. Six lamps, arranged vertically, are at her left, and six at her right (counting that which she holds). Three of those at her right are only partially shown, being cut into by the medallion, containing the King's portrait. In the upper right corner, within an octagonal shaped opening, is the value, in colorless figures and letters, on a solid ground, impressed from duty plates at a separate operation. "Postage Revenue" in small colorless caps, below the King's portrait, and VIRGIN ISLANDS in serifed colorless caps, at the foot, complete the design.

Surrounding each pane is a marginal line, broken at each line of perforation (with but one or two exceptions), and extending across the narrow gutter between the panes, at the top and bottom. The plate number and marginal lines, being part of the head plate, are in the color of the headplate impression.

Chalk surfaced paper was used for the higher values (3d and above), and the perforation is comb 14. The 3d, 1s, 2s 6d and 5s are watermarked multiple Crown CA, while the others are on multiple Crown and script CA paper.

June 15, 1922. King George V and Seal of Presidency. Watermarked Mult. Crown and CA (3d, 1s, 2s6d, 5s). Multiple Crown and script CA. (½d, 1d, 2d, 2½d, 6d.) Perf. Comb 14, Plate 1. Chalk surfaced paper for 3d and above.

MILITARY STAMPS

Military stamps of Austria, Bosnia and adjoining countries have long since been recognized as some of the best issues in 20th Century European stamps. There has been no time in the past when these stamps have been available for the prices they are today. Due to the last drop in foreign exchange we have been able to buy a moderate stock of these issues at very reasonable prices and offer practically all of these interesting stamps below at prices which we believe will sell them.

YE OLDE SOUTH STAMPE SHOPPE
6 MILK ST., BOSTON, MASS.

Cattle, fish and charcoal are exported to St. Thomas, but the staple industry of the British Virgins, is the cultivation of sea island cotton. During the World War, all the cotton produced was commandeered by the British War Office, for aeronautical purposes. Unfortunately, the boll wevil made its appearance, and in 1921, by Government order, all plants were uprooted and burned, and planting prohibited for a period of 2 years. It was due, inter alia, "to the sudden rise in the price of cotton, the collection of outstanding taxes, and the increased supervision on behalf of the Treasury," that the revenue for 1919-20 was the highest on record,—£14,880, with expenditures, £8,149. In the following year the revenue dropped to £11,715, while the expenditures rose to £9,816. From a deficit of £548 in 1919, the surplus funds of the Presidency on March 31st, 1921, had risen to £8,073.

Since prohibition became effective in the American Virgins, the importation of alcoholic liquors into the British Virgins, has greatly increased, and in four years the volume of trade has risen from £16,760 (1916-17), to £67,515 (1920-21). In the latter year the customs contributed to the revenue £5,129, which was three times as much as in any of the preceding ten years (except 1919-20, when it was £2,543), and of this amount £2,100 was duty on liquor importations.

Practically the entire volume of trade is with the United States and this is not surprising when the position of the British Virgins with relation to the other Presidencies of the Federation is considered. St. Kitts, the nearest, is 150 miles off to the southeast, and Antigua, the headquarters of the Colony, is 45 miles to the east of St. Kitts. Montserrat is 27 miles to the southwest of Antigua, and Dominica, the most southern of the group, is 85 miles to the southeast of Montserrat. There are no steamship facilities between the British Virgins and the other Presidencies, or other parts of the British Empire, and it is through St. Thomas in the American Virgins that communication with the outer world is maintained.

By reason of their dependence upon the American Virgins for food supplies, etc., "considerable anxiety has been caused the local administration, due to the fact that the Presidency is dependent for its currency on the Danish National Bank at St. Thomas. Owing to the heavy depreciation of the pound sterling, compared to the American and D. W. I. dollar, varying between 20 and 30%, considerable speculation has taken place, which depleted the Presidency of Danish money and flooded it with Colonial notes, which could not be realised at St. Thomas. More than once a very awkward and anxious situation arose, when the treasury was faced with nothing but Colonial notes, and a mere handful of British silver to pay the peasants for cotton sold to the Government. The peasants relying on the St. Thomas market and shops for purchasing goods, practically refused to accept British silver or Colonial notes. Careful diplomatic handling of the peasants has up to date avoided open unpleasantness, but the situation still remains grave. The local stores, importing all their supplies from the United States, refuse to accept Colonial notes, and dislike accepting British silver."

Mail to Be Marked In Honor of Stamp Collectors' Convention

During the convention of stamp collectors next month all letters going through the local postoffice will be canceled with the legend, "American Philatelic Convention, Aug. 14-17, 1922." Orders to this effect were received by Postmaster Costello, yesterday, from Fourth Assistant Postmaster General H. H. Billany, who announced that a special die hub for the cancellation machines was being shipped to the Springfield Postoffice.—Springfield Union.

EDITORIAL.

Here we are, with the summer solstice barely passed, as immersed in philately as ever. Interest in stamps is red-hot and the heat exhaustion of yesteryears is absent. We suppose that our dictionary has helped to make things lively for us as, in stage parlance, it is a scream and has already taken two bows. We acknowledge that the enthusiasm of friends has had much to do with the successful reception of the book, which, we will admit, makes a good beginning. Of course, there are a good many things omitted but then, there are a host of things that are in it. We are making note of omissions and we are having hearty co-operation in this regard. In order to clean up the first edition as soon as possible, we ask that those who are interested in the book do not relax their efforts to push it to the fore. In this connection, we make the suggestion that those who are in touch with their local libraries, request that the book be ordered for the shelves of their home institutions. Underlying our selfish motive in making this cool proposal is the thought that every dictionary so placed has potentialities for good of the philatelic service. We find that a few books in the possession of a collector have a tendency to anchor him somewhat to philately; and next to having them is an opportunity to examine a stamp volume.

From Mr. Clarence J. West of the National Research Council, Washington, D. C., we have received a copy of Conquest, Great Britain's magazine of popular science, in which Douglas B. Armstrong, editor of the Stamp Collectors' Monthly Journal, has an excellent article, profusely illustrated, "The Making of a Postage Stamp-Bank Notes in Miniature." The article thoroughly exemplifies the various operations by which "these useful and ubiquitous scraps of paper" are printed. Mention is made of the Stickney and off-set processes and all in all, the article is especially commended to collectors as there are many in our ranks who at any given time are eager to hear of the details of stamp printing. The advantage gained by the appearance of Mr. Armstrong's contribution in a magazine of the character of Conquest is one that is not to be passed over lightly.

Having recourse to the readable account of the Philatelic Congress, held recently in Bath, England, in our alert and amiable contemporary, Stamp Collecting, we shall indulge in a few observations on the meeting which is a replica of the annual convention of the American Philatelic Society in the sense that the art of philately reaches its highest pinnacle in these gatherings of tried and true philatelists. "Beautiful Bath" is lauded as a convention city whose attractions were enjoyed by a representative number of delegates sent by societies affiliated with the congress; and there are nearly forty societies acting as sponsors. It is apparent that the congress is regarded as an occasion that affords an opportunity for advanced discussion of the philatelic problems of the day. The agenda is followed closely and the reading of well-prepared papers which are dissected by various of the auditors is the feature of the deliberations. There is a tendency to point the suggestions in a practical way and though the programme is conducted in a rather formal manner that may make it more impressive than the order of business to which we are accustomed, it is plain that the practical and not the theoretical advancement of philately is sought. For instance, the paper read at the congress by W. H. Lawson, "Pro Juventute," whose writer was awarded the Congress Cup, given annually for the best paper, was a well-ordered investigation into a solution of that most important consideration, perhaps the greatest problem in a broad sense that confronts our pursuit today, and that is to inculcate a permanent interest in stamps in the young and to watch their progress with a proper solicitude. We applaud Mr. Lawson for his insight into a subject that should engage wide attention; and as reflecting the scope of his treatise, we append sub-headings of ways and means for accomplishing the desired results: "Don't let any of your Young Friends be under any misunderstanding as to what advertised 'Free Gifts' really mean." "Don't let them, if you can prevent it, develop into School Touts for Firms who specialize in Approval Sheets for Young Collectors." "Don't be superior, even unconsciously." We are pleased to say that some of the stimulative plans proposed by Mr. Lawson are being tried here. In answer to an observation made by one of the auditors, Mr. Lawson said: "I am very conscious there is a certain falling off to a great extent, in boy and girl collectors; is first of all because we have not helped them to hold on to their collections, but I think possibly because people have not given them counsel, direction and help, which is so beneficial." In our opinion, the best work that may be done for philately at present is in training the young philatelic idea; and the sooner practical measures are employed to keep the young in line as collectors, the better it will be for all concerned with stamps.

An esteemed correspondent in Washington informs us that the Stamp Agency in the capital was put to some annoyance by the announcement that the new special delivery stamp was to be placed on sale as of the morning of July 11th, when they were not to be on sale until the following morning or July 12th at 11 a. m. In our issue of June 24th, a paragraph told of a resolution introduced into Congress providing for a special "turkey trot" cancellation to celebrate festivities at Cuero, Texas, next November 9, 10 and 11, 1922. The post office department has ruled thumbs down on the inclusion of the words, "Turkey Trot," but has sanctioned a marking that is described as showing "the picture of a turkey running with a streamer in its mouth and the wording, 'Cuero, Tex., November 9, 10 and 11, 1922.'" The P. O. D. thinks that if it lets down the bars, its tolerance will be a signal for the homely American humorists to work over-time.

The Infantry Journal published at Washington by the United States Infantry Association is a most readable monthly magazine of solid merit, that, while appealing primarily to army men, could yet be read profitably by the general public. We make our devoirs to the editor, Lieut. Col. Wm. H. Waldron and eke, the managing editor, G. H. Powell, for an editorial in the July issue, "Army Stamp Collectors," that we shall lift for the benefit of our readers. It is said: "Many officers of the Army are enthusiastic philatelists and there are a large number of splendid collections scattered throughout the service." If we did not take this opportunity to say that the officers in the service, land and sea, who are collectors are among the finest philatelists of our day and that to not a few of whom the WEEKLY is under obligations for favors received, we should be guilty of a sin of omission.

SIAM.

During his "round-the-world" journeying, Lord Northcliffe, when in Siam, made a stay at Bangkok, and visited the airdrome at Don Muaung, where Sir Ross Smith alighted during his London to Australia flight in 1919. The London Times correspondent states that Lord Northcliffe was surprised to find the air stations equal to most of those in Europe. Siam, he states, has 25 landing places and five airdromes. At Din Muaung there are 115 planes, including school machines and a staff of 650 men. Extensive preliminary work has been accomplished in preparing for air mail service, throughout the peninsula and to India as well as mail routes to the nearer islands. The regular postage stamps will be overprinted in Siamese and English reading Siam Air Mail Service.

THE CREATION SURPRISES CREATORS!
THE CREATION is a success! This fact burst upon our startled senses when five huge motor trucks brought the first rush of orders. Every able bodied man was drafted to help unload them, and a company of marines stood at attention. We had warned the P. O. that three trucks would be needed, but we were outguessed!
We admit that we are offering the biggest bargain on this planet. 350 different stamps, 95% issued since 1914, Cat. $10, for $1.02!
But why burden you with mere words? You must see THE CREATION, words are vain and inadequate.
If we have to print stamps ourselves, we'll fill all orders!

SOMETHING NEW IN CANCELLING.

By A. H. Pike, Publicity Mgr. International Postmark Society.

With but very few exceptions advertising marks have been used in connection with cancelling machines exclusively and these only in the larger cities. It usually requires considerable red tape and legislation to get permission to use these special dies. Those of a national character are paid for by the P. O. Dept. and usually where it is strictly a local event that is being advertised local parties pay the expense of the dies which will average $25 more or less.

Most of our readers must be familiar by this time with the slogan "Address your mail to street and number." These have been used on the leading makes of cancelling machines in most of the large cities for more than a year. Imagine the surprise of those who are following this interesting game of postal markings closely to find this slogan attached to a fourth class office handstamper.

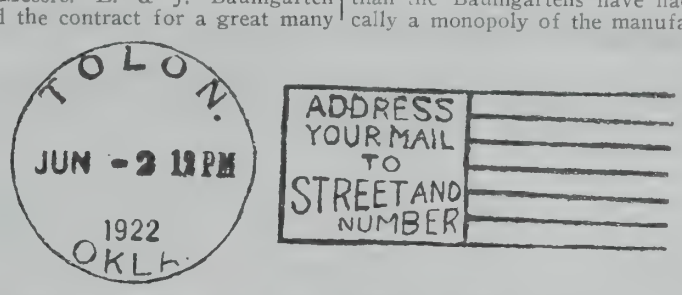
A number of years ago the P. O. Dept. decided on certain definite designs of handstampers so that all four classes of post offices could be readily distinguished by the impression and form of the postmark. Messrs. E. & J. Baumgarten have had the contract for a great many years to supply rubber faced handstampers for fourth class offices as well as practically everything in the way of rubber stamps, type and handles for same. We understand that their father and grandfather had the contract before them.

The only patent that we can find under this name was taken out on July 19, 1892, by Herman Baumgarten and numbered 479,199, which consisted mainly of improvements on previous devices of this kind.

We are informed that postmasters are requested to send their order to the P. O. Dept. for any devices they need, and the P. O. Dept. in turn places the order to the firm under contract for that class of device, which is plainly stated to be of the regulation form. It is possible for an occasional variation to be placed in use unknown to the post office officials and we have noted several in the past few years. Still, the one that we are illustrating is most extraordinary if we fully understand the conditions under which these are made.

The earliest date of this design that we noted was December 8, 1921. We avoided writing direct to postmasters but started a little investigation of our own. So far we have located ten post offices of the fourth class that have used these. We received a letter dated May 25, 1922, from the office of the Fourth Assistant Postmaster General, from which we quote as follows: "You are informed that the impression was made by a hand postmarking stamp which the postmasters of these offices undoubtedly had made at their own expense, as the Department has not authorized the use of legends in connection with hand postmarking stamps, such as this one, or those of any other character."

At least two of these offices that were using this legend just previous to the time that we communicated with the P. O. Dept. discontinued their use June 1st. Whether there is any significance in this, we are unable to state. We have learned from several sources that these dies were supplied by Mr. E. Baumgarten. Through influential parties located in the same city with the Messrs. Baumgarten we have endeavored to get some inside information as to the manufacture of these devices without any result other than the Baumgartens have had practically a monopoly of the manufacture of rubber faced handstampers for more than fifty years.



The following check list includes all the varieties we have seen of this design up to June 7, 1922.

Calif.	Mills College.
Ill.	Clifton.
Kans.	Haviland.
Nebr.	Battle Creek.
Okla.	Aline.
	Tolon.
Penna.	Bellwood.
	Coopersburg.
	Venango.
Va.	Basic.

It is very doubtful if the P. O. Dept. will ever permit advertising slogans or legends to appear on small town handstampers in any great number. For this reason these are not only interesting, but are more or less of value. Will our readers please keep a close lookout for any other offices than the above mentioned and submit at least one specimen to the writer so that we chronicle them from time to time and eventually obtain a complete check list. Please address all correspondence on this subject as well as anything new or out of the ordinary in postal markings to the writer, at 80 Grant St., Buffalo, N. Y.

The next discontinuance of subscriptions will concern all subscribers whose wrappers bear the numbers 1644 to 1648 inclusive. Just glance at your wrapper immediately in order to make sure that your subscription is paid up. You have ample time in which to renew and be saved the inconvenience of a discontinance. Moreover, under our new system we are making no plans for furnishing back numbers and subscribers must not expect that we can supply back numbers when we have made every effort to notify them.

We are satisfied that the system we have inaugurated is the only one under which a newspaper can do business these days, and subscribers must understand that free copies of the WEEKLY will not be sent to those who are in arrears.

UNITED STATES, POSTAGE DUE

GREEN PARCEL POST ISSUE

When the green parcel post postage due stamps were first issued they were hard to locate used and as far as an unused set was concerned, why, "there jest wer'n't no sech animmul." As time rolle don the postal clerks became more liberal, with the result that I can have a small supply at "they won't last long" prices. Remember that these are mint, with full gum, not sure if it is the summer or winter variety, but just as Uncle Sam issued them, and they are fine.

Mr. Scott prices them on page 23 of his valuable publication and numbers them from Nos. 2291 to 2295. The blocks, also, are well centered, and that is something unusual.

My Prices on Old U. S. Outrageous—because I have a large stock; nothing of the kind. It is the little fellow who only handles a copy occasionally of the rare items, such as 5c N. Y., 10c 1847, 5c 1851, 5c brick red, 5c buff, 90c of 1857, 1868 or 1869, that thinks he has a gold mine, because so few copies pass thru his hands.

I have these rare U. S. by the dozens, some of them by hundreds. No, they were not given to me, I paid out good money, but I bought them when they were not quite as high as they are now, so if you wish to take advantage of my foresight, and buy these scarce U. S. right, give me your want list. I have superb, ordinary or slightly defective copies, which will you respect? Your pocket-book must be your guide.

Don't forget the little old reference, as I am not taking any chances on this class of goods.

Information regarding new issues and varieties will be gratefully received. We cannot give the addresses of correspondents.

The chronicle of United States is edited by PHILIP H. WARD, JR., Box 4216, Germantown, Phila., Pa. The foreign chronicle is edited by PERCY C. SMITH, 40 Packard Ave., West Somerville, Mass. Correspondents will please be careful to send their matter to the right address.

UNITED STATES.—In my last Chronicle mention was made of the new Special Delivery stamp that was about to be issued. Since those notes were written the stamp has appeared in Washington where it was placed on sale at the main Post Office on Wednesday, July 12th. The variety is blue and similar in color and size to the previous design. It is perforated 11, unwatermarked and printed in sheets of 200 which in turn are cut into post office panes of 50. So far, I have seen stamps from plates bearing numbers 13917, 13918 and 13920 and suppose 13919 is the fourth plate used for making the first printing. One of the bottom plate numbers of 13918 shows the "F" signifying finished, in an inverted position to the right of the number.

Director L. B. Hill of the Bureau of Engraving & Printing accompanied by Mr. Warren Irving Glover, the Third Assistant Postmaster General in addition to Mr. M. L. Eidsness, Jr., Chief of the Stamp Division, were present at the time the first sheet of Special Delivery stamps was printed and attached their signatures to the margins of the sheet.

The stamps were first placed on sale at the window of the Philatelic Stamp Agent and the Washington papers show an illustration of Postmaster General Work buying the first copy from Mr. H. A. Mount, the Agent. This copy we are told will be presented to President Harding along with a die proof. The second copy was purchased by Mr. Glover, who presented it to Mrs. Glover, an enthusiastic stamp collector. The first copy to be sent through the mail officially from the Department was received on a Special Delivery Registered Letter by your Editor and bears the postmarks, etc., of the first day.

This is the first postage stamp turned out by the Bureau of Engraving and Printing since the radical change in the personnel made early in the year. The Director is to be congratulated, for the stamp is attractive, well balanced, not over-crowded and well engraved. In the center we find a special delivery messenger in uniform with case over his shoulder delivering a letter to the front door of a colonial mansion. An elderly lady in a dress to match the home, that is quite colonial, is receiving the letter. To the right we find a motorcycle parked. On both sides of the door we find colonial windows with small cedar trees to balance the design. Across the entire top is "UNITED STATES POSTAGE", immediately below "SPECIAL DELIVERY" followed by "AT ANY UNITED STATES POST OFFICE" to the right in three lines. Enclosed within circles in the lower corners are the figures "10" and between these figures across the bottom "TEN CENTS". The longer the stamp is studied the more attractive it appears. It is not true to life however for we have as yet to see the first delivery of a special letter via motorcycle. In this part of the country they generally follow immediately after the regular mail.

We desire to thank Messrs. H. W. Porter, L. P. McLaughlin, J. H. Houston and C. J. West for clippings and information relative to this issue.

10c Blue, Special Delivery.

We also learn with a great deal of interest from a source that we consider reliable that the Department is contemplating the issue of an entirely new series of adhesive postage stamps. The denominations and designs have not definitely been decided upon but we can be pretty sure that it will include those of the present issue. The designs will not be limited to Washington and Franklin but will show other Americans of national importance, who, we cannot say but we understand the late Theodore Roosevelt will be one of them. Let us hope that the change will soon come for we are certainly getting tired of the current design which has been running for fourteen years.

We wish to thank Messrs. R. Edward Sharp, F. R. Demmerly, Charles C. Dargue and Frank Gumm, Jr., for notes of interest.

GREECE.—Our Special Correspondent, Mr. G. Brandi, informs us that the 10 and 25 drachmas values in the 1911 types (respectively Hermes and Arcas and Hermes) have now appeared in a lithographed form, both in blue.—Stamp Collecting.

LEEWARD ISLANDS.—Mr. J. A. Galbraith calls attention to the 2s current type stamp, recently printed on multiple CA paper and reports this is a rare stamp and hard to secure.

LIBIA.—The Economist Stamp Co. submit copies of the 25c blue and 50c violet of the 1906-08 issue, with the surcharges "Libia" on both at the base and the first-mentioned value overprinted "C 80" and the latter "C. 40" both in black. Also the 25c rose special delivery stamp surcharged "Cent. 60" and the 30c blue and rose with the overprint "1, 60 LIRE 1, 60". Both of the last mentioned values have the word "Libia" at the base of the stamp in black.

ARMY STAMP COLLECTORS.

Every man should have a hobby—a safety valve, as it were, through which he may work off his surplus energy and enthusiasm.

One man takes to golf or tennis; for another it is the kodak, then again it may be collecting rugs, rare books, coins, or what not.

Within the range of collectors comes the philatelist, the fellow who collects the little paper stickers we call stamps. This is one of the most interesting hobbies extant, and the deeper one gets into it the more interesting it becomes. And we might remark in passing, that it is one of the most profitable amusements that a man can indulge in.

Once fully initiated into the game of stamp collecting, one always has an eye out for rare specimens, and there is no telling how valuable a pickup may be some day. Suppose, when you were in Mexico, you had picked up a supply of the "Victoria Torreon" issue. The one-cent stamp of this issue is today catalogued at $6.00 per copy, and the 50-cent variety is worth $50.00 per copy. Many other Mexico Revolutionary issues that have passed through the hands of Army officers on border duty and consigned to the w. p. b are today worth hundreds of times their face value.

Many officers of the Army are enthusiastic philatelists and there are a large number of splendid collections scattered throughout the service. It would be well for the service collectors to get together with a view to co-operation in the game of exchanging duplicates with one another. The Infantry Journal will assist to the extent of publishing the names of the members of the Association who desire it. Just drop us a postal card requesting that your name be included in the next list published. Please note your specialty, if you have one. —Infantry Journal, Washington, D. C.

SPECIAL-DELIVERY STAMP, NEW DESIGN, 1922.

WASHINGTON, July 12, 1922.

1. Postmasters and other officers and employees of the Postal Service are notified that the department has issued a new special-delivery stamp which will replace the present stamp, known as the issue of 1902.

2. A description follows: The stamp is the same shape and size, 1.42 by 0.83 inch, as the former special-delivery stamp, and is printed in blue ink. The central design is the front of a Colonial residence, showing a motor cycle parked against the curb with the special-delivery messenger delivering a letter. At the top of the stamp in white-face letters appear the words "United States Postage," and in two ribbons just below, and on either side of the picture, appear the words "Special" and "Delivery" in dark letters. To the right, and just above the motor cycle are the words "At any United States post office," and on both lower corners are circles containing the numerals "10" connected by a panel in which appears the words "Ten Cents" in white letters.

3. The new special-delivery stamps will not be issued to postmasters until the present supply of the 1902 issue is exhausted. However, the first issue of the new stamp was placed on sale July 12, 1922, at the Philatelic Stamp Agency, Division of Stamps, Post Office Department, for the benefit of stamp collectors and dealers. All inquiries from stamp collectors should be referred to the Philatelic Stamp Agency.

W. IRVING GLOVER,
Third Assistant Postmaster General.

WHOLESALE DEALERS

161 Massachusetts Avenue BOSTON, MASS

ANOTHER BIG STOCK BOUGHT

From Mr. F. B. Power (Stanley Gibbons, Inc.) I have purchased his entire stock of 20th Century stamps, excepting his U. S. stamps. This stock, no doubt, is the largest, or one of the largest stocks of 20th Century stamps in the U. S., consisting of many thousands of both used and unused stamps, of which one of the leading items is British Colony stamps, of which there are large quantities in great variety, used and unused, including many entire sheets, blocks, etc.

There are many of the "hard-to-get" stamps, including scarce or rare items. The B. C. alone represent many thousands of dollars. Then there are French Colonies, Portuguese Colonies, Spanish Colonies and U. S. Colonies, in great variety. Then there is a remarkable stock of South and Central America, Hayti, etc. Other countries are well represented, too. I can supply advanced collectors, as well as others, with many stamps from this great and valuable stock, that they will be glad to secure, and at prices that will be very reasonable. I will be pleased to receive from prompt and reliable collectors their Want Lists for anything they may want in 20th Century.

I have many wholesale items for dealers, too, and shall be glad to hear from such. Having been one of the leading stamp dealers for a great many years, I should need no introduction. My business principles are well known, and if it happens you are not acquainted with me, "for the land sakes" get acquainted at once, and save some money.

I have a big stock of 19th, too, watch my ads, which will appear in this paper from time to time. Note the six following items which I offer at the prices quoted. Picked copies. Scott's Nos.

Great Britain, No. 401 unused 40 cts.; used 10 cts.; No. 416 used 75 cts.; No. 1110 unused 30 cts.; used 40 cts.; No. 1249 used 40 cts. Bahamas, Scott No. 39, unused $1.65. Cash with order, please.

COLOR OF INDICIA ON MATTER MAILED UNDER PERMIT WITHOUT STAMPS AFFIXED.

Third Asst. Postmaster General,
Washington, July 12, 1922.

When the indicia on matter of any class mailed under permit without stamps affixed, as provided by section 459, Postal Laws and Regulations, are printed by means of a device having recording mechanism to be set by the postmaster and which automatically locks when the impressions paid for have been used, they shall be of a color corresponding to that of a postage stamp of the denomination representing the amount of postage shown in the indicia to have been paid, except that when the matter is addressed to those countries of the Universal Postal Union to which matter is not mailable under the domestic conditions and rates of postage, the indicia must in all cases be printed with red ink.

When the permit indicia on first-class matter are printed by means of a device not having recording mechanism to be set by the postmaster and which automatically locks when the impressions paid for have been used, they shall be printed with red ink or with ink of a color corresponding to that of a postage stamp of the denomination representing the amount of postage shown in the indicia to have been paid. The permit indicia on matter of any other class, placed thereon by means of a device not having recording mechanism to be set by the postmaster, may be printed with ink of any color which produces a legible and distinct impression. However, in all cases the permit indicia on matter addressed to those countries of the Universal Postal Union to which matter is not mailable under the domestic conditions and rates of postage must be printed with red ink

The foregoing supersedes all previous instructions with respect to the color of indicia on matter mailed under permit without stamps affixed.

W. IRVING GLOVER,
Third Assistant Postmaster General.

THE NEW PHILATELY.

By A. H. PIKE.

What are postage stamps? Receipts from the government that a certain amount of legal tender has been paid for the transportation of a parcel to a given destination. Receipts from any source are not intended to be used the second time for a like amount or for a similar purpose. Due to a class of individuals whose intent is to defraud, the post office department insisted that precautions should be taken to limit the use of their receipts to one single transaction. In order to meet the demands of a fast-growing business, different methods and devices were placed in use at different post offices. Not less than five hundred, and perhaps thousands of patents have been issued for devices to aid the government in defacing their receipts and enabling their employees to expedite their work.

We use the telephone every day. Have we no interest in the methods that enable a voice to be carried over a wire, or in later developments carried through the air that we call radio? Are we so familiar with the many wonders of our age that we are not curious to know something of the work and the methods that have accomplished these things? Have we looked at postage stamps all these years and seen nothing on them but the original colors, work of the engraver and his defects, perforations, etc.? Most of us can tell the difference between an o. g. and a used, but when discussing a used stamp about all the points that are considered are the characteristics of the o. g.

There is an exception. Quite a few get inquisitive about the funny marks on some of the early U. S. Some call these postmarks and others call them cancellations. When anything is said in print about a postmark quite a few write in and ask the question, "Just what is a postmark?" They have probably torn stamps off the original envelope by the thousand, then they have spent more time "soaking" them off the paper, drying them, dipping them in benzine, handling them with tongs, licking hinges, etc. They can tell you all about these methods, but the postmark went in the waste basket without a glance.

When the post office department first put their heads together to devise methods to cancel their receipts they continued their previous practice of using a hand stamper that printed the name of the post office and state with the date which they called and still call the postmark. Another device was added to cancel the postage stamp. Later these two devices were joined together, but regardless of what changes were made the main idea and conditions exist up to the present day. The only time that a postmark could possibly be called a cancellation was when the postmark was struck on the stamp without evidence of another cancelling device being used. But in this case it would be a postmark as well as cancellation.

This distinction between a postmark and a cancellation seems such a simple proposition that once telling would be sufficient, but it has been necessary to repeat it a number of times to some, and they may not understand it yet. The post office department insists that all postmasters place a clear impression of their postmark on all letters that leave their office. This rule is not obeyed, but it goes to prove that the department wants this information to show on every parcel of mail that they carry. This is shown on penalty envelopes as well as free mail from government employees. It would appear as though the P. O. Dept. considered the postmark and cancellation of equal importance.

We are considering postage stamps as government receipts. The government receipt includes with the postage stamp the postmark and cancellation. Here are three separate and distinct parts to make up a complete whole, or in other words the government insists that these three parts complete their receipt. One group of philatelists destroy two of these parts and keep one, the stamp. Another keeps only the postmark, and if he does not destroy the stamp, it is separated and placed in another collection.

The next step is to look through our duplicates of early U. S. for cancellations and then buying and trading for more. This is a collection of cancellations which we either put in our stamp album or in a separate volume. Here are two collections, one for the stamps,

Gibbons Stamp Circular

This snappy little publication is mailed free for nothing—not even postage—once a month unless the editor goes fishing or yachting. This season of the year therefore is a good time to write for a copy. This circular is not mailed to substitutors, kid collectors, send-em-back-unregistered fiends and such like. Postcards also go straight into the waste paper basket. Serious and interested collectors would do well to send for a copy and get on the list free before we close the offer with the ten thousandth name. [H

MEXICO The most interesting Stamp Collector's Country in the World! And best worth specializing in both for sustained interest and as an investment.

I have studied these stamps for over 40 years and still find new features and puzzles in their varieties. To collectors seeking new fields, this country strongly recommends itself, any issue can be taken up, studied and specialized in. The Overprints, Numbers, Dates of Consignment, and Postmarks, each and all are highly interesting and much has still to be found out about them.

Special Selections of any issue can be submitted on approval containing unrivalled ranges of varieties, shades, errors, Habilitados, etc., etc.

themselves, and the other for the markings on the stamps. Then we turn to our covers (entires) and here is where the fun really begins. Before cutting or tearing the covers in any way be sure that you understand something of the value of the postal markings. In many cases it is necessary to retain the entire cover in order to have it represent its full value, in other cases a part of the cover including the postage stamp with the postal markings is sufficient. When the postmark is indistinct, otherwise damaged, or of a large city and of a very common type then the postage stamp is all that is worth saving.

Suppose we have access to a large quantity of covers. As every one realizes these are bulky, they have been roughly opened, they are of different sizes and their appearance as a whole is not attractive. Some we find are keeping their covers in box files, others mount them. The latter method is preferable until the quantity gets beyond reasonable bounds. Right here is when a condensing method is needed. Suppose we tear or cut out the corner to include the postal markings with the postage stamp to save as little of the envelope as possible. We find by this method that we have many shapes and sizes and in consequence a condition which somewhat detracts from the general appearance.

In order to check up our collection and to eliminate the duplicates we must arrange them in some systematic way so that we can refer to them. To mount them in an album as we get them means a constant rearrangement. Our intentions may be to keep only a few of these, but as time goes on new varieties come our way and the more we study postmarks the more interested we become, so we can never tell just how far our interest will lead us.

Instead of immediately mounting this collection, suppose we hold this up for a while. To get rid of our bulk of entires, let's decide to cut these out uniform so that we have only the front of the envelope. In 1912, when the International Postmark Society was organized, the members voted on this question and it was decided to cut them 2x4. That is, four inches East and West and two inches North and South. This size was recommended for the reason that it would include the postmark with the stamp and cancellation in ninety-nine cases out of a hundred. The majority of members have followed this method, although there are some that cut these out larger. The main thing is to adopt a uniform size, then file these slips as you would a card index. This method is practicable for any quantity over five hundred. Guide cards can be made two and a half inches high by four wide to designate the post office or state and a close tab can be kept on the collection. New varieties can be added and duplicates can be easily removed for trading and the collection can grow to unlimited proportions without a handicap.

The above we will call a temporary arrangement. This may be worked over for years until finally the owner decides that he wants this collection where he can view it. It is already arranged and all that is necessary is for him to select the varieties that he wishes to mount for his own private collection. These he can trim smaller and mount in an album according to his own ideas. Among nearly a thousand collectors that I either know personally, or by correspondence, I find that fully ninety percent collect along the above lines. There are millions and millions of the government receipts stored away in these collections. Philatelists who have ignored the point of mailing could find among these millions a great many stamps that would excite their envy. The stamps are in as good condition as they would have been on the original cover, they are in the same condition as they would be hidden away in the old attic. Those of you who have located a "find" can remember your excitement and the pleasure you derived from the discovery. If you still delight in this sort of excitement, better look up the postmark collectors, for instead of an attic full of dust and cobwebs your "find" will be arranged for your convenience. You will usually find the owner a man of intelligence who can tell you something about the associations of the postage stamp that perhaps you never knew.

The stamps that you are looking for have lost none of their value. If you prefer you can remove them from the piece of cover as easily as you could from the entire, but if you will listen to the advice of the postmark collector you will leave the government receipt complete.

In the past year or two philatelists have acknowledged through the press and in correspondence that they are considering the postmark. Auction catalogs are listing the postmark with the stamp whenever they can get these specimens. In articles on stamps it is now the proper thing to include a few of the main designs of postmarks used during the period of the stamps that they are describing. We have answered hundreds of letters from well known philatelists who have written us for specimens during a certain period, in connection with a certain stamp issue, or of a certain town or locality, or in connection with a certain cancellation. The information that we were able to give them was of considerable assistance to them in their work.

During the last year especially we have noted many approval lots and society circuits have contained stamps with postal markings on very badly torn pieces of cover; torn in such a way that it would be impossible to make them neat appearing by trimming. The pricing of these specimens as well as many approval lots of entire covers shows how little the owners knew about the new philately. Some marked rare and priced much higher were in reality very common stuff, others were priced way below the market value. There is a wide range of prices on the same material. Philatelists who have never studied postal markings know just about as much about their value as a four-year-old. Most of them, however, have heard enough to know that the markings add to the value of the postage stamp. This fact is true enough and one need only to look over the prices realized at auction on this material to be convinced.

To experienced stamp men "condition" is one of the main factors governing price. You insist that no perforations be missing, no torn or damaged edges, no thin spots, no heavy cancellations, etc. You seem to take it for granted that any child should know this. And it is true that any one dealing or selling stamps to you should know it. Thousands of stamp men, although not collectors of postal markings, are anxious to sell these to collectors, but at the same time are not willing to learn the rules of the game.

The size of 2x4 was adopted for convenience of filing. Millions of marks have already been cut this size and if you wish to trade with these collectors there is no use trying to sell them anything smaller, only in exceptional cases of some rare type. And again 2x4 doesn't mean 1¾x3¾ or any fraction less. If you ever tried to finger over a card file where some of them were a sixteenth of an inch shy you could better realize that instead of a post-

AUCTION BUYERS ATTENTION

Our 1st Auction Sale to be held September 29th is worthy of your consideration.

It comprises the collection of a prominent Belgian Collector.

Two Hundred Lots on Entire Covers

Among the many rare items contained in the sale, there are U. S. covers of the 1847 and 1869 periods used to Holland, Dutch Indies Nos. 1 and 2, Oldenburg Nos. 13 and 15, Switzerland No. 13, a number of Two Sicilies, etc.

In order to get in touch with all classes of Auction Buyers, we have added to the sale a finely selected lot of 19th Century, United States and foreign, as well as a good general lot of 20th Century.

YOU CANNOT afford to Miss this sale. If your name is not on our mailing list, mark collector being a crank, he is insisting on this for convenience in looking them over. This size question is just as important as the torn corner is to your stamp. A piece of glass or metal made to exact measurements, with square corners, can be laid over the postal marking and trimmed around with the shears with very little trouble and the results are all that could be desired. If it is too much trouble to have one of these gauges made, cut out a piece of card board larger than 2x4 and then the buyer can trim them down to the proper size. There is a limited market for markings cut smaller than 2x4, but if everyone who has an opportunity to cut these out of good covers would hold to the rules of this size, those who want them smaller can very easily trim them down.

YE OLDE SOUTH STAMPE SHOPPE

It is safe to say that only about twenty-five percent of postage stamps as they run are worth saving. But when some of you fellows ship us postmarks you think that anything with a part of a stamp and a daub of ink ought to be acceptable. Why not study conditions of a postal marking in the same light as you do a postage stamp? First we want a readable postmark without interference with printing on the envelope, envelope paper should be white or a light tint. Color does not make any difference unless it is so dark that it makes the postmark hard to read. Regardless of the design of the impression it should be complete. Where only a part shows, it is defective. If the postage stamp has any value of itself it should be complete and as perfect a specimen as you would want to place in your stamp collection, otherwise the postal marking is not worth its full value.

With early U. S. the stamp has a catalog value to be considered in addition to the postmark. Postal markings dated later than 1900, are valued more for the postmark than for the postage stamp. Many of the current marks are not worth 10c a million, but quite a few that are dated during the last few years have changed hands recently at prices ranging from $3 to $5 each. This may astonish some of our readers but we have the facts to prove it. Not only this but in the last few months interest has increased to such an extent that a large number of new converts to this phase of stamp collecting are wildly bidding for specimens in order to catch up with obsolete designs. Advertising marks are probably in greatest demand, but there are plenty of collectors searching for hand stamper impressions, machine marks and oddities that are known to exist. You can remember the many opportunities you missed in the early days. You have confessed more than once how you regret not buying certain items in the past. Some day you will regret the fact that you failed to listen to the call of the postmark.

Every day is making history for the new philately. The recent advent of the postage meter has awakened considerable interest. This is really nothing more than a postal marking, a government receipt for postage paid, an impression on an envelope placed there by a rapid cancelling machine. The machine is practically the same as is being used in the large post offices for cancelling stamps, only that the design of marking is different. This is only one of hundreds of phases of the new philately. If we are permitted to continue on this subject, many interesting things can be discussed, some that have happened in the past, others that are taking place in our own days, but are being passed over and are unknown even by those who think they know all there is to be known about stamps.

HOW TO DO IT.

Early last fall a stamp club was organized at the Y. M. H. A. under favorable auspices. Such a club was a new venture for the association and 13 boys joined at once. With practically no idea of what they were expected to do they set to work with a will to learn all they possibly could about stamps of as many nations as they could.

Much credit is due William Schutzer, who has been a most faithful leader for the boys since the first meeting was held on October 9th, 1921. Since that time the club has met regularly every Wednesday night, rain, snow or shine. Mr. Schutzer was aided in his work by the keen interest of Mr. Leon Mann of Mount Vernon and his friend Mr. Soulman of Chicago, both of whom gave a goodly number of stamps to aid the boys start their albums. Mr. L. Josephs and Rabbi Elias Margolis also gave encouragement to the members of this group by interesting talks and a generous supply of duplicates, so that the boys could go out and do some trading.

Alfred Schechter has the largest collection, now being well over the 2000 mark. He also has the finest collection of African and Ukranian stamps in the club, Milton Weil with more than a thousand stamps has the largest collection of United States stamps. The other boys have from 200 to 700 stamps each.

Mr. Mann has donated a fine big album to the best worker and best collection in the group and the Y. M. H. A. has added a prize for the one who has made the most progress in the year. Next Wednesday night the club will hold the last meeting of the season, meeting again in the fall.—Mt. Vernon, N. Y., Newspaper.

AN EDITORIAL.

The Post Office Department announces its intention of preparing future issues of postage stamps "in such designs and colors as will be easily distinguishable." What is the idea? The Department cannot make the stamps more easily recognizable for persons who are color blind, and for persons of normal vision there is no great difficulty in distinguishing between a one cent stamp and a two cent stamp. Those are the stamps in common use, and one is green and the other red. What need of further contrast?

A few days ago Secretary Mellon went on record against unnecessary meddling with the coinage. The existing coins are well designed, practical and familiar. So are the stamps. Why fuss with them? The only persons who could possibly be benefited are the designers and the stamp collectors. And the stamp collectors, as a rule, are more interested in a rare series from the Island of Poohbah.

There was some point to the change which has just been made in the design for the special delivery stamp. The old one represented a bicycle as the means of delivery, and it was thought more illustrative of the service given by special delivery that a new design should show a motorcycle at the curb before the house where a delivery is to be made. But if the department has in mind to revise the entire series of stamps it is going to needless trouble and expense. —New York Herald.

SPECIAL COLLECTIONS

Through our connections abroad, we often obtain many excellent collections of Europe, British Colonies, South America, etc., etc. As we are wholesale dealers exclusively and have neither the time to break these up, nor the market in which to sell single stamps, they are generally offered to our customers intact at a small percentage over cost price. These collections contain only choice items, sometimes rarities, and range in price from $100 to $5000. We sell them at rates low enough to interest both dealer and collector. Interested parties are requested to write immediately. [tf

RARE NEW EUROPE

Owing to the failure of one of the largest stamp concerns in Germany, a small quantity of the scarcer sets of New European stamps have come on the market. This, combined with the low exchange rate of the German mark, has made it possible for us to secure a small stock of items we offer below, at very low prices. As this is the dull season of the stamp trade, we have added a small profit to our cost and give you the advantage of our favorable purchase.

All items are offered subject to previous sale and remittances will be returned if our stock is exhausted. All stamps are unused.

THE POSTAGE STAMPS OF BELGIUM.

By BERTRAM W. H. POOLE.

CHAPTER XXIII.

The War Issue of 1915.

After the first few months of the Great War the whole of Belgium was in the hands of the enemy and the seat of Government was established at Havre, France, where a small strip of territory was loaned by the French Government for this purpose.

In 1915 it was decided to issue an entirely new series of 14 stamps comprising denominations from 1 centime to 10 francs inclusive, and though there was little practical use for most of the values at that time the set has continued current until now and has been largely used since the Armistice. Although it is obvious that most of the early sales were for philatelic purposes no one will grudge gallant little Belgium whatever profits accrued from these sales.

There were no facilities for making postage stamps in Havre and the Belgian Government made arrangements for their production in London. It was decided to make one design serve for all values from 1c to 25c and have distinctive designs for the values above 25c.

The design of the lower values shows a portrait of the intrepid King Albert in an oval with ground work of fine horizontal lines. Above "BELGIQUE" is curved and "BELGIE" is shown on a straight label at foot. In each of the lower corners are small shields containing the numerals of value above a small letter "C". There are pearls around the oval, except where it is flattened at base and scroll ornaments in the upper corners.

The 35c, 40c and 50c value are in two colors, the centres being in black and showing on the 35c the beautiful Cloth Hall of Ypres, on the 40c the wonderful City Hall and old bridge of Dinant, and on the 50c the famous University of Louvain—all glorious architectural monuments which were wantonly destroyed by the Hun in his insensate hate. The frames are all different but all show "BELGIQUE" and "BELGIE" above and below the centerpiece respectively and have numerals of value in each of the four corners. The ornamentation around and connecting these various details of the frames is formal but not so elaborate that it overwhelms the central pictures. The three values are oblong in shape and while the same height are much wider than the lower denominations.

The franc values are still larger, being both taller and wider than the three bicolored values. The 1 franc shows two steamers on the Scheldt with Antwerp in the background. It typifies the freeing of the river Scheldt which dates from 1863 when, by the treaty of Brussels, all toll charges were finally removed.

The 2 francs stamp shows in the centre a Belgian holding his country's flag, in the shade of which four natives are grouped, and kneeling at the right is an Arab, while native huts fill the background. This is meant to represent the annexation of the Congo.

The 5 francs shows King Albert receiving the flag of Belgium outside the ancient City Hall of Furnes, while on the 10 francs portraits of the three Belgian Kings are shown, King Albert being in the centre, Leopold I at left and Leopold II at right. Each of these designs has a handsome border and the whole series makes a particularly attractive set.

The small stamps, values from 1c to 25c were typographed, and the others were recess printed from steel plates. According to Field's catalogue the dies for the 1, 2 and 10 francs were engraved by Mr. Dezerrois and the others were supplied by the printers. But as to who were the printers there seems to be some little doubt. Gibbons' says Waterlow Bros. & Layton while Field's catalogue says Waterlow & Sons Limited—two entirely different concerns. Both firms had previously done work for the Belgian government in producing the pictorial stamps for the Congo State, and both are expert stamp manufacturers and produce similar work of the best grade. Though we have no definite evidence we are inclined to the opinion that they were manufactured by Waterlow Bros. & Layton for the following reasons: The perforations used by Waterlow Bros. is variable and gauges from 12½ to 15 as a rule, whereas on all their stamps of this issue we have measured, the perforation is exact. Again Waterlow Bros. usually have the stamps of this issue we have or, when this is not allowed, show their imprint in one or more of the sheet margins and we have found no marginal imprints of any sort in connection with this issue.

Mention of perforation brings up another problem on which the doctors seem to agree to disagree! Gibbons' says the typographed stamps are perforated 12½ and the recess-printed ones 14; Scott says they are all perf., 14, 14½; while Field says the typographed stamps are perf. 13x14 and the engraved ones are all 14. All we have, and we have measured them very carefully, are perforated exactly 14 on all four sides with the single exception of the 50 centimes which is perforated 15.

The paper used for the typographed stamps is white wove with a distinct weave, while for the engraved values a better grade of wove paper, slightly thicker in texture, was used.

The typographed stamps were printed in sheets of four hundred arranged in four panes of one hundred stamps each with plain marginal spaces about the size of a stamp dividing the panes.

The engraved stamps were printed in sheets of 100 arranged in ten rows of ten stamps each. Many of the sheets we have examined have a sheet number in one of the corners evidently applied to make the task of counting the sheets easy.

In the case of the typographed stamps we have only noted one sheet number. This was on the top margin of the upper right-hand pane and appeared to have been printed rather than struck with a numbering machine. The number was partly cut away in trimming the sheet but appeared to be "18103". Some of the sheets we have seen also bore the hand-stamp "DEPOT" followed by the date 1915, etc., as in the case of earlier Belgian issues.

MERC ON A MOTE.

I attach an editorial which appeared in the July 14th number of the Oklahoma News, (Oklahoma City) which might be of interest if reprinted in the WEEKLY. Proper credit should be given, of course, to the News.

"The postoffice department press-agent its new special delivery stamp with glowing description:

"The new stamp," it says, "contains within a simple border, a picture of a colonial house illustrating the act of delivery of a special delivery letter. The bicycle . . . . . is superseded by the motorcycle, representing more prompt and efficient service."

The picture showing "the actual delivery of a special delivery letter" will be interesting as proof that such letters are sometimes delivered.

But one wonders where the artist got his model."

RARE WAR ISSUES
The Hungary issue of 1919 (Scott Nos. 901-985) is one of the rarest war issues. Our Hungarian correspondent states the following:—"They were issued in 1919, when a part of Hungary was under the French Administration. The French were called to protect the Hungarian against the Bela Kuhn's hordes. The stamps were in use a very short time, during the French Occupation."
The complete sets are very Rare as there are only a few hundred in existence of some varieties.
We received one set of 55 varieties, of which only 53 varieties are listed in Scott's and priced $253.00. We offer this Rare set for the exceptional price of $80.00.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—Willard O. Wylie, the managing editor of the WEEKLY, has been traipsing around the country from Mass. to Mont., or Beverly to Butte, but we shall let him tell about his game of golf.

—C. E. Severn, editor, has sold his 5 cent Baltimore on cover to Mr. Klemann and thus will be enabled to travel in state to the Springfield convention.

—"What", interrogates a college Prof. who may place three sets of initials after his name on formal occasions, "has become of Parnassus Penflip, Count Lapp de Booz, and the rest of that merry crew? Was their passing coincident with the coming of the famous amendment?"

—A Cuban correspondent informed us of a theft of stamps perpetrated in the islands some time ago but this news has no connection with the marketing of some of the older stamps much under face just now.

—A collector who bought several bottles of an old "tonic" at a backwoods store while on his vacation to get the revenue stamps, 3 cent orange rouletted, says that he acquired the reputation of an old soak among the villagers by so doing.

—Eugene Klein of Philadelphia has made an important purchase, having obtained the collection of Mr. Allen Logan, vice-president of the Kansas City Board of Trade. The Logan collection is particularly rich in early U. S. and in the later issues there is a block of four of the 24 cent, inverted airplane. No doubt Mr. Klein will have the collection for display at Springfield.

—The Foothills Stamp Co., Calgary, Alta., Can., who had an advertisement in the June 17 number of the WEEKLY state that several replies were returned to senders because of a misunderstanding at the post office. This matter has now been adjusted and all mail will be correctly delivered in the future.

—A Cuban reader informs us that congress there is about to pass a bill increasing postage rates fifty per cent, in order to raise funds to pay the post office employees. It is said that the expense of running the post office is greater than its income.

—"Mulready" in the Philadelphia Ledger is about the best purveyor of stamp news that we know of. He certainly is doing excellent work both for the newspaper and for our pursuit.

EDITORIAL.

Case—We have received from Mr. John A. Klemann, the plaintiff in the Hawaiian case, Klemann versus Grinnell, the court reporter's transcript of the proceedings, consisting of hundreds of pages of type-written matter. All the particulars of the case are given in the report which is an embracive history of the celebrated affair. Beginning with the trial on the morning of May 31st, 1922, down to the final session of Thursday morning, June 22nd, 1922, all the testimony is preserved. Thirteen sessions of court were held, the first session, for instance, requiring fifty-nine pages of the record. It is needless to say that almost without exception, each line of the transcript is of more or less interest to philatelists and it is possible that the account will finally be printed practically in its entirety. For the present, we must content ourselves with referring to some of the passages that will give some idea of the procedure. For example, Mr. Grinnell is on the stand and he is asked when he first saw the stamps. The date was December 3rd, 1919. "A. In the hands of Mr. Charles Shattuck. Q. Where? A. 1251 South St. Andrews Place. Q. Los Angeles City? A. Yes, sir. Q. Were they contained in anything at that time? A. The used stamps in an envelope, and the unused stamps pasted helter-skelter through this book. Q. The book that has been referred to by us as the book of— A. As the book of sermons. Q. The book of sermons. From whose hands did you receive the book and stamps? A. Mr. Charles Shattuck's hands. Q. And at the time that you received this book, I believe you say the stamps were scattered through the various pages of it? A. The unused stamps were pasted helter-skelter through this book on such pages as this one here, that are blank. Q. Referring to the nearly blank page with a portion of it torn off? A. Yes, sir. I am not sure that the stamps were on that particular page, but they were on pages such as that. Q. (By the Court) They were on blank pages? A. There were a good many blank pages in this book, and these stamps were stuck on in any old way. It looked more like child's play than anything else." The testimony of Senor Galvez of Madrid was given at length and made out a strong case against the genuineness of the stamps. Truly, philatelic history has been made by this remarkable court action.

Call—The following communication, which we are pleased to give place, has been received from the Third Assistant Postmaster General, under date of July 20, 1922: "This office has received a communication from the International Bureau of the Universal Postal Union from which the following is quoted in reference to the practice of the part of Carlos D. Beltran, of Bolivia, who is endeavoring to carry on private business in postage stamps, using the name of the Postal Administration of that country to further his purposes: 'La Paz, April 6, 1922. By reason of the discovery of the dishonesty of Carlos D. Beltran, a subordinate employee of this Administration, who pretended to carry on private business in stamps with various philatelists in other countries, taking the name of this Administration, I have the honor to request you to inform the Administrations of America, in order to prevent philatelists from being hoodwinked, that the said employee was not authorized to carry on any class of business in postal values.' This information is given you under the assumption that you may consider it advisable to make mention of it in an issue of your publication for the benefit of stamp collectors in general." It is a satisfaction to find our postal authorities so alert to co-operate with another government with a view to prevent imposition upon philatelists.

Clip—On our desk, newspaper clippings on stamp topics are as "thick as autumnal leaves that strew the brooks in Vallombrosa." We find that stamp departments are being installed as regular features of different papers from coast to coast. Further, the editorial writers on some of the big newspapers are beginning to discuss postal subjects from a philatelic view-point and the word, philatelist, no longer entails the necessity of explanation in order that it may be understood by the public. It is certain that the effect of this voluminous testimony to the validity of philately will be felt soon and the result will be the attainment of a solid foundation for stamp collecting, a consummation that many of us have hoped for since philately was comparatively unrecognized and unsung. The coming season will witness the harvest-time of this great publicity and from now on, philately is entitled to consideration as a standard field of endeavor for dealer and for collector.

Care—From Mr. S. A. Pappadopulo, Vladivostok, we have received an account of the new issue to commemorate the "Exodus of the Bolsheviks from the Maritime District" with a description of the spirited scenes attending the sale of the surcharged stamps of 2, 4, 5 and 10k. on Scott's No. 38, 39, 40 and 41, respectively. We repeat in the words of Mr. Pappadopulo: "As is notorious, the Bolshevik Government of Vladivostok was overthrown by the revolution of May 26, 1921. Since that time, the power is in the hands of the Antisocialist bloc, the influence of which is extended over the Maritime District and the Kamchatka. These two provinces are the single ones not occupied by the Bolsheviks. Although the present government does not recognize the Republic of the Far East, nevertheless, it recognizes the stamps issued by the Bolsheviks and bearing the inscription, Far East Republic and the surcharge, D. B. P., which means, Daini Vostochni Respublica, because the stamps were sold on a gold ruble basis. The anniversary set was an issue of two thousand, with the surcharge consisting of Russian letters, date and circle in black. The letters signify, Provisional Government of the Pre-Amur (Maritime District). Pre-Amur means before the river Amur or that territory situated between the Amour and the Pacific Ocean. Never Vladivostok saw such a big crowd waiting to buy stamps. On account of so many buyers, the Postmaster gave an order not to sell over one set to one person. Many, after waiting a very long time, could not get a single stamp. There are but very few philatelists in Vladivostok, but all this people was buying not for philatelistical purpose, but only in order to have a remembering of this day of May 26, which overthrowed the Bolshevik power in the Maritime District. Everybody who bought these stamps will keep them not for collection, but as a precious remembering of that day. For this reason, these stamps will be very scarce. Very few collectors will be happy to posssess them in their collection. No errors are known to exist." We are divided between pity for the poor collectors whose watchful waiting was not rewarded with stamps and admiration for the patriots who fought fatigue in line to buy a memento of the discomfiture of the blamed Bolsheviks. Hats off, please, to the Far Eastern Republic.

SOFT FOR SAM.

WASHINGTON, July 17.—Stamp collectors are buying up the new special delivery stamp depicting a postal motorcycle messenger delivering a special delivery message at the rate of $200 a day in Washington alone. The money will all be "gravy" to the government since no service will be performed in exchange for the stamps. Their only use will be to decorate the philatelic stamp books.—Akron Beacon Journal.

POSTAL PROGRESS OF CITY TO BE TRACED IN STAMPS.

Chicago's postal progress since the earliest days of stamps will be illustrated at a "Chicago Night," plans for which were discussed by the Chicago Philatelic society at a meeting in the Morrison hotel last night. Complete exhibits of stamps of the private letter carrying agencies which preceded the general use of government postage stamps will be a feature.—Chicago Tribune.

BRITISH HONDURAS POSTAL STATIONERY.

By Harry E. Huber.

a. Post Cards.

In 1879, 1½d post cards were introduced, 122x87 mm., in size, with the stamp, red brown, in the upper right corner, following the design of the contemporary postage stamps—a profile portrait of Queen Victoria, with a Gothic crown, enclosed in an oval. Conforming to the oval, in a band, is the name of the Colony, and the value, in words, in colored sans serif letters. Four lines of lettering occupy the space to the left of the stamp:

"Union Postale Universelle—British Honduras (Honduras Britannique)—POST CARD—The address only to be written on this side."

The decimal system of currency came into effect on January 1st, 1888, and the 1½d card was surcharged in black "5 CENTS," in two lines. Normally, the flag of "5" is straight, and measures 1 mm., but there is a variety on which it is curved, and 1½ mm. long. Later in the year, a permanent 5c card was issued, 140x89 mm. The lettering is as previously, but the stamp, bistre brown, is in the De La Rue stock type used for Colonial post cards of that period—the head of Queen Victoria, to the left within a circle. The name of the Colony, and the value, in colorless caps, are in straight labels at the top and bottom respectively.

In 1890 the post card rate was reduced to 3c, and the 5c card was surcharged in black, "3 CENTS," in two lines. A permanent 3c card in carmine, appeared in 1891, followed in 1892 by a 3cx3c reply card. The size, stamp and lettering are unchanged, but on the message card, in the lower left corner, are four lines of printed matter, viz., "The annexed card is intended—for the answer.—(La carte ci—jointe est destine—a la reponse.) On the reply card. immediately under the four lines of lettering at the top, is the word "REPLY".

A 1c card, green in color, in the same design, but 121x74 mm. in size, was issued on February 26, 1896, for inland correspondence. On this card there are but three lines of printed matter,—"POST CARD—British Honduras—The address only to be written on this side."

With the reduction of the international rate on post cards to 2c, the 3c single and double cards, were surcharged in January, 1900, 2 CENTS in two lines. There are two types of the figure "2"—one narrow, and the other somewhat broader. Permanent 2c, single and double cards, in the same design, size and color, followed in November, 1900, with the second line of printed matter reading "Post Card—Carte Postale." On the message portion of the double card, the brackets are omitted from around the French instructions in the lower left corner.

In 1902 1c, green (121x74 mm)., and 2c carmine, single and double cards (140x89 mm) were issued, the stamp having the head of King Edward VII, within an oval, surmounted by a crown.

Summary.

1913. 2c carmine, 140x89 mm.

b. Wrappers.

Wrappers, 1c green and 2c carmine, on manila, 126x300 mm., were issued in 1920, with the stamps in the same design as for the 2c post card of 1913. In small caps there are five lines of printed instructions—"This Wrapper may only be used for Newspapers or for—such documents as are allowed to be sent at the Book-rate—of postage, and must not enclose any letter or communication—of the nature of a letter (whether separate or otherwise). If this rule be infringed, the packet will be charged as a letter.

1920. 1c green on manila. King George V. 126x300 mm.
2c carmine on manila. King George V. 126x300 mm.

c. Registered envelopes.

In 1912 registered envelopes were introduced, in two sizes "G" 132x96 mm., and "H2" 225x100 mm. The flap, which is on the address side bears a circular embossed stamp, with the head of King George within a pearled circle, surrounding which is a band lettered "2 CENTS POSTAGE & (Crown) 3 CENTS REGISTRATION, BRITISH HONDURAS". On the front and back of the envelope are crossed lines in blue, and in the upper left corner, a horizontal rectangle is provided for the registration label. The four lines of lettering in blue, in large and small caps, to the left of the stamp reads—"REGISTERED LETTER.—This Letter must be given to an Officer of the Post Office—to be Registered, and a Receipt obtained for it.—The address must be written on this side." Size "G" does not contain "The address," etc.

In 1915, along with the moire overprinted 1c, 2c and 5c postage stamps, were received registration envelopes in the two sizes, with the moire overprint applied to the stamp in the form of a rectangle with rounded corners, 28½x-25½ mm. The overprint, however, does not cover the circle containing the head of the King. The total quantity sent out was 10,057, and although received in June, 1915, they were not issued until July of the following year.

Early in 1920, a fresh printing without the moire overprint was received; from both sizes, the line beginning "The address," etc., was omitted.

1912. 2/3c red brown, King George V.
"G" 132x96 mm. without "The address," etc.
"H2" 225x100 mm. with "The address," etc.
"H2" 225x100 mm. without "The address" (1920)
1916. 2/3c red brown, with violet moire overprint.
"G" without "The address." etc.
"H2" with "The address," etc.

DENMARK.

A London newspaper states that the Danish Air Traffic Co. has now completed its arrangements, in connection with a Dutch concern, for regular air mail traffic between Copenhagen and London, via Rotterdam. The service will open by Midsummer, 1922, subject to a State subvention being received towards the 500,000 kroner, which it is estimated will be the cost of the service for one year. Early air-mail flights were made in Denmark in July, 1912, and again in May, 1914, and semi-official stamps were sold and used in the later mail flights in September, 1919. With the opening of the Government Air Mail Routes regular aero stamps of appropriate design will be issued.

UNITED STATES ERROR ENVELOPE

One of the most interesting error varieties ever turned out by this Government was in the case of the 3c envelope which was printed in red instead of the normal violet. One of the dies became mixed and as a result the 3c die was used to print the 2c envelone. At one time they sold at an outlandish price. The market is now stable and Mr. Scott's price of $2 is very fair. You will find it mentioned on page 28 bearing number 2662a.

I have a few in unused entire condition—perfection. A copy should be in every U. S. collection whether you collect envelopes or not. If it was an adhesive the quantity available would make it a $10 item. One mailed flat at $1.25. It is a window variety and is Die E on white.

CHRONICLE OF NEW ISSUES AND VARIETIES

Information regarding new issues and varieties will be gratefully received. We cannot give the addresses of correspondents.

The chronicle of United States is edited by PHILIP H. WARD, JR., Box 4216, Germantown, Phila., Pa. The foreign chronicle is edited by PERCY C. SMITH, 40 Packard Ave., West Somerville, Mass. Correspondents will please be careful to send their matter to the right address.

United States.—Mr. F. R. V. Williams has shown me a horizontal strip of three, mint, with plate number 24 attached to the bottom of the 1c blue, 1895 watermarked double line U S P S, perforated 12 horizontally and imperforated vertically. I have not seen this value in a part perforated condition heretofore and it would be interesting to know if other blocks, strips and pairs are about. In their new catalogue, Gibbons states that the part perforated varieties of this series were not regularly issued. They evidently have these mixed with the imperforates for while some of the part perforates may have come on the market in other than "over the post office counter" I do know that many of them came through mixed with regular stock.

In the case of the imperforates of this series, they were issued through favor to one who had performed a service for the Bureau of Engraving & Printing. He would not accept a money consideration for his service but was permitted to purchase something worth more than money, at face value. The quantities were comparatively small and are printed on the regular paper, in fact were simply taken from the unfinished stock at the Bureau. Things are in a vastly different condition today for it would take almost a Presidential order to put such a thing through where one person and one alone is favored.

In my remarks of July 8th I mention the finding in Norfolk of what might turn out to be a provisional issue used in that city at a time when postage stamps were not available. As a result of these notes, Mr. Frank A. Hollowbush has shown me two covers, without stamps, of more than passing interest, bearing the postmark "5" used for making the above mentioned provisional in addition to a blue Norfolk dated postmark. These belonging to Mr. Hollowbush are in no sense provisionals, as it is clearly seen that the "5" simply indicated the payment of postage. The two covers are addressed to a "Prisoner of War" located at Salsbury, N. C. One was mailed in Norfolk, bears a blue "5" in addition to a blue Norfolk, postmark, dated April 25, 1862. The second cover is of unusual interest in that it was posted within the Union lines at Washington, and is franked by "John P. Vence, M. C." It bears a black Washington postmark of February 21, 1862, and the frank evidently carried it as far as the Confederate lines. It went by way of Norfolk, for some reason that I cannot explain, and there the postmaster applied the blue "5" indicating the payment in some way of the 5c postage and then cancelled the cover by means of the blue Norfolk postmark dated February 27, 1862. From a pencil notation on the cover, it evidently reached the Union prisoner around the middle of March. What I cannot explain and have never read any article throwing light on the subject, is how the postmaster at Norfolk received the payment of the 5c for carrying it through the Confederate lines, for as far as this letter was concerned the Union authorities did not even receive 5c to turn over to the Confederate goverment, if such was the arrangement, for the letter was franked. Then too, was Norfolk one of the cities where mail was exchanged from the one line to the other and if so what other points of exchange were arranged between the two governments?

I have recently had occasion to check up all known varieties of the provisional 2c on 3c envelopes and find that one who omits all mistrikes, doubles and the like and sticks to only those errors that have been recognized, such as the three varieties of the San Antonio 2c on 1c on 3c, the three 2c on 2c, the two New Orleans 2c on 4c, will require but 442 cut square varieties. This includes overprints of all of the cities, all dies of envelopes, that is A, E, F and H on all papers, white, amber, blue and buff. The cut square collector of course does not have to take into consideration size of envelope and watermark. There may be one or two more to be added that we do not know about at present but this number includes the varieties to date. There is a rumor about that a small Arkansas city has applied a local overprint all its own. As soon as we have particulars we will advise our readers but for a new overprint such as this, coming at such a late day, it will certainly be open to suspicions of a philatelic taint and will have to establish its standing before being recognized.

It is more than likely that many of our readers may have varieties not heretofore known, therefore we will check up several cities each week. Should you have a variety not listed will you please advise me. So far of the following cities we know only the items listed:—

Type I—Rejected Die.
White, A, E.

Type II—Washington Overprint.
White (Black Sur.), A.
White (Red Sur.), A, F.

St. Louis Overprint.
All papers. All dies except Die H on buff.

Chicago Overprint.
All papers. All dies.

Type III—First New York Overprint.
All except Die H on buff.

Second New York Overprint.
All except Die H on buff.

Boston Overprint.
All except Die H on blue and on buff.

Philadelphia Overprint.
All except Die H on blue and on buff.

In the case of the Philadelphia overprint, Die H on amber and Die F on buff have been listed but a careful search has failed to discover the collector having such a variety and I am seriously beginning to doubt their existence. If our readers know of these will they please advise as a large en- lope catalogue will be published in e near future and it is desirable that s information be accurate.

We desire to thank Mr. Cassius Clay for showing us two varieties these provisionals envelopes not chr- icled heretofore.

BARGAINS IN EARLY U. S.

Sometimes we have to buy a lot of ordinary stamps in order to get a very few specialist items. We have cleared out a lot during the past few months, but we still can supply on approval to general collectors almost anything in early U. S. stamps at prices way below catalog figures. For instance, we have several

Pretty good copies 12c 1857 @ $1.00 each.
Pretty good copies 10c 1869 @ $1.00 each. (Postage extra.)
Pretty good copies 3c 1851 @ $ .05 each.

Send us a want list and a reference and we will send you either U. S. or high class foreign stamps on approval at prices like the above.

SPEED METHODS OF PRINTING STAMPS.

(Plain Dealer Cable)

LONDON, June 24.—With the king as patron a private exhibition of rare stamps is being given by the Royal Philatelic Society at its rooms in Cavendish Square, according to the Times.

A world wide increase in the consumption of postage stamps has led to numerous experiments with a view to speeding up production, and at the same time raising the standard of execution, as a safeguard against the increasing activity of the counterfeiter. One of the most notable innovations in stamp printing has been the use of the rotary press. Of American origin, it is gradually being adopted by stamp printing establishments all over the world.

Until recent years, postage stamps were invariably printed on the old flat-bed type of press, with a comparatively restricted output. The modern rotary machine combines in a single process the four operations of printing, gumming, perforating, and checking the finished sheets of stamps, which it delivers in bundles like newspapers.

An electrically operated printing machine of this type, known as the "Chambon," has recently been installed by the French government stamp atelier on the Boulevard Brune, Paris. It is claimed that not only is the impression carried out more rapidly by the new process, but that the results obtained are superior in finish to those given by the old flat-bed method. The royal mint at Madrid is also about to install new machinery for printing Spanish postage stamps.

Considerable extension in the use of the line engraved process of stamp printing may result from the invention by George U. Rose, jr., of the United States bureau of engraving and printing, Washington, of a system of manufacturing, by an electrotype method, plates that compare in strength and durability with the hardened steel plates now universally employed in the production of recess printed stamps, and at a much lower cost.

Supplies of the current 1-cent postage stamps of the United States have already been printed experimentally from Rose plates, and it is officially declared that the impressions are indistinguishable from those of the regular line engraved printings. Doubtless, however, some point of distinction will reveal itself to the discerning eye of the ever watchful philatelist.

Now that the Germans and the Poles have finally entered into possession of their respective territories in Upper Silesia, it is interesting to recall a subtle election dodge that was practised by the Germans in the plebiscite of 1920. Large numbers of facsimiles of the mark values of the postage stamps issued under the authority of the international commission were prepared, perfect in every detail, and overprinted in three lines with an inscription in Polish characters reading, "In German money this stamp is worth so much. Vote for Germany."

These propaganda stamps were distributed broadcast among the voters, with the object of emphasizing the instability of the Polish mark, which was worth only seven pfennings in German currency. The ruse proved, however, unsuccessful.

Examples of the current postage stamps of the Straits Settlements, overprinted "Malaya Borneo Exhibition," on the occasion of the recent visit of the Prince of Wales to Singapore, are now on hand, the overprint being locally applied in three lines of sans-serif capitals upon eleven values ranging from 1 cent to $5.

A semi-official series of air post stamps coming from the republic of Colombia bears the initials of the Sociedad Colombo Alemana de Transportes Aereos, which operates the air post service under concession from the government. These stamps are employed to denote the supplementary charge on air mail which the company is authorized to levy in addition to the ordinary postage. The low values depict an airplane flying over the Magdalena river, and those in pesos its arrival at Bogota, the capital.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

RAILWAY POSTOFFICE TO BE SHOWN AT FAIR.

A railway postoffice car with a full force of clerks on duty will comprise one of the exhibits at the Indiana state fair, at Indianapolis, this year. Arrangements for the exhibit are being made by the railway mail service. The car will be part of a completely equipped train which the Monon Route is arranging to have on exhibition at the fair.

Washington officials of the railway mail service have approved the plans submitted for display of the postoffice car. These plans call for a fully equipped car in which mail for exhibitors and employes at the fairground will be handled the same as if it were on a regular mail train.

"The public knows very little about the railway mail service," an official said, "because the policy of the department in the past has been against the giving out of much information in regard to the methods employed in handling mail in transit. The car which we are to have on display at the state fair will give the people of Indiana their first opportunity to witness the actual work of dispatching mail as it is done by the clerks whose training makes possible the extraordinary speed and precision with which mail is carried between the thousands of local postoffices in the United States."

Visitors at the state fair will be permitted to enter the railway postoffice car and see exactly how the mail is "worked." The opportunity will be an unusual one, because the rules of service have not only barred the public from such cars while in operation, but have barred also the admittance of railway mail clerks while they are off duty.

P. O. QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Q. Are precanceled stamps valid for the prepayment of postage on second (transient), third and fourth class matter regardless as to country of destination?

A. Yes; when used in accordance with the prescribed conditions by persons or concerns who have been granted permits to use such stamps. (See Articles 67, 68, and 69, page 17, July, 1921, Postal Guide.) (36)

Q. Are books weighing over eight ounces rated as domestic parcel post when destined to countries other than the United States or its possessions?

A. No; the classification of books as fourth-class or parcel-post matter applies only to books addressed for delivery in the United States or its possessions. (See Article 2, page 7, July, 1921, Postal Guide.) (36)

Q. Can a patron mail circulars for delivery to rural mail boxes with postage paid, but without addresses (one circular to each box)?

A. No; matter without any address is unmailable, but circulars or other mailable matter on which proper postage is paid may be accepted and delivered when addressed to a box and route number, provided no improper or unlawful business is conducted in this manner. (See Article 178, page 26, July, 1921, Postal Guide.) (36)

Q. Must the guarantee be on a piece of second, third, or fourth class mail at the time of original mailing to come within the provision permitting of the forwarding or return of such mail "postage due," or can written instructions from the sender or addressee be accepted in lieu of such guarantee on the piece of mail to be handled?

A. The law embodied in sections 595 and 637, P. L. and R., contemplates that the pledge to pay the forwarding or return postage shall appear on the matter when originally mailed, there being no provision for compliance with requests subsequently made by the sender or addressee to forward or return matter charged with the postage therefor to collected on delivery of the matter.

MAIL FOR PITCAIRN ISLAND.

Mail, including parcel post, for Pitcairn Island in the Pacific Ocean can no lo be delivered through the French p service on the Island of Managa and the only means of communica with the island is afforded by steamsh of the New Zealand Shipping Co their way from England after pas through the Panama Canal.

Postmasters are instructed to prep for the despatch of mail, including pa post, destined for Pitcairn Islands New York or New Orleans, in or that it may be transmitted from Cr bal, Canal Zone, for delivery to pass steamships.

SPECIAL DEALERS' STOCKS

Mr. C. B. Moseley, 526 Newbury St., Boston, was an enthusiastic col-t who had always wanted to break into the stamp business as a side e but hesitated because of his limited capital and lack of experience. t seeing an advertisement of ours, he came in for a talk and was soon nced more thoroughly than ever of the great commercial possibilities e in this direction. Mr. Moseley had cash resources of $500 available a investment of this kind and decided to take a chance. It was agreed that he should cater to the boy trade, and instructions were given us to prepare a stock suitable for that purpose; and in addition we were requested to make up copy for advertisements in the juvenile magazines, to write up and print several up-to-the-minute advertising circulars, and to prepare attractive letter-heads, forms, and other printed matter. The stock was completed and delivered on April 20th, the advertisements were sent in for publication on the same date. Read what Mr. Moseley has to say:

July 24th, 1922.

H. E. Harris & Co.,
Boston, Mass.

Dear Mr. Harris:

I feel deeply indebted for your interest and help in my endeavors to get established and am sure you will be glad to know of the great success which has attended this venture from the very start.

To say that I am pleased is putting it mildly; the returns have so far exceeded my expectations that I am already making arrangements to secure the services of a clerk this fall, all of which means more business for you also, as my patronage will naturally go only to the Harris Company.

The small ad you inserted for me in the American Boy was a real business-getter and I secured almost two hundred replies from the start-off, whereas I understand the usual average is about 50. In addition to a brisk approval business, I have already received 40 or 50 orders for the $1 Dealers' Stock and the same number for the thousand variety packet. This right in the middle of the summer season, too!

Believe me, it's a great sensation to come home from a hard day's work at the office and find a basket full of mail—each envelope a potential mystery which will yield up its secret only at my hands! My stamp work is a recreation to me and the profits (which have averaged over $20 per week) make the enterprise doubly attractive.

Wishing you every success, I am,

Yours sincerely,
FENWAY STAMP CO.,
(Signed) Charles B. Moseley, Manager.

The Great War, followed by a Reconstruction period unique in the history of the world, has created—thru the issuance of many curious and interesting stamps—a great new army of stamp collectors whose buying power is so tremendous in the aggregate that it cannot be expressed in terms of dollars and cents!

Are you awake to the great possibilities which exist NOW?

To collectors who have commercial instincts along this line, we recommend the stamp business—either for full or spare time—as the most interesting, pleasant and withal, profitable, enterprise to be found anywhere. Our advice is not prejudiced—we Know the field exists. Every new dealer creates new business and puts the hobby on a sounder basis.

We specialize in the assembling of Dealers' Stocks from $25.00 up to $5,000 in value. Our large stock and skilled services are at the disposal of interested parties.

PACKETS AND COLLECTIONS

We carry a comprehensive assortment of packets and collections up to 30,000 varieties,—all at wholesale prices which will allow the buyer a good profit if he desires to break them up for resale. We also obtain from time to time some excellent collections of British, French and Portuguese Colonies, both 19th and 20th Century, and often including the rarities.

If you are considering the purchase of a collection, either for investment, resale, or for the purpose of enlarging your own collection, be sure to write us before buying elsewere!

WINS $65,000 SUIT OVER BOGUS STAMPS.

Word was received in the city last week that a verdict in a Los Angeles court for the recovery of $65,000 which he paid three years ago for a number of Hawaiian "Missionary" stamps and which were since ascertained to be counterfeit, had been awarded to John A. Klemann, head of the Nassau Stamp Company, 116 Nassau Street. The trial of the suit, before Judge Perry Wood, developed into one of the most important legal cases ever brought in this country, involving the authenticity of rare postage stamps. Several of the best-known stamp experts in the United States and Europe were called as witnesses.

The history of the case, as recently described by Bill Bloss of Los Angeles, in the recent issue of MEKEEL'S WEEKLY, a publication devoted to the interests of postage stamp collectors and dealers, shows that in November, 1919, a large find of excessively rare "Missionary" stamps of Hawaii was reported by George H. Grinnell of Los Angeles. Mr. Klemann went at once to the Pacific Coast to look at the stamps, and after a hasty examination he purchased the entire lot for $65,000. There were forty-three stamps in the lot, and, if genuine, their market value has been placed by dealers at about $100,000.

When Mr. Klemann returned with the stamps he submitted them for examination to several experts, and the discovery of minute peculiarities led to the belief that they were counterfeit. Mr. Klemann informed Mr. Grinnell of his doubts as to the genuineness of the stamps and endeavored to get back his money, but as Mr. Grinnell declined to recognize any illegality in the sale, suit was then begun.

Mr. Klemann has not yet returned from Los Angeles, but his brother, J. J. Klemann, said yesterday that the only information vouchsafed by Mr. Grinnell as to how he obtained the stamps was that a man who at one time had been a missionary in the Hawaiian Islands, showed him the stamps one day, saying that he had lately received them from Hawaii and offered to give them to Mr. Grinnell. Mr. Grinnell, however, said he would pay for them, but having only a $5 bill he gave that to the former missionary and took the stamps. At that time Mr. Grinnell did not know their real value. The missionary has since died and the origin of the stamps is still a mystery.

The suit came to trial early in June. Among some of the genuine Hawaiian Missionary stamps offered in evidence, were some of the choice specimens from the collection of William H. Crocker, of San Francisco, whose Hawaiian collection has long been famous as the best and most valuable of its kind in the world.

Among the witnesses for Mr. Klemann were J. Stanley Phillips of London, head of the Stanley Gibbons Company, o of the largest postage stamp dealers the world; Manual Galvez of Madr the largest stamp dealer in Spain; W. H. Poole of Los Angeles, one America's leading philatelic expert Henry Marcus of San Francisco, Ca tain Walsh of the United States Treasu Department; Charles J. Goodman a Harry J. Lelandé.

The writer in MEKEEL'S WEEKLY sug gests that the Judge presiding over t case will doubtless take up collecting view of the fact that "he is absorbing remarkable knowledge of philately general and Hawaiian stamps in partic ular," and will certainly be qualified an expert.

Mr. J. J. Klemann says that he h heard nothing regarding the details the suit. The stamps, he said, are t best specimens of counterfeiting kno in the history of philately.—New Yo Times.

PHILATELY IN NEW HAVEN.

(We are very glad to give a bit of publicity to matters philatelic in New Haven, Conn. The following article is taken from a recent issue of the New Haven "Register". Accompanying it is a cut of E. A. Young, who as secretary-treasurer has been one of the mainstays of the society. Philately is bound to stand well in any communnity which has such a live and progressive organization as the New Haven Philatelic Society.—W. O. W.)

According to the records of the New Haven Philatelic society, this city was not far behind the rest of the world in first using stamps. This was due to the enterprise of E. A. Mitchell, postmaster of New Haven in 1845.

Previous to 1840, the adhesive postage stamp or stamped stationery was unknown. Great Britain in 1840, followed by Brazil in 1843, commenced the use of postage stamps and certain cantons of Switzerland followed suit. It was a few express companies which were permitted to handle mail matter used stamps of their own prior to 1847.

In 1845, two years previous to Uncle Sam's venture in the stamp making business, Postmaster E. A. Mitchell got out a stamp of his own. It was not the adhesive stamp of today, but a letter sheet with the impression in the upper right hand corner. In spite of the fact that the innovation was a time-saver, very few of the stamps were used, this accounting for their extreme rarity at the present time.

It was not until 1871 that the existence of the New Haven stamp became known to stamp collectors. William P. Brown, a veteran stamp collector of New York City secured one of the stamps, and immediately corresponded with Mr. Mitchell, who was then living. Mr. Mitchell hunted up the old die and at the instigation of collectors had a number of impressions struck off, some of which he signed with his own name.

It is believed that the original die is still in New Haven, but it cannot be located. It would make a great acquisition to the local philatelic society or the New Haven County Historical society. Similar stamps and dies used by the postmasters of New York, Baltimore, St. Louis, Millbury, Brattleboro and a number of other cities have been discovered. but they are very rare and greatly desired by collectors.

One of the finest specimens of the New Haven stamp franks is a letter from Prof. Stillman, of Yale, and was unearthed in 1892, in a bunch of old papers bought at a local auction. The buyer bid in the lot for 10 cents and it was some time before the prize was noticed. The stamp eventually reached Count Ferrari, an Austrian stamp collector living in Paris, who is said to have paid about $2,500 for it. Count Ferrari died in 1917, during the world war, and his valuable collection was seized by the French Government. The collection is now being sold, and it is believed that the total amount of money realized will reach $5,000,000.

The New Haven stamp, which was among the count's possessions, was sold only a month ago to an American collector for $5,350, a sizable increase over the 10 cents for which it was originally purchased.

Most of the prominent stamp collectors in New Haven are associated with the New Haven Philatelic society, which meets twice a month in Moose hall, in Court street. Starting with only a few members in 1917, the society has grown rapidly in the past five years until it now boasts a membership of 50, including university professors and students, lawyers, doctors and prominent business men of the city.

The officers of the society are, M. Ray Sanborn, president; Edwin B. Brown, vice-president and Earle A. Young, secretary and treasurer. Meetings are held from September to June inclusive, and are always largely attended by those who are anxious to talk on their "hobby," or view the collections of their fellow members. At intervals the society entertains some well known collector of New York, Springfield, or other large centers of philately, and a large crowd is always at hand to view the valuable stamps on exhibition.

Among those who have visited the New Haven organization are Dr. Chase, president of the American Philatelic Society; Mr. Atherton of Springfield, Mass., and Mr. Ritchie, of New York City. All of these men are experts on the subject of stamps, and their collections include some of the most valuable specimens in the world today.

There are many fine collections in the New Haven Philatelic Society, some of these being worth thousands of dollars. Zeigler Sargent, who owns a very fine general collection, specializes in stamps of the British colonies. Owen Nolan, another ardent member of the society, favors the issues of the new European countries that have arisen since the World war. Mr. Nolan also has a rare general collection of stamps. F. H. Andrews is keen for stamps of all countries, especially issues before 1901 or in the 19th century. President Sanborn is one of the few collectors who is always on the lookout for the impressed revenue stamps of early Colonial days, dating back to Revolutionary times. Many of these specimens are found on old government papers. Dr. Smith, of the New Haven hospital staff keeps right up to the minute on the latest United States stamps in the line of coins and various other new emissions. Edwin B. Brown makes a specialty of old United States issues, and has handled some very choice specimens during the past few years. Professor Garver of Yale concentrates on the issues of Morocco as well as those of America, and Earle A. Young, secretary and treasurer of the society is particularly interested in the old United States and European countries stamps.

THE MONTCLAIR, N. J., 1911, CHRISTMAS PRECANCELS

By Franklin S. Smith.

The Montclair, N. J., postmaster at this time, was personally acquainted with postmaster at Northampton, Mass. and when the ruling on precancelling stamps for use at Christmas time came, he copied very closely the design on the stamps used regularly at that postoffice.

The denominations from 1c to 15c were printed locally from a plate cancelling fifty stamps. The pane of 100 was separated vertically, leaving half-panes five stamps wide and ten stamps high; the original design was the circle 19 mm in diameter, 1 mm thick, with the name in Celtic type conforming to the shape of the circle, a four pointed star half way between the M and N, and the R and J. A short bar 8½x1½ mm at the middle of the circle. Finding that TWO bars were necessary according to the regulations, a second was added below the printed bar with a rubber stamp, to the 10c and 15c only. It was then discovered that these were not properly cancelled, so all the stamps were printed a second time with long bars extending all across the five stamps and approximately tangent to the circle, 20 mm apart.

In the postoffice, these half-panes were cut into horizontal strips of five with a heavy knife pivoted at one end, such as is used for trimming photographs, and hence almost all the stamps had straight edges and imperfectly divided perforation.

December 22nd, the supply of 15c stamps gave out, and more were cancelled with a small rubber stamp and black cancelling ink. This consisted of of the name of the town in square type, with heavy bars above and below. The postmaster and the clerks did not know which, nor how many of the denominations were cancelled in this manner. There were no inverts, doubles, nor freaks among these cancellations either printed or rubber-stamped, and none of the stamps with circles only, and lacking the second bar got out.—Precancel Gazette.

SPRINGFIELD TO THE FORE.

Score Another Triumph for Springfield, Mass.

From W. C. Stone and Geo. W. Angers comes tangible evidence of the enterprise of the Springfield Stamp Club. It consists of a postal cancellation reading in four lines:—"American—Philatelic Society—Convention—Aug. 14-17, 1922." This is the first philatelic postmark ever used in the United States and the honor done our annual convention is a very fitting one, and will be greatly appreciated by philatelists generally.

RARE NEW EUROPE

Owing to the failure of one of the largest stamp concerns in Germany, a small quantity of the scarcer sets of New European stamps have come on the market. This, combined with the low exchange rate of the German mark, has made it possible for us to secure a small stock of items we offer below, at very low prices. As this is the dull season of the stamp trade, we have added a small profit to our cost and give you the advantage of our favorable purchase.

All items are offered subject to previous sale and remittances will be returned if our stock is exhausted. All stamps are unused.

LATIN LEGENDS ON STAMPS.

By Dr. Waldemar Kloss, Hyattsville, Maryland.

Stamp legends in the language of Caesar and Cicero are rare and far between; still some of them are, or at least, ought to be, of interest to the collector who is a genuine philatelist and not a mere bloater or trader.

The Barbados series of 1912, King George impersonating Neptune driving the seahorse chariot in the center, bears the legend: "Et penitus toto regnantes orbe Britannos." This is in English, The Britons whose Kingly rule extends over the whole globe. This is deftly modeled on an hexameter of Virgil's first eclogue: "Et penitus toto divisos orbe Britannos," the Britons who are entirely sundered from the inhabited world. This line points to the insularity of the ancient Celtic Britons.

Horace was exploited for the legend of the stamps of British Guiana, "Damus petimusque vicissim," which may be rendered: We are equally prone to confer favors and request them, a fine phrase to characterize the amenities of international intercourse. This effective legend is a clever modification of a famous line in Horace's Ars poetica "Scimus et hanc veniam petimusque damusque vicissim," which in a somewhat free rendering would be: "We acknowledge this principle and crave and grant the same privilege."

Some series of Mauritius display in the emblematic design a key and a star. The explanatory legend: Stella clavisque Maris Indici, the star and key of the Indian Ocean requires no comment.

The coat of arms as well as the oldest stamps of Hanover exhibit the old fashioned motto: "Suscipere et finire," i.e., "To begin and to complete."

The well known Sydney views so dear to the heart of the resourceful collector show as centerpiece the Great Seal of New South Wales with the circular legend: Sigillum Nov. Camb. Aust. Inside the circle at the foot of the design proper, we read: "Sic fortis Etruria crevit," i.e., "Thus grew up strong Etruria, or Thus Etruria grew strong." The motto intimates that small colonial beginnings may develop into noble states. It is taken from Virgil's Georgiss, II, near the end of the book. The Mantuan bard harps on the charm and ennobling simplicity of country life. Here we find the remarkable lines: Hanc olim veteres vitam coluere Sabini, Hanc Remus et frater; sic fortis Etruria crevit, i.e.: This mode of life was cherished by the old Sabines, it was followed by Remus and his brother; thus Etruria grew strong.

Some stamps of Antigua, one of the Leeward Islands, displaying as a centerpiece the seal of Antigua and Barbuda (a very small Island belonging to the Lesser Antilles) bear this legend: "Edwardus VII. D. G. Britt. omn. rex, F. D. Ind. imp. Sigill. Antiguae et Barbudae" i.e., "Edward VII by the Grace of God King of Great Britain, Defender of the Faith, Emperor of India. Seal of Antigua and Barbuda."

San Marino, whose national anthem is said to comprise a hundred stanzas, is satisfied to exclaim in classical Latin "Libertas," Liberty.

Switzerland makes use of the Latin form Helvetia, as it appears, in order to avoid linguistic rivalries between the different nationalities of the Confederacy. When the war came to an end, Switzerland adorned her peace series with the monosyllabic "Pax" i.e., Peace. A charity series is inscribed "Pro juventute" i.e., "For our youth."

The stamps of the Papal States are to the collectors' great surprise unencumbered with Latin.

The half century jubilee stamps of Italy show two enigmatically concise Latin legends. The first is Dea Roma, i.e., the Goddess Rome which is probably intended to be identical with the Divine eternal Rome. The second "Iuturnae sacrum," "dedicated to Iuturna," is even more perplexing.

Juturna was originally a nymph presiding over a spring in Latium famous for its excellent healing qualities. After the first Punic war Juturna was in triumph transferred to Rome and raised to the dignity of a benevolent deity, ready to help in distress, especially sickness and fire. In Virgil's Aeneis she appears as the sister of Turnus the King of the Rutuli.

The legend of some Jamaica stamps: "Indus uterque serviet uni," is illustrated by the center design, which shows two Indians. Now the Latin phrase means literally: The two Indians shall serve one (master). The whole difficulty here consists in the fact that it reads "two Indians" and means by a simple figure of rhetoric "the two Indies," that is, the East and West Indies.

The legend is a rather arbitrary adaptation from Horace's Odes II, 2. Here the poet teaches his friend Crispus Sallustius the guiding principle of the Stoical doctrine, to wit, self-control. The stanza runs: Latius regnes, avidum domando Spiritum, quam si Libyam remotis Gadibus jungas, et uterque Poenus Serviet uni.

Englished: "You will be master of a wider Empire by conquering greed and lust, than by joining Libya to remote Cadix and compelling both Punic nations (i.e., Carthage of Africa and Carthage of Spain) to acknowledge you as their sovereign."

Let us conclude this chat with the sound democratic motto of the Saint Louis postmaster's stamp: "Salus populi suprema lex esto," i.e., "The welfare of the people shall be the supreme law."

EDITORIAL.

Heard—Every now and then, a reader writes in to say that he "hears" that President Harding is "a philatelist" or is "interested in stamp collecting." For that matter, if we published a list of all the distinguished men and women who are philatelists, according to our informants, scarce any would not answer, adsum. However, we are slow to give printed currency to such unsupported "news" items and to authenticate them would be no fitting task for the tired business man. Some time ago, we were informed, through an old friend of the president, that while he knew of the existence of stamp collectors, yet he could not be termed a collector, although he would not say that President Harding had not passed through the school-boy stage of stamp pasting. We now learn through the Washington correspondence in the Philadelphia Ledger that President Harding received the first of the new special delivery stamps, Postmaster General Work having stood in line at the Washington post office to buy the first copy, in order to present it to the President "along with a die-proof prepared from the master die." The second stamp went to the Third Assistant Postmaster General who gave it to his wife, who is represented as "an enthusiastic stamp collector." The new special would make a good nucleus for the presidential collection.

Frank—While on the topic of the "executive" we may as well refer to an envelope submitted by a reader that bears in the upper right corner, a large "6" enclosed in a double circle, in postmark form, and between the lines of the circles are block forms of ornamentation. The envelope has a mourning band, evidently in memory of the martyred Garfield and bears the "Executive Mansion-Official" imprint in the upper left corner. The postmark reads "Washington, Mar. 18, 3 P.M., 1882." The frank is interesting because of its design and manifest purpose; and we speak of it as we do not recollect having seen it before.

Trial—In another column we have a letter from Mr. Geo. H. Grinnell of Los Angeles, who was the defendant in the celebrated Klemann-Grinnell case, which will be read with interest by those who have been wanting further particulars of the recent trial.

Noted—At the regular meeting of the Detroit Philatelic Society, held June 21st, 1922, at the Michigan Club through the courtesy of Messrs. Cady, Kay and Norms, an invitation was extended to the American Philatelic Society to hold its convention at Detroit in 1923. At the banquet on this occasion, many fine stamps were shown and a pair of the twelve pence Canada, that rarity of all times, was pictured on the menu. This pair was merely an earnest of the many stamps of first quality in Mr. Kay's collection. In the report of this meeting that was kindly submitted to us by Mr. A. C. Hutchinson, secretary-treasurer, we were impressed by the reference to a talk given by Mr. W. L. Babcock on the origin and introduction of the adhesive postage stamp, especially as relating to the penny black of Great Britain. Dr. Babcock obtained much of his data from a source not available ordinarily and we believe that his remarks based upon the contents of a bound volume of several hundred pages that reported the proceedings of a committee appointed by Parliament have an especial value, inasmuch as this committee was to make recommendations for the improvement of the postal service, having in mind the advisability of adopting the use of the postage stamp. We quote: "The committee met first in April, 1838, and the report, ordered printed and bound, by Parliament, late in the year, is a ver batim report covering questions by members of the Committee and answers and data presented by several witnesses who were called before the committee. It may be interesting to recall that Mr. James Chalmers, one of the first, if not the first, to suggest the utility of the adhesive stamp, was a member of this committee, and that Mr. Rowland Hill was a witness and an advocate before the Committee for a reform in the postal service by means of the suggested adoption of the postage stamp."

Found—We make a further levy on Mr. Hutchinson's letter, as follows: "Mention of these names recalls to the mind of the older philatelists, the acrimonious and interesting controversy that was waged in the English lay press and especially in the philatelic press, in the late eighties and early nineties, as to which of the two gentlemen was to be credited with the creation of the adhesive postage stamp. Dr. Babcock obtained this volume, which is in an excellent state of preservation, from a second-hand book store in Edinburgh, and is naturally delighted with this acquisition to his philatelic library. His pleasure of possession is enhanced by the fact that on the fly-leaf appears the signature of Mr. James Chalmers, in his own handwriting, and that a note on another page, in another handwriting, reads to the effect that this was the original volume presented to Mr. James Chalmers, Bookseller, Dundee, member of the 'Postage' Committee." Here, we interpose the observation that the stock of the old book store may prove to be the happy hunting-ground of the philatelist. Those who frequent the old book shop know that patience is required in a quest, but that unexpectedly at times, the quarry jumps to meet them. It was Mr. Fred J. Melville, London, we believe, who found a copy of Ely Bowen's U. S. postal guide of the fifties in a provincial book store. Here, we have advertised for the book in Mr. Bowen's old home town, without success; and we have to be content with knowing that there is a copy in the congressional library.

Argue—As for the debate that ebbed and flowed in the columns of the philatelic press in this country late in the '80's and early in the '90's, none who were old enough to sit up and take notice then will forget it. The controversy over the claims of Rowland Hill and James Chalmers as the "inventor of the adhesive postage stamp" was no light gentleman's disagreement but an unequivocal demand that a stand be taken under one flag or the other. Chicago, for instance, was the scene of fratricidal strife and when the local society there endorsed Hill, a Chalmers society was formed to proclaim Chalmers as the true prophet. In one way it is suspected that the Chalmer protagonists were not unrewarded, as some of them were remembered by unused sets of the 1887 jubilee issue of Great Britain, half-penny to one shilling, inclusive, from Mr. Chalmer's son, who devoted himself to proving his father's claims to eminence as the adhesive stamp originator. Those were the good old times; they were almost as good as those of today. While properly we must give attention to the past of philately and draw deductions from its progress, halted at times and stimulated at others, we must not lose sight of the fact that the old-timers really will admit that in philately, to-day's the day.

SEAPLANE MAIL SERVICE.

WASHINGTON, August 5.—"Seaplane mail service at New Orleans will be established soon," says an announcement given out by the Post Office Department, "in line with the policy to speed up mails at the chief American ports." The plane will catch outgoing steamers with late mail and bring in mail from the steamers half a day ahead of time.

Announcement is also made of the placing of sea posts on five Oriental steamers of the Shipping Board using the Port of Seattle. Mail sorters on these steamships will sort the mail even down to carriers' routes for Seattle. At Victoria, seaplanes will take the mail to the city eighty-four miles away, and delivery will be made before the boat docks.

At New York, a special mail boat has been in service for some time, taking off mail as the steamers arrive at quarantine.

A seaplane has been in service at Seattle for the period of a year and the results have been satisfactory. It is found, however, that to obtain the service it was necessary to have clerks on the steamships."

A COUNTERFEIT OAXACA.

By MAJOR C. S. HAMILTON.

A new Oaxaca counterfeit has made its appearance, a copy of the 10c value coming to my notice in a lot of stamps received from the South recently. Due to the method of printing, the counterfeit undoubtedly appears in the other denominations of this issue as it is only necessary to change the value for that purpose. The principal differences noted are:

(1) The frame line of the counterfeit is different from that of any of the originals. I have complete sheets of all printings of all values but this compares with none of them.

(2) The counterfeit is from ½ to ¾ millimeters wider and from 1 to 1½ millimeters longer than the originals.

(3) The words: "Estado Libre y Soberano de" are larger in the counterfeit than in the original.

(4) The counterfeit has no period after Oaxaca.

(5) In the original, by close observation, one sees the left wing of the eagle is joined to the body very close to the shoulder only. In the counterfeit the wing is joined along its entire side.

(6) In the original the eagle apparently stands on a pedestal with a hollow space immediately below it. In the counterfeit this space is filled up.

(7) Figures of value about ½ millimeters larger in the counterfeit than in the original.

Purchasers of Oaxaca stamps should be careful to buy same only from the dealers who specialize in these stamps and know them. Recently, I had submitted to me by one of the large dealers of Mexico a number of Oaxaca covers on which all stamps were counterfeit. These stamps were on various kinds of unknown papers and with inverted numerals, etc., none of which could be plated. On my inquiry of the Mexico dealer as to what printing and setting these stamps came from, as I could not match them up with my sheets, he informed me that he had never seen sheets of them and, therefore, could tell me nothing about them.

MR. GRINNELL'S LETTER.

DEAR MR. SEVERN:

I have not forgotten the promise I made to you, a year ago, to give you the history of the Missionary stamps which I sold to John Klemann. I will try to give you the whole story soon. The case in court was decided in Klemann's favor on the 29th of June and my attorney left two days latter for a month's vacation in the mountains. Until he returns, I do not know just what I will do. As soon as some definite plan of action is decided upon, I will let you know.

I will say this, however, that in my opinion, the judge (who has never collected stamps,) came to the conclusion that they were not genuine because Kleman and three of his witnesses said that I told them I had gotten the stamps from the son of a former missionary. When I told my story the two statements (theirs and mine) were so different that the judge in rendering his decision said he found it difficult to believe the story of the defendant.

Now I told Kleman in answer to his question, "Where did you get the stamps?", that I did not want to say yet, because there were two entire covers with stamps on which I expected to get later. Klemann's reply was that it was all right, that when I got the others he wanted first chance to buy them. I told the same story to all persons who asked me where I got them; but at the time of the suit two and a half years ago one fellow who jumped at conclusions made the statement to newspaper reporters that I got the stamps in an old barn in South Pasadena and that they came from the son of a missionary in Hawaii and that therefore they must be genuine! It was so published in the papers at the time. When asked if that was the place I got the stamps I said it was not—that I got the stamps here in Los Angeles within a stone's throw of Pico St. (seven or eight miles from South Pasadena).

Some five or six months after I made the find, three Hawaiian numerals were discovered in the possession of the divorced wife of this son of a Hawaiian missionary and when it became known the local collectors and dealers who were interested in this Klemann—Grinnell deal confused the matter in the telling and re-telling until, I feel sure, in justice to those who testified against me, they really thought I did say that I got them where these others came from.

The stamps were given to me by Mr. Charles Shattuck who used to live in Pepperell, Mass. His wife was Miss Elizabeth Stevens of Pepperell. She had an uncle named John Parker who was a sea-faring man or possibly a captain who lived at Cohasset, Mass. Captain Wm. Cole lived at Scituate, Mass., (next town to Cohasset). There was a letter with the stamps which was addressed to Capt Wm. Cole in care of the firm of Russell & Co., Canton, China. Capt Cole was commander of the Clipper ship "Courser" and sailed from Boston in 1851 to San Francisco, thence in 1852 to Canton, China. Again in 1853 the Courser left San Francisco for Canton. The records at Honolulu for Aug 12, 1853, show that the Courser arrived and brought B. F. Angell, U. S. Consul to Hawaii as a passenger. The Courser was one of the finest of Clipper ships and the San Francisco records show she was in command of Capt Wm. Cole, Master and Wm. Berry, Capt.

I feel, Mr. Severn, that the history of these stamps makes it impossible for them to be counterfeits. Mr. Shattuck told me they were among his mother's things when she died. I found her gravestone in the old cemetery at Pepperell when I was back there last summer, and the inscription on the stone says she died Aug. 17, 1856. She was Hannah, wife of Jesse Shattuck. The graves of both are back near the Tarbel lot, which is fenced, and under a large sugar maple tree.

I give you this much of the history now because there are several missing links in the history that I am at this time unable to find; but which if found will so strongly establish the authenticity of these stamps that I feel sure they will eventually be accepted as genuine.

I will write more as soon as I know what we intend to do.

Sincerely,
GEO. H GRINNELL.

A Rare United States Coil A Pair Brings $17.50 at Auction

Several years back, when the Bureau first issued the coil from the rotary press, a very few 2c were coiled in an imperforate condition. These were all sent to Baltimore, New York, Washington and Sanford, Maine. They were not discovered by philatelists until several years later. At that time a coil was found in the Washington Post Office and those which had gone to the other offices were all run down and it was found that they had been used commercially when issued.

This 2c imperforate coil from the rotary press is watermarked, Die I, coiled sidewise, and is listed in Scott as No. 370i. It could not be made from the imperforate sheet, for no imperforated rotary stamps were issued in sheets. It cannot happen today, for the Bureau now uses Die III for its coils, and besides uses unwatermarked paper.

I can furnish this wonderful variety which brought $17.50 for a pair at a July auction —and well worth it, too—at $15.00 a pair. In superb mint condition. Line pair $20. A strip at the same rate. Cannot be had for less and there are no more to be found.

CHRONICLE OF NEW ISSUES AND VARIETIES

Information regarding new issues and varieties will be gratefully received. We cannot give the addresses of correspondents.

The chronicle of United States is edited by PHILIP H. WARD, JR., Box 4216, Germantown, Phila., Pa. The foreign chronicle is edited by PERCY C. SMITH, 40 Packard Ave., West Somerville, Mass. Correspondents will please be careful to send their matter to the right address.

UNITED STATES.—A number of months back, in speaking of the postage stamp dies in the vaults of the Bureau of Engraving & Printing I called the attention of our readers to the fact that in the case of the current 9c stamp, the original die bearing number 596 became cracked after a transfer roll had been made from it and consequently a new die was engraved bearing number 601. Quite recently when new plates of the 9c appeared bearing numbers 13754 to 13757 inclusive it was thought that these might be from the new die. Investigation however proves that these are from the original die. We are informed that the second die has never been completed.

In my notes of last week mention was made of the new series of postage stamps that the department was about to issue. The Third Assistant Postmaster General, Mr. Warren Irving Glover now announces that this series is not contemplated because of the desire of the stamp collecting fraternity but because the best interests of the service warrants it.

The Postmaster General recently sent out appeals for suggestions for the betterment of the postal service and we are told that thousands of letters from employes pointed out the advisability of a more distinct variation in designs for stamps, as well as colors that do not possess striking similarity. Mr. Glover states that "The department knows that thousands of dollars in revenue are lost yearly in the postal service, due to striking similarity in stamps, as well as little deviation in color, which prevents postal employes from detecting short paid matter. The liability to error is increased by cancellation, which often obliterates the numeral on the stamps to such an extent that errors cannot be detected promptly. In fact, the present issue bears so many features alike that errors now made in the handling of mail with these stamps attached are, in the majority of cases, excusable."

Mr. Glover pointed out that the cost of preparation of the new special delivery stamp was very economical, the master die costing the government but $438.91 and this cost was more than covered by the sale of this variety to collectors which up to July 29th amounted to $879.60. Mr. C. J. West kindly favors us with a clipping from the Washington Star of July 29th conveying the above information.

We may expect to find the new series very handsome and in keeping with the special delivery recently issued. All of the portraits will be different and we learn through sources, generally reliable, that Washington will continue on the 2c, Franklin on either the 1c or 5c with Lincoln on the other. We will again have Grant, Jackson and possibly Jefferson with Roosevelt on one of the much used values, say the 10c. McKinley and Cleveland will possibly be on hand. We hope they will remember Marshall and Hamilton, two of the great men of our early days and two men whose work has been almost as beneficial as that of Washington and Lincoln. The lettering will be simple, possibly "U. S. Postage" with value in figures, followed by "Cents" or "Dollars". There is no reason to believe at this time that there will be any other denominations than those current.

Those interested in the "Specimen" and "Universal Congress" overprints on our several issues are referred to a very excellent article by Mr. B. K. Miller appearing in the July issue of Scott's Journal. All known varieties are listed at one time under one heading and it includes those "SEPIMEN" errors in our Department issues that have been found since Luff's book was published. We note three varieties with specimen overprint that we have read about before but have as yet to see a copy, namely the 1c and 7c State and the 7c Navy, all on soft paper. They may exist but if so they must be extremely rare and their present whereabouts seems to be a secret. The 1c Executive and the 1c Navy on soft paper are all well known but I have never seen any of the others on the soft paper of the American Bank Note Company.

The same journal calls attention to the dies for the peace issue that were engraved by the Bureau in 1914. These were fully described in this column several years back, at which time this government contemplated commemorating the one hundred years of peace that had existed between the United States and Great Britain. The World War broke about the time that the dies were ready and it is very doubtful if they will ever be issued. I saw the die proofs the last time I looked over the proof record book at the Bureau and as they are extremely beautiful it is to be regretted that the finished stamps never saw light. The fact that the dies are still at the Bureau is no reason why we may expect stamps to be issued. The Bureau retains all of their dies and they have cut quite a few which have never been used, including one with a portrait of Samuel F. B. Morse. This was cut just before the Victory stamp.

Mr. Joseph Robert, writes to inform us that in going through his grandfather's desk he has located a number of Confederate covers, including an Aberdeen provisional. He mentions some of the covers bearing postmarks from Mason, Miss., Tudor Hall, Va., Cahaha, Ala., Harpers Ferry, Va. (that is before it became a part of West Virginia), etc., in addition to the usual "PAID", "5", "10", "Due 3" and the like. Mr. Robert writes to inform us that these are not listed in Scott. Like many of our readers he is under the impression that if a cover bears a postmark with a "PAID 5" and has gone through the mail that it is a provisional. This is by no means the case. Those

HAVE YOU ANY 6c RE-ENGRAVED?
We want to buy for cash or will give extra value in exchange for any copies of the U. S. 6c rose or brown-red, re-engraved, 1882. These are Scott's Nos. 208 and 208a. We pay ½ to full catalog for copies we can use, but want only stamps in fine condition. It will pay you to look through your duplicates for these stamps. Fancy prices for pairs, strips or covers bearing these stamps.
General collectors find our approval selections contain good old U. S. and foreign stamps at big discounts from catalog. Please state your wants, and references, please, if unknown to us.
J. O. MOORE, Inc., RHEIMS, N. Y.

listed in the Scott catalogue are those that were made and sold by the postmaster and then later used for posting a letter. It is most difficult as a rule to tell the provisional from the letter simply postmarked, but those listed have stood the test and are so recognized. There is not the slightest doubt that many genuine provisionals are listed today but it will be necessary to prove that they are such before they are recognized.

Mr. J. V. Nielson sends us a new provisional envelope just located.

Charleston Overprint.
Die E on white, Size 5, Wmk. 20, L. B.

We wish to thank Messrs. G. B. Newton, Jr., J. William Harmon and A. E. Clattenburg, Jr., for notes of interest.

BELGIUM.—Mr. Henry Hooreman advises of the appearance of the 20fr parcel post set of the new design. The color is blue.

KELANTAN, Surcharged "MALAYA-BORNEO EXHIBITION."—Mr. R. Roberts has shown us the following with the above noted overprint in three lines in black; 1c green, script watermark; 4c black and red, multiple CA watermarked; 5c old bright yellow paper, multiple CA; 10c black and mauve, script; 30c lilac and red, multiple CA; 50c olive black and orange, multiple CA.

LATVIA.—Mr. Karl Koslowski reports that a 6r value has been issued to augment the present arms type series. The color is red lilac and was placed on sale the 22nd of June.

Mr. George H. Jaeger also sends us information regarding this stamp and adds that in the near future the following values will be issued in the same type: 20, 30, 50 and 100rbl. Mr. Jaeger informs us that all the former stamps are at present out of circulation, excepting the airmail issues.

LUXEMBURG.—Mr. Henry Hooreman sends us the following new values in the new Duchess type: 75c red and 80c black. These are printed in sheets of 25 and were placed on sale July 1st.

MONTSERRAT.—Mr. J. A. Galbraith has sent us the following values on script watermarked paper: ¼d brown, 1½d orange, 2d grey, 2½d blue, 5d violet and olive green, 2sh violet and ultramarine on blue, 3sh green and purple, 4sh grey and red. Also a 4d black and red on yellow on multiple crown CA paper.

1d green and black, script.
6d bright mauve and blk., script.
1sh brown and blk., script.
1sh grn. and blk. on old bluish green paper, yellow green back, mult.
2s 6d carmine and blk. on yellow exp., mult.
5sh bluish grn. and blk. on new yel. paper, mult.
7s 6d orange and blk., script.
10sh sage grn. and blk., script.
15sh violet and blk. on blue, script.
£1 mauve and blk. on red, mult.

ST. VINCENT.—The Economist Stamp Co. advise of the 2d grey, which has been issued on script watermarked paper.

SARAWAK.—Mr. R. Roberts reports a new color for the 8c stamp. It has been printed in red, no watermark

ST. LUCIA.—Mr. J. A. Galbraith reports the 1½d red, on script watermarked paper.

STRAITS SETTLEMENTS.—Mr. R. Roberts reports the 45c emerald all through has just been issued.

TRINIDAD.—Messrs. Bright & Son send us the following: "A correspondent in Trinidad writes to us as follows:—'For your information, there appears to have been some misunderstanding at the G. P. O. here over the issue of the 2½d script watermark; these stamps were supposed not to have been issued, but by some mistake a sheet was sent up to the Arima P. O. I happened to be there at the time, only purchased four of these stamps for my collection. Hearing of the above later, I went back to the P. O. to buy the balance of the sheet, found that it had been ordered back to the G. P. O. Other collectors have hunted all the post offices in the island and cannot get hold of this new 2½d.' It would appear from same that the 2½d script Trinidad is likely to prove a good stamp."

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—Daniel J. Kaib, Beatty, Pa., writes us that he has an accumulation of half a dozen different publications which he will gladly donate to any stamp society or club willing to pay transportation charges.

—We are informed that the Security Insurance Co., of New Haven, Conn., will write fire insurance on stamp collections. Our thanks to Carl S. Davis for this information.

—The Haweye Stamp Co., Cedar Rapids, Iowa, would like to know the present whereabouts of Glenn M. Wiggin, formerly of Council Bluffs, Iowa. He is reported as having been in Omaha recently.

—If any of our subscribers know anything concerning the whereabouts of Harold N. Perkins, formerly of Detroit, Mich., will they kindly communicate with E. P. Seebohm, 660 Market St., San Francisco, Cal.? He is reported to have moved from that city.

—Due to illness, J. D. Havens of Rochester, N. Y., has been compelled to discontinue his advertising, but expects to resume in the near future.

SPECIAL COLLECTIONS
Through our connections abroad, we often obtain many excellent collections of Europe, British Colonies, South America, etc., etc. As we are wholesale dealers exclusively and have neither the time to break these up, nor the market in which to sell single stamps, they are generally offered to our customers intact at a small percentage over cost price. These collections contain only choice items, sometimes rarities, and range in price from $100 to $5000. We sell them at rates low enough to interest both dealer and collector. Interested parties are requested to write immediately. [tf

A NEW POLICY.

The new special delivery stamps, of which mention has been made in The Courant, have been placed on sale in Washington, for the benefit of philatelists for whom life will seem burdensome until they secure the new product.

In connection with the sale the post office department announces that future issues of postage stamps "will be in such designs and colors as to be easily distinguishable and memorized." The philatelists will thank the department for those few kind words as at present the stamps are not easily distinguishable either in the matter of color or of design. As for design, as the public knows, a head of Washington now appears on the less expensive stamps, the first six at least, and from that point on Franklin appears.

Until recent years most of the ex- and dead Presidents had their day on some one of the many issues of stamps, while Franklin, as was his right, appeared on some denomination—if memory serves he was content with the 1-cent stamp for a long time—and Martha Washington was also honored in this manner. As we have said, the list was at last reduced to Washington and Franklin.

It will be seen therefore that memorizing the design is altogether too simple to be of use in distinguishing one denomination from another, therefore clerks at the stamp windows must depend upon color. At this point mere man will swear that the colors are not now easily distinguishable even though they may conform to the rules of the postal union. The 1-cent stamp is green but one sheet of these stamps frequently differs from another in the intensity of its coloring, so therefore, there are light green and also dark green 1-cent stamps.

The 11-cent stamp is also in green, a dark green with a head of B. Franklin, deceased, upon it, but unless the light is fairly good, a well-inked sheet of 1-cent stamps does not differ greatly in color from a sheet of the 11-cent denomination although the difference in value is considerable. There is a chance to make these stamps more easily distinguishable. They now look as nearly alike as twins.

But if the 1-cent stamp and the 11-cent stamp are twins the 3-cent and the 50-cent stamp are at least first cousins. The post office department insists that the 3-cent stamp is purple and that the 50-cent issue is lilac. This distinction means much to a woman but little or nothing to a man unless his business requires him to be an expert in colors. Even in that case the 3-cent stamps vary greatly in their coloring. One may admit without argument that the 50-cent stamps are so aristocratic that the danger of confusing them with the common herd is not great but, at the same time, the possibility exists.

The 4-cent stamp is distinctive in coloring, so far as we know, and nearly as much can be said for the 5 while, until Mr. Burleson became postmaster general, the brilliant 6-cent stamp was unique. As we recall it the postal authorities say that its color is orange but Mr. Burleson produced a 9-cent stamp which has its uses and which is said to be salmon and therefore does not differ greatly from the 6 except in the designs.

The 7-cent stamp is gray and does not suggest any other in its color scheme but the 8 and the 13-cent issues are of much the same tint and bear the same head. So, for that matter, do the 10 and the 30-cent issues, the latter being a trifle, but only a trifle more intense in color than the 10. The 12-cent issue it may be said to its credit resembles in its coloring nothing but itself unless it is an unripe blackberry.

We should assume that an attribute of a postage stamp would be that of showing a cancellation mark readily. To that end the 2, 4, 6, 8, 9 and 10 cent issues are well adapted while the 3, 5 and 7-cent stamps are much less likely to show the ink. Perhaps the government will take this fact into consideration wh adopts easily distinguishable desi Hartford Courant.

OL. XXXVI. No. 3[illegible]. PORTLAND, ME., AUGUST 19, 1922. WHOLE No. 1650

REMARKS BY THE PRESIDENT.

A. P. S. CONVENTION ADDRESS BY PRES. CARROLL CHASE.

It is again a duty imposed upon me by the by-laws to address the Society in annual convention. Regretting this necessity, I will condense to the utmost the remarks I feel obliged to make.

The year which has passed has been a notable one for philately. Apparently as never before, our hobby has spread and waxed in strength and numbers. Our own membership, larger now than ever before, continues to show steady gain, indicative of health.

The outstanding event of the year has undoubtedly been the as yet uncompleted sale by the French Government in Paris of the Ferrari collection; certainly the greatest in the world. Its seizure as alien enemies' property prevented its going to the Berlin Postal Museum as was the intention of the late owner. While to some of us it may seem regrettable that this collection should be broken up, to my way of thinking the wide distribution of the numerous desirable stamps, whether rarities or otherwise, is a blessing. They have been rescued from a philatelic graveyard and will again delight the eyes of hungry students the world over.

The most important event of the near future is the great International Exhibition to be held in London under the auspices of the Junior Philatelic Society in May of next year. It would seem fitting, should this Convention wish it, that the American Philatelic Society should officially express its interest in the success of the great work undertaken, and possibly show more tangible evidence of good will by offering a medal which might, for example, be given for the best collection of our own country or to the United States collection showing the most original research.

A lawsuit of real interest to every member of this society has recently been decided in California. This had to do with the sale of a number of Hawaiian "missionary" stamps to one of our members. The court has upheld in no uncertain terms the buyer's claim that they are counterfeit; and has ordered that the money paid for them be returned. It seems that this decision would be of far-reaching value in promoting honesty in philatelic transactions. Mr. Klemann is to be congratulated on the fight which he has made for justice.

May I again call the attention of the Society to the fact that while we are in name the American Philatelic Society, Canadian members are not eligible to hold office. I feel that this might well be remedied.

It would be useless to deny that serious friction developed in the Society during the past winter over a bill which was presented to Congress, and which in the opinion of the entire Board of Directors, with one exception, was inimical to the best interests of the Society. The outcome of this is still in doubt, but I wish to thank the great bulk of the membership for its help and support in opposing this bill. I believe it is still in Committee in the House.

Inasmuch as my term of office has practically expired, I feel that I may with fairness speak of the amount of work which the Presidency now entails. The day is probably not far hence when it will be necessary in fairness to pay the President a moderate salary in partial recompense for his time expended. Personally, while the necessary hours were sometimes given to the detriment of my professional work, I have no regrets that I have been able to serve the Society.

It is probably that within the next few years I shall return to France and make that my permanent home; but whether I do or not, I believe that my interest in American philately, and most particularly in research work in the earliest issues of our own country will not diminish.

Last year at Milwaukee, we accomplished a certain amount of truly constructive work, and my hope is that our Society, now beginning the proceedings of the Thirty-Seventh Annual Convention, may continue in well-doing to the aid of American philately.

THE "REEFTON" PROVISIONALS OF NEW ZEALAND

These interesting stamps are not at present listed by Scott, but will be found in Stanley Gibbons' Catalogue on Page 294 of the current edition (Nos. 951-957) and the history and full account of them is in the "Monthly Journal" Volume 20 Page 24.

A fortunate chance has enabled me to secure one complete set and a few odd values of these really rare stamps, and I can offer them moderately.

BACK TO NORMALCY

To-day finds me back at the old grind until next summer after a more or less irregular summer as far as work was concerned.

The fall is nearly here and Scott's 1923 catalogue with its many promised changes will be here before long. The advance sheets prove their claim of many changes.

Summer purchases by me were more than usual and most of them have been worked into my stock.

Your want-list now may prove the early bird to catch the worm. United States prices are going further up and a stitch in time may save nine.

XX CENT REVENUES

These are not so easy to get, even in singles. I have an almost complete collection of these for sale, the condition is exceptionally fine, and the number of large blocks is remarkable, the difficulty of acquiring these can only be appreciated by those who have found out how hard FINE Blocks really are to get. There are several uncatalogued varieties, the Playing Cards are wonderfully complete. Full particulars willingly forwarded to a serious buyer.

UNSOLICITED TESTIMONIALS

New Order enclosed. I "cleaned up" on last packet I received from you (1000 variety) already realizing more than I paid after securing 400 varieties for myself.—B. Buchanan, Liverpool, Ohio.

Well satisfied with 2000 packet. Secured 900 stamps for my collection, selling the rest to my friends. Have already cleared over $5.00.—A. Wahlberg, Oakland, Calif.

Very much pleased with 1000 packet. Order enclosed for a 2000. I was greatly surprised at the quality of the stamps in the packet.—F. C. Elmes, Berwick, Pa.

Use bonds sent as payment for 10,000 variety packet. The packet proved highly satisfactory as a basis for a general collection.—F. M. Bigelow, Chicago, Ill.

Received 1000 packet some days ago and have had a fine time looking them over. Secured 250 new stamps for my collection of 3700, traded 43 for other new varieties and replaced 100 that were better specimens than mine. I never saw any stamps in such good condition, not a poor one in the lot. Order for 2000 packet enclosed.—T. Herrick, City Treasurer, Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

Don't Hesitate—Your opportunity is now. Remember the packet must satisfy or we refund your money plus your postage in returning same. Could we be more convincing of these packets' sterling qualities? Try one today—acts like a good tonic.

NEW MONACO STAMPS.

Designs Being Prepared With Portrait of Prince Louis II.

While no definite announcement has yet been made, it is stated that new designs are being prepared for a new set of postage stamps bearing the portrait of the new ruler, Prince Louis II. The current issue bearing the portrait of the late Prince Albert I is still being used, but by the end of the year these stamps may be superseded by a new series and collectors will have a few more new European stamps for their albums.

Monaco has never abused the stamp issuing privilege and to her credit she has refused to enrich her treasury by turning out new imprints at frequent intervals, thereby forcing, more or less directly, dealers and collectors to make substantial purchases. This habit of making money by new stamp issues and then demonetizing the stamps for another issue after a few months has been carried to the extreme by several of the new countries on the European map, and the practice has not entirely ceased.

The first of these war issues came out in October, 1914, when the 10-centime stamp was surcharged to sell for 15 centimes, the additional sou being contributed to the French Red Cross organization. In 1919, a set of seven values in a scenic design showing a view of Monaco was issued in aid of a fund for war orphans. They did not prove popular, for some reason, and a little later they were surcharged with the date, "20 Mars, 1920," to commemorate the wedding of the Duchesse de Valentinois, daughter of the late Prince, to the Count de Polignac. They were originally issued without announcement as a surprise on the morning of the royal wedding. One year later, on March 5, 1921, a batch of 442,000 of the regular Prince Albert stamps was overprinted, "28 Decembre, 1920," to commemorate the birth of a daughter to the Duchesse. They were issued during the fêtes held on the occasion of the baptismal ceremonies.

The first Monaco stamps bore the portrait of Prince Charles III, father of the late Prince. They were issued in July, 1885, but were only in use a few years, as Charles III died in 1889, but the new Albert issue did not come out until April, 1891. The Charles III stamps are beautifully engraved, being done by M. Eugene Mouchon, acknowledged as one of the ablest engravers of postage stamps, and were printed by the French Government printing office in Paris. A fine profile of Charles III is depicted in a beaded circle. There are nine values in the set and the highest value, the 5-franc stamps, issued late in 1885, has come to be a genuine rarity. For many years it was quoted at $15, but English dealers now value it in either used or unused condition at $60 to $75.—N. Y. Times.

TANGANYIKA AND ITS STAMPS.

(New York Times)

One of the latest of the issues of postage stamps which will be of peculiar interest to the general collector because it means the entrance of a new country to the postage stamp realm is that of Tanganyika, which is the great East African territory formerly know as German East Africa and now administered by Great Britain. The stamps are of the size used in most of the British colonies and are printed on the new paper containing the watermark of a crown and the cypher of the King, "G. V. R.," in script letters.

The design, which is similar for all values, shows the head of a giraffe in a medallion, with palm trees on the right and the figures of values in three small panels, one at the top righthand corner and the other in the lower corners. Four denominations, 10, 15, 20 and 25 cents, have been issued and it is said that several higher values will soon appear. The engraving is excellently done.

Tanganyika is a territory comprising 365,000 square miles, with a population of about 4,000,000 persons. The capital is Dar-es-Salaam, meaning the "Harbor of Peace." Prior to its conquest during the late war the German colonial stamps were used, the chief design of which was the former Kaiser's imperial yacht, Hohenzollern. When the British forces took possession of the country during the war Indian stamps, overprinted I. E. F. (Indian Expeditionary Force) were used. In the early part of 1917 the stamps of the East Africa and Uganda protectorates, bearing the profile of King George, were placed in use without surcharge, but later in that year a supply of those stamps were overprinted in London with the letters G. E. A. and sent out for use in the former German East African territory. These stamps are included in the war stamp issues and have now been superseded by the individual Tanganyika stamps.

RARE NEW EUROPE

Owing to the failure of one of the largest stamp concerns in Germany, a small quantity of the scarcer sets of New European stamps have come on the market. This, combined with the low exchange rate of the German mark, has made it possible for us to secure a small stock of items we offer below, at very low prices. As this is the dull season of the stamp trade, we have added a small profit to our cost and give you the advantage of our favorable purchase.

All items are offered subject to previous sale and remittances will be returned if our stock is exhausted. All stamps are unused.

16 FEET OF STAMPS ON LETTER.

(This clipping is taken from the Philadelphia "Ledger," and was sent us by Roy N. Tope, who writes us that he called upon Mrs. Rosenkoff and saw the letter, which is just as described.—W. O. W.)

When the postman delivered the 10 o'clock mail yesterday morning at the home of Mrs. Morris Rosenkoff, 19 North Robinson street, he handed over a letter from Russia.

"Here is the strangest thing I ever saw since I began carrying mail," the carrier said.

Attached to the letter were stamps that completely covered both sides of a sheet sixteen feet long by seven inches wide. Mrs. Rosenkoff counted the stamps and found there were 1625. Each stamp has a face value of 250 rubles. All told it required 406,250 rubles to carry the letter to this city.

The communication was found to be a pitiful appeal for aid from relatives of Mrs. Rosenkoff at Elisvetgrad, Ukrania. It told how an aunt, once wealthy and living in a mansion, was working all day in a market place and barely making enough to buy a half loaf of bread, although her pay was 250,000 Russian rubles a day.

"We are eating bread containing straw and mud," the aunt wrote. "Send food as soon as you get this letter."

Mrs. Rosenkoff estimated the postage on the letter represented nearly two days' pay of the writer. Some one had laboriously canceled each of the 1625 stamps. All were in good condition.

A gold ruble, according to a proclamation of the Secretary of the Treasury of the United States, was worth fifty-one and a half cents in United States money on October 1, 1913. If the ruble were worth as much today the value of the postage stamps attached to the letter would be $209,218.75.

"I get letters nearly every week from relatives in Russia," said Mrs. Rosenkoff. "Most of the letters have only one or two stamps. This is the first one that took sixteen feet of postage. I understand it is similar to what we would call a special-delivery letter in this country, and that that accounts for the number of stamps. It is postmarked June 30. I have sent international stamps to my relatives in Russia to be attached to return letters, but the Soviet authorities refuse to recognize them."

THE SORDID COLLECTOR AND OTHERS.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Apropos of your editorial in today's New York Times, may I be permitted to say that all collectors are not mad but that philatelists are simply sordid? Stamp collecting is the fad of the rich man. He who has the most money can pay the highest price for what amounts to no more than a curiosity. I knew a rich brewer once who went bankrupt through buying stamps, but the sale of his collection enabled him to obtain his discharge. But the wise collector, far from being mad, is a good investor. He who years ago bought Whistler etchings for a few dollars can today sell them for thousands. Murphy's paintings, which even in my ken could be bought for $25 or $30, are today worth from $12,000 to $20,000. Apart from the sordid monetary value of a painting or etching, think of the pleasure it gives as a thing of beauty, as an embellishment to one's walls and lastly as an investment to which real estate or oil stock looks like thirty cents. The man who buys wisely in the productions of modern artists is laying the foundation of a great fortune.

G. F. SCOTSON-CLARK.

EDITORIAL.

Now that the Hawaiian missionary stamp case has been decided and statements have been made both by the plaintiff and defendant, there are certain considerations based on the court's decision that cannot be ignored. The accepted evidence was that the stamps were counterfeit and such being the case, it follows that they were born in iniquity and brought into the open by a conspiracy, that is without parellel in the annals of philatelic history. If innocent persons have become entangled in the net-work of fraud, it should be their one object to invite a searching investigation into the twists and turns of the case in respect to the origin of the stamps now proved to be forged by verdict of the court. We are told that the federal authorities are now to have an inning as they cannot remain passive under the knowledge that misapplied ingenuity, such as shown in the production of the forgeries, is under cover. The secret service is to smoke out the conspirators, we have been told, and that these officers will have the aid and encouragement of philatelists need not be said.

We have a Mulready cover, penny black, postmarked November 2, 1840, that shows that advertising enterprise soon marked the new postal convenience as its own. The reverse of the letter-sheet is covered with a variety of advertisements of life assurance companies, Royal Gallery of Practical Science, the Thames Tunnel, the Panclibanon, plate glass companies, perfumers, cosmeticians, wet nurse, tea dealers, Kentish Town and Highgate Cemetery, etc. The sheet is headed: "Reduction of postage.—Postage stamps sold at 21, Little Queen Street, Westminster, at 9d per Dozen.—Particular attention is respectfully directed to the following advertisements,—and Public Patronage is requested for the Advertisers, by whose combined encouragement the Projectors of this undertaking are enabled to make such an immense Reduction in the Postage."

Requests continue to come from readers asking how letters ordering stamps from Washington should be addressed. Please remember: "Philatelic Stamp Agency, Division of Stamps, Washington, D. C."

We have the privilege of extracting from a personal letter received by Mr. Frank Pollard Brown of Boston, from a correspondent on the spot, so to say, a most interesting dissertation on the stamp necessities for Barbuda, a recent recruit to the ranks of stamp-issuing countries. We quote: "Replying to your letter about the stamps of Barbuda, these have arrived but have not yet been sent out to Barbuda. Up to the time of writing, July 8th, 1922, I believe that they will not be issued at our post office here. Obviously, as it is a Barbuda stamp, there will have to be a Barbuda post office. To my mind, the whole business is an absurdity. Barbuda, as you will note by the seal of the Presidency, is for all practical purposes a portion of Antigua and until recent years, say twenty, was entirely dependent upon the revenue of this island for support. With the demand for cotton in the early days of this century, the government inaugurated the cultivation and I believe as government things go, if not the whole expense in connection with the administration, a large portion appears to have been met by this industry. It is practically an estate or plantation with a population, some years ago, estimated at seven hundred, but which has decreased considerably in recent years." When the news of the issue for Barbuda was announced in a June number, collectors found upon consulting reference works, that the island, lying thirty miles north of Antigua, was a dependency of Antigua. The area of the island of Barbuda is given as seventy-five square miles and it is said that its "flat and fertile" soil produces corn, pepper and tobacco. Barbuda, which formerly was a possession of the Codrington family, has its ruling officer in a magistrate. Why does the Colonial Office overlook a bet by not trotting out Redonda, a small island near-by, which has a phosphate industry and a population of over a hundred?

Springfield, the convention city, has reason to be proud of the distinction conferred upon it by having the first philatelic post-mark in this country dedicated to it. Literally, as Mr. Stone says: "It takes Springfield to start things." The post-mark and cancellation are in the special box-form and read: "American Philatelic Society Convention, Aug. 14-17, 1922." Here is a "first" that all collectors will be glad to have.

From Mr. H. M. Bradley, Jr., Derby, Conn., we have received a specimen of a ten cents "parcel stamp" that is used by the Connecticut Company on its lines in the central part of the state. Mr. Bradley says that there also is a two cents label in green, and observes: "If the use of these stamps should become common upon trolley express lines, the labels might provide an interesting sideline." The stamp submitted has a large "C" as its central design, enclosing, "The Connecticut Company."

It is seldom that we have been permitted to see in the newspapers a more interesting and thoughtful editorial than that headed, "Is the Postage Stamp Passing?" which appeared in the Boston Herald of July 18, 1922. We shall make room for the intelligent findings of the Herald's editor elsewhere. We find that among our newer readers there seems to be some apprehension that collectors may find their occupation gone through the increasing use of the stamp meter but no such misgivings ruffle the bosom of the seasoned philatelist. The older collector for some years has viewed with tranquillity the inroads of the machine mail and his decision made some time ago was that the use of the stamps of common denominations only would be curtailed. In fact, the Herald puts it well: "Excess postage, special delivery, registered letters and similar classes of mail will keep on in the good old fashioned way, in spite of the machine. And the stamp collector, doubtless, will be busier than ever." The collector need not worry over the passing of the postage stamp and if it should become non est, there will be enough stamps in existence to keep things moving for a good many years, judging from the complaints that we hear to the effect that too many stamps are now being issued.

In its description of the design of the new special delivery stamp, the post office department says that the central design "is the front of a Colonial residence, showing a motor cycle parked against the curb with the special-delivery messenger delivering a letter." Now Mr. Cecil F. Blogg takes pen in hand to say that his brother, who is an architect, finds fault with the design on a technicality. "The usual door is seven feet high and the usual brick is two inches high. The door-way on this stamp covers seventeen courses of brick, making the bricks five instead of two inches. In other words, the bricks seem to be out of proportion to the door. However, the Bureau of Engraving and Printing should be proud of its work; and we want more of it."

The next discontinuance of subscriptions will concern all subscribers whose wrappers bear the numbers 1649 to 1652 inclusive. Just glance at your wrapper immediately in order to make sure that your subscription is paid up. You have ample time in which to renew and be saved the inconvenience of a discontinance. Moreover, under our new system we are making no plans for furnishing back numbers and subscribers must not expect that we can supply back numbers when we have made every effort to notify them.

We are satisfied that the system we have inaugurated is the only one under which a newspaper can do business these days, and subscribers must understand that free copies of the WEEKLY will not be sent to those who are in arrears.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—A Canadian correspondent writes us that he has a variety of interest, in the 7c stamp, plate 6. There is a small broken O for a P, in POSTAGE.

—A. H. Pike, Sta. G, Buffalo, N. Y., our metered mail editor, asks indulgence in attending to the details of correspondence. He is overwhelmed with work.

—We have been shown a new postal cancellation by Mr. A. A. Wasserscheid of New York. It consists of the inscription in five lines "International—Aero—Congress—Oct.—7 12 13 14 1922." We have also received from Mr. F. J. Ford of Santa Ana, Cal., the following cancellation, also in five lines as follows: "Pageant of Progress—and—Industrial Exposition—Los Angeles—Aug. 26, Sept. 9."

—We have received from Mrs. Oughtred specimens of the two new excise tax stamps issued by Canada. Both show excellent portraits of King George, the ¼c being printed in olive and the ½c in carmine. They are in the small oblong rectangular shape.

—We are indebted to Christian R. Grebasch for two new advertising cancellations. One comes from Michigan City, Ind., and bears in addition to the name of city the inscription "Visit the Dunes." The second is from Madison, Wis., and consists of four lines, the second line consisting of an arrow in outline. The other lines are respectively, "32d Div. Reunion—Madison. Wis.—Aug. 26-29, 1922."

—There is a letter at this office for Mr. Edward S. Knapp.

—F. S. Thompson, Winnipeg, Man., has been appointed secretary-treasurer of the Canadian Philatelic Association, vice W. R. Patten resigned.

—E. Tudor Gross, president of the Rhode Island Philatelic Society, sends for our inspection a registered envelope recently received from a town in Russia. Upon it there are no fewer than forty 10,000 ruble stamps. In other words, it took 400,000 Russian rubles to mail this letter, "which at the normal rate of exchange prior to the war would have been equivalent to $212,000." This certainly is some cover, the envelope being stuck to stamps instead of the stamps to the envelope.

—R. E. Sharp, 167½ Whitehall St., Atlanta, Ga., the president of the One Man Club and booster of philately, would like the address of L. A. Gagnon, formerly 73 York Ave., Brighton, N. Y. The address as stated was supposed to be correct, but mail sent there is returned.

—Supplementing the article written by Mr. Wolseley, on British Colonial stamps with script watermarks published in the issue of August 5, we have received a similar list from Mr. K. E. Parker of New Britain, Conn. We desire to express our thanks for this manuscript received too late for publication, for it was well prepared.

—"The Crow's Nest Air Mail Trip noted July 22, was arranged by Lieut. Palmer and Capt. Fitzgerald of Lethbridge, Alberta, and with the consent of the Canadian Postal authorities, whereby they would carry air mail under certain government supervision and control. They charged $1.00 for the envelope, and the government charged the regular rate of postage. The $1.00 charged for the envelope was to meet the cost of the trip. This envelope carried advertisements on the back, advertising the towns of Macleod, Pincher Creek, Blairmore, Alberta and other towns in the Crow's Nest Pass. The mail only got as far as North Dakota, and when landing, a woman ran out on the landing field in a car, and to avoid killing her they had to make a landing in such a way that it wrecked their machine. A life saved, and a machine and air mail trip ½ ruined. These same air men made 60,000 miles in this same machine. which they think is a record."—Canadian Cor.

—"You may be interested in knowing that we received seventeen (17) replies to our small advertisement of the Perfection Pocket Stock Book, which ran in only one issue. I consider this a very excellent return, as the advertisement paid for itself twice over, and was instrumental in securing for us several good buyers from our Approval Department."—FENNELL STAMP CO.

POST OFFICE DEPARTMENT SEAL.

LOUIS MELIUS in Postmasters' Advocate.

It has always been something of a mystery to people interested in postal affairs why there has been no definite knowledge of the origin and history of the Post Office Department seal which is seen upon all official publications of the department. No one seems to know anything about it and attempts to find out among department people brought no results. . . . .

It appears that the original design for a Post Office Department seal, according to Francis Huebner, an accepted authority on postal affairs, volume 32, No. 5 L'Union Postale, records of the Columbia Historical Society, was that of Mercury riding upon the clouds, but the introduction of the pony express in 1836, it is said, induced the Postmaster General, Amos Kendall, in an order dated May 1, 1837, to change the seal to its present design of a galloping pony with a mail messenger astride.

This historical statement is, however, contradicted by the historian Benson J. Lossing, who stated in an article published in Harper's Monthly Magazine for February, 1869, (Vol. XXXVIII, p. 319) that Benjamin Franklin, when first appointed Postmaster General, issued a circular concerning the Postal Service on which was a picture of a galloping pony, which he assumes was the origin of the present seal.

The records of the year 1837 are not available in the Post Office Department, and the order of the Postmaster General Kendall can not be found to verify the statement of Huebner, and it is left to conjecture whether the seal as at present originated with Kendall in 1837, or with Franklin as stated by Lossing.—Postal Bulletin.

A Rare United States Coil
A Pair Brings $17.50 at Auction

Several years back, when the Bureau first issued the coil from the rotary press, a very few 2c were coiled in an imperforate condition. These were all sent to Baltimore, New York, Washington and Sanford, Maine. They were not discovered by philatelists until several years later. At that time a coil was found in the Washington Post Office and those which had gone to the other offices were all run down and it was found that they had been used commercially when issued.

This 2c imperforate coil from the rotary press is watermarked, Die I, coiled sidewise, and is listed in Scott as No. 370i. It could not be made from the imperforate sheet, for no imperforated rotary stamps were issued in sheets. It cannot happen today, for the Bureau now uses Die III for its coils, and besides uses unwatermarked paper.

I can furnish this wonderful variety which brought $17.50 for a pair at a July auction —and well worth it, too—at $15.00 a pair. In superb mint condition. Line pair $20. A strip at the same rate. Cannot be had for less and there are no more to be found.

SPECIAL COLLECTIONS

Through our connections abroad, we often obtain many excellent collections of Europe, British Colonies, South America, etc., etc. As we are wholesale dealers exclusively and have neither the time to break these up, nor the market in which to sell single stamps, they are generally offered to our customers intact at a small percentage over cost price. These collections contain only choice items, sometimes rarities, and range in price from $100 to $5000. We sell them at rates low enough to interest both dealer and collector. Interested parties are requested to write immediately. [tf

UNITED STATES.—Those who are interested in early United States covers will recall that every once in a while they will run across a patriotic envelope of the Civil War period showing a flag, banner, figure, head or a cartoon of some kind typical of the happenings of the day. A collection of these started shortly after the great war, and made by one interested in the envelopes alone, and not the stamps upon them, has just been broken up and from a philatelic point of view many of them are worthy of record.

Those showing the 1857 series are unusual for the war had not been in progress very long before this issue was demonetized, and the varieties of 1861 appeared. I note in the lot three covers, each bearing a 1c and 3c—the 1c being used as a carrier on letters from New York and Philadelphia. One bearing date of May 8, 1861, just a few days after the outbreak of the war, has an American flag at the left end. A similar envelope bears a Philadelphia postmark of just two days later. A very attractive envelope showing an eagle carrying a flag and attacking a snake holding a Confederate flag in an inverted position, was carried to Washington by three of the 1c 1857 cancelled "New York—July 7, 1861". Similar stamps with an American shield come from Zanesville, while a cover showing an eagle in flight with an American flag, was mailed from San Francisco with a type I, 10c 1857 on Sept. 30, 1861. A patriotic cover from California is odd, and such a late use of the demonetized issue of 1857 is unusual. An envelope bearing the same design was mailed from New York on May 25, with a pair and two singles of the 3c 1857. The envelope is small and being addressed to Philadelphia, it is difficult to account for the 12c rate. One flag cover from Muncy, Pa., has a 3c 1857 cancelled with a small five pointed star in blue, while a larger five pointed black star on the same stamp carried a similar envelope marked "Death to Traitors" and postmarked "BELLEVUE—Ohio—Aug. 27, 1861". A "PAID 3" within a circle falls on another 3c 1857, the cover being postmarked "Mooresville, Ind.," and showing Columbia unfurling the Star Spangled Banner.

The early patriotic covers mostly show the flag, the eagle, or Columbia, while as the war progressed we find them more artistic. There must have been a state series, for I have before me two very beautiful hand painted covers both with 3c 1861, one showing the seal of Pennsylvania in addition to a woman holding a flag, while the second shows the seal of New Jersey in addition to a group at one end composed of a woman, an Indian, a flag and a shield. About this time they started to use portraits, and we find a Washington portrait coming from Richmond, Vt., with a blue cancellation falling on a near pink 3c 1861. A choice real pink, in the pink of condition is on another flag envelope with a cancellation "DUE 3" within a circle falling part on the stamp and part on cover.

One of the most interesting items from a historical point of view is a cover that has passed through the lines. This cover which bears a 3c 1861 was mailed by a Capt. W. S. Mendenhall on March 20, 1862, from the Judson House at Jacksonville, Fla. It is addressed to Howellville, Pa., and is postmarked "Port Royal, S. C.—Apr. 17". There is another cover "through the lines" without stamps, postmarked "Nashville, Ten.—Aug. 13, 1864." Note especially the spelling of Tennessee. This also is postmarked in black "DUE 6" within a circle. Another printed cover reading "Col. Baxter's Zouaves, Third Regiment Baker's Brigade" was sent to Philadelphia from Camp Observation, Md., and the 3c 1861, on this cover is postmarked "Adamstown—Jan. 20, 1862—B. & O. R. R." Another with a picture of a Zouave carrying the American flag with a Confederate flag under foot, shows a 3c 1861 cancelled in black "Eastern R. R. Oct. 5." A strip of 1c 1861 shows an imprint that may recall memories to some of the Buffalo boys. A large picture of a buffalo in red, reads "Ever ready The Buffalo Boys of 21st Regiment, N. Y. S. V. Col. William F. Rogers".

Another has an imprint of "Col. D. B. Birney's Zouave Regiment" and was mailed from Washington on Sept. 12, 1861. Another from Baltimore shows several marks of interest reading "ADVD 1 Ct", "Due 3" and "Not called for—No such person can be found". All of these post office marks are in black. Another comes from The Mississippi Valley Sanitary Fair at St. Louis.

The oddity of the lot was a letter addressed to a member of the 11th Regiment, Company B, Wallace Barracks via Adams Express and shows a new variety of local, namely a stamp printed in black on yellow glazed paper reading within a rectangle 28mm x 20mm "Forwarded by the Adams Express Co. from Indianapolis, Ind." There were five or six hundred covers or more—too numerous to mention in their entirety—but surely if this could be done they would recall many old memories to the Boys of '61.

SHANGHAI—Mr. E. G. Young sends me two new provisional overprints which come as quite a surprise, for we had thought that the supply recently sent out by the Bureau of Engraving & Printing would be sufficient to meet their requirements. It seems however that the supply of the 1c and 2c values became exhausted and they resorted to the overprinting of these two values

EARLY GREAT BRITAIN

1d BLACKS
A perfection block of 6 with light cancellation in red $65.00
Pairs, vertical and horizontal, and superb singles, with shifts and double letters, on approval.

2d BLUE—NO LINES
A very fine block of four $75.00
Good margins, black canc.
Other fine items in this stamp in singles, pairs, strips, from both plates. — On approval.

SAXONY

A very sweet little collection of early Saxony, with perfection copies of all values in singles and pairs, with a few strips. There are several double printings or shifts. All very fine—$750.00.

J. O. MOORE, Inc., RHEIMS, N. Y.

locally. The surcharge is in three lines similar to those turned out by Washington but are in small block letters. The overprint is in black and in the case of the 2c value was applied to the surface printed stamp. Mr. Young writes under date July 8th, "I received them at the postal agency yesterday. I bought several values of the set, in hopes of getting some of the new printing, and I got a new printing, all right! The office will give absolutely no information, but I suspect the surcharging was done locally. These are the only values so treated. Examination of entire panes of the new 1c and 2c show no real errors, although the effect of uneven inking is apparent, especially in the stop after "Cts" which ranges from perfectly square to perfectly round, with all intermediate variations. I procured these yesterday, but they may have been on sale several days, as it has been a week since I have been at the stamp window. Apropos of the argument about the selling of stamps at today's rate of exchange, the face value of silver is $3.21."

1922, Shanghai Local Overprints
1c green, engraved.
2c rose, surface printed.

The United States section of the advanced sheets of the new Scott catalogue were received on August 2nd, and will be reviewed next week.

NEW ZEALAND.—The Economist Stamp Co. and Mr. A. H. Gleason send us copies of the new 5d stamp. It is of the current King George type and the color is ultramarine.

TWO TOPICS.

By A. C. LE DUC.

(1) In the August American Magazine Ellis Parker Butler has a very entertaining article on page 130; he mentions stamp collecting as good oil for a man who is in a rut. The whole article has to be read to get the significance.

(2.) Some discussion has been noted concerning insurance on stamp collections. I never had any trouble in getting any insurance from the regular fire insurance company with whom I had my household goods insured. The only insurance I have covered my collection has been the fire insurance—I have never tried to get theft insurance.

REMITTANCES TO ENGLAND.

We have already published several quarter pages from H. R. Bishop, 5 Monument St., London, England, and this week another is inserted. Mr. Bishop has also taken space for September and will be with us regularly during the coming months. He expresses the wish that we would announce in our editorial department that cash may be safely sent in prepayment for orders. He writes, "I find a number of your readers are rather dubious about sending money to England. I wish to suggest that there need be no hesitation in this direction. The English dealer is after business even as is the American dealer, and he is bound to be honorable in his dealings in the building up of an advertising patronage."

IS THE POSTAGE STAMP PASSING?

Is the postage stamp becoming obsolete? A great invention in and for its time, it has served the world well, adhering strictly to duty (when properly licked), and carrying letters and packages to the ends of the earth. But now the postage stamp is confronted with a formidable rival—the metered or permit mailing machine.

THEODORE CHAMPION

PARIS 13 rue Drouot 13 PARIS

In increasing numbers the large business houses, trust companies, mail order concerns and department stores are discarding the stamp or the stamped envelopes in favor of rapidly running machines which at one slip seal, impress a permit number approved by the postal authorities, cancel and count the letters or circulars that are fed into them. Stamps, naturally, retire to the rear in favor of their mechanical successor.

"Permitted" or "metered" mail expedites large volume mailings by the simple process of imposing a slight additional burden on the mailer, and removing a corresponding burden from the postoffice. The mailer is glad to assume the small cost of the investment on the machine, because he gets both speed in his office and speed at the postoffice, particularly during rush hours. Machines are now on the market capable of handling from 6,000 to 20,000 pieces per hour. Shades of the office boy of yesterday!

But while the postage stamp is being displaced in the use of immense volumes of two-cent mail—as it has already been displaced so far as much second, third and fourth class matter is concerned—it will continue, in all human likelihood, to perorm an essential function. The hundreds of thousands of small business houses and individuals can lick their relatively few stamps per day more economically than they can print their permit numbers. Excess postage, special delivery, registered letters and similar classes of mail will keep on in the good old-fashioned way, in spite of the machine. And the stamp collector, doubtless, will be busier than ever.

As a matter of fact, mailing without postage stamps is far from new, for the permit number is, after all, but a species of frank, and franks are as old, or nearly as old, as mail itself.—Boston Herald.

THE SPRINGFIELD CONVENTION.

Springfield. Mass., has hung its banner high on the outer walls as a philatelic convention city and for the third time in the history of the American Philatelic Society, it has scored heavily as the site of philatelic hospitality. At this convention a remarkable record for attendance was attained as a registration of over 170 members was made; and there were guests to the number of almost 100. The great interest shown in the meeting was apparent and while there were no periods of particular brilliancy marking the sessions, it is not to be gainsaid that much constructive work was quietly accomplished. A full report of the proceedings of the convention will appear in our columns next week and so we only shall summarize the transaction on this occasion.

Washington was chosen as the next convention city.

The question involving, in a legislative sense, the illustrating of U. S. stamps for philatelic purposes was referred to a special committee for consideration.

A special publicity committee was authorized to create a fund that might be applied to the encouragement of newspaper and other notice of philatelic subjects, this committee to work under the direction of the Board of Vice-Presidents.

The body placed itself on record by expressing "its gratification at the verdict by Federal Judge Wood in the recent Klemann-Grinnell case tried at Los Angeles and involving the counterfeit Hawaiian Missionaries" and further it recommended "that aggressive measures be taken through the proper legal channels to apprehend those guilty of the attempted fraud."

A committee was authorized to refute erroneous information on philatelic subjects that may appear in the press in particular.

A medal was voted to be given by the American Philatelic Society under suitable provisions to the forthcoming International Philatelic Exhibition at London in 1923, to be held under the auspices of the Junior Philatelic Society.

A medal not to cost over $25 each year is to be awarded to the writer who presents a paper not to exceed 3,000 words in length on a selected subject.

The appreciation of the Society was announced of the action "of those interested in philately in Springfield in providing the first philatelic postmark used in the United States."

The thanks of the society were given to the authorities for the facilities afforded by the Philatelic Agency at Washington.

It was directed that at future conventions that members of the A. P. S. show their cards before being registered and given badges and that guests be registered as such by the members presenting them; and that distinctive badges be provided.

A question of a member to provide some form of recognition for collectors in the ranks of the Boy Scouts was received and voted as worthy of consideration, pending inquiry.

The honorarium of the editor of the American Philatelist was increased to $600 a year, and the president was allotted $100 each year for convention expenses, beginning in 1923.

The race for the presidency was close, as Mr. Heyerman polled 388 votes and Mr. Michaels 371, out of a total of 771. The Cleveland candidates, Messrs. Harris, MacLaren and Moses brought home the bacon with 545 votes, while the St. Louis nominees were content with 190. Secretary Davis, and Mr. Klein, international secretary, were practically unanimously elected and the new treasurer, Mr. Elliott, did about as well. The new member of the Board, Mr. Chittenden of New York, was welcomed by a heavy vote and Mr. Phillips of California was elected again, it goes without saying.

The holders of proxies to the limit of 50 authorized, included Messrs. Severn, Smith, Lewy, Stone, Guest and Wolseiffer. No voting of proxies was required.

The sales superintendent reported sales of over $29,000.00 and a mark of $40,000.00 is aimed at next year. The insurance rate on books of foreign members was reduced from 25 to 12½%.

The secretary gave the present membership figures as 2,308, as compared with 2,034 last year. There are 152 life members.

The treasurer's figures showed that the stock fund amounted to $6,168.66, and the life membership fund $3,080. These funds with that of Insurance

A FUTURE U. S. RARITY

Our up to the minute Shanghai correspondent has sent us a very few of the new local printing surcharge on U. S. This is the story:—

The two low values to this much abused set have been locally printed in quantity only sufficient to hold over until the next incoming steamer arrived with a fresh supply. Our advices are only 200 sheets were printed and that these would not be sold in Washington. The type is entirely distinctive and we offer only with the entire set, all from the Shanghai Post Office.

UNSOLICITED TESTIMONIALS

New Order enclosed. I "cleaned up" on last packet I received from you (1000 variety) already realizing more than I paid after securing 400 varieties for myself.—B. Buchanan, Liverpool, Ohio.

Well satisfied with 2000 packet. Secured 900 stamps for my collection, selling the rest to my friends. Have already cleared over $5.00.—A. Wahlberg, Oakland, Calif.

Very much pleased with 1000 packet. Order enclosed for a 2000. I was greatly surprised at the quality of the stamps in the packet.—F. C. Elmes, Berwick, Pa.

Use bonds sent as payment for 10,000 variety packet. The packet proved highly satisfactory as a basis for a general collection.—F. M. Bigelow, Chicago, Ill.

Received 1000 packet some days ago and have had a fine time looking them over. Secured 250 new stamps for my collection of 3700, traded 43 for other new varieties and replaced 100 that were better specimens than mine. I never saw any stamps in such good condition, not a poor one in the lot. Order for 2000 packet enclosed.—T. Herrick, City Treasurer, Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

Don't Hesitate—Your opportunity is now. Remember the packet must satisfy or we refund your money plus your postage in returning same. Could we be more convincing of these packets' sterling qualities? Try one today—acts like a good tonic.

and of General show a total credit balance of $12,065.08.

The approval of the society was voted to Mr. Wm. R. Ricketts and also to Mr. C. A. Howes on the results that they are accomplishing in their great work of indexing our literature.

The report of Mr. Ricketts on the year in philatelic literature was a splendid one and it will be published, no doubt, in handbook form and not, as customary, as a part of the annual number of the American Philatelist.

We have lighted on some of the high spots, but the subsequent issue of the paper will have ample room for a full consideration of the convention in its different phases. Also, some account of the successful convention of the American Stamp Dealers' Association will be given.

REPORT A.P.S. COUNTERFEIT DETECTOR.

PHILA., PA., Aug. 1, 1922.

To the Officers and Members of the American Philatelic Society,

Gentlemen: During the fiscal year of 1921-22. 524 stamps were submitted to me for examination. Opinions were given as follows: 290 genuine, 127 counterfeit, 42 reprints, and 65 forged overprints and cancellations. The genuine stamps included 95 stamps presented for classification.

Few of the forgeries were of the well-known kinds, such as those produced by Fournier; on the other hand, many new productions have appeared. This justifies me to conclude that our collectors are becoming better and better acquainted with the older types of forgeries, and that the forgers are compelled to seek new fields for their activities.

Perhaps the most dangerous forgeries that came to this country were the 1918 issue kronen values of the Trentino overprints. The official record of quantities printed (11 copies of the 10 kronen, for instance) cannot be reconciled with large numbers of these stamps offered to dozens of American dealers and collectors. I am told on good authority that the original setting is being used on stamps imported from Austria. Even the characteristic bluish cancelling ink is obtained from the "original source."

Much concern is felt by collectors of war stamps over quantities of hitherto rare Samoa stamps overprinted G. R. I. suddenly coming on the market. Specialists have found that these do not agree with the originals that reached us early in the war. Caution, therefore, is advised.

Not only do the forgers ply their nefarious trade in high-priced rarities, but they do not scorn cheaper varieties, such as the first issue of Batum, Romanian charity issues, and the Bosnia 1912 pictorial set, the latter of which was printed from engraved plates.

We have all read of the Hawaiian "Missionary" forgeries and I, therefore, will not go into detail concerning them except to state for record that a quantity of these purchased by Mr. John A. Klemann from Mr. Grinnell for $65,000 were declared forgeries by a Los Angeles court. International philatelic experts aided greatly in assisting the trial judge to reach his decision. Through the kindness of Mr. Klemann I am able to place before you actual photographs of these world-famous forgeries.

From London comes the news of another forgery sensation, details of which are given in the Stamp Collectors' Fortnightly. The stamps in question are Labuan 1894 lithographed issue. It appears that these hitherto uncommon stamps have been hawked around the market during the past few weeks at cheap wholesale rates. The forgeries are in sheets of twenty stamps, four horizontal rows of five; the colors, the perforation and paper agree fairly well with the originals; the inscriptions and various points of design differ, however. A curious point with regard to the forged sheets of twenty is that all values except the 6 cents have a colored dot above the centre stamp in the top row and below the similar position in the bottom row as a guide for perforating; these dots are pin holes.

A new and dangerous forgery of the Saxony 3p red has appeared in Germany. This forgery is so well made that several prominent German stamp dealers have purchased copies in good faith. The forgers, in order to market the stamps more readily, employed special salesmen who visited these stamp dealers, their intended victims, simultaneously. It was only after notes were compared that the dealers found similar cancellations on all the stamps purchased and came to the conclusion that they had been mulcted. An effort to capture the forgers is expected to turn out successfully.

Respectfully submitted,
EUGENE KLEIN,
Counterfeit Detector.

RARE IRISH PROVISIONAL.

By W. WARD.

During the now famous Four Courts Battle in Dublin between the Irish Free State Troops and the so-called Republican Irregulars, the printing establishment of Messrs. Dollards, one of the two firms in Dublin who are overprinting the stamps for the Irish Free State, was caught in the "battle zone" and were of course evacuated prior to the bombardment. Supplies of the 3d stamp which Dollards print were urgently required for foreign postage and registration purposes, and as they could not undertake it, the order was given to Thom's, the other Dublin printer. By accident Messrs. Thom used the plate for overprinting the 2d stamps with the thick block numerals instead of the thin figures "1922". It is stated that only a few sheets were so overprinted.

Most of the low value Irish stamps are being overprinted by Harrison & Sons of London, their surcharge being bolder and shiny jet black. During June a few of the 2d stamps were overprinted by Thom's in a bronze blue ink, quite distinct from any other ink used.

AUCTION BUYERS ATTENTION

THE PRE-CANCELLED STAMP SOCIETY.

First Annual Convention at Denver.

By CHARLES A. NAST.

The first convention ever held by pre-cancelled collectors has come and gone, leaving a very good impression for its future growth and usefulness. Weather was ideal. Attendance better than had been expected. President V. W. Rotnem presided at the initial meeting. Present ten members and over a hundred proxies. Dr. H. A. Davis acted as secretary pro tem. Dr. W. I. Mitchell of Paonia, Colo., was unavoidably detained at home owing to the serious illness of Mrs. Mitchell. But Judge Jas. K. Doughty of Lamo, Colo., and Fred Wetherington of Pocatello, Idaho, and Geo. Danielson of Minneapolis were present, having made the journeys especially to attend this convention. The usual committees were appointed and the reports of officers were read. The society now numbers 131 members.

The secretary-treasurer, Roy C. Frank reported receipts to date $150.60, expenses $135.01, balance on hand $15.59. The insurance fund amounts now to $23.13. Exchange Manager J. S. Burns reported 53 books on hand, value $315.61. Sales Manager C. W. Haynes, 193 books received from Dec., 1921, to July, 1922; total value $2014.12. Retired 12 of the value $136.50, leaving 181 books, value $1987.82, in the circuits. The election resulted as follows:—President, J. C. Kringle of Denver; 1st V. Pres., D. D. Berelsheimer, N. Y.; Sect.-Treas., J. Maxfield Brue; Directors. W. I. Mitchell, Fred Allen and Geo. Danielson. The Committee on Constitution, Messrs. Davis, Nast and Danielson recommended that the name be changed from Pre-cancel Club of America, to "The Pre-cancelled Stamp Society"; that the directors be called "Trustees"; that they all live in one city and that they be appointed by the President; that the Official Organ be voted for annually like an officer; that the sum of 75 cents per member be allowed, and that the other forms be retained substantially as at present. On motion of Judge Doughty, it was declared the sense of those present, that the report be adopted and the recommendations be concurred in. Referred to the board of directors for final revision.

The Committee on Catalog, J. C. Kringle, J. K. Doughty, Frank C. Mertz and V. W. Rotnem, called attention to inequalities of the prices in the present pre-cancelled catalog, and urged co-operation on the part of the publisher with leading collectors in each state, it being urged that collectors would know conditions best in their home state.

The sight-seeing trip in automobiles proved a great success and at the banquet at the Albany Hotel on Wednesday the 2nd, about 25 were seated at the tables. Later in the evening, at least forty were present. The Denver Stamp Club acted as host to the visitors. It was expected that Mr. Godfrey Schirmer could act as toastmaster, but an important engagement prevented. His place was taken by Mr. Charles A. Nast. The auction and exhibition following the banquet was a very enjoyable affair.

Throughout, the best of harmony prevailed, and all were filled with renewed enthusiasm. The Denver papers were very good in respect to write-ups and publicity. Altogether the First Convention of Pre-cancelled Stamp Collectors will not soon be forgotten.

DEATH OF F. J. STANTON.

(It is with deep regret that we are called upon to record the death of Frank J. Stanton, Norwich, N. Y. The managing editor had known Mr. Stanton for over forty years, the acquaintanceship having been formed in early youth when both were interested in the mystic art known as puzzledom. Mr. Stanton always made it his practice to address his letters to "Dear Will O. W.", the nom de plume that the writer used in those days. He for many years has been interested in stamp collecting and found great pleasure in doing a bit of dealing. He was a member of the A.P.S. Clipping from F. E. Thorp.—W. O. W.)

NORWICH, N. Y., Aug. 9—Frank J. Stanton, noted actor and publisher, died suddenly at 3 o'clock this morning in the home of George W. Obenauer in East Main street following an attack of heart failure. Mr. Stanton retired Tuesday apparently in his usual health, but became suddenly ill and passed away before medical aid could reach him.

Mr. Stanton was 61 years of age and was born in Sherburne, but a large part of his life had been passed in the village of Smyrna where for a period of years he published the Smyrna Tribune and carried on a job printing office. He was a fine actor and gained considerable success on the stage as Stanley Starr. He had devoted several winters of the later years of his life to conducting home talent benefit plays in which he was assisted by Mrs. Stanton. His summers he spent in this city. During the past few years he has published more than 50 home talent plays, which have found a ready sale.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

Under this heading we desire to publish all the news from the various philatelic centers. Correspondents' names will be given unless prohibited, as we desire to give full credit for services rendered.

—J. A. Galbraith has shown us specimens of Leeward stamps overprinted in black "Barbuda". The values represented are ½, 1, 2, 2½, 3 and 6d. He writes that there are no ¼, 1½ or 4d in the set. There are five shilling values from 1 to 5, but no mention is made of the color of the overprint.

—From Allen Sears and A. Bledsoe we have received clippings of special stamp features from the Kansas City Journal-Post. This paper is doing good work in the interests of philatelic publicity.

—From Karl Koslowski we have received the following:—"My Russian correspondent writes me that there is nothing new in stamps there just now. The old czar issues as found in various sections are used in a profuse as well as confusing manner. Everything that has gum on its back and sticks, goes. The rates for postage have been raised again and even the ordinary by chance letter costs 450,000 rubles Bolshevik money. I say 'by chance', for the delivery of an ordinary letter is possible about half of the time. All others may arrive years later. Every person dealing in stamps is apprehended and placed on trial. It is also rumored that a new issue will appear soon."

—"It is indeed a pleasure to pay your ad bills, as the results are really marvelous. Of course I treat my clients right and I might say from a yearly sale (1922) of $15,000, not a cent was lost by me through any of the clients obtained through your paper. However, your paper is the only one I advertise in. If my plans for next season do not miscarry I expect to use upwards of 2,000 lines in your paper for next season. I expect to conduct my business from N. Y. C."—M. J. Fenster.

—Warning to Stamp Dealers.—A party from Florida, bound north, giving the name of Howard Adams, is stealing stamps, or giving bogus checks for them. He is described as about 5 feet tall with dark hair and about 35 years old, and specializes in odd cancellations.—J. H. Houston, Wash., D. C.

—A. A. Leve suggests that the Springfield cancellation is not the first philatelic cancellation. He feels that some place in the west had one some years ago, and wants us to ask our readers. What say you?

—"I have noticed several errors in Mr. Wolseley's check list of script watermark stamps, that was published in the issue of Aug. 5th, that I am taking the liberty to call your attention to. Antigua 1d, Gold Coast 2 pounds, St. Lucia ½d were omitted, and all were in my possession on or before July 1st. The Cayman Islands 4d was listed as script, but it is on yellow paper and to my knowledge, no stamps have been issued on any yellow paper with script watermark. I have never seen the 1.25R Seychelles listed. Does it really exist?"—John C. Hunt.

—"Am much pleased with results of my advt. in Weekly. Have done more business in June and July than in the previous months. It pays to keep advertising."—Benedict Prieth.

—"Pursuant to articles appearing in your valued paper in regard to fire insurance on stamps, wish to say that I have experienced no difficulty in placing my insurance with the Springfield Fire and Marine Ins. Co., of Springfield, Mass., although I dealt direct with the Western Department Headquarters at Chicago, Ill, I think any agent of the Springfield can handle the line."—R. T. Battey.

—"I note the statement is made by Mr. Kenyon that he never saw one of the $1.00 vermilion Alabama State Tax on Seals stamps cancelled prior to 1880. I have one in perfectly good condition, cancelled, in pen and ink 'May 4th, 1868 —S. J. B.' The stamp is perforated and is pasted on the original piece of paper, which was torn from the complete paper, and is impressed with the seal of the State of Alabama."—Raleigh T. Green.

—The city of Los Angeles, Cal., is using a special advertising mark carrying the legend, "Pageant of Progress and Industrial Exposition, Los Angeles, Aug. 26-Sept. 9." This mark is quite similar to that in use in Chicago. Another new advertising cancellation has made its appearance in Mobile, Ala., reading as follows: "Alabama's Seaport Development Means Alabama's Prosperity."—Allen H. Wright.

GRENADA AND U. S. MONEY ORDERS.

By E. A. Slinger.

There is a curious anomaly about the money order business between the United States and the Windward Islands (British) which, perhaps, has not come under your notice. It is this:

An order issued at Grenada requires payment of a premium equal to the current rate of exchange (say 10% above par) plus 2% commission, making the cost of remitting a dollar to the U. S. A. $1.12 or 4sh, 8d. At the same time a dollar remitted by U. S. A. money order to Grenada is cashed at the Grenada P. O. at a discount off par value of 2%—98c, though the value is shown in U. S. A. currency. Since in the latter case the remitter is paying a dollar plus commission for the M. O., I should like to know who benefits by the exchange.

You will see what a penalty this imposed on the Grenada payee or remitter when exchange was something like 40% against us as happened a couple of years ago. On the other hand, U. S. A. notes and bank drafts are always worth a premium over face value here.

COMMUNICATION.

To the Editor:—

It has become quite a habit to call all first class mail permits metered mail. Metered mail marks represent first class mail permits but not all first class mail permits use a meter machine. There was a reference in the April 22 issue of the Weekly on page 212 of a first class mail mark used in Germany (Leipzig). I have seen this impression but by no stretch of the imagination could this be called a meter mark. So far no impression has ever been made by a machine using a postage meter without the number of the meter being shown in the indicia. Quite a number of first class mail permits have been reported from foreign countries. Would appreciate it if you would ask your readers to send specimens of these to me and I will include them in the Chronicle which will be continued in the Weekly.

HE QUITS ARMY FOR THE PULPIT.

San Francisco, July 31.—A soldier for 22 years and veteran of three wars, Colonel Arthur P S. Hyde, forty-five, who arrived Saturday at the Presidio from Fort Amador, Panama Canal Zone, announced today his intention to quit the army to "don the robes" of an Episcopalian clergyman. Colonel Hyde, a graduate of West Point, while commanding in 1910 at Fort Flagler, Washington, where there was no resident chaplain, was ordained to the priesthood of the Episcopal church.

Later while stationed at Seattle, he accepted a call to the pulpit of St. Clement's Church, a post he left to go to France as commander of the 39th field artillery.—Press Clipping.

SPECIAL COLLECTIONS

Through our connections abroad, we often obtain many excellent collections of Europe, British Colonies, South America, etc., etc. As we are wholesale dealers exclusively and have neither the time to break these up, nor the market in which to sell single stamps, they are generally offered to our customers intact at a small percentage over cost price. These collections contain only choice items, sometimes rarities, and range in price from $100 to $5000. We sell them at rates low enough to interest both dealer and collector. Interested parties are requested to write immediately. [tf

CHRONICLE OF NEW ISSUES AND VARIETIES

Information regarding new issues and varieties will be gratefully received. We cannot give the addresses of correspondents.

The chronicle of United States is edited by PHILIP H. WARD, JR., Box 4216, Germantown, Phila., Pa. The foreign chronicle is edited by PERCY C. SMITH, 40 Packard Ave., West Somerville, Mass. Correspondents will please be careful to send their matter to the right address.

UNITED STATES.—Mr. William I. Purdy sends for inspection one of the queerest things we have seen for sometime from the Bureau of Engraving and Printing in the way of a perforation variety. It seems that a sheet of the 9c from plate number 11,775 was fed through the perforating machine in such a way that the supposed vertical perforation is diagonal on the entire southeast pane running from the upper left to the lower right. This gives us what appears to be a variety, imperforated vertically, the horizontal perforations being normal.

The first section of the advanced sheets of the new Scott catalogue for 1923 were received on August 2nd and this first installment covered all of the United States issues. We must admit that we are somewhat surprised at the very few changes in the early issues but are pleased to see that Scott has realized the scarcity of many of the late issues and advanced them accordingly.

The general makeup of the different issues is the same as previous catalogues and they are leaving to their specialized publication the listing of the many minor varieties, cancellations and the like. This year we will have all of the postmaster provisionals priced, the quotations being based on the prices at which they were sold during April at the Ferrari Sale. They do not follow Gibbons, however, by lowering the prices on the St. Louis, but in two cases advance their figures. That ever popular variety, the New York postmaster, rightly moves forward. The 1847 issue stands still, there are a few slight changes in the 1851 series, the surprise being that the 10c goes but a few cents higher while the 12c stands still. The 1c type IIIa drops in price in both the imperforated and perforated issues and these two stamps with the used 25c green parcel post postage due are the only items that I have noticed have gone down. In the 1857 there are few used changes outside of the 1c. The 5c red brown unused goes to $200 and is well worth it for it is extremely rare in fine mint condition. In the 1861-67 issues only a few slight advances are noted here and there. The ever plentiful 3c lake for some reason goes up while the very popular 5c buff and its several shades stand still. Other increases are only slight. The grilled all over 5c and 30c go to a thousand and twelve hundred while several varieties, such as the 2c black printed on the back, the 2c black splits, the 90c August imperforate and the 3c grilled 18x15 are priced for the first time. The 90c 1857 is also priced again used, a figure on this stamp having been omitted for the last few years. The changes from 1869 to 1875 are hardly worth mentioning for they are so few and when a change is made it is only slight. The only exception is the special prints which have all jumped.

Coming to the late issues, the Columbians from 50c up with the exception of the $2 have increased. Several of the scarcer 1894 lower denominations increase while the 6c 1895 unused is the only stamp that changes in this series. The $2 Trans-Mississippi both used and unused is priced at $10, the 1c Pan-American invert $75 and the 4c at $125. for the first time they list the same variety with "specimen" overprint. The high values unused of the 1902 increase along with several of the 1908 issue. After this there is only a change here and there until we reach the perf. 10 unwatermarked series of 1916, where practically every stamp increases, and rightly so. The 3c mint which listed at 6c in 1921, 25c in 1922, will be listed at 50c in 1923, and still it is low. The perforated errors stand still while the imperforated is priced for the first time at $750. All of the coils with few exceptions are increased and I note the scarce imperf. rotary 2c, No. 370i listed at $7.50, the first time this variety has been priced. Most of the late part perf. and compound perforated items are now priced.

The biggest changes are to be found in the Department issues, for almost without exception every stamp has increased and some of them greatly. I cannot account for increasing these, which readily can be had at auction around half catalogue and less, when stamps that bring full catalogue stand still.

A casual glance at the revenues shows but two important changes, the 6c Proprietary listing at $75 and the $200 first issue going up a few dollars. Scott in writing upon the subject of the changes calls attention to the heading "Condition" where we are told "prices quoted are for specimens in good condition." This clearly states what kind of copies can be supplied by the publishers at the prices quoted. In a letter they state that "if you are using the Catalogue prices as a basis to sell perfection copies, why you are away off." We are all, however, guided by the catalogue in such a way that we often forget that their prices are for "good" and in the case of early United States certainly not for "superb" copies.

The well known specialized collection of United States gotten together by Mr. Allen Logan of Kansas City has recently been purchased by Mr. Eugene Klein. As the collection was rather extensive in the way of early covers, especially those bearing railroad and similar cancellations, it may be well to mention as a matter of record some of the oddities. His finest possession was of course the mint block of four of the 24c aeroplane which he purchased last year at the Milwaukee A. P. S. Convention at a price of $2,750. His finest postmaster provisional was a 5c Baltimore on cover while he was fortunate in having several fine New Yorks and a single 5c and 10c St. Louis. An unusual combination was a pair of the 5c and a pair of the 10c 1847 on the same cover. The 5c pair had sheet margins on two sides but unfortunately the pair of 10c were badly cut into at top. Some very unusual cancellations were present, such as the 5c 1847 on cover postmarked in red in a circle "Little Miami R. R.," another "Philadelphia Railroad," on still another, "Boston & Albany," on others "Prov. & Wor. R. R.," "U. S. Express," etc. Some unusual cancellations were also to be found on the 3c 1851 covers, such as a "Greenville & Columbia R. R.," a "U. S. Mail Steamer Telegraph No. 2—Lou. & Cin. S. B. Mail Line, "New York & Boston Stmb. & R. R. R." A 10c had the very odd cancellation of "Yankee Jims, Cal.," evidently a small settlement of early gold-hunting days.

In the sixty issues there was a very fine pair of the 24c steelblue and a pair of the 10c on cover from Washington to the American Minister in Guatemala, also a strip of three 5c buff from Stockton, Calif., to Canada.

His finest 1869 cover was a magnificent 15c on cover to Italy with a red New York, "Paid All—Br. Transit" cancellation. In later issues he had quite a few nice blocks, including the 1c invert of the Pan American issue.

Mr. H. W. Porter of Washington and Mr. David H. Buns of Gloversville, N. Y., tell me that the new Special Delivery stamp is true to life insofar as the motor-cycle is concerned, for they are used in their cities. Something new to us, for we have as yet to see them in Philadelphia.

The 1c stamps in panes of 100 from the rotary press are to be found with a very thick gum that tends to give the stamp the appearance of being on a very thick paper. This gum at times is so applied that the stamp is given the effect of a laid paper. Both of these varieties are due to the manner in which the stamp is gummed by the rotary presses. We desire to thank Mr. A. W. Dunning, Mr. E. W. Murray and others for bringing this to our attention.

A Rare United States Coil A Pair Brings $17.50 at Auction

Several years back, when the Bureau fi issued the coil from the rotary press very few 2c were coiled in an imperfor condition. These were all sent to Ba more, New York, Washington and Sanfo Maine. They were not discovered by p latelists until several years later. At t time a coil was found in the Washing Post Office and those which had gone to other offices were all run down and it v found that they had been used commerci ly when issued.

This 2c imperforate coil from the rot press is watermarked, Die I, coiled si wise, and is listed in Scott as No. 370i could not be made from the imperfor sheet, for no imperforated rotary stan were issued in sheets. It cannot happen day, for the Bureau now uses Die III its coils, and besides uses unwatermark paper.

I can furnish this wonderful variety wh brought $17.50 for a pair at a July auct —and well worth it, too—at $15.00 a p In superb mint condition. Line pair $ A strip at the same rate. Cannot be h for less and there are no more to be fou

NOW WE HAVE SOME 10c 1851

For months we have been advertising for U. S. 10c of 1851-57. At prices mostly in excess of catalog we have accumulated a nice stock of these stamps, on and off cover, singles, pairs, and a few strips; most of the recuts, the shifts, and all the fancy curlycues. Some few nice cancellations, and three or four copies of the very deep blue-green shade, not listed by Gibbons or Scott.

Your want list for these most interesting stamps, or for other United States or Foreign stamps will receive prompt attention.

J. O. MOORE, Inc., RHEIMS, N. Y.

current type was expected to be issued June 1st, last.

AUSTRIA.—Mr. J. L. Riedel sends us a copy of the 50h blue of the 1919 issue surcharged "Eilmarke" vertically in red. This stamp Mr. Riedel reports is for Special Delivery.

CANADA.—Mr. Wainwright Randall sends for chronicle a copy of a new 4c stamp in a bistre shade and also calls our attention to the 2c postal card surcharged "6 Cents" in red which is for international use, rate to all countries except Great Britain and points within the British Empire, United States and Mexico.

GRENADA.—Mr. J. A. Galbraith submits a copy of the 2sh on script watermarked paper which he advises is a new shade of violet and ultramarine on blue.

INDIA.—Whitfield King & Co.'s Bulletin announce that owing to a revision of postal rates the value of 9 pies is no longer required and the recently issued provisional of that value overprinted on one anna has been withdrawn. These provisionals are said to have been overprinted for the native Feudatory States, but so far we have seen only those of Chamba. The Postmaster of Patiala advises that he has not been supplied with any stamps of the 9 pies.

IRISH FREE STATE.—The ½d 1d 1½d and 2d overprinted stamps have been issued in rolls for automatic machines, and all four values are of the "Thom" type, with date in thick figures, but have been overprinted in London by Harrison & Sons, the overprint being slightly heavier impressions than those of Messrs. Alex Thom & Co. As the ½d and 1d are of a different type of overprint from the same values in sheets, we are including these new overprints in our July distribution, but not the 1½d

A WONDERFUL COLLECTION!

The collections of 1500 Portuguese Colonies, cataloguing $400 for $67.50, which we offered for advertising purposes several weeks ago at practically cost price, have been so widely praised by dealers and collectors, and have met with such an enthusiastic reception, that we are again placing this unusual opportunity before the public. The following testimonials are entirely unsolicited:

Adds 700 Stamps to His Collection of $27,000

"My collection numbered 27,220 varieties at the time I ordered the 1500 Portuguese Colony collection from you at $67.50. I want to say that in all my dealings I have never made a purchase which I so thoroughly appreciated. The stamps were not only good in quality, but also in character, and I added to my large collection, 695 stamps to the value of $248.07, and have 805 varieties with which to make up exchange books. I am indeed pleased with the purchase."
—F. A. GODCHARLES, Deputy Secretary of the Commonwealth, Harrisburg, Pa.

Best Purchase He Has Made in 20 Years

"I acknowledge yours of the 4th and permit me to say that I was very much pleased with the collection of Portuguese Colonies. My collection numbers about 25,000 varieties, but during my entire experience I have NEVER received the value which this lot contains."
WM. F. ANDERSON, 4828 Roscoe St., Chicago.

Here is the

which is causing the sensation—

A COLLECTION OF 1,500 DIFFERENT STAMPS FROM PORTUGUESE COLONIES ONLY (no Portugal) mounted by countries in three blank books. Most of the stamps are unused and the condition is perfect throughout. Vasco da Gama issues, scarce provisionals, and hard-to-get varieties are included in large numbers. Specially selected for quality, and every stamp is guaranteed genuine. Catalogue Value is almost Four Hundred Dollars, our price practically one-sixth of catalogue!

Collectors and dealers all over the country are beginning to realize the popularity and investment value of Portuguese Colonies, many of which are underpriced and destined to become quite scarce within the next few years. This is positively the most exceptional offering we have ever been able to make. Order immediately, as present stock cannot be replaced.

U. S. REVENUES

If collectors of revenues were as keen for shades and cancellations as they are for postage stamps, the prices would soon change, for few realize how scarce some of the varieties have become. I still have a nearly complete stock, including all the Playing Cards, the 6c Proprietary, the $20 P. of W., nearly all the 2nd and 3rd issues including most of dollar values, 50c, $1, $5 of 1871-1875 issue, etc. Also many rare imperf. var. and a nice lot of the scarcer values of late issues.

Let me hear from you with want list in U. S. revenues before prices go out of sight.

Of course you all know I have a huge stock of U. S. Postage stamps, and a very good line of B. N. A. postage.

Den curios in great variety, also.

and 2d as they are practically the same type as those in sheets.—Whitfield King & Co.'s Bulletin.

LATVIA.—Karl Koslowski submits a specimen of a new 6r stamp, arms type, and on July 24 a 24r of the same type was to be placed on sale. The former is in maroon and the latter in lavender. Stamps of 30, 50 and 100r are to appear in the near future. Mr. Koslowski's correspondent reports that the postal administration has destroyed a large parcel of defective prints that have accumulated. It was especially rich in various issues of the many overprinted or surcharged stamps. At first it was the intention of the authorities to sell this waste material with some remainders of regular issues, but upon the discovery of a leakage the stamps were burned.

LEEWARD ISLANDS.—Mr. R. Roberts has sent us a copy of the 2d grey script watermarked, which he advises is being printed in sheets of 120.

MONACO.—The Bulletin Mensuel chronicles three values of a new design. They are the 25c brown of portrait type, and 50c ultramarine and 5fr brown red, both showing different views of the city.

NICARAGUA.—Mr. H. Chitaro writes us that regarding the 1921 Commemoratives he has it on reliable information that most of the remainders will be overprinted "R de" hence the unsurcharged ones should become scarce.

NYASALAND PROTECTORATE.—Fresh supplies of the ½d, 3d and 1s values are being printed—the 2d on Script CA yellow and the 1s on emerald paper with old watermark.—Stamp Collecting.

ST. KITTS-NEVIS.—Mr. R. Roberts advises of the appearance of the 1½d, large type, in a shade of yellow instead of orange. The watermark is multiple CA. Also the 2d in the same type printed on script watermarked paper.

TRINIDAD AND TOBAGO.—Mr. J. A. Galbraith advises that the 1d brown, 2d grey and 3d blue have been issued on script watermarked paper.

EYE FOR BUSINESS.

To the Editor of the Public Ledger:

Sir—It appears that a number of American tourists who visited Palestine this year and who happened to be attended to by me in the capacity of Palestine customs official while examining their baggage must have got hold of my name, which they have given to friends. As a result, I have been receiving inquiries with reference to the current Palestine stamp issue and requests to secure stamps for them.

As it would be almost impossible for me to reply to each one separately, I would therefore deem it a great favor to be allowed space in the Public Ledger of the United States, to inform the correspondents that the entire present issue (which after signing the mandate that probably will take place in the very near future may change) consists of a series of eleven in number at prices from 1 to 200 m.m. I will forward the same on receipt of postoffice money order of $3.65, which will cover fees for mailing, etc.

JOSEPH LEWIN.

THE A. P. S. CONVENTION AT SPRINGFIELD

By CHAS. E. SEVERN.

Mercy days, how the delegates rolled in! They came by train and by trolley; by auto and by shank's mare, and one enthusiast said that he caught the fast freight. They over-ran the hotel and spilled themselves all over the adjacent scenery and yet some members stayed at home because of the possibility of threatened railroad trouble! Everybody was happy, and even the imponderables were made tractable by the joyous spirit that oozed out everywhere. Incidentally, the heat record at Springfield was badly dented, but to the perspiring philatelists, it seemed hopelessly shattered. The preliminary bustle humbled the most industrious bunch of bees that ever spread wing, and a chap had about as much chance of getting a moment for meditation as he had of pouncing upon a five cent New York on cover at pre-war price. Yet, so straight and true did each member steer his course that no collisions resulted, and never once was the dread signal of distress sighted on the horizon. Each attendant returned to the home fires with philatelic fuel enough to keep them blazing until the next convention at Washington convenes. The convention was no kettledrum, but was a give and take session within the bounds of decorum that was of interest to all.

The convention was called to order by President Chase at 10 A. M., on Tuesday, August 15th, in the convention hall of the Hotel Kimball. Mr. Brewer Corcoran, of the Springfield Branch, made an address of welcome that was clever and humorous. We have already printed the president's address, which made a profound impression, as among other things, Dr. Chase told of his expectation to reside in France.

Reports of officers and standing committees filled in the morning session. The reviews of the work of the year by the Board of Vice-Presidents, Sales Books Examiner, Sales Manager, Secretary, Treasurer, International Secretary, Editor of the American Philatelist, Attorney, Counterfeit Detector, Expert Committee, Philatelic Literature Committee, Index Committee, Catalogue Committee and Hand-Book Committee were received and suggestions and recommendations embodied in them were referred to the proper convention committees. The By-Laws Committee was appointed, as follows: Messrs. Stone, Ashbrook, Mosler, Atherton and Hammatt. Resolutions Committee: Messrs. Severn, Corcoran and Ricketts. Finance: Messrs. Prevost, Emerson and Stone.

The results of the election were read by Mr. P. M. Wolsieffer, as chairman of the Committee on Credentials and he submitted the proxy totals, as well. The decks were cleared for action on the following morning.

The big-time performance of the convention came on Wednesday morning after the report of the Lookout Committee had been read by Chairman Ashbrook. Mr. Ashbrook spoke of the friction that developed during the year on the subject that engrossed the attention of all the members, by reason of the divided opinion on the bill in congress affecting the illustrating of the stamps of the United States. The committee avowed itself as against the proposed bill, and under the circumstances, could report that progressive action was blocked. The question was then given to the floor for discussion, and not a few members had something to say on the momentous topic. Messrs. Needham, Ashbrook, Hatfield, Lewy, Batchelder, Mosler, Lewy, Ward, Sawyer and others had their inning and though no one seemed to be able to show an acceptable way out of the maze, the remarks clarified the atmosphere. When a motion was made that a new and larger committee be appointed, it was carried, and the era of good feeling was on. It is to the lot of President Heyerman that the task of appointing a committee will fall, and this committee is to work to its goal with all the celerity and diplomacy that it can command.

It was voted that cities entertaining the convention be given the authority to charge a registration fee, as if future conventions approach that of Springfield, on the score of attendance, the financial burden will be too heavy to be borne by the local collectors. It is something to look after the care and comfort of two hundred visitors, aside from any question of finances.

Dollar Cover Bundles

This is rather a cat in the bag deal, as I don't tell you what you get for your money, except that there will be five or more original covers in each lot, including a 3c 1851 and one aeroplane cover with a special cancellation. All covers are in good condition and were used at the time the stamps affixed were current, which means that no "philatelically made" covers are included. All are United States covers and with the exception of the aeroplane cover none were used since 1890.

THE PRICE IS $1.00

Any bundle may be returned if unsatisfactory, which is my guarantee that the cat in the bag won't be a polecat.

H. F. COLMAN

2ND NATIONAL BANK BLDG., WASHINGTON, D. C.

The last session, that on Thursday, was the longest held, as it was preferable that the work be brought to a close on the third day. The cities of Detroit and Washingon entered the lists for the place of the 1923 convention, but Detroit withdrew its claims, allowing the honor to fall to Washington, whose invitation was so engagingly and warmly presented by Mr. Mason. It is not necessary to say that the choice is commendable and reasons of policy are not lacking in the selection of the nation's capital.

Mr. Frank H. Burt reported upon the deaths that had taken place during the year, and gave sketches of many of those members who had passed on. A resolution that a short biographical sketch of candidates for office be submitted to members with the ballots, was tabled. Also, a motion to remove the restrictions against the election of officers from different states was defeated on the broad basis that it was just as well not to pave any way for possible "centralization" in the future.

The question of publicity was disposed of by the passing of a motion to devise ways and means for the raising of a sum to be effectively disbursed, upon the approval of the board of vice-presidents. The fund is to be raised by contributions from those who believe that it is incumbent upon the society to shape in some measure the great volume of publicity that is now being had. Any appropriation from the society no doubt would be considered in the light that individual support is, although it would seem fitting that the organization seal the action of the committee in recognizing the work in some substantial manner.

Votes of thanks to the press of Springfield and to its active philatelists were voted unanimously and President Chase was given a hearty vote of thanks for his guidance during the past year.

In making his motion that the convention adjourn sine die, Mr. W. C. Stone favored us with a few statistics. He has been a member of the A. P. S. for thirty-three years and has attended twenty-eight conventions, where he has made his motion for adjournment twenty-two times. He has been a member of the by-laws committee over twenty times.

Many communications were read and received gratefully, and Mr. Alvah Davison, one of the oldest members, cabled his good wishes from Lima, Peru, and the secretary was ordered to send an acknowledgment. All in all, the convention was well worth while, and Springfield looms larger and brighter than ever before as a luminary in the philatelic sky.

ENTERTAINMENT AT SPRINGFIELD.

The social features of the convention were enjoyable and in addition to the affairs on the programme, many private attentions were shown to the delegates. On Monday evening, August 14th, Capt. Brewer Corcoran of the Springfield society held a reception for the visitors at his home, a beautiful mansion replete with art and other objects of interest. Captain Brewer and his father, Dr. Corcoran, contributed in every way possible to the pleasure of the throng who attended the reception and that the guests had a most pleasant evening was evident. Refreshments were served and those who attended the reception departed from the hosts with a lively sense of appreciation of the courtesies shown them.

On Tuesday afternoon, the members and friends, after posing for the convention picture on the steps of the municipal building, proceeded down the river in a specially chartered steamer to Riverside Park where they disported themselves according to inclination. The river trip was an outstanding feature of the convention and was indeed a scenic treat. Some of the guests went to the park by auto and thus had an excellent opportunity to view the beautiful environs of the city. The evening was given over to the auction sale which had a bumper attendance.

The afternoon of the next day, Wednesday, was spent at Mount Tom, famous as affording from its observatory a wonderful view of the surrounding country and the beautiful valley of the Connecticut River. The party was conveyed by special cars over miles of historic territory to the objective where several hours were spent among surroundings that appealed to all. It certainly was a merry crew that made the trip which will long remain in the memory of those who took advantage of it. On Wednesday evening the banquet was held at the Hotel Kimball and it is needless to say that a full house was there. The toast-master, Mr. Munroe, presided at the speaker's table and he capably conducted the exercises. Music and songs enlivened the session and good feeling ran high. The speakers were limited to five minutes each and things moved briskly in consequence. Dr. Chase, the retiring president, spoke feelingly and welcomed Mr. Heyerman, the new president, who spoke of the necessity of having the intelligent co-operation of all the members if the success of his administration was to be ensured. Mr. Batchelder spoke in happy vein and regaled the diners with interesting experiences and the personal touch that he gave them evoked applause. Mr. Deats, one of the oldest workers in the society, told of past experiences and mentioned his pleasure in again mingling with friends, old and new. Mr. Klemann sketched briefly, the history of the famous Hawaiian missionary case in which he played so commanding a part and that he kept the attention of his hearers need not be said. The Springfield men who labored so advantageously were called upon by name to stand when named by Mr. Munroe.

After the adjournment of the convention on Thursday, members were escorted around the city to places of interest, such as the Art Museum, Forest Park and the Municipal tower, which was kept open after hours for their benefit through the courtesy of the mayor An invitation from the postmaster to inspect the post office in all its workings was appreciated. A number of the members were taken to the ball park where Springfield's team was playing.

The competency of the convention managers was remarked upon and the young man who had the registration in charge certainly was faithful to his duty.

The Bourse on Thursday night was a fitting finale to the convention and many collections were shown. Collectors and dealers alike met on this occasion with the result that there was no little business transacted. The wisdom of setting aside an evening for a trade session at the convention was again demonstrated and we are of the opinion that the bourse is now regarded as an indispensable feature of a convention programme, as affording an opportunity for displaying the stamps that practically every attendant brings with him or her. When no provision is made for a stamp evening of the kind, it is almost impossible in the bustle of the meeting to have a chance for the leisurely inspection of specimens of interest and collections. Reference will be made later to some of the distinctive pieces and collections that were on exhibition.

S. P. A. CONVENTION.

By SAMUEL BENNETT.

The convention of the Society of Philatelic Americans was held at Atlantic City, N. J., August 9-12. Approximately forty members gathered in the Blatts convention hall Wednesday morning, Aug. 9, when the meeting was called to order by C. W. Kissinger, president. The roll of officers showed Messrs. Kissinger, Bennett, Lang, Swenson and Bennett present. Goodly delegations of members were in attendance from New York and Washington. An address of welcome was given by the Mayor of Margate and responded to by H. S. Swenson.

The following committees were appointed:—Credential, Messrs. Bennett, Ohlman and Lang; Election, Messrs. Lang, Landvatter and Skinner; Publicity, Messrs. Ohlman, Frie and Kilcher; Finance, Messrs. Lang, Ohlman, Swenson, Hoffman and Meyers. The reports of the officers were presented and referred to committees. The report of the Sales Manager showed the loss of three circuits of stamps through theft. The report of the Treasurer showed a net balance of $235.83.

The report of the election committee showed the re-election of last year's board for the ensuing year. For official organ the Stamp Herald had 91 votes and the Pacific Philatelist 78, and the former was declared elected. The credential committee reported 154 proxies entitled to vote.

An auction sale conducted by Mr. Ohlman was well attended and the total sales exceeded $5,000. A committee of nine was appointed to devise ways and means to effect a satisfactory adjustment of the Sales Department losses above referred to. The 1922 convention will doubtless be held in conjunction with that of the sister society, the A. P. S.

There were various recreation features, including a rolling-chair parade of members from Ventor to Inlet, taking in all the sights of the Boardwalk, an auto party to Beach Haven, where the delegates were entertained by Percy Mann in his "Cottage by the Sea". There was a fine display of U. S. stamps, especially the 5c and 10c 1847. A convention photo was taken. A further elaboration of the convention proceedings will be found in the Year Book, which will be issued as soon as possible.

THE ROYAL PHILATELIST.

The King, himself the most famous of philatelists, paid an early visit to an exhibition of rare postage stamps arranged by the Royal Philatelic Society. Prominent among the exhibits was a frame containing rare specimens from the Royal stamp collection. These were entirely drawn from the stamps of Australasia, and included the rare error of the 4d Western Australia with "inverted swan"; an unused block of six of the 2d "Laureated" New South Wales, with six-rayed stars in the four corners; 1s emerald green New Zealand unused, and two of the blue-green shade, also unused. Queensland, South Australia, and Victoria were the other colonies represented.—London Times.

EDITORIAL.

The recent convention at Springfield, Massachusetts, was not without its broad suggestions, the chief of which was that philately to-day is enjoying a popularity that justifies almost any prediction of coming greatness. What for so many years has been the objective of workers in this country, has almost been attained and that is, the great mass of people that have looked upon stamp collecting as a grotesque or eccentric diversion, now recognize that it is a rational form of endeavor that may be indulged in by folks whose reactions are not necessarily queer. For more than thirty years, the WEEKLY in company with other loyal adherents, has been trying to show the public that collecting stamps is compatible with a clear and orderly understanding of life. Patiently and progressively, the work has been undertaken; and as we are about out of the woods, a lady-like shout or two is permissible.

There is much work still to do, but our tasks are defined; and effort may now be made with telling effect. What we have, we will hold, and there will be no backward step. Two factors undeniably have been of assistance to philately's ascent, and they are newspaper and other publicity and the action of the government, first in appointing the "philatelist" at Washington, and later, in establishing the philatelic agency at the country's capital. The result of the printed notices in the press has been to make stamp collecting an accepted pursuit, and to encourage in consequence, the avowal openly, of many persons of standing in their respective communities that they collect postage stamps, where once they may have been averse to admit interest in stamps. Washington's action has been tantamount to official approval of philately as a standard pursuit, and that philatelists are an entity in the functioning relations of our government.

As philately no longer knocks furtively at the back door but is edging to a place in the sun, it is becoming that we conduct ourselves fittingly. A step in improvement in commercial conditions was taken by the American Stamp Dealers' Association, which held its first real convention at Springfield, on the day before the A. P. S. meeting. While the sessions were held in private, because of the confidential nature of the business discussed, it is to be said that the meeting was such as to bring a realization that the work heretofore accomplished by the association, is merely an earnest of what is to be done in the future. Any lingering doubt that may have been had of the stability of the organization was soon removed, and if the stamp dealers with an investment of millions of dollars in the aggregate have been sleeping on their rights, they are now thoroughly awake. It is necessary for the stamp trade to be alive to protect and safe-guard their vast holdings; and we feel that the convention of the A. S. D. A. has laid the foundation for a truly adequate association. The fundamentals have been taken care of and in a few years the association should be so strong that its power for good should be incalculable. We believe that the time is coming when the A. S. D. A. will be on a par with other commercial bodies in different lines that are aware of the insurance carried for their members through co-operation in a trade sense. It is regretted that American dealers have not matched the enterprise of business men in other fields in this particular. The editor of the WEEKLY was appointed to fill the unexpired term as president of Mr. H. F. Colman, Washington, whose resignation was accepted with reluctance. It may be added that in case of flagrant fraud, the A. S. D. A. will consider the project of financing a prosecution legally of the instigators.

The Springfield newspapers covered the convention capitally and their intelligent presentation of news merited admiration. The reporters had a good grasp of essentials in a news sense, and the thanks of the convention for the generous treatment were deserved. Long ago, the old Springfield Republican won its spurs as a disseminator of stamp news as over thirty years ago, its city editor, Mr. James Beebe Smith, was an ardent philatelist, whose pen performed able philatelic service in the Republican's columns. The death of Mr. Smith, untimely and tragic as it was, was a loss to philately of three decades or so ago. The papers, without exception, allotted all space to the meeting. The Republican reproduced the convention picture which was the largest ever taken of a stamp group, if we are not mistaken. Even so, there were some of the members who were left out of the picture, as punctuality rightly was the slogan of the Springfield managers. Opportunely, the Boston Evening Transcript of August 16th, contained a full page illustrated stamp story, "Ten Thousand Dollars Paid for a New Hampshire Five Cent Stamp," by that experienced newspaper man, Mr. George M. Emery. In the story, the Boscawen and New Haven provisionals on cover were shown, together with a group of fifty or so rarities of the world.

The question of U. S. stamp illustrations was milled over and while it seemed that an impasse had been reached, yet it was hoped that a new committee, whose appointment was ordered, would be able to carry on, somehow. The present bill in congress was not acceptable to many members, evidently, and a policy of watchful waiting apparently was the only one that could be adopted. The plan of referring the subject with its complexities for deliberation gave general satisfaction. The subject in its ramifications was debated at some length and a fuller understanding of the situation was given to the members. The chief obstacle to the success of a bill such as collectors want, lies in the objection of the secret service to report favorably on any bill that lets down the bars on its mandate that reproductions of the certificates of the government, under which heading stamps are classified, are absolutely forbidden. The protective laws as they stand at present, could be construed as prohibiting the picturing of foreign stamps as well as those of our own country, if action to this effect should be taken by the government operatives, and the present bill in congress is to legalize the picturing of foreign stamps, when defaced. Some plan of licensing those who could qualify for eligibility by the government was suggested and the proposal has merits. No doubt, other suggestions will be considered by the committee who, at least, will rest under no misapprehension as to the difficulties presented by the question.

The publicity topic which was the subject of debate at previous conventions, had a short inning as there was no disposition to combat the idea that direction should be given to the great amount of advertising that philately is receiving in public prints. The motion was carried that a fund be provided for the exploitation of stamp collecting in such manner as the board of vice-presidents thought advisable, the money to be collected from those who look with favor upon taking advantage of the present conditions. It is fair that the American Philatelic Society sponsor any plan of

SPECIAL COLLECTIONS
Through our connections abroad, we often obtain many excellent collections of Europe, British Colonies, South America, etc., etc. As we are wholesale dealers exclusively and have neither the time to break these up, nor the market in which to sell single stamps, they are generally offered to our customers intact at a small percentage over cost price. These collections contain only choice items, sometimes rarities, and range in price from $100 to $5000. We sell them at rates low enough to interest both dealer and collector. Interested parties are requested to write immediately. [tf this kind as it does not involve itself financially other than as a probable contributor to the fund. It becomes the duty of the society to loan its name in furtherance of constructive work of the kind. The desire is to ensure the continuance of the great publicity that has been ours and in this connection we were told of certain forthcoming articles on stamps in publications of high rank in this country. It is certain that the committee having the expenditure of the fund in charge will dispense it in a practical manner.

The success of the convention was due in large part to the philatelic intelligence of the Springfield men, not a few of whom served as hosts to the A. P. S. conventions at Springfield in 1902 and 1912, respectively. Of the forms of entertainment we shall speak later; it is sufficient to say now that everything was done for the pleasure of guests who came in such great numbers. Many well-known members were present and of some of them, mention will be made subsequently. The auction sale held by Mr. Drew was a signal success and Mr. Aldrich, the auctioneer, kept the crowd, which he said was the largest that he ever saw at a stamp sale, in a genial and buying mood. The gems of the sale brought commensurate prices and the newspapers were quick to tell of the high prices realized. As lot after lot was the object of spirited bidding, it was felt that stamps in their monetary sense were about as staple as wheat. The weather on the evening of the sale was extremely hot, but the crowd did not melt away until the end of the sale.

Washington, the seat of the next convention, already is promising some distinctive features for the 1923 meeting and while enterprise in this connection is admirable, yet it is now time to assure A. P. S. convention cities that sufficient interest is felt in conventions to insure a good attendance on the basis of satisfaction had in the meetings, alone.

—Colonel D'Olier, president of the Philadelphia 1926 Exhibition Assn., has been advised of the unanimous adoption of a resolution by the 28th annual Convention of the Society of Philatelic Americans, which has just closed its session at Atlantic City, selecting Philadelphia as the convention city for 1926. In conveying this information, as one of the officers of the Society, Lewis M. Lang of Philadelphia says: "Our Philadelphia Branch will have charge of all arrangements and co-operate with you and your associates with the same zeal, energy and earnestness which characterized the successful Philatelic Exhibition of the World's Fair at Chicago in 1893. If our Philadelphia citizens would display the proper spirit pessimism would be an obsolete word."

NEW POSTAGE STAMP FACES.

(We have received many newspaper editorials referring to the proposed changes in design of U. S. stamps. We have been unable to find space for them all. We do reprint the following from the "Morning World-Herald" of Omaha, Nebr., the paper owned by Senator Hitchcock.—W. O. W.)

Irving Glover, third assistant postmaster general, says the department is perfectly serious about substituting a lot of new faces for the long familiar portraits of Washington and Franklin on our postage stamps. He says the new faces are necessary to give variety and variety is necessary to prevent loss through failure to detect short paid matter.

In this connection may we suggest that what our stamps need is whiskers. Nothing gives such variety to the human face as whiskers. A good, snappy selection of all the standard types of whiskers ought to serve the purpose perfectly. The most hurried and overworked postal clerk couldn't fail to notice with half an eye the marked difference, for example, between Oom Paul Kruger's lace edging and a neatly trimmed Van Dyck. There would be variety to spare between a set of Dundrearys and the imperial of Napoleon III. General Burnside and James Hamilton Lewis would look well in any stamp collector's album. In the matter of mustaches alone a whole series can be provided for, beginning with a tiny Charlie Chaplin and winding up with a fine engraving of the walrus type.

It won't do any good to trade off Washington and Franklin for Jefferson and Jackson, Madison, Monroe and the Adamses. There is too much sameness about the physiognomies of smoothly shaven statesmen to make their substitution worth while. If a thing is worth doing it is worth doing well.

UNITED STATES.—How would you like to receive a valentine wrapped in a package on which were stamps that would bring $1,850.00? Those in attendance at the Springfield Convention of the American Philatelic Society saw the stamps, or at least part of them, but the valentine is probably carefully tucked away and of much more value to the recipient than the stamps. Back in January, 1857, someone off in California mailed from Columbia a valentine to his lady-love in Springfield, Mass. The postage of $2.70 was paid by means of a vertical block, three by nine, that is twenty-seven, of the 10c green, issue of 1851. The postmaster evidently had plenty of time upon his hands for he cut the stamps from the sheet in such a way that there were margins all around. This block was located by a Springfield collector, so the story goes, a few years back, at which time he offered $50.00 for it. For sentimental reasons it was refused. Since then, however, the lady's pocket book has not kept pace in value with the block and she recently expressed the wish to accept the offer if it still held good. The collector while advising that it still held good further informed her that it was worth much more and suggested its sale at the Springfield auction. In the mean-

A Rare United States Coil
A Pair Brings $17.50 at Auctio

Several years back, when the Bureau issued the coil from the rotary pre very few 2c were coiled in an imperf condition. These were all sent to It more, New York, Washington and San Maine. They were not discovered by latelists until several years later. At time a coil was found in the Washi Post Office and those which had gone t other offices were all run down and it found that they had been used comme ly when issued.

This 2c imperforate coil from the r press is watermarked, Die I, coiled wise, and is listed in Scott as No. 370 could not be made from the imperf sheet, for no imperforated rotary st were issued in sheets. It cannot happe day, for the Bureau now uses Die II its coils, and besides uses unwaterma paper.

I can furnish this wonderful variety brought $17.50 for a pair at a July au —and well worth it, too—at $15.00 a In superb mint condition. Line pair A strip at the same rate. Cannot be for less and there are no more to be fo

U. S. 5's AND 10's OF 1847

I have made a specialty of these stamps, and still have a very nice lot to offer. If collectors are willing to ignore the cat. price on this issue, I can show some fine copies at market prices. Also all other scarce U. S. in stock, let me know your wants.

I have all kinds of stamps from superb, full catalogue, to damaged at low prices, U. S., B. N. A., Br. Col., S. A., European, all the good ones; get in line. I am selling to collectors from coast to coast. Play fair with me, and I'll go out of my way to treat you right, but when I meet with a man who is one-sided, and thinks every dealer is a crook, I pass, because I only wish to deal with reasonable people.

lock of four had been cut from r of the block and as this left two sticking out alone, one of which naged, it was thought that it e better described and sold if these e cut off, hence the offering of tion block of twenty-one by the auctioneer, Mr. B. L. Drew. k, by the way, contained shifts e not described and it was pur- y Mr. Kenneth in behalf of that ous collector, Mr. Arthur Hind. ed States collectors, the second iece of the sale was a magnifi- nt block of four of the 24c in a deep purple shade and this hich was purchased by a well known middle-west collector, reached $540.00 before it was knocked down. It was in wonderful condition and of this value I know of but three other blocks. A block of the 90c of the same issue, I am informed by a Cleveland dealer, was privately sold at $150.00, so that it can be seen that the National blocks are worth looking for.

Another collector showed several very handsome covers that came from a San Francisco find addressed to the American Minister in Guatemala City. He had about a half dozen of the 1861, 24c slate blue used in connection with the 10c green of 1861, all in superb condition. In addition there was a pair of each on one cover, a companion piece to the one he sold to Mr. Allen Logan and described in this column last week. These were all mailed from Washington, D. C., between March 25, 1862, and June 7th of the same year. The find also contained a 30c 1857 on cover, a 24c 1857 in similar condition, besides numerous other odd and interesting pieces.

One collector had a very fine Brattleboro postmaster provisional that he had found in New England on his grandfather's correspondence. Mr. B. A. Oppenheimer exhibited his very fine lot of United States and it is from this collection that the block of 24c described above was taken. All of the United States sold at auction went high and those offered at private sale were priced in the case of fine things at top notch prices.

Mr. Sloane had with him his very fine collection of Mississippi packet boat cancellations, while Mr. Klein was selling from the well known Allan Logan collection. One of the choice blocks from this collection, the 1c 1902 Pan-American with inverted center, was sold to a Michigan collector not far from Chicago. Mr. Klemann had with him a very fine lot, including a collection that he picked up on his recent western trip.

ARGENTINE.—The Economist Stamp Co. send us for chronicle a copy of the 30c in the type of 1920 issue with the watermark multiple Suns RA.

CANADA.—Regarding the 4c bistre recently chronicled, Mr. R. W. Hanna reports that he received a copy from Ottawa July 17th, but that it was probably placed on sale a few days earlier.

NIGERIA.—Mr. R. Roberts informs us of the appearance of the ½d and 1d on the script watermarked paper, in sheets of 240, divided into 4 panes of 60, four controls, one to each pane, two pl-7 at top, and two pl-9 at bottom of sheet.

SAARGEBIET.—Mr. P. J. Kranz sends us the following added values to the new set recently mentioned: 20c blue and straw, 25c red and straw, 30c red and yellow, 40c brown and straw, 50c dark blue, 75c green and 1fr old red. The centres show different views of buildings and industries.

ST. LUCIA.—Mr. R. Roberts reports the 1½d in a rose red shade printed on script watermarked paper.

A WONDERFUL COLLECTION!

The collections of 1500 Portuguese Colonies, cataloguing $400 for $67.50, which we offered for advertising purposes several weeks ago at practically cost price, have been so widely praised by dealers and collectors, and have met with such an enthusiastic reception, that we are again placing this unusual opportunity before the public. The following testimonials are entirely unsolicited:

Adds 700 Stamps to His Collection of $27,000

"My collection numbered 27,220 varieties at the time I ordered the 1500 Portuguese Colony collection from you at $67.50. I want to say that in all my dealings I have never made a purchase which I so thoroughly appreciated. The stamps were not only good in quality, but also in character, and I added to my large collection, 695 stamps to the value of $248.07, and have 805 varieties with which to make up exchange books. I am indeed pleased with the purchase."
—F. A. GODCHARLES, Deputy Secretary of the Commonwealth, Harrisburg, Pa.

Best Purchase He Has Made in 20 Years

"I acknowledge yours of the 4th and permit me to say that I was very much pleased with the collection of Portuguese Colonies. My collection numbers about 25,000 varieties, but during my entire experience I have NEVER received the value which this lot contains."
WM. F. ANDERSON, 4828 Roscoe St., Chicago.

Here is the

A COLLECTION OF 1,500 DIFFERENT STAMPS FROM PORTUGUESE COLONIES ONLY (no Portugal) mounted by countries in three blank books. Most of the stamps are unused and the condition is perfect throughout. Vasco da Gama issues, scarce provisionals, and hard-to-get varieties are included in large numbers. Specially selected for quality, and every stamp is guaranteed genuine. Catalogue Value is almost Four Hundred Dollars, our price practically one-sixth of catalogue!

Collectors and dealers all over the country are beginning to realize the popularity and investment value of Portuguese Colonies, many of which are underpriced and destined to become quite scarce within the next few years. This is positively the most exceptional offering we have ever been able to make. Order immediately, as present stock cannot be replaced.

AMERICAN PHILATELIC AUCTION NETS $9288.

Top price of $1825 was paid for a block of 21 vertical United States 10-cent stamps of the issue of 1851, at a sale of rare United States and foreign stamps last night at Hotel Kimball, under the auspices of the American Philatelic society, which is in convention here. The lot was bought by a Mr. Kennet of Utica, N. Y., who said he was acting for George Hind of Clark Mills, N. Y. H. R. Duckwall of Indianapolis, Ind., acquired the second highest priced lot, paying $580 for a block of four 24-cent United States stamps of the issue of 1870. The total amount of money paid for stamps at last night's sale was $9288.80. There were 601 lots of stamps, and competition was keen on nearly all of them.

Bidding for the "star" block opened at $1250, and was carried to the price finally paid in $50 jumps. The last man to stay in the competition against Mr. Kennet was Judge Robert S. Emerson, of Providence, R. I. He went up to $1800. This was the only lot on which Judge Emerson bid on which he was defeated. He was one of the keenest bidders of the evening and acquired several hundred dollars' worth of rare stamps. Among them were a block of four United States one-cent stamps of the issue of 1858 at $152.50, a block of nine United States one-cent stamps of the issue of 1857 at $123.00. Mr. Hind, besides the "big" lot of the evening, bought through his agent the highest priced foreign stamp sold, an Argentinian green 10-cent stamp. Another collector who was prominent in the bidding was George Walcott of New York City.

A certain amount of mystery surrounds the original ownership of the block which brought top price. It was given the auctioneer, Bertrand L. Drew of Boston, by representatives of the Springfield Stamp Club. Members of the club, however, would not state who the person was that owned the stamps before their sale last night. It was learned on good authority, however, that the stamps were found by some resident of this city, not a collector, and that the lot had never been sold before. It is believed that the block is unique. It was further learned last night that the original block comprised 27 of these stamps, with two of them damaged. These were eliminated, and a block of four was also separated from the rest before they were put on sale. It is believed that Mr. Drew is holding the block of four to be sold either privately or at another auction.

George Hind, who bought the block, is one of the best known collectors in this country. It was stated by a member of the philatelic society last night that Mr. Drew had on one occasion paid $33,000 for a one penny British Guiana stamp, from the collection of Baron Ferrari of Paris. He also has paid $10,000 for a Boscawen, N. H., five cent stamp.

Mr. Drew bought several of the most valuable stamps at the auction on orders for clients whose names would not be learned last night. Among them were a postmaster's provisional five-cent New York stamp at $100, a United States proprietary revenue five-dollar stamp at $132, a United States proprietary revenue $500 stamp at $131, and a strip of three Bavarian one-crown stamps at $151. The highest priced stamp bought by Mr. Walcott was a Confederate states, Memphis, Tenn., block of six five-cent stamps. Although stamps from nearly every country in the world were bid on, the greatest interest was occasioned by the rare United States stamps.

It was stated last night by dealers and collectors that, on the whole, the prices got for the stamps were very good. The grill room of Hotel Kimball, where the sale was held, was crowded by an enthusiastic crowd of collectors from the beginning of the sale at 8 o'clock until its close four hours later, in spite of the oppressive heat.—Springfield Republican.

ALACK!

The latest stamp act is the expulsion of six persons from the philatelists' convention.—Boston Traveler.

BARBUDA OVERPRINTS, 1922.

By HARRY E. HUBER.

Early in 1922 it was decided to provide special stamps for the island of Barbuda, and at an extraordinary meeting of the Executive Council of the Leeward Islands, at St. John's, Antigua, on Friday, the 24th March, 1922, the formal Order-in-Council was made:

"Order-in-Council.

"WHEREAS it is expedient to provide for use in the Island of Barbuda, Leeward Islands stamps overprinted in the manner hereinafter mentioned:

"NOW THEREFORE, it is hereby ordered by the Governor-in-Council under the authority of the (Leeward Islands) Stamp Act, 1890, as amended by the (Leeward Islands) Stamp Act, 1902, as follows:—

"On and after the 1st day of June, 1922, there shall be used in the Island of Barbuda, Leeward Islands Stamps now in use, overprinted with the word 'Barbuda' of the value of ½d, 1d, 2d, 2½d, 3d, 6d, 1/-, 2/-, 3/-, 4/-, 5/-.

"AND IT IS HEREBY FURTHER ORDERED that the proper blocks and other implements to be used in connection with the overprinting of the said Stamps be provided accordingly.

"Made in Executive Council of the Leeward Islands, this 24th day of March, 1922.

E. D'A. TIBBITS,
Clerk of the Council."

Due to delay in receiving the overprinted stamps from London, they were not issued until Thursday, 13th July, 1922.

The Leeward Islands stamps overprinted are printed from the De La Rue (1888 type) Postage & Revenue keyplate 10, introduced in June, 1921, and are in sheets of 120 stamps, 2 panes of 60 each, separated by a narrow gutter, with plate number 10 in only the lower margin, under the 2nd and 5th stamps of the lower row of the left and right panes, respectively. A marginal line surrounds each pane, broken at each line of perforation, with but one or two exceptions.

The overprint was not applied to all values of the current Leeward Islands series, the ¼d, 1½d, 4d, 5d and 2s6d being omitted.

On the ½d, 1d, 2d and 6d the value tablets have colorless figures and letters on a horizontally lined ground, while on the 2d, 3d, 2s, 3s and 4s they are in color on a colorless ground, within a hexagonal frame. The values on the 1s and 5s are expressed as ONE SHILLING and FIVE SHILLINGS, respectively, in two lines of colored letters on a plain ground, within a hexagonal frame.

The 2s, 3s and 4s (as well as the 4d and 5d not overprinted for Barbuda), are new values in the Leeward Islands series, and were provided for by an Order-in-Council, made 9th January, 1922, to be used on and after 1st April, 1922. They were issued (not overprinted) in late April. The duty plates for these five values (as well as for the 6d, for which a new one was made), are provided with a marginal line, so that completed sheets of these values have a double marginal line—the inside one being part of the keyplate, and the outside part of the duty plate, and printed in the colors of their respective impressions.

The 3d and 5s are printed on pale yellow paper (creamy in appearance), and the 1s on emerald green paper, with multiple Crown CA watermark; all others, including the 2s on blue, are watermarked multiple Crown and script CA. Chalk surfaced paper was used for 3d and above.

The 2s Leeward Islands stamp was printed on blue paper with both styles of watermark—that with the old type being sent to Antigua (and issued there in late April) and the script type to St. Kitts. Those overprinted for Barbuda have the script watermark.

The overprint BARBUDA was applied in London, by De La Rue & Co., Ltd., to full sheets of 120 stamps, in heavy block caps (15 x 3 mm.), and is positioned immediately above the value tablet. On the 1s and 4s the overprint is in red; on all other values in shiny black ink.

There is but one Post Office on the island, at Codrington, and the Manager, who administers local affairs (Capt. Geoffrey Downing, 1922), is also the Postmaster. The cancellation used is a single lined circle, 25 mm. in diameter, inscribed OFFICIAL PAID at the top, and BARBUDA at the bottom, with *—

The Leeward Islands Colony was among the first to accept the proposals of the U. S. Post Office Dept. for the exchange of letters at the domestic rates, and on March 1st, 1916, penny postage came into operation between the Presidencies of the Federation and the United States. On September 1st, 1916, the letter rate from Antigua and its dependencies, Barbuda and Redonda (as well as St. Kitts-Nevis and Dominica), to places in the British Empire, outside of the Federation, was raised to 1½d, and this was made applicable to the United States on February 1st, 1917. Locally, and between the Presidencies, the letter rate is 1d. On November 2nd, 1917, the letter rate in the States was made 3 cents, and this naturally applied to all foreign letters taking the domestic rate, including, of course, the Leeward Islands. The 2c rate was restored July 1st, 1919.

By an Order-in-Council, dated 9th January, 1922, rates of 2d and 1½d were made effective on letters and post cards, respectively, originating in the Colony, addressed to "the United Kingdom, other parts of the British Empire, Tangier, and the U. S. A. (including the U. S. Virgin Islands, Porto Rico, Alaska, Hawaii, and the Canal Zone)." To all other foreign countries the letter rate was increased to 3d, and at the same time the registration fee was raised from 2d to 3d.

To conform with the regulations of the Universal Postal Union as to colors for those denominations of postage stamps most used in the international mails, (formerly ½d on printed matter, 1d post cards, and 2½d letters, but now ½d, 1½d and 3d respectively), a rearrangement of the Crown Agents' color scheme, evolved in 1907, has been necessary for the lower values.

The revised color scheme used by Grenada is 1d brown, 1½d red, 2d orange, 2½d gray, and 3d blue. The 1d was changed from red to brown, and the other colors were moved one value ahead. (The 2d Grenada did not require changing, as it was already printed in orange, and not gray as prescribed for that value, in the color scheme). The 2½d and 3d stamps of Gold Coast have recently been printed in orange and blue, respectively, while for St. Kitts-Nevis, 1d, 2½d, and 3d are on requisition, to be printed in blue purple, brown and blue respectively,—which introduces a new color, blue purple. The 1d Leeward Islands, and 6c Seychelles, have also been requisitioned in blue purple.

With these color changes in prospect, it is quite probable that when further supplies of stamps are dispatched to Barbuda, there will be several new varieties; 1d blue purple, 2½d brown, and 3d blue.

The stock of yellow paper with the multiple Crown CA watermark is nearing exhaustion, and already several stamps have been supplied on the new script watermarked yellow paper, the first to be issued being the 5c purple on yellow of Federated Malay States, on March 1st, 1922. With the 3d Leeward Islands changed to blue, only the 5s in Barbuda's series will be affected by the yellow script watermarked paper. The manufacture of new green paper with the script watermark has not yet been announced by the Crown Agents.

POSTAGE STAMP REPRODUCTIONS.

(N. Y. Sun Editorial.)

A bill now before Congress provides for the repeal in part of an existing law, passed some years since, forbidding the reproduction in dealers' catalogues (or elsewhere) of postage stamps, domestic or foreign. The American Philatelic Society, in convention at Springfield, Mass., has now vigorously gone on record as supporting the measure permitting stamp catalogues to contain reproductions of the foreign issues; the delegates also voted to have their president appoint a committee to obtain legal authority to publish reproductions of United States stamps as well.

The existing statute on the subject doubtless was enacted with a view to prevent counterfeiting of a Government paper, following the analogy of paper money. Some few of the Federal postage and revenue stamps are of large denominations, and it is probable that a desire to cover all contingencies with blanket legislation led to the prohibition of any reproductions whatever.

The philatelists urge that it is difficult to describe stamps on sale to collectors without pictures; since the examples most sought for are of issues now obsolete and only valuable as rarities, one can see a point of hardship, of course unintended, in a widespread pastime and its devotees are numerous enough to gain consideration for their wishes, so long as these do not really interfere with the scarcity of any current form of Government paper.

AUCTION BUYERS ATTENTION

Our 1st Auction Sale to be held September 29th is worthy of your consideration.

STANLEY GIBBONS' COLOR GUIDE.

(We are indebted to Stanley Gibbons, London, Eng., for a copy of the new color guide, price 2sh 11d post free in the United States. We were just on the point of reviewing this chart when our eye caught Mr. Ingram's tribute in "Stamp Collecting," and it so expresses our own conviction that we reprint it word for word. For several years a color guide has been in our mind, based on the selection of low priced stamps that would be representative of colors and shades. It remained for the London firm to work out the idea and we heartily commend this product of their enterprise and energy.—W. O. W.)

Messrs. Stanley Gibbons, Ltd., deserve every commendation for their enterprise in putting on the market, at a trifling price, a really excellent vade mecum for the stamp collector—one that must inevitably be an ever present help in time of doubt. It will be remembered that last year they evolved a simple "Colour Guide for Stamp Collectors" by mounting actual stamps of selected shades on a card, with a printed description under each. Such a Guide was necessarily very elementary. The number of stamps available in sufficient quantity limited its scope, and a good many shades which people wanted to see were therefore not included. Used stamps had to be utilized in many instances, and the postmarks made comparison difficult. However, the Guide was well received, and the publishers were able to keep it fairly well standardised for a time, but its success was its downfall, as it became impossible to keep up supplies of many of the stamps required, and in the particular shade needed.

Given the principle of comparing stamp with stamp, and it was not a long step to the provision of an artificial equivalent to the actual postage stamps used in the original Colour Guide. Messrs. Perkins, Bacon & Co., Ltd., the world-famous firm of stamp printers, were called into consultation, and as a result a new Colour Guide has been produced in which the stamps have been replaced by labels, specially designed, printed, gummed, and perforated by Messrs. Perkins, Bacon & Co, for use in the new Guide. Thus we have a range of 100 distinct shades instead of less than 50. Large quantities can be procured of labels of the same shade, and there is no postmark to render comparison difficult. Many months of study, of colour testing, and of thorough shifting of many problems have gone to the production of the new Guide.

Some useful notes on "Colour Identification in Philately" are printed on the back of the folder, and Messrs. Gibbons make the important announcement that the new Colour Guide is to be the standard in future additions to their catalogues.

Messrs. Gibbons themselves say:—

"We do not claim that it is by any means the best possible Guide that can be evolved. We ourselves can see details in which time and further experiment may bring improvement. That it will meet with criticism is to be expected, dealing, as it does, with a subject on which there is so little agreement, but sound criticism is welcome and helpful in a task such as this. The new Colour Guide will not please everybody. It is still only elementary in comparison with the elaborate, scientifically arranged, and numbered colour sheets and charts of which many dream as the ultimate ideal. We make no claim to have approached that ideal here, but we say that the new Guide is a long step in the right direction. It gives the collector a basis for the identification of many standard shades and for the establishment of a correct idea of the appearance of many that are not shown. In short, it is as a handy and practical Guide to the rudiments of the most difficult problem of Philately that we present it and as a possible basis for further progress in the future."

We look in vain for a good many important shades, but how can we be hypercritical? The new Guide is a real marvel.

DEFENDS NEW STAMP DESIGNS.

Denies Change Due to Desire of Fans.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—W. Irving Glover, third assistant postmaster-general, replied today to criticisms reported in some quarters to the proposed changes in designs of postage stamps which the postmaster-general now has under consideration.

Mr. Glover in a formal statement said the impression seems to prevail that the new issue of stamps was proposed because of a desire of stamp collectors for new designs, when on the contrary changes were under consideration in the designs entirely because the best interests of the service warrant it.

"In response to appeals of the postmaster-general for suggestions for the betterment of the postal service, thousands of letters suggesting a new issue of postage stamps have been received from employes of the postal service, who have pointed out the advisability of a more distinct variation in designs for postage stamps, as well as colors that do not possess striking similarity," he said.

"The department knows that thousands of dollars in revenue are lost yearly in the postal service, due to striking similarity in stamps, as well as little deviation in color, which prevents postal employes from detecting short paid matter. This liability to error is increased by cancellation, which often obliterates the numeral on the stamps to such an extent that errors cannot be detected promptly.

"In fact, the present issue bears so many features alike that errors now made in handling mail with these stamps attached are in the majority of cases excusable. Particularly is this true in many of the larger post offices, where artificial light is necessarily being used. Inasmuch as the stamps from one to seven cents denomination bear the portrait of Washington and the eight cent to $5 bear the portrait of Franklin, postal clerks cannot easily distinguish the denomination in the rapid handling of mail because of the lack of distinctive features."

Third Assistant Postmaster-General Glover also said that the cost of preparation of the new special delivery stamp was very economical, the master die only costing the government $438.91, which was more than twice covered by sale of these stamps to stamp-collectors for which no service was rendered.

FRANK MARQUIS
37 Ann Street New York

OUR REVIEW.

We have received for review from Edouard Locher, Zurich, Switzerland, a copy of his neatly gotten up little booklet entitled "Special Catalogue of Stamps of the War, 1914-1922". Fair market prices of practically all war varieties issued during this period are listed and priced and in addition many of the new issues that do not fall into this classification. While the publication is printed in French and priced in Swiss francs, one without knowledge of the French language will readily understand it because of the large number of illustrations. Interested parties should write the publishers whose advertisement appeared recently in our columns. Price, post free, 50c.

WARNING TO COLLECTORS.

A European dealer sends a small approval selection of 18 stamps, among which a new type of forgery of Newfoundland, No. 26, appears. As we are uncertain whether the sender is a guilty party, we shall withhold his name for the present, confining ourselves to a description of the differences between the original and the fraud. The stamp is placed in the selection with six other, older, genuine Newfoundlands. Comparison:

1. The color of the original is black with a greenish tinge—the forgery is a dead black.

2. The execution of the forgery is exceedingly fine, in spite of the fact that it must have been executed by some Photo-Lithographic process, whereas the originals are from engraved plates! We are unable to detect any difference in the size of design, inscriptions or color of paper, but the fraud has slightly thicker paper than "the medium white" of Stanley Gibbons' catalogue.

3. The cancellation consists of 10 thin black bars, which have an almost genuine appearance.

4. The easiest way to detect the fraud is in the perforation which is 14, whereas the genuine stamp is perforated 12.

RECAPITULATION.

Apart from the very slight difference in shade and the decisive difference of perforation, which the forgers may rectify, there remains only that subtle difference in the execution, only perceptible to the philatelist who has handled the older British Colonies for a long time.

As we believe, many of the average collectors, owing to the general good appearance of the stamp, may be deceived, we think it important that their attention be called to the matter. We are willing to give our opinion gratis, provided registered return postage is enclosed with any stamp submitted.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—The next exhibit of the Philatelic Section of the Baltimore Academy of Science will be held October 28. Supplies of the philatelic journals for distribution may be sent to C. L. Wilhelm, 5209 Wilton Heights Av., Baltimore, Md.

—We have received from Robert Heubach, Jr., specimens of two postal cancellations. One is from Atlantic City, N. J., and consists of:—"Atlantic City Pageant Sept. 6-7-8, 1922". The other is from Oakland, Calif., with:—"International Health and Safety Exposition November 17-26, 1922". F. P. Jones sends us the following:—"Iowa State Fair, Des Moines, August 23-September 1". Business is brisk in the line of advertising cancellations. Most any country fair can secure one through an accommodating congressman.

—Arthur W. Line sends us a new postal cancellation. It reads "Advise Your Correspondents of Your Correct Post-Office Address". It is in use in Canada offices.

—Through the kindness of Clarence H. Eagle we have received a letter addressed to him from the Security Insurance Co. of New Haven, Conn., in which it states that this company is not writing insurance of collections of stamps against loss by fire, theft, etc. No agent of the firm is authorized to accept this class of insurance and we take this opportunity of correcting the impression conveyed by an item which appeared in a recent number of our paper.

—A longtime friend of the WEEKLY submits a communication just at hand from Mr. Melville in which he writes:—"I often think of the happy days I spent among you in 1906 and 1913. I could do with just such another sea trip and hustle around among the U. S. villages. I do hope that many of you will come over here for the Exhibition next May. We will charter the Aquitania if you will bring all the boys".

—We have a new postal cancellation from Helena, Mont., reading:—"Yellowstone and Glacier National Parks". H. W. Boers calls our attention to an error recently made. The aero congress cancellation for Oct. 7-14 should be credited to Detroit, and not to New York.

—F. F. Isbell sends us a cancellation "Arkansas State Fair, Little Rock, Oct. 9-15, 1922". An odd cancellation reading "U. S. S. Wyoming, Don't Forget Box No." has been shown us by H. E. Robertson.

We have on hand just ten of these handsome binders for a year's issues of the WEEKLY. The price is $1.50 plus zone postage from Beverly. Add it to your remittance. No further lot will be made unless we secure another hundred orders.

FAKE COLOMBIAN 2c SURCHARG

Doctor Morel of Paris, an auth on airmail stamps, advises that t exist several types of false surcha of the 2c Carmine of 1917, used for mail service. He quotes as follows

"On the 18th of June, 1919, Colo inaugurated an airmail postal se between Barranquilla and Puerto-Co bia. On this occasion, for prepayr of letters transported by aeroplan special stamp, obtained by surchar the Colombian Two Cent Carmine, used.

ARCHIE.

In an office at No. 39 Cortla Street to-day I saw a two-cent sta walk across the floor, up the wall a on the ceiling. I feared my mind my sight was failing me and becam a bit alarmed. I hesitated to call a one's attention to it. However, I call one of the employees' attention a stamp on the ceiling and he st up on a desk, took a blotter a "caught" it. There were legs un the stamp, but they were on a co roach.—A. D., Port Richmond, S. I.

MR. HIND NO NOVICE AT STAMPS.

Mr. A. Hind of Utica, N. Y., U. S. A., now the actual owner of the rarest stamp in the world i. e., the Br. Guiana 1c black on magenta, 1856, which was purchased for him by Mr. Hugo Griebert at the third sale of the Ferrari collection, for about £7,500 is, according to the Philatelic Magazine a comparatively newcomer in the world of stamps. But we made the acquaintance of Mr. Hind as a collector eight or nine years ago, when he visited Sydney. Mr. Hind was at that time an enthusiastic collector and during the time he was here, he paid us almost daily visits from 10 a. m. to 12 o'clock. He brought his "Scott" catalogue with him, in which he had noted his wants, and he made large purchases of us. He was very methodical, he had not a great deal to say, he was a liberal buyer and if the stamp conformed to the number in the catalogue and was in good condition, he bought it without demurring at the price. So far as we can recollect his purchases consisted chiefly of Australian stamps.

We did some business with Mr. Hind after his return to America but the war intervened and, so far as we can remember Mr. Hind wrote saying that he was then too busy to think of stamps.—Aust. Stamp Journal.

NEW FACES FOR NEW STAMPS.

It is announced at Washington that a new issue of postage stamps is contemplated. Many will be glad of that. Even in such trifles people crave variety.

Stamps serve their purpose, whether ugly or beautiful. To the philatelist's eye some unique or excessively rare specimens that are mere blotches are lovelier than the Sistine Madonna. Our Postoffice Department has usually gone in for portraiture, but of late years has discarded all likenesses except those of Washington and Franklin. Recent Postmaster Generals have evidently not been stamp collectors or they would have selected a little gallery of miniatures for the various denominations. That used to be done, and it is still a pleasure to open the pages of an old album and refresh the gaze with, for example, the voluminous vermilion whiskers of Secretary Stanton. Commodore Perry, we seem to remember, was purple, and Jefferson a rich chocolate. There was an excellent assortment of worthies and their color schemes were pleasing. The modern issues may be better examples of engraving, or they may not; they don't give one the pictorial delight of the oldtimers.

At present Washington and Franklin are chameleons, the former ranging from one to seven cents and the latter from 8 cents to $5, according to the stamp's hue. The Postoffice Department finds this arrangement confusing and productive of underpaid postage. So we may see new faces when the next issue comes out. There are surely a score of Americans well to be remembered whose presentments have never appeared on postage stamps and are deserving of the honor.—New York Tribune, Editorial Page.

PHILATELIC EXPOSITIONS.

Translated from Mexico Postal by D. N. Johnson.

A small exposition was held last May in Madrid, Spain, in the rooms of the Union Filatelica Espanola. Several very interesting speeches were made. One in particular concerning the designs adopted for the new issue of Spain, was especially meritorious.

The opening on September 7th, in Rio de Janeiro, of the great Exposition to commemorate the Centennial Anniversary of Brazil's 100 years of independence, is not being overlooked by Rio philatelists. The Sociedad Filatelica Paulista, is organizing a philatelic exposition to take place in September. The greatest specialized collections of Brazilian stamps known to exist will be on exhibit at this exposition.

The German stamp papers announce that a philatelic exposition will take place in Berlin from the fifteenth to the twenty-second of October. The exposition will be patronized by the leading German collectors, and has named as honorary president, M. Carl Lindenberg, celebrated for his untiring labors in behalf of philately.

SEPTEMBER PUZZLERS.

By T. H. Ames.

The frequency with which this department will appear will be governed entirely by the interest taken in it. No answers will mean no puzzles, while lots of answers will mean lots of puzzles and prizes. Any reader may compete. Answers should be sent to C. E. Severn, 713 Oxford Bldg., Chicago, Ill., by October 1. With each solution must be sent in one or more questions for further contests, to help the editor secure a diversity of subjects.

Prizes.

Prizes will be awarded for the most nearly correct sets of answers, and in case of a tie the replies first received will have the preference.

First Prize:—Philatelic Dictionary.

Second Prize:—Books from our list, value $1.

SPECIAL COLLECTIONS
Through our connections abroad, we often obtain many excellent collections of Europe, British Colonies, South America, etc., etc. As we are wholesale dealers exclusively and have neither the time to break these up, nor the market in which to sell single stamps, they are generally offered to our customers intact at a small percentage over cost price. These collections contain only choice items, sometimes rarities, and range in price from $100 to $5000. We sell them at rates low enough to interest both dealer and collector. Interested parties are requested to write immediately. [tf

EDITORIAL.

We are advised by a Washington correspondent that the post office department has been made aware of the fact that the postage stamp is about as close to the bosoms of the populace as their own hearth-stones are. No confidence is betrayed when it is said that the authorities find their admiration tinctured with amazement at the vigor and volume of the response from those who wish to uplift the postage stamp, as it is to come in the new issue. The word has gone forth that the department wants the aid and comfort of the more than hundred million citizens of this country in furnishing ideas and suggestions for stamp portraiture, as well as helpful hints generally on running the postal service. The newspapers have told of the popular choices of national heroes in the order: Theodore Roosevelt, Abraham Lincoln and General U. S. Grant. Scenic attractions and historical happenings that have been advanced include Niagara Falls, the National Bridge, Pike's Peak, Mt. Shasta and the Grand Canyon; Washington Crossing the Delaware and Washington at Valley Forge and other more or less imperishable incidents down the years to the world war. The humorist, too, would not be denied and some of the schemes of design are so bizarre as to make a saint smile. The common "peepul" are back of the post office department and it will be the department's fault if it is not smart enough to use the best material. From the Christian Science Monitor we learn that in addition to the "three-in-one" stamp that has been mentioned in the papers, it is asked that a "delayed Christmas stamp" be issued that would hold the article bearing it in storage in the post office, until the Christmas season, no matter when it was mailed. The suggestion that a heavy envelope for registration purposes be issued is an old one, but it is, nevertheless, one that has admitted claims to merit. The new issue of stamps is literally creating a lot of stamp talk.

Here is the way in which one man, who was exasperated by the demands of the condition crank, paid his respects to the "all too critical". "The only comment I have to make on this phase is to suggest that these objectors suspend collecting until they reach Heaven where super-philatelists may revel in super-perfection of detail—that is, providing they like their associates there. Such collecting becomes a sort of micro-bacteriological laboratory work, from which all pleasure is eliminated in the exaltation of the impossible."

From Professor E. G. Young of Nanyang College, Shanghai, whose article on the types of locomotives, depicted on stamps in the WEEKLY a good many moons ago, was so relished by readers, sends us a letter occasionally in which he chats familiarly on philatelic topics and from his latest, dated "July, the hottest, 1922," we take toll as follows: "There are rumors of the establishment of air-mail services between Peking and Peitaihio (a great summer resort near Shanhaikwan), Peking-Shanghai, Peking-Hankow, and Shanghai-Hankow. Between the last-named cities, air communication is badly needed as there is no rail connection. I called on Mr. Theodore Siddall, at the hospital, and found him cheerful mentally and improving physically and I had a pleasant visit. The official notice of the closing of the British post office, giving the dates on which each function would be suspended, was published July 23, 1922. Late in June, we had the first stamp show ever held in China, under the auspices of the local society. It was interesting to the collector and was quite well attended. And now,—what do you think of the enclosed? Yes, local surcharges on the one and two cent U. S., for Shanghai use. No information is given at the office concerning them: we 'gather' from the evidence, external and internal, the following: they are locally made, in rather limited quantity, probably with authority from Washington, as there have been unauthorized surcharges in the past which brought severe criticism on the former administration of the agency. The stamps went on sale about July 7th and were still on sale yesterday, the 14th. The one and the two are the only values so treated. On page 299, I note a reference to the Shanghai surcharges on U. S. Mr. Sylvester simply had the good fortune to buy the set at their lowest possible price, the exchange rate having crossed the two-to-one mark just about as his order was received. I, myself, happened to take a few at a price that figures only $2.845 gold, paying for them in silver, of course. At to-day's exchange they are worth about $3.15 gold."

We notice that the St. Paul Pioneer Press enlarges upon a phase of stamp artistry that ordinarily is given little, if any, attention. In an editorial, "Stamps and Decoration", in which the statement is stressed that "at least, the tones selected might be more conciliatory, so that in the haphazard combinations with paper and ink, the clashes would not be so unpleasant. It is a small matter, of course. Still, stamps can be artistic without compromising their usefulness." The editor calls the red menace of the present two cent stamp an antagonist to almost any combination of paper and ink. While the understanding that the colors of the one, two and five cent stamps (and their equivalent values) accord with the postal union suggestions, green, red and blue, respectively, is not always honored, yet there is little likelihood that the U. S. will emulate Canada's recent example of independent color selection. We are afraid that the distinguished editor of the Pioneer Press with his knowledge of "the new modes in stationery" is an esthete whose refinements of taste dazes, rather than delights, the placid mind of the average stamp sticker.

When we told a reporter on one of the newspapers at the convention that Mr. Hind paid $45,000 for the Mauritius cover, she showed that she thought that in our wish to give her a "story" we drew a long bow. "How could he bring himself to pay so much?" was the question that followed. This natural observation by a non-collector is worth considering. How could Mr. Hind pay a small fortune for a stamp? First of all, because Mr. Hind has that innate liking for stamps that persons who give a negative philatelic test cannot sense or understand by any analogy. Secondly, he is crowning his collecting career by getting those great rarities that seemed so remote to him when, as a young collector, he dreamed of the time when he might have them for himself; and thirdly, because Mr. Hind as a business man knows that his investment has justification on the cold basis of future return, if he cares to take advantage of the market, which ever must strengthen so far as stamps inherently good are concerned. One could string out a long recital of motives and reactions in the case of Mr. Hind and probably the balderdash that it would contain would be in direct ratio to the length of the story. We are glad that Mr. Hind is so much in the public eye, as we have an admiration for the man who sticks to his philatelic guns under the uncomprehending gaze of the mass of the philatelically unwashed.

Several weeks ago, we received from Professor T. H. Goodspeed, now in England, Punch for June 14th, 1922, containing a happy philatelic travesty, "The True Cause of World-Unrest". Punch is a true humorist and the philatelic burlesque under notice is as good a bit of extravaganza at the expense of stamp collecting as ever gladdened eye. We shall have to reproduce this flawless piece of caricature, unmarred by a single exclamation point. The clever chap who concocted this philatelic brew is no camp-follower of philately; we suspect that he is the front ranks of philatelists.

Our latest bout with the question of insurance on stamps seems to have been won rather handily by insurance. Different companies, it has been shown, will insure stamps and Lloyd's is said to invite business at the rate of one dollar for the hundred dollar valuation, on stamps in any situation and covering every hazard, "except drop in price." The restriction quoted makes the collector smile as without being a professional optimist, the last thing that would enter his mind would be the possibility of a slump in stamps in any general sense. That stamps have never seen a panic is a somewhat remarkable circumstance and even the ups and downs in philately have been comparatively mild. Abuses that in a sense grew up with stamp collecting and threatened to blight it were shaken off before their fell work was begun and the explanation to account for this condition must arise from the fact that for sixty years or from the time of its birth, there has not been a twelve-month during which the number of followers of collecting has not shown a gain.

The third international congress of dealers in postage stamps will be held at Geneva, this year, on the 8, 9 and 10 days of September. These meetings of the stamp trade in Europe are most important occasions where problems confronting commercial philately are discussed and acted upon, while the business transacted in the aggregate by those in attendance has been spoken of as enormous, in years past.

FIRST CLASS MAIL PERMITS.

By A. H. PIKE, 80 Grant St., Buffalo, N. Y.

Within two weeks after the July 22nd issue of the WEEKLY was out, we had received over three hundred letters from philatelists who were interested in collecting these markings. Since that time from five to ten letters a day have reached us. Since publishing the check list we have located 126 new varieties up to August 12th and there is no doubt hundreds of others are still to be found.

Before continuing a chronicle of new issues there are a few points we would like to offer for open discussion. We have heard no criticism on our classification as far as we went. There are some minor varieties that must be included and especially the errors of color. Originally Type B was invariably printed in black, but since the P. O. Dept. authorized these permits to be printed in the color of ink to correspond to the denomination of stamp that they represented, many of those who are still using Type B are printing them in the correct colors. Still we have come across many varieties printed in blue, brown and other colors. There are also many mistakes being made in other types, especially in Type E. We have seen the 2c in green, the 4c in red and the 2c in brown.

Philatelists are keen for these errors and we believe that it will be best to include these as a separate variety. There is also a variation of Type C not noted in our previous article. The main difference is that it has straight lines instead of wavy in the canceller. These have been made contrary to orders of the P. O. Dept. and we doubt if very many of them will be used. Shall we call these Type C-2, or have our readers a better idea?

Some wish to distinguish between those having the word "PERMIT" spelled in full and those with only the letter "P". Would you advise giving each of these a separate Type number? If any other distinct variety is discovered we would appreciate prompt information on it.

There seems to be some misunderstanding among a few of our correspondents and we have also noted the mistake in print. Although all meter marks are first class permits, not all first class permits are meter marks. So far there is only one company making a postage meter, although we have an illustration and some particulars of an invention of this kind to be manufactured on the Pacific coast. It is very incorrect to call an ordinary permit a meter mark. Types B and C are what we would call ordinary permits. All meter marks either have the word "meter" spelled in full followed by a number or as in Type D only the letter "M" to denote the meter.

First class permits from Chicago have reached as high as No. 2445. Those above No. 15 all seem to be of Type C and practically all used on Third Class mail. We are not sure as yet whether these numbers are from old Third Class permits or whether they have been given a new series, which, according to P. O. Dept. orders, they should have. Although we have something like fifty varieties of Type C from Chicago, we have identified only a few. We would greatly appreciate any information we can get on Chicago permits. Some of the drawings from which cuts were made for these permits are very crude and we can see no reason for the change to this style of permit. Although the denomination of postage runs from one to four cents they are used on printed matter of the third class and are printed in black.

There is quite a little discussion as to whether to keep these full size or to trim them down. Some have suggested to keep only the face of the envelope, others are cutting off the top two to three inches all the way across so as to include the name of mailer. The majority prefer to trim them all uniform to 2x4. With meter marks this latter size is preferable for we are able to check every meter from manufacturers' records. With other types than meter marks this is not so easily done, so until check lists are published it would be better to keep the record complete either in the entire or front or the strip across.

There is considerable confusion regarding the 2x4. This size has been standard with collectors of postal markings for the past ten years and there are millions and millions of these slips in the hands of collectors. This size means four inches lengthwise of the envelope (East and West) by two inches high (North and South). Meter marks or postal markings of any kind cut smaller than this size are hard to dispose of. The reasons for adopting this size were to keep everything uniform and file them like a card index, alphabetically by post offices under each state. By this arrangement much time could be saved in adding to or taking from while the collection was being built up. At any time varieties could be removed, trimmed smaller and mounted to suit the ideas of the owner.

You will remember back in the early days when government envelope stamps were popular. Hundreds of collectors cut these out of the envelope to shape and close to the stamp. It was decided that they should be cut square with large margins. Those cut out to shape became worthless. The thousands of collectors of postal markings had a perfect right to decide this issue for themselves and those who are taking up the new philately now will find it much to their interests to conform to this size or larger; never smaller.

Please report to me everything new that you see and do it as promptly as possible. We have the assurance that a booklet will eventually be published on this subject with a check list. The quicker we locate the varieties already issued the quicker you will have the advantages of a work of this kind. Either send specimens or give good and complete descriptions of each, including (1) City and State, (2) permit number, (3) if a meter mark give number, (4) Type, (5) denomination of postage, (6) color of ink, (7) name of user, (8) date or dates of your specimens, and any other facts necessary. It will be impossible for us to give prompt replies to all letters, but we will do the best we can and assure you in advance of our appreciation.

ATLAS STAMP CO. (P. C. Smith) W. Somerville, 44, Mass.

STATE DEPARTMENTS
$2—$5—$10—$20

These Aristocrats of the Department Series were issued to carry large packages and correspondence to our diplomatic and consular representatives abroad and as they were always on large covers most of them were destroyed at the time — hence their rarity today. These four stamps have always been much sought after and are lacking in many of the very fine collections. They are seldom offered at auction and when they are they generally bring close to catalogue value.

The 1922 catalogue lists them both used and unused at $375.00, while the 1923 advance sheets raise the price to $430.00. Because of the advantage secured in purchasing foreign exchange, I am able to offer these four stamps in an unused condition, without gum—Gems for any Collection—at the very low price of $282.50. They cannot be purchased cheaper and they are four stamps which always cause comment when exhibited. A gilt edge investment for such stamps are always in demand. Only one set and the first check takes them. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

Here it is in a nut shell—State Department—$2, $5, $10 and $20 unused—Scott's Nos. 1567-1570 — the rarest departments — Cat. $430, for $282.50 net.

The next discontinuance of subscriptions will concern all subscribers whose wrappers bear the numbers 1649 to 1652 inclusive. Just glance at your wrapper immediately in order to make sure that your subscription is paid up. You have ample time in which to renew and be saved the inconvenience of a discontinance. Moreover, under our new system we are making no plans for furnishing back numbers and subscribers must not expect that we can supply back numbers when we have made every effort to notify them.

We are satisfied that the system we have inaugurated is the only one under which a newspaper can do business these days, and subscribers must understand that free copies of the WEEKLY will not be sent to those who are in arrears.

UNITED STATES.—My notes of last week regarding the Springfield sale, held during the American Philatelic Society Convention, were from memory and now that I have the priced catalogue before me I am able to give some of the prices realized by the choicer items. As mentioned the finest piece, the block of twenty-one of the 10c 1851, sold at $1,825 and was purchased in behalf of Mr. Hind. An Indianapolis collector purchased the mint block of the 24c 1870, National print, in a truly wonderful condition at a price of $520.00. A pair of the 5c New York on cover cancelled with pen strokes changed hands at $100. A 5c 1847 on cover with "New York & N. Haven R. R." cancellation sold at $21.65, while a pair of the same stamp on cover with dot in "s" was knocked down at $33.50.

A mint block of nine of the 1c 1857 showing both type I and II went to Judge Emmerson at $123.00, while a mint block of four of the type Ia sold for $152.50. A copy of the imperforate 2c green 1887 sold at $12.50, while a 6c 1895 with revenue watermark, used of course, sold for $46.00. In the way of 20th century varieties a 2c double print block of twelve of the surface print, Scott's No. 436b, sold at $44.00, the 2c surface print type I, Scott's type four, guide and arrow blocks with the four plate blocks sold at $99.00. A cancelled copy of the $20 state, the only scarce department in the sale, sold within $5 of catalogue value.

We desire to thank Mr. L. B. Hill, Director of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, for bringing our list of plate numbers up to and including those assigned to August 7, 1922.

It will be noted from the above list that eight plates were made from the die for the new Special Delivery stamp, plates bearing numbers 13916-13923. It seems, however, that the initial supply placed on sale at Washington were from the first four and it is possible that the other four will not be used until the stock of the older issue has become exhausted. A set of 7c and a set of 15c plates are in this lot and it is quite likely that by the time more of these denominations are required the dies for the new series will be ready. The same remarks may apply to the series of the 8c plates, although this denomination is used more often. There are only a few of the 1c flat plates in the list and it seems that the rotary plates are almost entirely replacing them in the case of this value.

Mr. Eugene Klein shows me a freak copy of the 1c 1901 Pan-American issue, wherein the green border was printed with a wide vertical fold in the sheet while the center was printed with the paper normal thus giving the stamp quite an odd appearance.

Mr. William H. Emmert has shown me copies of the circular die 1c green envelope from die D on both blue and amber. This variety is now known on all papers, although the amber which have been seen with the imprint of a Baltimore concern seem somewhat scarce.

Mr. R. H. Mason has located three new overprinted envelopes not listed heretofore.

Messrs. Harold I. Whittaker and Chas. E. Carman send interesting clippings from the daily papers regarding the contemplated new series of United States stamps. We also wish to thank Messrs. George E. Virden, W. A. Beach, F. C. Ryan and William Voigt for notes of interest.

ALBANIA.—The Economist Stamp Co. have shown us a set of five values of new design for use in this country. The stamps are imperforate and show the double eagle in the centre and figures of value in all four corners. At the is "Vetekeverria", at the left "Po: at the right "E Mirdities" and at b base "Quintar". The value and co are 5q green, 10q red, 25q blue, lilac grey and 1f orange. The 1f also been overprinted "25 Quint" in lines in black in the centre with a h bar line at the base and short bars at top obliterating the former figures value.

BARBUDA.—Mr. Erwin Strasser mits to us for chronicle the follov values of Leeward Islands surcha "Barbuda": ½d, 1d, 2d, 2½d, 3d, 6d, All are overprinted in black except the 1sh value which is in red. Strasser also adds that the P. O. D of Barbuda informs him that 2sh, 4sh and 5sh are also on sale.

BELGIUM.—Mr. Henry Hooreman the Economist Stamp Co. report the pearance of a new 25c stamp in a violet shade. In the centre is a likeni of the King and at the top "Belgiq" and at the base "Belgie" with the figu of value at each side. The stamp be the imprint of Leon Houyoux. Hooreman further notes that it placed on sale the 20th of last mo and is printed in sheets of 100.

CYPRUS.—Mr. R. Roberts adv under date of July 20th of the appeara of the 1½ piastre yellow and bl script watermark, double jubilee line two colors in sheets of 120.

DANZIG.—Mr. J. L. Riedel reports appearance of three new values in latest postage due set. They are 75, and 300pf.

DUTCH INDIES.—Mr. Fletcher F. Is advises us that he has recently recei the following provisionals: 12½c red) on 17½c red brown (Scott's 113); 12½c (in red) on 22½c ora (Scott's No. 115); 20c (in blue) on same value as last noted; 32½c blue) on 50c green (Scott's No. 11

DICTIONARY SUPPLEMENT.

It is our desire to publish in due season a supplement to the Dictionary and it is no doubt probable that by Jan. 1, 1923, there will be sufficient new material to make such a supplement desirable. Without doubt the eyes of keen philatelists will discover many old items that should have been covered. For instance, new history has been made on the Boscawen local, and the definition given in the Dictionary may well be revised. Again, it would have been a good plan to have inserted the meaning of "A29" and similar cancellations on British stamps used abroad. A29 was used in Bath, Jamaica, and a comprehensive dictionary might well include such items.

We frankly confess that the Dictionary as it appears is only the forerunner of a great book to be published in future years. We desire the co-operation of our readers in connection with the proposed supplement, and offer three cash prizes of $15, $10 and $5 respectively for the best lists of additions turned in by Jan. 1, 1923. We require, however, that there shall be at least ten lists to award the first prize, twenty to award the second and thirty to award the third.

As you are coming in contact with philatelic terms not covered in the Dictionary note them where they belong alphabetically. This will be an indication that they should be covered in the supplement to be issued later.

We shall give ample credit for such assistance as may be rendered us in perfecting the book, in which we take a great deal of pride.

MANY.—Mr. J. L. Riedel submits ronicle a copy of the 5 mark stamp design with posthorn in the The color is orange and yellow. opies of 5pf green and 10pf orange Official set.

—The new issue of postage and e stamps which we foreshadowed in active preparation. At present ies comprises 1½, 2 and 3a and ies, the annas being printed in one direct from steel plates in red, nd blue respectively, the 1r being -printed in two colours—centre border and value in green. The are somewhat larger than the y postage size, and are being on white Script CA paper. p Collecting.

—Mr. R. Roberts sends us a copy 9 pies on 1a stamp of India with ded overprint "Jind" in block between the word "Pies" and the iterating 1 anna. These are print- heets of 256 and have no errors eties.

-SLAVIA.—The Times announces ending issue of stamps "bearing eness of King Alexander". Per- we fail to see the need of new yet awhile, unless they are intended to celebrate the recent wedding of King Alexander, whose portrait already appears on nine of the adhesives current throughout his unified kingdom of Jugo-Slavia and Serbia.

Meanwhile, the remainders of the charity postage stamps of December, 1920, are being reissued, surcharged with high values in "dinars", for use in the parcels post service. The 15pa of this set has already appeared with the surcharge "20 dinar", for use on parcels.—Stamp Collecting.

MALTA.—On authority of the Crown Agents for the Colonies, Stamp Collecting is able to give the values of the overdue "Constitutional" series, due for early issues, viz.:—¼d, ½d, 1d, 2d, 3d, 4d, 6d, 1s. 2s, 2s 6d, 5s, 10s, £1. The stamps will be printed on white Script CA paper.—Stamp Collecting.

MALTA.—Louis Carabott and Bright and Son advise us that the delayed "Constitutional" series is beginning to be issued. Up to the time of writing the following values are on sale: ½d, 1d, 6d, 1sh and 2sh. The ½d and 1d together with the 6d are of the same type, showing the figure of a woman in the centre with a view of the harbor in the background. The shilling values are of a different design and picture a soldier with a woman with an olive branch in her hand. The colors are as follows: ½d green, 1d orange and maroon, 6d olive and purple, 1sh bistre and blue and 2sh blue and brown. Mr. Carabott also adds that the remaining values of this set will be on sale within a few days. All are script watermarked with the first three values reading downwards and are in sheets of 160, while the other two values are printed in sheets of 80.

MAURITIUS.—The Economist Stamp Co. send us the 2c brown, 4c olive green and rose, and the 12c gray on script watermarked paper.

NEW ZEALAND.—Several correspondents having drawn the attention of the Australian Stamp Journal to minor defects in the ½d Victory stamps surcharged 2d (some with a hollow stop), our Sydney contemporary is of the opinion that these varieties are all due to defective reproductions from the master die, "for if all the reproductions were the same as the original setting, then there would be no defective prints at all." These remarks apply to all stamps printed by the electrotype process. Copies of the ½d provisional are no longer obtainable at the Dominion offices.—Stamp Collecting.

POLAND.—Mr. J. L. Riedel advises that a new set of stamps has been issued for use in Upper Silesia with values in German currency. Mr. Riedel writes that this territory, just handed over to Poland, will for the next ten years use German Reichsmark only. The low values of the set are in designs similar to A10 and A11, the values being as follows: 5f blue, 10f purple, 20f red, 40f brown, 50f terra, 75f blue green. The higher values are all of one design and in the centre picture a workman with pick over his right shoulder. The figures of value are in the upper corners and "Marki" between in small type. At the base the words "Poczta Polska." Values and colors are 1mk dark grey, 1.25mk green, 2mk red, 3mk bright green, 4mk bright blue and 5mk brown.

RUSSIA.—The Economist Stamp Co. submit to us for chronicle a set of seven stamps which they have noted as the Odessa issue. The stamps are of rather unusual designs and of the following values and colors: 250r red, 500r blue, 750r orange, 1,000r steel grey, 2,500r purple, 5,000r brown and 10,000r dark green.

SALVADOR.—The Economist Stamp Co. send us copies of several new issues of this country: 1c green, portrait of Francisco Menendez; 5c orange, triangular in shape; 6c red, view of an historical event, oblong shape; 10c blue; 60c purple, picture of the Independence Monument; 1col brown, with likeness of Cristobal Colon.

SEYCHELLES.—The following new colors may be expected shortly, supplies having already been printed:—3c black, 6c "blue-purple," 12c red, 15c yellow, 4c green, 20c blue. The stamps will appear on white Script CA paper.—Stamp Collecting.

SPANISH COLONIES.—We quote The Times:—"Pictorial designs are about to be introduced for the Spanish Colonies in place of the present unsatisfactory types, with which the King of Spain has expressed his dissatisfaction. The future stamps of Spanish Guinea will depict a characteristic coast scene, with a canoe in the foreground, with a native in the prow and another at the stern, about to put off from the shore. At the side of the vignette, enclosed in a different frame for each value, is a tall plane tree. The stamps for the settlements in Morocco will show a typical Moorish archway."—Stamp Collecting.

WURTEMBERG.—Mr. J. L. Riedel calls our attention to the official stamps of the 2 and 3 mark values which are now being printed in slate blue and brown, respectively. These are in the Municipal Service type of 1895 and are watermarked Crosses and Circles, perf. 11½x11.

TRY YOUR LUCK.

NEW YORK, Aug. 18. Among the suggestions received by the postoffice department for designs on the new stamps are many that likenesses of Babe Ruth and Charley Chaplin decorate them.

These suggestions are being considered, of course, but thus far Theodore Roosevelt and Abraham Lincoln are running far ahead of the baseball and movie stars.

Several think a stamp depicting a flivver with an eagle on the radiator would be just the proper thing. One genius suggests printing triangular stamps, perforated down the center, with a "two" on one side and a "one" on the other, so that the purchaser would be provided with a three-cent stamp, a one and a two to be used at his option. —Detroit Free Press.

NEW STAMPS FOR OLD.

(The following clipping from the New York "Evening Post" sent us by Philip S. Cohen treats very humorously the new stamp situation which confronts us. The "Post's" editorial certainly indicates a wide range of subjects from which selections may be made. No doubt some of our readers may wonder why a stymie putt is not made a subject for consideration.—W. O. W.)

Since the monopoly which Washington and Franklin for long have exercised over the imagination of the Post Office Department and the Bureau of Engraving and Printing is at last to be broken by the issuance of a new series of stamps, the Government should be open to suggestions. First, of course, enthusiasts will put forward names of additional candidates for philatelic fame, and America is rich in worthies who deserve well enough of their country to merit such tribute.

But is putting a statesman's face upon a postage stamp quite fair to the deceased? Some statesmen are not naturally handsome and others dote on whiskers. No small engraved resemblance can do justice to whiskers. That eliminates Benjamin Harrison, Hayes, and Garfield, to say nothing of Chester A. Arthur. Even the common or garden mustache is a liability on a postage stamp, although the late King Humbert's moustachios were of such piratical prominence that they made the man a picture. Then we are bound to remember what happens to a postage stamp directly it comes into use. It is promptly cancelled; the rubber stamp has its way with the immortal features of our illustrious dead, and the result is something which thereafter interests nobody but the stamp collector.

Perhaps the handsomest stamps the Government ever has circulated have been those prepared in connection with the World's Fair, the Panama Exposition, and other celebratory events. It would be easy to design a series of stamps setting forth American history in miniature—the landing of Columbus, Washington crossing the Delaware, Lee and Grant at Appomattox, the Battle of Lake Erie, and other historical incidents which lend themselves to decorative treatment. It would be easy to overdo the thing by including Pocahontas in the act of saving Captain John Smith or the Native Sons of the Golden West chasing the Heathen Chinee across Frisco Sand Lots. Discretion would be necessary.

An alternative scheme includes the reproduction of State seals. Every State has a seal which none of its citizens recognize. Some of them are beautiful, and all possess hidden symbolic meanings which it would be well for us to know. Most of them contain also Latin words and phrases, so that this idea is certain to have the backing of Leagues for Classical Culture the world over.

America's scenic beauties offer another entrancing range of subjects. N agara Falls, the Grand Canyon o Colorado, Pike's Peak, Yosemite the giant Sequoias—these surely find favor in the public eye. would have to be exercised, howev keep down the demands of Chambe Commerce for recognition of their by peaks and glens. Adams (M would lobby for Greylock, Los A for Old Baldy, Kansas City for Drive. Perhaps the dangers are great. Better let the sleeping lio sectionalism sleep on undisturbed.

One alluring suggestion is that new stamps contain likenesses of A ica's native wild animals. Any one has a nickel to his name may ob that the bison is a highly deco beast. The Bighorn sheep and Rocky Mountain goat are also crea of distinction, while moose, elk, and have long appealed alike to lith phers and lodges. Chicago might ins the polecat, which bestowed its nam on the metropolis of the West, but this is not discouraging. Polecats beautiful—on paper.

Putting human heads on po stamps is a custom running back t days when illiterates confounded state and the ruler. The ruler's protected the mails. Now the Go ment protects them with marines soldiers, so we might as well make stamps serve the purposes of art education.

IMMORAL STAMPS.

Issue Withdrawn for the Sake of cency.

The designs of the postage stamp French Indo-China are about to und a change—in the interests of p morals. It is stated that the m who posed for the types of native wo delineated thereon are notorious wo of the under-world of Hanoi.

The present designs were origi introduced in 1907, and represent n women from the four provinces of nam, Cambodia, Tonking and I China itself.

A notice published in a recent ber of the Journal Officiel invites submission by artists of designs su for three types of postage stamps bolising the agriculture, commerce dustry, scenery, or customs of division of the colony. The compet closed on July 1st.—Hong Kong F

KNOCKIN' AROUND THE WORLD.

By FRANKLIN H. CHASE.

(This interesting article appeared recently in the Syracuse, N. Y., "Journal." It is so interesting as a travel talk that we give it space in the WEEKLY. Mr. Chase has the happy faculty of writing in an interesting, happy vein. The article will no doubt prove as readable to our subscribers as it was to the writer of this note.—W. O. W.)

One of the most beautiful spots on earth is the Austrian Tyrol, and the little berg of Bucks in the mountains is so picturesque that even when you stand and gaze upon the snowcapped peaks you feel as if it couldn't be so real, that it must be a picture some artist has dreamed. Yet, as you look out upon this wonderful landscape it grows tiresome to you, something in you makes you feel as if you would like to punch a head, and the worst that is in you comes out—for that is the place where the Austrian officers go through your baggage to see if you have bought anything upon which they can collect duty, hold up your passport and make you show all the money you have in your pockets. * * *

For nosey officials I recommend those at Bucks, and I speak feelingly after experiences in 30 or more countries. I don't know yet just what they were looking for, as no ordinary amount of Austrian money that would come to any more than 34 cents could be taken out in anything but a hold-all. I showed them 300 francs and they couldn't believe we were going to live long in Paris on that, and so I added a check drawn on Paris. I knew from the way the official looked at it that he didn't know any more about it than he did the paper of the man before me, over which there was a consultation as to whether or not it was Bolshevist literature. After allowing them to hold a conference of the whole office on it, the owner told them it was an advertisement of the Passion Play at Oberammergau.

I've said all along that the trouble with Europe was that it had too many line fences, and after you have unpacked and packed your luggage five times in a day in crossing these line fences, you feel as if the additional cutting up of Europe by the peace conference was an imposition.

Europe today is like a jig-saw puzzle map. It costs every American $10 to get from one pocket-handkerchief country to the other, and all trains wait two hours at each fence while they search you and your luggage. "What time do we get to the border?" I asked the conductor when we were crossing Switzerland. He said it would be 9 p. m. I asked him what would happen if I should go to bed at 8 o'clock. "Well, they would have to come in here and search you," was the reply. "Here's where I make them come to me instead of going to them—make up my bed." And I went to bed and lay there reading when a tap came on the door of the compartment. They had come to me. The officer took one look, asked two questions and disappeared. All the other passengers had to have their luggage toted out, go through the examinations and have it carried back. This "sick" man had found a way to beat the customs and passports at night, anyway.

It seems to make all the officials of middle Europe feel badly if anybody gets away with any of their old money unspent.

Germany, and especially Bavaria, are the worst. Under the German laws no traveler is allowed to leave the country with more than 3,000 marks if the journey originated in Germany. The exchange is such that that doesn't leave him enough money to get to Paris, but then, you cannot tell any German how hard it is to get to Paris. * * *

Should a traveler enter Germany with more than 3,000 marks, and then leave it, he is forced to surrender at the frontier any excess over that amount. A receipt will be given for the amount surrendered, and, should he return to Germany and present that receipt at the same customs place on the frontier where it was originally issued, he will be given the refund. But should he enter at some other place, it is improbable that he will be given a refund of the amount, and be forced to take in German marks the amount surrendered at the rate of exchange of that day. This is what the United States consuls will all tell you, for they are issuing warnings of all the cute little embarrassments for the travelers who care for Germany. * * *

Then the consuls will also tell you that if you happen to have gold money it can only be regained by appeal to the ministry of finance and great inconvenience. * * *

"What if I took in other kinds of money besides German marks?" I asked the consul at Venice. "We are advising everybody to make a declaration on going into Germany of all their gold, paper and checks, and take a certificate; then I think they will be allowed to take out all they brought in, except that which was spent, and in exactly the same form in which it was taken in, and not to exchange it." * * *

So the only man who won't feel lonesome in getting in or out of Germany is the man who has just been through the business of making out his income tax report.

The man who said that the "love of money was the root of all evil," didn't know how debased that love could be, and that getting 8,100 kronen for a dollar is an awful test on that love. You know, so many admit the truth of this old saying, and then add that just the same they would like a lot of the "root." Why, they can get enough of the "root" here in Austria with which to paper the entire nursery for four dollars.

Let me tell you a few things that dollars swapped into kronen will do in Austria. The wise man will buy his railroad tickets to the first city across the line in Austria, change his money into kronen and then buy his tickets onward. F'rinstance, in Austria we got two breakfasts in the dining car, paid for in kronen, and they came to 32 cents for both; then lunch, that came to 67 cents for both lunches and included something that gives cellars reputations in the U. S. A. Then the train crossed the line into Switzerland, and we had to pay for meals in Swiss francs. Mind you, the same dining car, the same service and the same menu, and the check was $3 for two meals. That's a concrete instance of how the kronen works. Can you beat it?

If you are looking for an economical place to live in these days of high prices and profiteering, try Budapest. You can get a fine room in a first class hotel, a meal service that reminds of a French chef's most artistic efforts and the total bill is less than one dollar a day. You see, down in Jugo-Slavia they haven't got the fever of high prices yet.

Of course, when you hear from a friend of a man renting a beautiful house all furnished, with a lovely garden, in the suburbs of Vienna, for $10 a month, that makes you think that the $1.25 a day you spend for a great double room in a down-town hotel isn't so much of a bargain, after all, but the thing to do is to compare the price of that room with one of the same class in a Syracuse hotel. You can get menus of French cooking, the finest ever, with service that ranks with the best in the world, a bottle of wine included, in dining rooms that are simply asparkle with gayety and lights, in Vienna hotels, for the price that you would pay in some Syracuse hotels for a single item on the menu—yes, three meals a day for $1.50. Your check for a day's board will be 12,000 kronen, but you can buy that many kronen for $1.50. I only mention these things to show you the conditions in Vienna at the present moment. They are more eloquent than general statements.

And, when we left, after 10 days of wonderful top-notch living, I scattered 50,000 kronen in tips and they were so tickled that the whole staff lined up to give us a farewell and to urge us to come again, while the management presented the partner of my travels with flowers. Yet 50,000 kronen was only $6.25. You can be a millionaire in Austria on a beer income.

COMMENT FROM CHINA.

Nothing you have recently published has given more pleasure than Mr. Hart's tales of his wanderings. Permit me then in no spirit of criticism to supplement his information at one or two points.

1. The main Japanese post office at Tientsin ("I. J. P. O.") is located on Asahi Road, the main street of their concession. There are two exceptionally accommodating stamp clerks there. The I. J. P. O. there as here is on a scale comparable with the head office of the Chinese Post office—fine buildings, good location and big staffs. Compared with its obvious importance all the other foreign posts are paled into significance. It is a very common thing by the way to receive matter handled through the I. J. P. O. entirely within China franked with ordinary Japanese stamps.

2. There is no Italian post office in Tientsin. I think it must have been abandoned in 1919, because late in that year I made consistent search for the office and could not locate it. I understand that the two Italian offices were established to facilitate the handling of mail originating in an internment camp. The stamps while not priced high seem to be very scarce here. "Shanghai" and value surcharges also exist in very small numbers, but these were entirely unnecessary, produced for a short-lived (one mail, perhaps?) experimental service.—E. G. YOUNG.

THREE GENERATIONS OF KINGS.

The name of C. Whitfield King is well known in philatelic circles. Located at Ipswich, England, Mr. King has built up a stamp business of great magnitude, in which he has been assisted by his son Charles Whitfield King Jr. The above picture shows three generations, Charles Whitfield King, the founder of the firm, born in 1855, Charles Whitfield King Jr. 1887, and James Charles Whitfield King, 1921. The photograph was received by the Managing Editor, inscribed:—"With the compliments of three generations of Whitfield Kings." A great number of dealers and collectors will join with us in congratulations.

H. F. COLMAN SECOND NATIONAL BANK BLDG., WASHINGTON, D. C.

PHILATELIC NOTES FROM FRANCE.

By LOWELL J. RAGATZ.

Collectors' buttons, and the like, always seemed more or less of an absurdity to me and I used to consign such circulars as I received advertising either the Stanley Gibbons emblem or our own Poole-Wylie pin, to the wastebasket with a scornful smile. Yet one of these very signs of philately brought about a shipboard acquaintance which helped nicely to pass the long hours between New York and Plymouth, England.

It was the second day at sea when I chanced to notice on the watchchain of a gentleman some deck-chairs away, a triangular Cape, done in gold. I recognized it at once as the charm sold by Gibbons of London, and hastened over to meet a fellow-collector. The bearer of the Cape emblem was Percival Gregory of London, returning home from a two-month's business trip through the United States and Canada in the interests of his woolen products house, situated in Manchester. He is an ardent collector of Victorian issues, with a strong leaning toward the imperforate issues. He had visited our principal dealers and had three pocket stock-books crammed full of good things. Among them were 193 copies of early Tasmanian stamps including many pairs, a few strips and a block. These had all been purchased from the stock of one of our new Western dealers.

Some of Mr. Gregory's comments regarding a comparison between American and British stamp shops will be of interest to WEEKLY readers. He said that in England the stamp shops are for the greater part ground floor establishments, with handsome display fronts. In contrast to this, American dealers are generally sky-scraper denizens, with all too often nothing more than a tiny card at the ground-floor entrance, and if there is any display, it is generally of the cheapest kind of stamps possible, "as though the proprietor was afraid that someone would break into his little frame that very night, and wanted to be sure that nothing of value would be secured." He was much impressed by the Scott Company's uptown store and compared Vahan Mozian's and the John M. Bartel Company's offices and stocks very favorably with those of leading British houses.

Mr. Gregory was no more familiar with the WEEKLY than most American collectors are with the British journals, but after having read the several copies I had with me, declared it to be "Some paper, bah Jove." The dictionary interested him particularly, and he said he would order one through Mr. Vallencey, who handles the WEEKLY publications for the British Isles.

Speaking of meeting a fellow-collector on shipboard through the medium of a collector's emblem reminds me of a somewhat similar occurrence in Philadelphia last winter. I was riding down town on a street car to join a theater party and was reading a copy of the WEEKLY when a neighbor in the car asked me if the Philadelphia Stamp Club was having a meeting that night. Mutual self-introductions followed. The inquirer proved to be Mr. P. W. Fuller of Baltimore, who like myself is a collector of United States proofs and essays. Mr. Fuller purchased the proof and essays portion of the Worthington collection practically en bloc at the Morgenthau sale covering them. He has what is now perhaps the finest collection of such pieces in America.

I have been in Paris for little longer than time enough to arrange for a home next winter. I did, however, make a short call on an old and valued correspondent, M. Jean Charlot, whose home was not far from my hotel. He has a splendid collection of early United States stamps, which have been his interest for years. He asked me if I knew the present whereabouts of a strip of 10 across the entire sheet 5-cent or 10-cent 1847, he had forgotten which, on entire cover sent from New York to Washington or vice versa and once offered by Mr Rothfuchs of Boston whom many collectors will remember as a dealer of a generation ago and the handler of a large lot of Hawaiian issues. I was unable to give M. Charlot this information. I have never seen the cover in question, but have a vague recollection of having seen a photograph of it, sent to me by the late H. Wesley Legg at least ten years ago. Who knows anything about this cover? It must be in one of the famous American collections.

I was in Avignon two weeks ago and called on a collector there who had at one time sent me a strange order. It was for a complete set of U. S. A., 1902 issue stamps, 1-cent to $5, used on one cover. It was accompanied with a proper remittance—20% over face—so I had made up the cover and had given an obliging clerk a couple of cigars to cancel the stamps nicely, after which the envelope was sent to its owner enclosed in another one. I had always wondered why such a cover had been wanted. The visit answered my question. The collection I saw is a truly unique one, scores upon scores of twentieth century sets each used upon cover, or to be exact, each set cancelled to order on cover, for I did not see one that seemed to have done actual postal service. The only explanation I could get out of the owner was that getting stamps in this way, he was certain that they were genuine! Of course, there could be no question about it. Had they not been "used"?

The European stamp papers have been following the Los Angeles suit with great interest. A number of stamp people have asked me what I knew about the case. I could tell them only what I had read in our papers. The impression seems to be about that Mr. Galvez the Spanish dealer was called to America to testify in the case. I explained that I thought he was merely called to the stand as an expert who happened to be available, as was the case with Mr. Phillips of Stanley Gibbons of London.

There has been some speculation in the French papers as to what is going to happen to the Principality of Monaco since the death of Prince Albert. I have seen two articles which urge annexation. Monaco is after all, an anachronism in these days of national states, a remnant of feudal days with their petty territories. As it is, however, Monaco is so closely bound to France by treaty agreements of one kind and another that it is a principality in little more than name.

There has been annexation talk many times in the past. It is inevitable that this step be taken sooner or later, but in view of the present European situation, it is highly improbable that the matter will be decisively settled now. It is generally expected that the present arrangement will continue. This will mean a coronation in the near future, and a coronation surcharge issue and another new permanent one are being looked for early in the fall.

I understand that Mr. Ross Shaughnassy, the San Francisco dealer was in Paris lately, attending one of the Ferrari sales as agent for a group of western collectors. I have also heard that Mr. J. Saulnier of the Fordham Stamp Exchange has been in Europe lately, combining business with pleasure.

LUXEMBURG EXHIBITION.

Under the patronage of the Prince Consort Felix de Bourbon-Parme, an International Philatelic Exhibition and Congress was held in the Municipal Palace of the City of Luxembourg from August 27 to 31, under the auspices of the Union des Timbrophiles de Luxembourg. By permission of the postal authorities, souvenir stamps were issued in a design resembling that of the current 5 francs postage stamp, showing a view of the Grand Bridge over the Alzette. Many English philatelists visited the exhibition.—London Times.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—Henry A. Kiehl submits for our inspection three specimens of the 2c green Canada in gray, yellow and dark green shades. The shades are quite distinctive and well described. He also submits the 1c orange perf. 8 vertically, 2c green perf. 8 vertically, and 4c bistre perf. 12.

—The Fennell Stamp Co., Fullerton Bdg., St. Louis, Mo., would like the present address of Frank P. Hart, formerly 1290 Washington St., Canton, Mass.

—Robert Hubach Jr. sends a specimen of a new cancellation from Norfolk, Va. It reads, "Third Anniversary Greater Norfolk Fair, Sept. 4-9, 1922".

—Any club desiring a nice lot of American and British stamp papers can secure them by addressing A. F. Gamber, Fargo, No. Dak. Transportation charges must be borne.

—F. A. Goldsmith has shown us a new postal cancellation from Mitchell, S. D. It reads:—"Corn Palace Exposition, Sept. 25-30, 1922".

—Dr. W. L. Babcock of Detroit is on a trip across the water. We have heard from him from London and have no doubt he will have a fine lot of treasures with him upon his return to the U. S. Dr. Babcock is without doubt duplicating the successful trip of two years ago.

—A longtime subscriber, Hans Ueberall of Chemnitz, Germany, sends us a card of greeting from the 19th German Collectors Day held at Leipzig in August. The card bears a distinctive philatelic postmark.

—P. W. IRELAND—"China" has not been completed as yet. It will be reprinted ultimately.

—I find carbon tetrachloride much more satisfactory than benzine for watermarking stamps, for it dries quicker and is not inflammable as benzine is. It will not affect the gum of a stamp. The odor is the only objection, but one soon becomes accustomed to it.—FERDINAND T. E. KOPECKY.

—Geo. J. Gissible, 43 Faass Ave., Utica, N. Y., can get no returns from Prentice Crosby, Springville, N. Y. If interested, write Mr. Gissible.

—Cuero, Texas, is on the map with a "picture ad" cancellation, something quite different than has ever been used before. It is an American Type (flag) design reading "Cuero, Texas, Nov. 9, 10, 11, 1922." in one line and below a drawing of a turkey making fast speed toward the West. The turkey is fully an inch and a half long. August 26th is the earliest date we have seen.

—"I have just completed a check list of all U. S. and Canada advertising marks, and this will be published in the Collectors' Digest for Sept."—A. H. PIKE.

—Attention of collectors should be called to the fact that one L. S. Propper, Rakoczi Ut. 11 IV-6, Budapest, Hungary, writes that he would like to enter into the exchange of postage stamps. Upon receipt of a selection, he reciprocates with stamps of the "Banat Issue" of Hungary (which are very desirable) and if genuine, would catalog slightly more than those sent him. Those that I have received have been pronounced as bearing forged overprints. The opinion was made by Mr. Eugene Klein, International Secretary and Counterfeit Detector of the American Philatelic Society.—H. E. ROBERTSON.

POSTAGE STAMP PICTURES.

Now that the postal department at Washington has decided to change the portraits on some of its stamps between the denominations of one cent and five dollars, forcing George Washington and Benjamin Franklin to share that honor with others to be selected from American history, why should not one aid in such selection, in these glorious times of republicanism and kindred accompanying blessings?

Would not Volstead's physiognomy be entirely proper for the five-cent, fifteen-cent and twenty-five cent stamps, commemorating what he did to the one-time fairly general circulation of the nickel in exchange for a schooner and to the fifteen-cent or two-for-a-quarter barter for harder wares?

What about Will Hays, the best press agent the postoffice department ever had, for the thirty-five-cent stamps significant of admission to the standard motion picture establishments he now is busily purifying and promoting?

Attorney General Daugherty's classic countenance would look good, some suggest, on the thirty-cent variety, while President Harding, on a pachyderm rampant, embossed with high tariff tacks, should make a dandy seventy-five-cent stamp, this being the standard caddy hire for eighteen holes, we are informed.

What say you?—Omaha World-Herald.

SPECIAL COLLECTIONS
Through our connections abroad, we often obtain many excellent collections of Europe, British Colonies, South America, etc., etc. As we are wholesale dealers exclusively and have neither the time to break these up, nor the market in which to sell single stamps, they are generally offered to our customers intact at a small percentage over cost price. These collections contain only choice items, sometimes rarities, and range in price from $100 to $5000. We sell them at rates low enough to interest both dealer and collector. Interested parties are requested to write immediately. [tf

ALTERATIONS IN THE SCHEME OF EXHIBITION COMPETITION.

We have received from Fred J. Melville a letter from which we quote the following:—

"I am sending you herewith some important revisions, they are extentions rather than alterations in the Scheme of Competitions for the London International Stamp Exhibition. They are designed to give added prominence to the groups in which American collectors are interested, and I should be glad if you will bring them to the notice of your numerous readers at your earliest opportunity.

They will be incorporated in the full General Prospectus of the Exhibition, which is now in the press, and which can be had free on application to the Exhibition Office at 44 Fleet St., London." The extentions are as follows:—

INSURANCE OF STAMP COLLECTIONS.

By Rev. J. B. DUDEK.

I have noted, in recent issues of the WEEKLY, brief discussions concerning the insuring of stamp collections, and believe that the observation I am about to make on the subject may be worthy of space in your columns.

I had taken the question up with various agents in this country, but found no Insurance Company willing to take the risk. Stamp collectors, more experienced than myself, and dealers to whom I addressed myself likewise knew of no American insurance concern that would take the risk, but these suggested Lloyd's of London, who, as one or two told me, will "insure anything, anywhere". Consequently, I addressed a letter simply: "Lloyd's, London, Eng.," stating my requirements, and, very promptly, received a very courteous reply from one of their brokers, Messrs. Price, Forbes & Co., of 3, Lothbury, London, E. C. They state that "any enquiries, etc., in connection with insurance to be placed at Lloyd's can only be dealt with by a recognized firm of Lloyd's brokers, such as ourselves."

The Policy issued is, in my opinion, an excellent one for the purpose, and I give some of the printed portions of the text:

"LLOYD'S BURGLARY THEFT & FIRE POLICY..... Be it known that..... paid..... Premium or Consideration to Us, who have hereunto subscribed our names to Insure from Loss or Damage by Burglary, Housebreaking, Theft and/or Larceny, with or without violence, or by Fire, Explosion of Boiler, Gas Explosion and/or Lightning, whether Fire ensue or not, the property herein specified at the premises herein mentioned.

Property Insured.

Provided always that there shall be no claim on this policy when the whole loss by theft or robbery on any one occasion does not amount to £5, or for loss by theft, robbery or misappropriation by members of the Assured's household, business staff, or other inmates of the insured premises.

This Policy is subject to the Condition of Average, that is to say, if the property covered by this Insurance shall at the time of any loss be of greater value than the sum insured hereby, the Assured shall only be entitled to recover hereunder such proportion of the said loss as the sum insured by this Policy bears to the total value of the said property.

From the.....day of.....

To the.....day of.....

No claim to attach to this Policy for loss or damage resulting from War, Insurrection, Riots, Civil Commotion, or Military or Usurped Power.

This Policy does not cover fire or other damage occasioned by explosion, except by Explosion of Boilers used for domestic purposes or of Illuminating Gas.

If the Assured shall make any claim knowing the same to be false or fraudulent, as regards amount or otherwise, this Policy shall become void, and all claim thereunder shall be forfeited.

The Assured, in case of Loss or Damage, shall, as a condition precedent to his right to be indemnified in respect thereof, give to the Underwriters such information and evidence as to the Property Lost or Damaged, and the circumstances of the Loss or Damage, as the Underwriters may reasonably require and as may be in the Assured's power.

A statutory declaration by the Assured with regard to any Loss or Damage by Burglary, Housebreaking, Theft and/or Larceny, that he believes it to fall within the meaning of this Insurance, and further, that he has no reason to suspect or believe that it has been caused by any excepted risk, or is in any respect a Loss or Damage from which the Underwriters are by this Policy declared free of claim, shall be prima facie evidence that the Loss or Damage is not of a character excluded by the terms of this policy.

Now know Ye, that We, the Insurers, do hereby bind Ourselves, each for his own Part and not one for Another, our Heirs, Executors, and Administrators, to pay or make good to the said..... .....Executors, Administrators and Assigns, all such Losses, not exceeding the sum of.....in all as he or they may from time to time sustain by any such Theft or Robbery or Fire as aforesaid during the said period, within Seven Days after such Loss is proved, and that in proportion to the several Sums by each of us subscribed against our respective names.

In witness whereof, we, etc."

The policy can be made to include Tornado loss.

The brokers also write that "Underwriters would probably be prepared to issue the Policy in U. S. Currency, the premium, however, being payable in sterling converted at the rate of exchange ruling on the day the insurance is put forward, as per Special Currency Clause attached". I have taken out my policy in American Dollars. The premium is one percent (1%) of the sum insured, plus a stamp duty amounting to one percent of the premium; or, approximately, $10.10 per $1,000.00. The Policy quoted is known as Commercial Form E. The term of the policy is twelve months.

It seems that no fuller description of the Property insured is required than "Collection of Postage Stamps, $....., whilst anywhere in the U. S. A., Basis of Value to be as per.....Catalogue."

Anent the "Average Clause," I have this to say: when I first began negotiations for the insurance, I applied for a larger amount than I eventually took out. The Brokers wrote me: "We note the proposed reduction in the sum to be insured on the Collection, but would point out to you that in order to obtain full settlement of any losses it is necessary for you to insure the Collection for its full value, since otherwise the Average Clause, as detailed in the Form E may operate to your disadvantage." In my case the proposed reduction was due to disposal of part of the collection, but it might be well to bear in mind that collections should, apparently, be insured for full catalogue value. I based the value of my collection on Scott's Catalogue, and prepared a very carefully made inventory dated at the time the insurance was finally applied for. It is not necessary to submit an inventory of the collection to the Brokers. I simply made it for my own use and information.

In conclusion, the following paragraph from the first letter the Brokers wrote me is of interest: "Before we are able to do business with a new Client it is a rule that we complete certain records and in order to enable us to do this we shall be much obliged if you will supply us with the names of two references which we may take up." It might, therefore, be well for anyone making enquiries to supply two references forthwith, and thus save delay in obtaining the insurance. Owing to my ignorance of these details, nearly half a year elapsed between the time of my first enquiry of Lloyd's and the issuance of the policy, and I mention these matters in the hope that other collectors who may wish to insure their collection will be spared the delay.

I may add that my only purpose in submitting this information is that there are undoubtedly many collectors like myself who do not care to keep their collection in a safety-deposit vault and would still like to be protected against loss. You are, therefore, at liberty to use as much or as little of this letter as you please.

EDITORIAL.

Plates—Somewhat belated acknowledgment is made of the receipt of five plates from A. Leon Adutt, F. R. P. S. L., President of the Thanet Philatelic Society, Margate, England, which are photographs of some of the Confederate envelopes that Mr. Adutt obtained at the Ferrari sale in Paris. Incidentally, we are indebted to this gentleman for his generosity in sharing with the philatelic press particulars of his find of information regarding the 1875 issue of U. S. Newspaper stamps of 1875. Mr. Adutt obtained with the letter of Third Assistant Postmaster General E. W. Barber to Col. T. B. Thorpe of New York City, in which he says that "according to promise I send you the first proofs of the newspaper and periodicals stamps," the very proofs referred to. The plates of Confederate envelopes that Mr. Adutt has sent are interesting and many accepted varieties of the envelopes are shown on them. However, there are other envelopes pictured that are questionable as full-fledged provisionals and there are a few covers that are not Confederates. The lot is interesting as a whole; and among the envelopes we find a copy of our old friend, the "half dime" impression in blue of Eutaw, Ala., used in the "40's" according to our friend, Mr. Frank Bescher who found the covers and, happily, presented one to us. A striking mistake is made in assigning a Cleveland, O., cover, sent in 1847 to Pennsylvania, and impressed with the boxed "V" of that time, to Cleveland, "Oregon." Some of the covers frankly are only examples of early postal usage but all in all, the lot is a most unusual one. In a cover sent from Christiansburg, Va., to Lynchburg, Va., was the interesting letter: "Capt S. McCorkle, Dear Sir: I am requested by many of our Citizens to ask you to give us every information that you may receive from Manassas—in the event of a battle or of anything of importance occurring there. We are deeply interested for few of us have not brothers or relatives at that place. Please give especially details of everything occurring to Col. James Preston's Regiment. My wife has two brothers there, in the Liberty Hall Volunteers of which her brother James is Capt. Do not regard the length of any telegraphic message necessary to give us the particulars as we have a purse made up by our people for this purpose. Yr. Friend, D. Wade." The letter is dated July 21, 1861, the date of the first battle of Bull Run.

P'raps—Mr. George B. Newton, Jr., has something to say and not knowing exactly what to remark after reading his explanation, we shall observe sagely that Mr. Newton may be right: "Anent your remarks as to the size of the bricks in the house on our new 'special delivery,' I am not versed in the technicalities of achitecture but is it not possible that the house in question is intended to represent the Colonial type found in and about Philadelphia, which is built of gray stone blocks of about the size of those illustrated on the stamp, and not of bricks? Examples of the type I have in mind are frequent in Germantown, Philadelphia, the famous Chew House being a notable one."

Prompt—At the Springfield convention, it was announced that in each instance of the death of a member of the American Philatelic Society during the past year, the family or home of the decedent was communicated with and the offer of the society made to dispose of the stamps for the benefit of heirs, according to the restrictions adopted at the Milwaukee convention last year. Although the proffer was made, as has been said, in no case was it accepted but even so, it must have been received with satisfaction by those concerned. Speaking of post-mortem procedure, a stamp speculator called to extend his condolences to the widow of a collector and even though he had barely known the collector then resting in his coffin, only slightly, he mourned loudly. Just before leaving the home of sorrow, he whispered to the bereaved wife that he would be glad to buy the husband's stamps when she got home from the funeral. This reminds us of the stage joke of the widow who refused Jones upon her return from the funeral of the dear departed on the plea that Jenks had proposed at the grave.

Prison—Mr J. C. Rice tells us of an interesting prisoner of war letter that is in his possession; and sends a photostat of it. The cover was mailed by a southern prisoner in "Camp Chase" which was near Columbus, Ohio, to White Sulphur Springs, Virginia. On the lower left side of the envelope is endorsed: "Via. Fortress Monroe & Flag of Truce to Richmond, Va., or by Savannah, if that is the route." We do not recall ever having seen before, the "Examined, Camp Chase, O." postmark on a letter and we were under the impression that we had seen all the markings of the kind, extant. The three cent, 1861 stamp is in the upper right corner and is postmarked, Columbus, O., and the ten cent Confederate, 1863, in the upper left corner has the postmark of Savannah.

Placed—In sending an issue of the Dearborn Independent containing a full-page, illustrated article by Roland D. Johnson, "Financing a Nation With Its Postage Stamps—Shrewd Governments Tax Hobby—riders of Other Countries for Revenue," Mr. Clarence J. West says that even Henry Ford is advertising our specialty. What is an interesting concomitant of this article is the line, under the name of the writer of the article: Reproduction of the stamps on this page is for educational purposes." The notice is one that appeals to us and it certainly would have its effect in taking the curse off the involved question of stamp illustration. We wonder if this cautionary sentence was inspired or was the creation of the writer's or the editor's mind. Mr. Johnson's article follows its head-lines and the worthlessness of much of the Neurope stuff is cited, the contention being that the stamps represent so little actual value in this time of extreme deflation as to be almost negligible in a financial sense. This is all right or all wrong as you may care to argue but we may use the following sentence in the article as a text: "The rapid increase in the number of varieties of postage stamps throughout the world is likely to kill the goose that lays the golden egg of stamp revenues." It happens that we received some time ago, an attack on one of the large stamp firms for stringing out ad infinitum, ad nauseam, the piffling varieties of surcharge on the stamps of one of the new European countries in its house paper, as we remember the indignant measures of the critic. When this care is devoted to the issues that are true blue, the results are to be respected, but to exalt the modern emanations of a nation without principle is to compromise with crime, as it were. If philately could have been killed by the cudgelings of witless followers it would have been laid out long ago was the conclusion of our correspondent. Why will collectors lambast these poor stamps so mercilessly? Why don't they cut them off their list and let it go at that?

"GERMANIA" PASSING.

BERLIN, Aug. 30.—One of the last remaining symbols of the old regime in Germany will pass away with the withdrawal of all postage stamps of the familiar "Germania" type on October 31 next.

This striking design, first adopted in 1900, played a measurable part in fostering the militarist movement that brought disaster upon the fatherland.

The original of the mail-clad figure of Germania was Fraulein Anna Fuhring, of the Imperial Opera, whose portrayal of the role so impressed the former Kaiser, that he ordered her likeness to be placed upon the new postage stamps of the Empire.

Since the establishment of the republic numerous protests have been lodged against the continuance of this design, and now that the new industrial series of stamps have been completed, instructions for its suppression have been issued.

BRATTLEBORO AIR MAIL SERVICE.

By GEO. W. ANGERS.

"At an Aviation meet held at Brattleboro, Vt., August 18th, 1922, under the auspices of the Brattleboro Outing Club to celebrate the dedication of their aviation field, a special aero cancellation was used. Although unauthorized, the local postmaster issued instructions that mail would be carried on the date set for the dedication of the aviation field, and that letters so carried would bear a special cancellation.

It was arranged that the aviator would circle the field several times and finally drop the pouch in the vicinity of the post office where a special messenger would receive same and transfer it to the post office. A temporary substation was established on the field and at the appointed time, mail was received for the flight.

The meet had been a great success until late in the afternoon when a large Curtiss Oriole, carrying three passengers crashed to the ground after striking a tree and the high tension electric wires running along the bank of the Connecticut River Railroad. Although the pilot escaped with only minor injuries, two of the passengers were burned to death and the other died the following day as a result of the accident.

The accident caused such commotion that the airmail flight was forgotten and it was decided to forward mail already collected and cancelled, amounting to approximately 300 cards and letters through regular channels.

The special postmark created for the service was distributed over five horizontal lines, without border of any kind and reads: 'Aeroplane—Mail Service—Aviation Station—Brattleboro, Vt.—Aug 18 1922'."

That's the story of the "would be" air mail flight at Brattleboro, Vt.

FIRST PHILATELIC CANCELLATION.

By A. H. PIKE.

"News Gleanings" in the Aug. 26
e, Mr. Leve wants information about h western city using a philatelic can-tion. This was used in Tacoma,
Wash. in 1915 and read as follows:
First annual—Philatelic—Exhibition—
Tacoma Branch—W. S. P. S.—1915."
his was a rubber stamp ordered by h Washington State Philatelic Associaic and impressed to the left of the c age stamp and the above wording vi enclosed in a triangular frame. It
w applied privately with official sanc-io but it did not in any way touch the c age stamp. The stamps were canc d by a regulation oval design used or third class matter containing the wo ds "Tacoma" above and "Wash."
e w.

would require a far stretch of the r gination to call this a "philatelic can e tion". It was a good piece of ade sing and we do not wish to criticize h e who originated the idea or carried t rough. But Springfield, (Mass.) is u entitled to the distinction of using h first real philatelic cancellation and hi credit should be given to the A. P.
5. embers who secured the concession.

GROWTH OF NEWFOUNDLAND'S G. P. O.

By HARRY E. HUBER.

The enlargement of the present General Post Office at St. John's, suggests to one of the older inhabitants (writing in the Newfoundland Quarterly, July, 1922), the timeliness of some observations on the evolution of that institution.

"Three-quarters of a century ago a predecessor of the present Postmaster General, transacted, without subordinate help, all his official duties in a small house which stood on the north side of Water Street. It was swept away in the fire of '46, and the then Postmaster General made his temporary home and office in the house on Garrison Hill. When rebuilt that house was chosen as the General Post Office of that day, and it was the oldest city Post Office then in existence. It stood on Duckworth street, and was destroyed in the second great fire, in 1892.

"In the early days of the Victorian era, letters came and went very irregularly. The English Postmaster General made up a mail for this Colony whenever a vessel happened to leave Liverpool or London for this port, or sent one by any man-of-war coming here. In like manner letters were dispatched to England, each vessel receiving the sum of two pence for each letter conveyed. As there was a large force of the navy and military here, the number of letters handled would not be so small as some would probably imagine, but no statistics can be gotten. Then the foreign postage was one shilling sterling. It was not until forty-eight years ago that the price came down to 13 cents, later to 6, and last of all, in our time, to 3 cents. All this has greatly increased correspondence until now not less than 2 million letters and 3½ million papers and circulars are annually handled at the new Post Office. One person performed all the office work three-quarters of a century ago; now the staff at the main office numbers forty or fifty; including the Minister of Posts and Telegraphs, the Deputy Minister, and a score or more of other officials. not to mention those connected with branch offices in various parts of the city. In the olden time, Carbonear, Harbour Grace, and Bay Bulls were about the only outports having a Post Office, a few other places having Way Offices. Now there are hundreds of outport offices scattered all over the country.

"At the old Post Office on Duckworth Street, all letters were delivered from the window. Mercantile houses owned boxes, but there was no public access to them. No matter what the weather, everyone had to wait, and patiently, valiantly elbow their way through the surging crowd to get a chance of asking for their letters. Then probably came their keenest trial. Just as the letter would be appearing through the open window, they would suddenly feel themselves swept helplessly past, amid shouts of laughter, half way down to Gregory's Lane. All that, however, is now changed and for the better. In spite of political impediments, civilisation is advancing, and we, of course, are advancing with it. Only by contrasting the past with the present can we adequately estimate the progress we are making."

A GOOD THING TO HAVE A HOBBY.

Have you an object in life? If so, is it transitory or will it carry you through the years by providing a sustained interest in its achievement?

Hobbies frequently are derided. Sometimes, they should be. Sometimes, they are the saving grace of life for the individual, keeping him from getting into a rut and supplying an incentive that quickens ambition and prevents discouragement.

The ideal hobby is constructive. Is yours? It also provides diversion—a change from the commonplaces of everyday existence. It must be susceptible of accomplishment but never must be completed; for then the individual must find a new hobby—not infrequently, a difficult matter when one has passed the meridian of life and has grown "set in one's ways."

If you are the average American, whether man or woman, your great hobby is your family. You may not call it that; you may. This is an endeavor that always provides sustained interest.

Families, however, grow up. Babies become school children, school children develop into high school youths. A step further and the young lady and young gentleman are in college—and a year or two later, in homes of their own.

Your family should, of course, be your first hobby. But, is it wise to make it your sole hobby? Isn't it well to look forward a little and cultivate something that will supply sustained interest in later years—interest in addition to that supplied by loved grandchildren?

Nearly all of us in America also make business a hobby. This provides sustained interest. Many an aggressive leader in industry has an ambition to "die in harness"—to stick by the enterprise his work and brains have developed to the very last.

That's a commendable aspiration—but even in this instance and no matter how much the individual may be interested in his affairs, it's a good thing to have another hobby.

Sometimes, the captain of industry finds, when he turns his attention elsewhere, that he has lost a great deal of the joy of life—joy that could have been his without detracting in the least degree from his success in business.

All of us should have an object in life, whether we call it a hobby or dignify it by some other title.

We profit mentally when we are lifted out of the ordinary routine of existence; we profit physically if our hobby inclines toward the outdoor life.

Success in this age calls for concentration. The hobby must be only a hobby; it is something else if it interferes with that attention to essentials that is necessary to their satisfactory accomplishment.

But one can find a hobby that will not prove an obsession, and the man or the woman who has made this discovery need never fear tedium in active years or view the approach of age as a period in life when interest will be lacking and ambition dead.—Seattle Daily Times.

It Can't Be Done
I have been re ounting my entire stock and getting it in readiness for the fall season, the result is I have found hundreds of odds and ends 19th and 20th Cent. in quantities too few to use, hence I have made up a packet of 700 var., cat. about $50.00, the stamps cat. from 1c to 50c, maybe higher, and less than 40% is the so-called New Europe. I have just 10 of these packets and will sell them at $6.50 Postfree and registered.
You have never seen the likes of this packet, and what is more, you never will see the likes of it again. It would be impossible to duplicate the packet at wholesale for the price I ask for it. Think it over, 700 var. nearly 100 countries represented and the PRICE $6.50, less than 1c each. Money back if you are not satisfied.

ATLAS STAMP CO. (P. C. Smith) W. Somerville, 44, Mass.

San Antonio 2c on 1c on 3c on Amber.

Back in 1920 the postmaster at San Antonio was over-printing postals "1c" and when he started to over-print his envelopes he forgot that it was necessary to change his surcharging die. As a result, when he discovered the error he had a part of the day's work gone for nothing, as the 3c envelopes had been overprinted "1c" instead of "2c". They couldn't let them go out this way and still if they destroyed them who was going to pay Uncle Sam? Result—they were again run through and properly overprinted. The variety on white was first discovered and later I had a few on amber. They were soon gone and I had to refund. I have since obtained a few more of these real 2c on 1c on 3c errors. Scott's advance sheets list the amber at $5 and the white at $6. While mine last you can have them —and they are needed by the cut square collector as well as the entire—in fine entire unused condition as follows:—

Scott's No. 2704, Same on amber 3.50

If they were adhesives they would cost ten times as much.

NEW STAMPS FOR RUSSIA.

Postage stamps of original and artistic design are to be produced by the Russian Government next October to commemorate the fifth anniversary of the establishment of the Soviets. Arrangements for the issue have been placed in the hands of a special jubilee postage stamp commission, consisting of the principal expert of the public art galleries, a high official of the currency printing establishment, a postal commissioner, an artist, and a member of the Russian Philatelic Union. Designs are to be submitted in open competiton, the first prize being a milliard roubles, the second three hundred, and the third two hundred million roubles. Adjudication will be in the hands of a jury, composed of the following Russian artists—viz., Dabuschinski, Altmann, Tschechonin, Taworski, Sheltowski, and Iuon.—London Times.

The chronicle of United States is edited by PHILIP H. WARD, JR., Box 4216, Germantown, Phila., Pa. The foreign chronicle is edited by PERCY C. SMITH, 40 Packard Ave., West Somerville, Mass. Correspondents will please be careful to send their matter to the right address.

UNITED STATES.—From a priced copy of the catalogue of the third sale of the Ferrari Collection held in Paris on June 14, 15 and 16, 1922, kindly loaned me by Mr. Eugene Klein, I am able to post our readers as to the prices brought by items of interest to the United States specialist. In figuring out these values which I am giving in French francs it must be remembered that purchasers had to pay an extra 17½% as a tax to the French Government and at the time the franc was worth between eight and nine cents American gold.

In the way of general issues of United States stamps these sessions had little of interest. There was a fine lot of semi-official carriers and a wonderful lot of Confederate States including the postmaster local issues from Greensboro on. It will be recalled that the previous session stopped with the issues of Gonzales.

As for early regular issues most of the lots were large and were bunched, consequently it is impossible to give any idea of the prices brought by the individual items. Several of the 1847 issue were sold and judging from the illustrations they were in wonderful condition. There was a large lot of the 1869 issue and quite a few of the later varieties. A copy of the 5c 1851 mint described as beautiful, sold at 2,000 francs which is not high if the description is correct. Outside of this stamp I note no individual regular item worthy of notice.

In the way of carriers a mint defective Franklin brought 320 francs while a used copy sold at 660 frs. An unused block of six changed hands at 4,000 frs. There was a fine mint block of eight of the black Baltimore horseman, that is a sheet less two and this contained the "Sent" error, as well as the "short rays" although attention was not directed to the latter. This sold at 2,600 frs. A mint 2c black Boston sold at 900 frs., which is rather cheap if the stamp was good. Mentioning "if it was good" brings to mind the fact that an American expert who attended this session stated that many of the things sold were not genuine and as every lot is sold without recourse some of the low prices may be accounted for in this way. A 2c black on rose Honour's Post cut to shape used on cover with a 10c 1847 brought 1,250 frs., a wonderful cover with a Beckman Post, Scott's number 1836, used with a 3c 1857 and both neatly cancelled "Charleston, S. C.—June 18, 1860" sold at 9,000 frs. A New York 3c black on gray described as surcharged in violet at top in manuscript "United States" and unlisted by Scott changed hands at 3,800 francs.

In the way of Confederate Locals a 10c Greenwood on cover sold at 1,600 frs., while another not so fine brought 1,350 frs. A 5c Grove Hill on cover of which but two are known sold at 7,100 francs while an Independence 10c buff of which but one other has ever been found sold at 3,000 frs. The only pair of the Jetersville known, also on cover passed to a new owner at 6,200 frs., while an equally rare, unique copy of the 10c green Knoxville on letter found a new home at 6,200 frs. A Lenoir on cover was cheap at 400 frs., as it lists at $200. The finest U. S. item in the sale was the next piece, a pair of the 5c Livingston on cover with a very beautiful town cancellation dated "Nov. 12" and this came to our shores at the very reasonable figure of 22,000 frs. I will bet the purchaser will pay for his trip abroad out of this purchase alone.

A tête beche pair on cover of the Macon 5c black on yellow was taken home at 2,700 frs., while a single on cover only reached 700 francs. A similar pair on green was knocked down at 1,100 frs., while in the case of the 2c black on green the auctioneer said "here you are" at 4,600 frs. Several items bunched of which the Marion 10c on cover was the stellar item sold at 2,500 frs. A tête beche 5c Memphis on cover came back to its home country at 550 frs., while a very rare. Mt. Lebanon left Paris at 13,500 frs. A sheet of Nashville 3c showing the five types was given away at 600 frs. while a couple of used 10c green sold at 720 and 780 frs. I never saw the 5c red New Orleans but a fine unused copy is on the way over at 9,000 frs. A used one on blue went at 9,500 frs. The only New Smyrna 10c on 5c known and overprinted "01" as illustrated in Scott moved at 10,000 frs. A 5c blue Pleasant Shade sold at 1,300 frs., a Rheatown 5c red with others not listed by Scott and perhaps doubtful at 380 frs., while a St. Louis 2c black, no doubt made especially for the famous Farrari collection, sold at 750 frs., and was possibly bought by someone who does not care how he spends his or her money. An uncancelled Salem, Va., on cover of which but two are known sold at 3,100 frs., while a cover with the Spartanburg black on white came home at 1,600 frs. A couple of strips of the Tellico Plains containing two 5c and one 10c unused and listed by Mr. Scott at $750 for such a trio only brought 810 and 900 franc each which is between $80-$90 in good American money. Something tells me this is nearer their value unused for it seems that I have seen quite a few of these strips advertised from time to time. A 5c on the letter which is desirable sold at 300 frs.

A Uniontown 2c green on blue, uncancelled but on the cover sold at 9,500 frs., a 5c on blue on cover at 900 frs., a mint 5c on white at 380 frs. while two on two covers at 1,250 and 1,700 frs. each. A 10c red on blue on cover changed hands at 11,800 frs. while a mint 5c and 10c Victoria found a purchaser at 6,000 frs. There were some few of the general Confederate issues but nothing of especial importance.

While speaking of Confederates, the Scott Stamp & Coin Company recently

J. O. MOORE, INC., RHEIMS, N. Y.

The Economist Stamp Co. call attention to the 2k rose stamp of the 1911-12 set which has been surcharged "Pjonusta" in black for Official use. The 5k brown of the same series has been overprinted in the same manner.

JAPAN.—Mr. Boyd D. Lewis reports the appearance of a 6s in a brown shade. The type is the same as that of the 1913 issue.

KELANTAN.—Mr. R. Roberts submits for chronicle the 2c brown and 6c claret on script watermarked paper.

MALTA.—Mr Louis Carabott sends the following newspaper cutting, regarding the new issue of stamps from the pen of E. Caruana Dingli one of the designers:—

"In a recent issue of your contemporary, some rather adverse remarks were made about the new postage stamps. Being the author of the one bearing the allegorical figure of Malta symbolizing Self-Government, I may be permitted to state that when the samples were submitted to me I did not hesitate to express my dissatisfaction with the execution which in many respects did not tally artistically with the original. As a matter of fact, and with a view to correcting the existing defects I was asked to note my remarks and suggestions which were duly forwarded to the stamp-makers. I regret to say, however, that the result still falls short of my expectations and I cannot but endorse the remarks that the execution leaves much to be desired. My original was copied by hand and alterations were introduced resulting in a totally different effect from that originally intended. For instance, the flowing portion of the mantle behind the figure has been suppressed, the luminous sky meant to symbolize the dawn of a new era and at the same time to put the figure in semi-silhouette is short of the required intensity, the St. Elmo lighthouse looks like a beehive or the Musta dome by the seashore. If the original had been reproduced by photography and then engraved, the effect would have been more artistic and the personal technique would have been preserved."

PERU.—Mr. A. A. Wasserscheid submits for our inspection a cover with a copy of the 8c of the 1917-18 issue and also a half of the same value stamp bisected diagonally used as a 4c.

SALVADOR.—The Economist Stamp Co. advise us of the appearance of a 25c stamp in an olive shade with the portrait of Francisco Morazan in the centre. At the top are the words "Correos El Salvador" and beneath in a curved frame "Centro America". At the base "Veinticinco Centavos" with the figures of value at each side.

SOMALI COAST.—The Economist Stamp Co. advise of the following change of colors in the stamps of the current set: 10c light green and green and 30c rose and brown violet.

UNION OF SOUTH AFRICA.—Mr. R. Hamilton Jackson kindly sends us the appended extract from a Pretoria paper dated July 8th:—Pretoria, Friday.—A competition is gazetted to-day in connexion with a new series of postage stamps for the Union. The series may comprise twelve separate designs, one for each of the following denominations, viz.: ½d, 1d, 2d, 3d, 4d, 6d, 1s, 1s 3d, 2s 6d, 5s, 10s, and £1. A premium of £10 is offered for the design selected as being the best in the case of each of these postal values.—Stamp Collecting.

URUGUAY.—From our Special Correspondent, Mr. A. H. Davis, we hear that two new Postage Due stamps have just been issued in Uruguay, the design being the same as that of the 1913-14 issue but the format reduced, viz.:—2c rose-carmine, 4c dull violet. On September 23rd a commemorative series of stamps will be issued to celebrate the inauguration of the monument to Artigas. This set will consist of three values, viz. 2 centesimos carmine with the centre in sepia, 5 centesimos violet and sepia, and 12 centesimos blue and sepia. The quantities to be printed will be 100,000 of each value, will only circulate for a few days, and will have for design an equestrian statute of General Artigas and the inscription "Republica Oriental del Uruguay."—"Artigas." The stamps are being printed by Waterlow & Sons, of London.—Stamp Collecting.

Advertising Chat

—Joseph Y. K. Wells, manager of the Home of the Postage Stamp, advises us of a change of address to 510 W. 113 St., N. Y. City. It will be effective October 1. Mr. Wells writes:—"Customers will be cared for as efficiently as possible. Once the move is made we shall be in a better situation than ever before to serve our rapidly growing clientele."

—Mr. Wells writes us another word that makes pleasant reading. There is little wonder that we dwell upon it. Again we quote, "This summer we have carefully separated the returns from your paper from returns from three other mediums, and find that we have received more orders in the aggregate from MEKEEL'S and more orders per dollar spent on advertising. We shall continue to test the advertising during the winter months and shall be glad to report results."

—If you have not yet opened up your fall advertising, now is the time to begin. Our famous three-in-one contract is the finest offer that we can make you unless you want a large block of space of 3000 to 5000 lines. We have some six firms that are using contracts for 5000 lines, the rate made being the cheapest that can be secured on WEEKLY advertising.

—Douglas P. Ball of Chicago, who has taken occasional space in the WEEKLY during the past year, is considering a contract and will be heard from regularly during the coming season.

—Upon receipt of this number you will have just time enough to make up copy for the September 30 special. It must be in Beverly Sept. 20.

—Don't be a dead one. Everything comes to the one who hustles for it.

—THE MANAGING EDITOR.

What=Do=You=Want? Anything=Here

Below we make you a few offers from certain countries, more to give you an idea of the extent and quality of our stock. Right through the entire alphabet, almost country you want, we can supply a great majority of everything issued, most of the time. Prices for everything on this sheet are based on the 1923 catalog quotations, whe up or down, and cancel any offers of the same stamps, made in our other lists. In lire with our predictions hundreds of New Europe and issues of the past few years (\ stamps) show substantial price advances in the new catalog. Many show tremendous jumps and at that are far too cheap. Again we say, as we have said before, the lector of these issues will have no cause to regret it in the years to come, for the all too limited supply of many issues is about absorbed, and of others completely gone, Euro prices are advancing very fast. We make a specialty of "hard-to-get stamps" and you will find many of them in this list. They are the ones it's a pleasure to have, as ev one else does not have them. As an investment they have a "future", as the market is not full of them, or every dealer stocked up. The demand almost always exceeds supply on such stamps, and most of them are a better "buy" at near catalog than many others at big discounts. Most real "bargains" are not at big discounts from cat prices. A little time will prove that.

EARLY OFFICIAL MAIL.

"For years postage was a real burden (for The British Board of Trade). As early as October, 1696, William Blathwayt, in delivering a package of letters from the plantations (in America), said that if free postage was not allowed as for the late Committee of Trade and Plantations the charge would soon amount to £500 per annum. This estimate was somewhat exaggerated and produced no result. The Board asked for free postage in 1697, but it was not granted, and bills from the postoffice were frequently received, in spite of the fact that the quarterly estimate of expense always included an account with the postmaster. The charges on one box of papers from America, in the summer of 1746, was 'upwards of £30'. To this the Lords of Trade objected, and it was probably as a result of their complaint that the King in November issued a warrant to the Postmaster General freeing from postage all letters of the Board of Trade. In 1764, an act of Parliament was passed 'to prevent frauds and abuses in the sending and receiving of letters and packets free of postage.' By this act the officers and departments that were exempted from postage, including the Board of Trade and Plantations, were required to authorize two persons each in their respective offices to endorse letters. The Board of Trade appointed for this duty Richard Rogers, the deputy secretary and Silas Bradbury, the clerk of reports, and decided on a form of endorsement as follows:—

On His Majesty's Service
Rd. Rogers
to Mr. Thos. Styles at

Office of Trade and Plantations

All letters and packages authorized by the Board were supposed to be superscribed according to this model.

The importance of postage as an item of expense is not so surprising when one considers the large amount of written matter which found its way to the Board by post, and this is only part of the immense mass of manuscript material preserved in the office."

MARY PATTERSON CLARKE.

NO MILLION RUBLES STAMPS.

(This clipping is from the Washington "Herald". It is a "Despatch from Riga" and we print it for what it may be worth. —W. O. W.)

RIGA, Aug. 15th.—Stamp collectors throughout the world who have been hailing with delight each fresh issue of Bolshevik postage stamps, and who have been eagerly awaiting the 1,000,000-ruble revenue stamp which was reported as being designed in Moscow, are in for a heavy disappointment, for this stamp will not be issued, and for the time being no more stamps of Soviet Russia are to be printed. A recent decree by the Soviet of people's commissars guarantees delivery of letters carrying the postage stamps of the Czar's regime, and these unused stamps are today bringing fabulous prices (in Soviet rubles) throughout Russia.

Wanted—Metered Mail Cancellations (whole envelope) will buy, sell or exchange. Precancelled on approval; reference. D.C.NEEFUS, Hudson, New York.

The face value of the old Czar stamps does not matter. An office here recently received two letters, one from Cheliabinsk, in Siberia, and the other from Moscow. The letter from Cheliabinsk was delivered by the postman attached to the Soviet embassy in Riga and carried on its flap a 10-kopek stamp of the old regime. The letter from Moscow was delivered by the Latvian postoffice and was mailed with the 50-kopek stamp.

STAMPS OF ALL KINDS.

Letters now arriving from Russia bear no resemblance to those which arrived previous to this decree. They carried stamps of all denominations from 100 rubles to 22,500 rubles, and a small issue of 25,000 ruble stamps was made before this decree went into effect. Generally the letters were merely attached to a large sheet of stamps, and when mucilage was not obtainable the stamps were sewn on with needle and thread.

An American who arrived yesterday from Moscow stated that the Bolsheviks have decided to use the old stamps for two reasons. First, they are much smaller and therefore consume much less paper in their manufacture; and second, the stamp printing establishment is now needed to print Soviet rubles, which will be used by the government in meeting its payroll, which increases more than 10 per cent weekly automatically with the fall of the value of the ruble.

This American, who does not want his name mentioned, as he intends to return to Russia, states that several of the most valuable of the Russian stamp collections have been recently traded to French merchants, who happened to be amateur collectors, and that portions of these collections are to be offered for sale in Paris and London.

MATTERS IN GENERAL.

By "PHIL".

There is no end to the criticism of the American press. Mr. Upton Sinclair has vociferously attacked it in his book "Brass Check" which has done much to make publishers seek to develop a code of ethics that would regulate the profession. By this internal effort it is self-evident that even to those vitally interested somewhere all is not as it should be. The modern press is less than a century old, for before 1830, it was one of the activities of the job printer, and if the new school of journalism is demonstrated by the writings of Mr. Arthur Brisbane, then we must keep a watchful eye on the social developments of this country, to which newspapers contribute much.

The subject matter of the common paper is indicative that it is catering to, not guiding, public's sentiment. Studious, unbiased and laborious researches of public and business questions are obscure while police news and scandals, which are cheap and easy to get, occupy conspicuous places to attract the pennies.

It is hardly conceivable that those callous individuals who receive stimulus in reading of some unfortunate, would want to read about mere "scraps of paper." It is hard to believe that a journalist of the ability which Mr. Brisbane's reputed salary indicates he is, should oppose public sentiment by dealing with such an obscure subject as the collecting of postage stamps. In fact it is difficult to understand his reason, unless—. It is a known fact that common papers which have many stock advertisements, have given editorial space to advertisers. Can it be that the shifting of capital from certificates to rare stamps has been noticed by brokers, and they are meeting competition in this way? Obstinacy is a human trait. Can it be that Mr. Brisbane is in the pay of some stamp dealer who seeks to put the hobby before the public in a left handed manner? Yellow journalism includes "riding" a contemporary. Can it be that this gentleman is "taking a shot" at one of the better papers which is given to printing social news items, even from abroad, of interest to the thinking public?

It can hardly be any of these, for if Mr. Brisbane's salary indicates the man he is, he would be above them. Therefore we will charge his erring ways up to his not having read the Oregon Code which says, "There is no place in journalism for the dissembler, the distorter, the prevaricator, the suppressor, or the dishonest thinker."

Philately is such a cosmopolitan hobby that its advancement is impeded, because no concerted effort has developed uniformity in all lands. Uniformity, or as Mr. Hoover has dubbed it, "Simplification of dimensions" is the order of the day. While no philatelist will consent to have his hobby cut and dried and filled with routine, yet there are conditions which can be advantageously standardized.

When the subject of color is mentioned in this connection many will argue: conception of color differs with individuals, colors change, no standard for comparison can be kept etc., etc. After listening to their arguments we return to where we started from, and debate if we should lay aside the color question. There is perhaps no feature in collecting stamps that is as discouraging to the novice as color. It is probably the greatest contributor to the stopping of collecting that there is. After numerous specimens are found not to show the novice's conception of the color named in the catalogue, he quickly concludes that it is all wrong and faces the compilation of a new catalogue if he continues.

Those who are interested in the industrial phase of color standards—Textile Color Card Association of the U. S.—have found it expedient to number, not name, colors This removes the inconsistency of nature and provides a basis of comparison. These numbers describe the colors and it is possible to discern from them what the color is without seeing it. This is a fundamental basis for producing a standard color.

In the "Stanley Gibbons' Color Guide," this feature has not been incorporated. It is regrettable. However, it is not impossible to get some benefit from their method. Many of us may dispute the attachment of the names, "red, lavender and magenta" to the specimens shown. But, no one will say a word against No. 15, No. 81 and No. 84 being assigned to them, for they convey no color meaning to our minds. There is no reason why these samples can not be known by the numbers designated, and take their place as standards in international philately.

The "Color Guide" is a very constructive move. To have had it originate in America would have been very desirable, for it would have gratified national pride. However, it is here and it would be a decided benefit to philately the world over, to have America endorse it. The meeting of the American Philatelic Society is close at hand. No more constructive motion can be presented than,

"That, the one hundred specimens submitted in the Stanley Gibbons Color Guide, published by Stanley Gibbons Limited, 391 Strand, London W. C. 2, be recognized by this Society, and that through the numbers they be recognized as standards by the members."

While this motion may be of general purport, it is a move in a direction that will stabilize philately. Transportation has its Hague Rules; Banking its standard form of Commercial Letters of Credit and if this hobby is to take its position universally, it must develop international uniformity. It may be ar[gued] that the A. P. S. is not the voic[e of] American Philatelists. If it is [not] then at least its voice is loud enoug[h to] be heard in every State of the Un[ion] and what it does will be quickly [con]formed to by those outside.

For America to take this most [com]plexing problem and deal with it[s] suggested above, is indicative of [the] true American spirit. The Washing[ton] Conference demonstrated the desire[s] co-operate in things of universal ben[efit] and Philatelic Britain, France, Belg[ium] Spain, Italy and Germany would qui[ckly] fall in line, so that Philately would [ad]vance towards that acme which [is] prevent impediment in the future.

Written for MEKEEL'S WEEKLY.

ST. KITTS-NEVIS, 1890-1922.

By HARRY E. HUBER.

I.—Federation Series, Queen Victoria, 1890.

Although St. Christopher and Nevis were united and made one Presidency in 1882, each continued to issue and use separate postage stamps. But this was all changed by the Leeward Islands General Stamp Act, of 1890, which ordered that there should be one uniform series of postage stamps for use in the Leeward Islands Colony, and on October 31st, 1890, the new series of stamps was placed on sale at all the Post Offices in the Federation. The separate Presidency issues were withdrawn from sale, and subsequently disposed of by the Crown Agents for the Colonies in London.

No specialised collection of St. Kitts-Nevis stamps can be considered complete unless stamps of this and all subsequent Federation series are included. They should, of course, preferably be used, and bear a cancellation of an office in that Presidency.

The Federation series comprised eight values, from ½d to 5s inclusive, all in the same design, and printed by the typographic process from De La Rue's stock "Postage & Revenue" keyplate number 1. The design consists of a crowned head of Queen Victoria to the left, on a horizontally lined ground, enclosed in an octagonal frame within a square. At the sides are vertical tablets lettered "Postage" "& Revenue", respectively, in uncolored sans serif letters, while conventional scroll ornamentation fills the lower corners. In a blank label at the top, and a hexagonal shaped opening at the bottom, "Leeward Islands", and the value are inserted, from duty plates, at a second operation.

The stamps were printed in sheets of 120 stamps, two panes of 60, side by side, (ten horizontal rows of six stamps), separated by a narrow gutter. The plate number, a large uncolored figure 1 on a solid circle of color, enclosed by a thin colored circle, appears four times on the sheet, above the 2nd and 5th stamps of the left and right panes, respectively, and under the corresponding stamps of the lower row. A continuous Jubilee line surrounds each pane, and with the plate number, is part of the keyplate, and printed in the color of the keyplate impression. All values are known printed from plates 1 and 2 (1896), and in addition, the ½d, 1d and 2½d were printed from plate 3 (1899).

On the pence denominations the value is expressed in colorless figures and letters on a horizontally lined ground, and on the higher values, as "One Shilling" and "Five Shillings," respectively, in two lines of colorless letters, within a hexagonal frame.

The paper is white, watermarked Crown CA, arranged in groups of 60 subjects (one appearing on each stamp), enclosed by a single line watermarked frame. The margins of the sheet are watermarked "Crown Agents for" (reading up at the left), and "The Colonies" (reading down at the right). The perforation is 14, comb. On the early printings from plate 1 the gum is brown, while on those subsequent to 1896, it is white.

In both the 1d and 5s values, errors occurred due to faulty centering of the duty plate impression—the "S" of "Leeward Islands" appears on the adjoining stamp, and the value tablet is approximately 5 mm. out of the hexagon provided for it. While it is probable that a whole sheet or at least a pane of each value was sent out in this condition, less than a dozen copies are known, the 5s being much the rarer of the two.

On Christmas Day, 1898, penny postage within the Empire was made effective in the Presidencies of the Federation.

October 31st, 1890. Federation series. Queen Victoria, Postage & Revenue, watermarked Crown CA, perf. 14 comb. Plates 1 (1890) and 2 (1896) for all values, and 3 (1899) for ½d, 1d and 2½d.

That Cat in the Bag

Reports come to me that the Dollar Cover Bundle characterized as a "cat in the bag" in this space on Sept. 2nd is in reality a lovely pussy sleek and fat.

One man writes the lot beats one he just purchased for $2.50.

Another sent his dollar and was so enthusiastic that he paid for the lot a second time.

Some more bundles have been made up—an aeroplane cover with a special cancellation and five or more other covers all regularly used before 1890—can't guarantee anything further in this second edition but they're returnable if unsatisfactory.

SECOND NATIONAL BANK BLDG. WASHINGTON, D. C.

II.—Federation Series, Diamond Jubliee, 1897.

On the occasion of the Empire-wide celebrations in connection with the 60th year of Queen Victoria's reign, special stamps were issued by the Leeward Islands, the issue being notified in the Leeward Islands Gazette for 8th July, 1897—

"It is hereby notified for general information that it is proposed to issue a certain number of Leeward Islands postage stamps in commemoration of Her Majesty's Diamond Jubilee. The stamps will be overprinted with a circle bearing the word SEXAGENARY and the figures 1897, and in the center of the circle the letters V R I. The stamps will be on sale at the several Post Offices throughout the Leeward Islands from Thursday, the 22nd inst. and the sales will continue for one week from that date.

Signed, LESLIE JARVIS,
Clerk, Executive Council."

All eight values of the Federation series were overprinted by handstamp, in black, with a buckled garter inscribed SEXAGENARY 1897, enclosing VRI in monogram, by E. D. A. Tibbits, then chief clerk in the Colonial Secretary's office at St. John's, Antigua.

The quantities of stamps overprinted, and those apportioned to St. Kitts-Nevis, were as follows:—

	Total overprinted.	Sent to St.Kitts-Nevis.
2½d	15,600	6,000
4d	6,000	2,400
6d	3,480	1,560
7d	3,480	1,560
5s	900	500

The stamps remaining unsold after July 29th, 1897, were returned to St. John's, and the Leeward Islands Gazette for 1st October, 1897, contained returns of the stamps sold:—

	Total Sold.	Sold in St.Kitts-Nevis.
½d	12,963	5,361
1d	12,811	5,191
2½d	9,833	4,707
4d	4,747	1,913
6d	2,690	1,049
7d	2,687	1,023
1s	1,743	724
5s	784	384

In the same issue of the Gazette the following remainders were offered for sale:—

½d	2,637
1d	2,789
2½d	5,407
4d	1,493
6d	1,030
7d	793
1s	600

From these figures it would appear that further quantities of all values except the ½d, 1d and 7d had been printed, viz., 2½d, 4d and 6d, 240 each; 1s 543 and 5s 484.

Stamps from both plates 1 and 2 were overprinted. The ½d, 4d, 6d, 7d and 5s are known from plate 1 with brown gum, and ½d, 1d, 2½d and 1s from plate 2 with white gum. All values exist with the overprint double, and in addition, the ½d is listed by Stanley Gibbons with overprint inverted.

July 22nd, 1897. Diamond Jubilee series, —stamps of Leeward Islands, handstamped in black, at St. John's Antigua, with buckled garter, inscribed Sexagenary, 1897, enclosing VRI in monogram. Plates 1 and 2.

PHILATELIC PUBLICITY.

W. W. MacLaren of Cleveland informs us that the A. P. S. Vice Presidents have organized, with Mr. MacLaren as chairman and Otto F. Moses as recorder. The Board felt compelled to decline appointment as publicity committee, but Mr. MacLaren writes:—

"We are heartily in favor of increased publicity and we may be depended upon to do all in our power to further this good work. Philately has made great progress in Cleveland during several years past, and much of it I attribute to the unusual amount of intelligent publicity we have obtained in the local newspapers."

NEWS GLEANINGS.

Under this heading we desire to publish all the news from the various philatelic centers. Correspondents' names will be given unless prohibited, as we desire to give full credit for services rendered.

—W. T. Wilson informs us that he is attending the Geneva Exhibition. A report of the proceedings will doubtless appear in an early number of the WEEKLY.

—Rev. E. A. Butler, St. George's, Newfoundland, would like the present address of Henry C. Seelander, formerly Oklahoma City. It is reported that he has gone to Chicago, but no change of address has been entered at this office.

—J. W. Stowell of Federalsburg, Md., was an attendant at the Springfield convention, then continued on an automobile trip to Montreal. The entire trip of 1600 miles was driven without any trouble of any kind from the time the party of four left Federalsburg until the return. The Adirondacks, Berkshires and Catskills were traversed and the trip back was made by way of the Delaware Water Gap.

—The Springfield Republican of Sept. 10 contained a feature story on the Los Angeles fake missionaries. It is illustrated with pictures of the stamps on and off cover, also with a picture of John A. Klemann of the Nassau Stamp Co. The author of the article is not named. Clipping from J. P. Pendergast.

—A. W. Whitten submits for inspection several postal cancellations, but among them we note only one that may not have been chronicled by us. It is from Columbus, O. and reads:—"Ohio State Fair August 28-Sept. 2, 1922".

—We have been shown by Frank A. Goldsmith the following cancellation from Toledo:—"Industrial Exposition Toledo, Sept. 21-30, 1922".

—Clifford D. Harvey, M. D., 18 Orchard Rd., Brookline, Mass., would like the address of the G. E. Stechert Co., of New York City, which is handling a book on colors. Reference to this was made in a recent number of the WEEKLY.

—John Luther Kilbon, formerly of Springfield, Mass., but now of New York, sends in a five years' renewal of subscription and thereby testifies to his belief in the stability of our publication and his personal interest in philately. Mr. Kilbon will be remembered as the editor and proprietor formerly of the Boston Stamp Book.

—We are informed that Adolph Menjou, well known for his characterization of Louis XIII in "The Three Musketeers", has purchased Mr. Wynham Standing's specialized collection of the Reunion Islands. Mr. Standing had determined to sell this collection while in Europe, where he had gone to make some pictures in Holland, but the sale was intercepted.

—The Marks Stamp Co. has just issued under date of Sept. 1, a wholesale and retail pricelist of 24 pages. Collector and dealer alike will find much of interest in its pages.

—J. M. Bartels of N. Y. City has been in Europe for several weeks hunting for U. S. and other good early issues of foreign countries. He writes that he had a fine and successful trip. He returned on the Majestic September 13.

—Under "News Gleanings" in WEEKLY of Aug. 26th, is an item by Mr. Raleigh T. Green stating, "I note the statement by Mr. Kenyon that he never saw one of the $1.00 vermilion Alabama State Tax on Seals stamps cancelled prior to 1880." Adding, "I have one cancelled May 6th, 1868, S. J. B. The stamp is perforated, etc." Mr. Green undoubtedly refers to a paragraph in my book, Documentary State Revenue Stamps of the United States, which clearly mentions the date of the rouletted $1.00 stamp, not the perforated.—BREWSTER C. KENYON.

—Forrest Shreve, Carmel, Calif., would like the present addresses of Geo. W. Johnson, Hotel Osborne, Atlantic City, N. J. and A. Weber, 540 S. Presa St., San Antonio, Tex. Stamps sent remain undelivered.

—"300th Anniversary of the 1st Settlements in New Hampshire 1623—1923." This cancellation is being used by the Portsmouth, N. H., office and a specimen has been shown us by Frank A. Goldsmith.

—Among the beautiful items that have found their way into an American collector's hands is a beautiful strip of fourteen 4d Cape of Good Hope on bluish paper. This exceptionally rare item came from one of the finest collections in Germany and was bought by Mr. Herman Toaspern at a very large price. It seems only a matter of time before most of Continental Europe's finest pieces will find resting places in American collections. What America is doing in the Art world is also being duplicated in philatelic fields.

THE POSTAGE STAMPS OF BELGIUM.

By BERTRAM W. H. POOLE.

CHAPTER XXIV.

The Helmet Stamps.

Among the numerous issues that owe their origin to the Great War or its aftermath none are more popular with collectors in every part of the globe than the series known variously as the "tin hat", "roi casquè" or "helmet" stamps issued by Belgium to celebrate the victorious termination of the conflict. Of larger format than usual, printed from engraved plates in strong attractive colors, of a design strikingly impressive in its severity of treatment, in which the chief characteristic is a manly portrait of King Albert in service uniform and trench helmet, the universal appeal of the series is little to be wondered at.

The design is the same for all denominations and, as already observed, shows a portrait of King Albert in service uniform, with overcoat, wearing one of the steel helmets that were so much in evidence at the front. Curved above the portrait is "BELGIQUE" while below, in a straight line, is "BELGIE". At the left and right of the portrait are the dates "1914" and "1918" respectively and in the lower angles are blocks of solid color on which appear the numerals of value, at left, and "C" for centimes or "F" for francs, at right. The background consists of oblique lines cross-hatched with horizontal ones where a heavy shading effect is intended. The whole is surrounded by a double-lined frame, both lines being very close together and inner one being very thin.

The set comprises fourteen different values of which the two lowest denominations—1 and 2 centimes—are much smaller than the others, and the two highest—5 and 10 francs—much larger, the latter forming two of the most handsome labels issued by any government at any time.

According to earliest reports the stamps were designed by a young artist named Jean Bast, who during the war followed the risky occupation of engraving forged seals and the like for passports and similar documents, thus assisting many of his countrymen to escape from Hun tyranny. He also illustrated certain clandestine publications, such as the Ame Belge, which the Germans were never able to suppress, and it is said that on more than one occasion he indulged in the dangerous pleasantry of introducing his signature in the arabesques of some of his drawings—an act of daring that would have cost him his life had the signature been noticed by the German espionage staff. He would thus appear a very fitting patriot to have been entrusted with the production of the design for the Victory series and much as we would like the story to be true the prosaic facts are, alas, very different. The real facts are that the design was taken from a photograph made by the well-known English photographer, Mr. Richard N. Speaight, who gave the following brief account of its origin to Mr. Fred J. Melville:—"I had a specimen stamp photograph made for the late Minister of Posts; he approved of it but King Albert did not desire publication during the war. His Majesty consented early in 1919, and the 10 centime stamp is an exact reproduction, with the exception of the lettering, of the portrait of King Albert which I took by command in September, 1917, on the Belgian front."

The first of the Victory stamps to appear was the 10 centimes, which was issued on July 19th, 1919, on the occasion of the Belgian National Fêtes, and so great was the demand for it that the entire available supply was completely sold out on the day of issue in most of the larger centers. However, in a few days further supplies were on sale and this 10 centimes existed in solitary grandeur for about four months when it was followed by the 15 centimes value and a little later 1 and 2 francs stamps were ready. Early in 1920 the 5c, 20c, 25c, 35c, 40c, 50c and 10fr denominations were issued while the two lowest values were not placed in circulation until June, 1920.

The dies, according to Field's catalogue, were engraved by Mr. Henri Cheffer, in Paris, and the first plates for the 10 and 15 centimes, and possibly those for the 1, 2 and 5 francs as well, were made in Holland by the well-known firm of J. Enschede and Sons of Haarlem. As soon as the Government Printing Works at Malines, which had been destroyed by the Germans, were restored, the stamps were printed there, this, apparently, happening late in 1919.

The franc values were all in sheets of twenty-five stamps, five horizontal rows of five each, and the first plates for the 10c and 15c, which were used at Haarlem, also had this arrangement.

When the stamps were manufactured in Malines new plates were made for the 10c and 15c values, comprising 100 stamps each arranged in ten horizontal rows of ten and all the other centime values were printed from plates of similar size except the 1c. This particular denomination was printed from plates of 150 subjects arranged in ten horizontal rows of fifteen stamps each.

In connection with this issue we thus have two sizes of sheets and two printers for some values and in addition there are varieties in the perforation and for many denominations more than one plate was used.

On the margins of the sheets of all values the control stamp consisting of the word "DEPOT" followed by the date "1919" or "1920" within a double-lined frame is shown, and one or other of the margins is perforated with the letters "C C" the meaning of which we have not been able to fathom.

A plate number was engraved on the lower margin this appearing below the third stamp in the case of the sheets of twenty-five subjects, below the eighth stamp for the 1 centime, and usually under the sixth stamps in the case of sheets of one hundred. The only exception we have found occurs on the 40c where the plate number is below the fifth stamp.

In Stamp Collecting for Dece 18th, 1920, Mr. Alex. Holland giv interesting list of known plate num to which we have been able to add 2 for the 1c, and which we repr below:—

Sheets.	Value.	Plate Numb
150	1 centime	1, 2, 3
100	2 centimes	1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 9, 10, 11,
100	5 centimes	1, 2, 3,
25	10 centimes	1, 2, 3, 4
100	10 centimes	1, 2, 3, 4
25	15 centimes	1, 2, 3,
100	15 centimes	1, 2, 3, 4
100	25 centimes
100	35 centimes
100	40 centimes
100	50 centimes
25	1 franc
25	5 francs
25	10 francs

The stamps were all printed on unwatermarked paper and perforat single-line machines. Two of machines were used, one having a g of 11 and the other of 11½ and as were used singly and in combinatio get numerous varieties of which following are all known at the tim writing:—

Perforated 11½.

Perforated 11½ x 11.

1c, 2c, 5c, 10c, 15c, 20c, 35c, 40c, 5 1, 2 and 10 francs.

The 10 and 15 centimes are repo to exist in two different sizes in or which the design measures 27x22 m and in the other 26½x23mm. It is said that these two values in the diffe sizes differ slightly in design due t touching of the dies. Presumably variety is always found in conne with the Haarlem printed stamps i sheets of 25 and the other in the Be prints in the larger sheets of 100 stam

When these stamps first appear was presumed it would be a perma set replacing the London printed st of 1915 but, on the contrary, only a tain number of each value were pri and, we understand, most of them been obsolete for some months. O 2, 5 and 10 francs values it is said 30,000 of each were printed.

THE JOY OF MY STAMPS.

By CHAS. H. FOWLE.

When I was very young, it was firmly implanted in my mind that "Satan finds mischief still for idle hands to do" and though I may have at times, since then, given Satan cause for rejoicing, I have seldom known what it was to have idle hands.

I am sorry for the man who has no fad to keep him happy and busy and out of Satan's clutches. Satan has no use for an industrious man, and a man has got to be industrious to get a stamp collection together, and to so arrange it that it will be "a thing of beauty and a joy forever."

I began collecting stamps some years ago for the pleasure of it, and I am still collecting for the same reason. The spirit of commercialism has never entered into my collecting. Of course when a non-philatelic friend gets a glimpse at my albums, the first question is "How much are they worth?" or "Do you suppose you could ever get anything for them?" I always say, "I don't know", but the answer is only partly true, for I do know how much of joy and happiness they are worth to me. No one who has not been tried by the fire of philately, can answer the question truly or imagine how much my humble collection has helped me when I most needed help.

A dose of medicine won't cure the blues, but a collection of stamps will, for I have tried it. Medicine will not drive care away, but my stamps have made me forget there was such a thing as care in the world.

I go home worried over some trouble of the day, sit down at my desk, open my albums, and in a moment care has flown to the four winds of heaven. I am lost to the world, to the world of business and worry, and time is as naught. I may be in Borneo or New Zealand when the supper bell rings, and I certainly have been to joyland if no further.

Then again, something has gone wrong and I feel anything but pleasant. I sit down at my desk and idly open my album to the U. S. Washington and Franklin smile benignly at me although I am scowling at them, even Jackson of the big head looks pleasantly and serenely on. I turn the page, and the old blue locomotive stands patiently waiting as it did in 1869. The post boy still gallops on his immovable horse; the green steamship sails the placid green sea, and Columbus still stands on the shore of America. And in foreign lands, from the baby heads of Spain and her former colonies to the wild animals of Borneo, from the everlasting pyramids of Egypt to the tigers of Pahang, everything is peace and joy and sweet content and I become a part of it.

My albums are the old kind and the joy I find in the filled spaces is almost equalled by the expectation of filling the others. I turn often to such countries as Norway, where every space is filled, and then to others where the empty spaces predominate, but all alike represent so much of joy, I am happy with either.

I know I get as much real happiness out of my collection as the owners of the great collections of the world, and surely I have not the worry and fear of loss they must have, and then there are so many more stamps for me to get than there are for them.

I do not have to weep because there are no new worlds to conquer. They have attained, I am attaining, and content to climb slowly the heights which they have reached. I am not the target of every dealer who has something very rare and select to offer. They fire over my head and hit a rich collector, but in my case so many individual stamps recall pleasant things, outings in the country, search through deserted houses in Vermont, through country postoffices and also in certain business houses in the city, sometimes making a find, often not, but still loyal to the fad, and glad I'm living to pursue it.

Suppose I did spend a summer's afternoon driving round the country, looking for deserted houses, wasn't the day glorious, and the air health-giving, and when I found a house and had entered and climbed to the attic and found a barrel of old letters with all the stamps torn off, as I really did twice, why should I weep? Of course I would have liked to have found some rare old issues, but there were other houses, and other worlds, and I drove on, and suppose I did return home empty handed, I had had my drive and a glorious time and was I any worse off than the boy who sits all the afternoon on the wharf fishing?

I have made some good finds, but I never have found any great rarities and I have never tried to buy them for several reasons:—the first of which was, I did not have the price, having mentioned this reason, the others it is unnecessary to name.

An advanced collector might point the finger of scorn at my collection, but it would not worry me a bit. I have always tried to get good specimens, stamps that could look me in the face and not be ashamed of it.

I am very democratic in my ideas and life, I love the common people, but I must confess that stamps in rags do not appeal to me. Humble in size and shape and sombre in color, homely and travel stained, many showing the hard knocks they have received from the cancelling stamp, still if they are in their right mind, that is, "all there" I welcome them to my fold.

Now and then, a battered stranger of high degree has entered in and reposed in my album, because I was afraid his like I should not see again, but as a rule, they must be perfect in form, even if their characters are somewhat smirched.

The topper raised his glass to his boon companion and said "happy days", but we in philately need no such inspiration to give us happy days and many of them.

The very search for rarities and varieties we may have, gives us much pleasure. In common with most collectors, I have hundreds of duplicates, and many a time and oft, when I have read of some new variety being discovered, I have hastened to look through the duplicates of that country to find one of the newly discovered varieties. I must confess I have seldom found anything, but we all know that the pleasure of anticipation is often almost equal to that of realization.

In this busy rushing world, where there are so many things that "get on our nerves", so many things that excite and irritate, I have found that after a busy day, a little seance with my stamps has brought tranquillity and joy, and as I retire to rest, if perchance I do not go at once to sleep, I begin to think, not about the day's toil, but about my stamps, and the first thing I am asleep, dreaming of finds of stamps, and I drift calmly and peacefully away to a sweet repose due to a fairly clear conscience, a good digestion and those dear old stamps.

Damaged Stamps
In mounting up the balance of my collection, have put the damaged in a separate lot and will sell these just as they run at $10.00 catalogue value for $1.00. Some have tiny tears; others, corners gone, still others, Wow!! but are much better than could be expected for the price asked. I haven't many, so act quick if you want these. [tf

EDITORIAL.

The advance sheets of the new catalogue are coming along and it will not be long before the appearance of the new edition will be announced. This is well, for there are so many signs of impending stamp activity that it is needless to review them. The man who is sure of his ground does not need to verbose in his explanation of his stand. We have dispensed with the usual Pollyanna stuff, as good stamps will need no boosting this season. Barring a few difficulties that may attend the successful marketing of stamps, the man who has his money tied up in them will not have much trouble in undoing the knot. Under any circumstances the collector is better equipped with market possibilities than ever before. Well regulated auction sales and sales departments of substantial societies will continue to afford an outlet and the competition that must be engendered among dealers to secure new stock in an active season strengthens the position of the collector who wants to sell.

Here is a request that is unusual but we give it prominence. A friend is anxious for information based on the following notice that appeared in a stamp paper in January, 1869, in the form of an answer to a correspondent: "L. S., Cincinnati.—Will write about the partnership. Prefer a man having a knowledge of stamps." The paragraph appeared in a Philadelphia paper and for historical reasons, we suppose, our correspondent wants his clue. 'Hark away! but it is a long cry from 1869 to 1922.

In the Smart Set for September, there is a story in which the principal character is said to collect suicides as other people collect books or stamps. The combination as affecting books and stamps is not inept as they are in "intelligent juxtaposition" but suicides, avaunt.

The secretary of the American Stamp Dealers' Association, Mr. W. F. Slusser, has a queer idea of sport. He is taking a three months' leave from his military duties and is spending some of his time in swinging around the circle, in order to get acquainted with dealers in and out of the association. His big idea is that it is fitting that he meet his confreres so that the personal equation may aid in understanding aims and motives; and hence his peregrinations. Here is enterprise of the right kind and quite in keeping with the modern tendency to "Rotarize" and "Kiwanize" the trade relations of business men by getting together, nothwithstanding the jibes of the unholy Mencken or others of his unregenerate ilk.

A letter has been received from a collector who is interested in early U. S., as follows: "There is a stamp listed in the catalogue that does not seem to receive its share of attention. I refer to the twenty-four cent of the 1857-60 issue, red lilac, catalogued at $300 unused and not priced used. For a stamp of a character to justify this price, it has not been discussed as fully as it should be. I thought that I had the color but an expert says that I was only dreaming; even though the color of my stamp is 'off' he says that the red lilac does not come used. He seemed to be uncertain about the real red lilac and I wish you would say something about the shade for my benefit; and I am sure others who may be hugging a delusion would welcome your opinion." The catalogue of twenty years ago did not list the stamp in red lilac but ten years later, it appeared as a sub-variety of the twenty-four cent lilac but was not priced unused or used. Latterly, it is quoted in the book at $300 unused. Turning to Mr. Luff's work on our stamps we find that he is not certain that the stamp " in dull reddish lilac was ever issued as a stamp." He says that he has seen copies, both with and without perforations, in collections of proofs, and though at the time he wrote, say twenty-five years ago, he leaned to the belief that the stamp was a proof, he said he could not confirm his theory. In 1907, Mr. Charles J. Phillips told of the acquisition of the great Breitfuss collection by his firm, in a series of notes in Stanley Gibbons' Monthly Journal for August, 1907. Among the United States stamps in the collection, reference was made to two copies of the "plum, rare colour," of the twenty-four cent, 1857-60, with the following explanation: "One of these was obtained by Mr. Breitfuss from the Post Office Department in St. Petersburg, in 1880; this is interesting, as it tends to prove, I think, that this colour was the first printing and that it was used by the United States government to distribute to other countries; perhaps this is why we have not found the stamp used." Mr. Phillips' opinion is of value, though not conclusive. For a good many years, the color has been accepted as that of a stamp, duly issued, that has always been elusive and the present price evidently is well within reason. Nearly thirty-five years ago, we used to obtain copies of the unused twenty-four cent in lilac from Mr. Semmes of Alexandria, Virginia, and Mr. Bastable of Owl Run, Virginia, in fresh color, but they by no means could be confounded with the red lilac. In 1909, when Mr. Power wrote his first book on U. S., and priced, incidentally, the reddish lilac at $100 unused, he said: "All the copies I have seen came from Europe, so, possibly, they may be some kind of sample impressions for official interchange." The recent intensive study of early U. S., does not appear to have developed definite information concerning this stamp of striking color, so far as we know, but it is accepted as a real issue, without cavil.

Commercial lines involving the investment of money and the time of any considerable number of persons, have their statisticians who delight in calculations more or less pertinent to the interests of those engaged in the businesses. These wizards of the pencil never weary of building statistics on every angle of their theme but philately does not seem to have come under their ministrations. It is true that guesses of straggling kind have been essayed by a few observers, as to the number of collectors in the country, who apply rules of fancy rather than of fact in their estimates. The taking of a census of collectors is a large undertaking, of course, and beset with difficulties, but there are other investigations worth while that are more certain of result, such as that of the amount of stamp capital employed by the stamp dealers in the United States, in the aggregate. While guess-work would have its place in making a compilation of the kind, yet if some patient soul would make a start, he would find that progress towards a successful end would be made. It would be most satisfactory to have a fairly correct statistical table of the amounts involved in the furtherance of stamp dealing, and the figures could be used effectively on occasion. We have been assured by one big dealer who has given the subject some thought, we suppose, that it would astonish us to know how much money was invested by dealers in their stocks; and that the sum total is much above the estimate that the guess of the conservative man would be. The time must come when an idea of this capital will be arrived at by some process fairly logical and we will know, too, just about how many stamp dealers, worthy of the classification, that we have among us.

ITALIAN LEVANT STAMPS.

By A. SPICER.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Aug. 17.—Thinking might be of interest to you, I am sending you information about new Italian Levant stamps.

Please note the 3.75 piastre stamp on this envelope, which was issued from the Italian post-office in Constantinople on Aug. 5, and at that time only four stamps were sold to a customer. From quite reliable sources I learn that about 75,000 copies only were printed, and a large majority of these were bought up by the post-office employees for speculation. At first these stamps are now being sold at stamps stores here in Constantinople for 5 piastres apiece. Dealers were more fortunate in that they could buy more than four copies. In each sheet of 100 there are two errors in the size of the 7 and 5. Normally they are smaller than the 3, but on one stamp the 7 and 5 are large with a small 5, while on the other error the 3 and 5 are large and the 7 small.

I am also informed that there are a complete new issue of Italian stamps in preparation, due to make their appearance the last of the month. These new values will be as follows: 30 paras; 60 paras; 3.30pi.; 4.20pi.; 7.20.; 15pi.; 18¾ 45pi and 90 piastres. From what little information I can learn they are to be surcharged "Constantinopli" and Value in two lines.

Recently I returned from Batoum, Russia, and the Soviet Govt. has put out some new stamps piece meal fashion. I was unable to purchase them over the counter except when letters were presented, so if this practice continues these stamps should be very good. They come as follows:—500 rubles red, workman (?) standing on mountain holding flag, 10 rubles brown, farmer sowing seed, 50 rubles green, woman standing with Soviet shield, and man sitting with mechanics tools. This stamp comes in a light and also a dark green, with two perforation, one clean cut and one like the Greek stamp.

Besides these are three for the starving Soviet Russians, 1000 rubles surcharged on 50r purple, 3000 rubles surcharged on 100r red brown, 10000 rubles surcharged on 25r blue.

With best wishes for the success of our valued paper, which I certainly miss when away from my Club.

THE HOME OF THE POSTAGE STAMP Joseph V. K. Wells Manager. BURNT HILLS, N.Y.

NOTES DISCURSIVE.

By EDWIN B. HILL, Ysleta, Texas.

The gentlemen who writes the paragraphic hysteria for a certain New York newspaper, falsely so-called, and occasionally makes it plain to philatelists that his diet is thistles, will have occasion to chortle once more. He can write of the prospective new-issue U. S. A. and score another pointless success among those of his readers who are equally ignorant. With him, ignorance is not bliss: it is everything earthy, and musty, too, as his rehashed philosophy, masquerading as new-thought. His proper place is in the hic jacet department: for of a truth he certainly lies.

All this is quite beside the question, but it will serve to introduce these discursive notes regarding several things philatelic which have recently come within my ken. First and foremost is that rare good stamp, the five cents 1851, imperforate. I wrote a little bit of history, several months ago, regarding this particular stamp, and its rarity. It awakened one dealer almost to violence; for he took me to task for my statement that the dealers were not stocked with copies. He had a goodly quantity, according to his story, and could send me anything I wanted. But, regrettably, I did not want any,—not at the price the stamp fetched. Later I picked up a fairly good one at what I considered a remarkably low price. It was a damaged copy, and the shade of brown cynically amuses me. Friendly collectors who have seen it gloss over their opinion that it isn't what it is,—only they don't say so: they don't say anything! And the dealer from whom it was acquired,—well, I have yet to know his honest opinion. Mine is not for publication.

Only a fortnight ago, a friend to whom I mentioned the quondam dealer who claims to be almost overstocked—and I am not quoting the dealer except by inference—rather amusedly remarked:

"Oh, Blanque? Yes, he has the stamps. There is no question about that. But he hasn't a perfection copy or a fine copy in stock. His are all seconds when they aren't thirds and fourths."

I am grateful indeed for this information. More than I should perhaps confess, when it was added that the friend had seen the stock, and spoke as one with authority. Then he added:

"The five cents 1851 is a very rare stamp in perfect condition. In fact, all U. S. perfection copies of early issues are not readily picked up these days."

In my pursuit of this stamp, and also certain cancellations, I was interested in an advertisement in a certain philatelic paper, in which all things seemed to be available. I picked up two cancellations, knowing them to be vastly different from Caesar's wife, but when, later, the same persons sent me on approval several copies of the five cents 1857, in a condition that was impossible, with the advice that one of them, trimmed, would make a very presentable 1851, I rebelled. I am willing to pick up a damaged or perfection copy, here and there, but as a trimmer I am certainly hopeless.

My specialty is stamps. I like Monaco. I adore Canada revenues. I admire the issues, including Departments and Revenues, of our own country. My tastes are catholic in stamps as Charles Lamb's were in books. And I collect books. But of stamps. I have been asked to advise a young collector who wishes to specialize. He has tried Sarawak, and Monaco, and B. N. A., and Chile,—and so have I. When this last appeal came I suggested Afghanistan.

"But why Afghanistan?" he asked.

I was put to it for reply. Then the revelation came.

"Because no one collects the stamps of that country. Specialize in it! I doubt if anyone here in these United States knows anything about the stamps and if he does he cares less."

The youth went away happy. But, since then, I have been suffering the pangs of the adviser. Perhaps someone cares for the stamps,—collects them,—specializes in them. Worse, still, I have a hazy recollection that a monograph has been written upon the issues. However, if my advice is acted upon, we shall have one man who eventually may be able to tell us something about a country and its issues, and perhaps popularize it to the joy of the over-stocked dealer (should he exist!) and the deep and sincere pleasure of the collector advised.

This suggests popularization. Whenever anyone begins to specialize, or to write about a certain stamp or stamps, there is a resultant demand for the country issuing these bits of paper. Do I not know it? Was not Monaco written up in England and the United States? The result has been increased values. Unfortunately my collection of the country passed, and now, seeking its replica, I am confronted by the catalogue values, which give me pause. But, hopeful always, I watch the auctions. The excessively rare and greatly underpriced five francs first issue Monaco, surcharged "specimen," rubbed came to me for a small sum. And now I am curious to know if there is another copy in any specialist's collection surcharged "specimen." I have had two other copies, but none with surcharge.

The three cents U. S. 1851 and 1857 is a stamp of increasing charm. It is not ordinarily rare. It is not difficult to pick up used or unused. Cancellations there are which make it scarce, and other cancellations cause it to be rare. It is a fine stamp for the collector of small means and large aims. I have seen a little collection, arranged very carefully showing different cancellations. Then there is the common three cents green, 1873 issue, U. S. A. A friendly collector who knows my weakness for things out of common, sent me more than a hundred, and an equal number of the two cents red-brown of 1883, for cancellations. It has resulted in another cancellation fan, added to the thousands already existing. May the tribe increase!

The new catalogue is to be with us November 1. It will be full of good things. There are countries to be studied,—stamps to be acquired,—specialisms to be planned and followed. Surely no collector should be at loss for a country in which to specialize. Meantime, I shall follow along the old plodding way,—content that I have a love for the bits of paper,—for the friendships cemented through this love,—for the pleasure and the privilege to write, now and then, out of the heart and soul of me for those who understand.

A RARE ERROR

San Antonio 2c on 1c on 3c on Amber.

Back in 1920 the postmaster at San Antonio was over-printing postals "1c" and when he started to over-print his envelopes he forgot that it was necessary to change his surcharging die. As a result, when he discovered the error he had a part of the day's work gone for nothing, as the 3c envelopes had been overprinted "1c" instead of "2c". They couldn't let them go out this way and still if they destroyed them who was going to pay Uncle Sam? Result—they were again run through and properly overprinted. The variety on white was first discovered and later I had a few on amber. They were soon gone and I had to refund. I have since obtained a few more of these real 2c on 1c on 3c errors. Scott's advance sheets list the amber at $5 and the white at $6. While mine last you can have them—and they are needed by the cut square collector as well as the entire—in fine entire unused condition as follows:—

Scott's No. 2703, 2c/1c/3c on white ...$4.00
Scott's No. 2704, Same on amber 3.50

If they were adhesives they would cost ten times as much.

CHRONICLE OF NEW ISSUES AND VARIETIES

Information regarding new issues and varieties will be gratefully received. We cannot give the addresses of correspondents.

The chronicle of United States is edited by PHILIP H. WARD, JR., Box 4216, Germantown, Phila., Pa. The foreign chronicle is edited by PERCY C. SMITH, 40 Packard Ave., West Somerville, Mass. Correspondents will please be careful to send their matter to the right address.

UNITED STATES.—Much is appearing in the daily papers regarding the proposed new series of postage stamps and there is no doubt but what the Department at Washington is receiving many suggestions as to the subjects to appear on the several denominations. Outside of the fact that the portraits on the different values will in no two cases be the same, we cannot state definitely as to what illustration will be assigned in each case. In a recent issue, however, we were able to tell you of some that will no doubt be used. I am advised officially as of September 1st that "the subjects for the various denominations of the new series of postage stamps now contemplated have not been decided upon" and that as soon as the several subjects are "properly approved and accepted" that we will have early information for our readers.

These stamps will be on sale at the Philatelic Stamp Agency at Washington as soon as they appear. In the meantime, the Agent can furnish fine mint copies of any of the current series, to our readers, at face value, plus postage. In addition they have some of the former $2 and $5, as well as the 6c, 16c and 24c aeroplane, for sale on the same basis. If your post office has not the time to pick out the specimens that you desire, why write Washington.

Mr. B. K. Miller advises that he has located the S. E. pane from sheet No. 7972 of the current 4c perforated 11, consisting of 110 stamps (10x11). This means that the knife which divides the sheet into panes did not separate the sheet at the guide line. Mr. Miller had previously located the N. E. pane of the same sheet consisting of 90 (10x9) stamps only.

We understand that the post office at Shanghai has cabled to Washington for an additional supply of the overprinted 1c and 2c postage stamps, so that there will no doubt be an additional printing of these two values. These may be in another shade, but this is hardly likely as the flat plate 1c and 2c stamps have been running pretty evenly in color here of late. The plate number collector however, will be able to distinguish this extra printing.

Our recent notes regarding covers "passing through the lines" during the period of 1861-65 has brought to hand a very interesting advertisement that has been located by Mr. Lawrence W. Gibson in one of the newspapers of the time. It reads as follows:—

"Private Mail Matter—The Cheapest and Shortest Route. Directions. Letters from the Union States going to the Seceded States should be directed to me at Franklin, Ky., and letters from the Seceded States going to the Union States should be directed to me at Mitcheilville, Tenn., under the following requirements: 1. Direct your letter properly. 2. Enclose the same with Fifteen Cents in Money (stamps will not do) to me, by mail, and I will remail them daily to their destination, and pay postage on same. This applies to letters under half an ounce, for every additional half ounce ten cents will be required. Transient newspapers ten cents each.

M. D. WHITESIDE.

Franklin, Ky., has a Daily U. S. mail by railroad to and from all points in the Union States.

Mitcheilville, Tenn., has a daily Confederate Mail by railroad to and from all points in the Seceded States."

This certainly explains one of the methods by which letters were passed between the Southern and Northern states, but the covers themselves would not indicate that the letter has traveled in such a manner, unless of course the letter itself was within the envelope.

Mr. J. C. Rice also sends for inspection a very interesting cover that has passed from the Union to the Confederate States. The envelope was posted from Camp Chase, near Columbus, Ohio, and a 3c stamp of the issue of 1861 is present postmarked with the Columbus stamp dated "Nov. 22". The Camp Chase mark falls upon the cover. In the upper left hand corner we find a 10c Confederate postmarked "Richmond, Va". The letter itself is addressed to White Sulphur Springs, Va., and we find in manuscript "Via Fortress Monroe & Flag of Truce to Richmond, Va., or by Savannah if that is the route." This cover like one we mentioned in our edition of August 5th, again brings up the question as to who pays the Confederacy for the 10c stamp attached at Richmond.

While on the subject of Confederate covers, Mr. Cassius L. Clay sends a photograph of a cover that he has located, sent from New Orleans, La., to Dennis Mills in the same state. In the upper right corner we read in large bold letters applied by a stamp "Pd 5 CTS—N. O. P. O." in two lines and to the left in one line "J. L. RIDDELL, P. M." This cover bears two postmarks of "New Orleans, La". One consists of two concentric circles with the date "Dec. 3, 186—" in the center, the last figure which is indistinct may be a "1", "3" or "4". The other postmark is within one circle and is dated with the day and month only "14 MAR". This provisional of the New Orleans postmaster is known, but I cannot account for the two postmarks several months apart.

We wish to thank Messrs. E. H. Draper, Chas. Metz, W. H. Miller and H. W. Porter for notes of interest.

STANLEY GIBBONS, Ltd.,
391 STRAND, LONDON, ENG.

The old type inscribed 1½ anna were issued up, but by mistake some were issued at Madras, whence the copy came. Also the 1d has been issued in the same color as the above mentioned stamp and in unused condition, unlike the 1a Service stamp mentioned some time ago which was placed on the market in ungummed condition.

INDO-CHINA.—This Colony, lagging behind the other French possessions in conforming to the requirements of the Postal Union with regard to the colours of its postage stamps, has only just sent to the Berne Bureau the following:—

1c yellow and black.
2c green and black.
4c red and black.
5c blue and black
10c purple and black on azure.
15c blue and black on rose.

Despite the alleged scandalizing of the Annamite and Cambodian types of 1907 these new issues are all in M. Puyplat's original designs.—Stamp Collecting.

ST. KITTS-NEVIS.—Mr. J. A. Galbraith has shown us the following new items in the type of the 1920 issue: 2½d brown, ultramarine, 2sh ultramarine and black on blue, and 1 pound red and black on green. The first three values are script watermark and the high value Multiple Crown CA.

SWITZERLAND.—We learn from Messrs. Stanley Gibbons, Ltd., that the colour of the current 5c orange is shortly to be changed.

League of Nations.—Despite the sneering remarks made by certain Jingo journals the League of Nations still exists and has appropriated to itself a distinctive overprint for its official correspondence. This hallmark of international creation consists of the words "SOCIÉTÉ DES NATIONS", in three lines of blue-black Roman capitals, on eleven values of the current postage stamps of Switzerland. The sale of these stamps to the public is strictly prohibited, and they are intended only for use on official correspondence of the League of Nations at Geneva, which is carried at reduced rates. A proposal to create stamps of distinctive design as a means of propaganda for the League was rejected by the Swiss postal authorities, by whom "provisionals" were supplied.—Stamp Collecting.

TANGANYIKA.—Mr. R. Roberts advises the appearance of the 5c purple and blue, 30c blue and grey; 40c brown and grey, 50c grey and 75c ochre and grey of the new design mentioned before on the script watermarked paper.

BARGAINS IN EARLY U. S.

Sometimes we have to buy a lot of ordinary stamps in order to get a very few specialist items. We have cleared out a lot during the past few months, but we still can supply on approval to general collectors almost anything in early U. S. stamps at prices way below catalog figures.

Send us a want list and a reference and we will send you either U. S. or high class foreign stamps on approval.

J. O. MOORE, Inc., RHEIMS, N. Y.

ARRANGEMENT BY DESIGN.

By A. J. Koop.

Having recently to remount a growing specialized collection of United States, I soon decided that with this country, at all events, if not with many another, the simplest and most logical, as well as the most interesting and instructive classification of the stamps in detail was one based on the arrangement by design. I concluded, that is to say, that the design of each stamp, and the various minor alterations made in it during its currency, should as far as possible form the primary basis of classification, the secondary basis being provided by such relatively unimportant incidents as a change of shade or even of colour, a variation in the make or appearance of the paper, or in the style and gauge of its perforation, and even such things as casual surcharges and overprints.

Carried to its logical extreme in nearly every class of U. S. stamp, my method has proved in practice as near an approach to perfection as I could wish, and I can see no reason for going back to the conventional classification adopted (no doubt with good reason) by the catalogues and (with less reason) by most collectors who specialize. Without making a full test, I imagine that the new method could be successfully applied to many other groups of stamps—at any rate its underlying principles could in every case be borne in mind with advantage.

My first care was, naturally, to divide off the main classes of stamps, such as (a) the regular adhesives from 1847 to date (b) envelopes and postcards (c) revenues and so forth. But even here the new method had its say. Commemoratives from Columbus (1893) to the Mayflower (1921) were made a class by themselves (like newspapers, postage dues and other miscellaneous issues), so as not to disturb the even succession of the contemporary regular issues. On the other hand, the Franklin Carrier (and the Eagle with it), as well as the Departmentals, were worked among these regulars, owing to similarity of design.

I next broke up each class into "series" (using this term in preference to "issues"), but took care to make as few "series" as possible. Thus, the 5c and 10c of 1847 naturally became "Series I," while the next set, current during the period 1851-1861, made an obvious "Series II." I say "obvious" because it is clear that the issue, in 1857, of the stamps in a perforated state did not of itself affect their designs or constitute them a new series. For, after all, a perforate stamp is no more than a mere paper variety of its imperforate prototype.

Similarly, when a new set was issued in August, 1861, to be repeated in the following month with slight improvements in some of the designs—when also, a few years later, the same stamps (together with the two new values already added, viz., 2c and 15c) appeared with the paper "embossed with grilles"—there was in all this, I contend, no more than a single "Series III," and not two, three or more separate issues, as the catalogue classification would imply.

"Series IV" gives us the 1869 set, with little to trouble us in the matter of re-arrangement, while my "Series V" (the "Middle Issues") unites the whole of the regular adhesives (as well as the Departmentals, of kindred design) current between 1870 and 1890, into one large but homogeneous group, with all their "grilled" varieties, their "secret marks" (I should like to call these "Die Ia") their "re-engraved" designs ("Die II") and an occasional change of colour. I have even found it a convenience to distribute the "second designs" for certain values (1c, 2c, 5c) in numerical sequence among the rest.

After that, it is mere child's play, with the intrusive Columbians out of the way, to treat the 1890-4-5-8 issues as a single "Series VI", by regarding the addition of spandrel-ornaments to the design (1894) or of a watermark to the paper (1895), as well as various changes of colour (1898), as insufficient to constitute new series. Certain Colonial overprints (Cuba, etc.) would naturally be worked in at this point.

"Series VII" (officially "Series 1902") offers little difficulty—it includes a second design for the 2c, a re-issue (as late as 1917) of the $2 and $5 with a different perforation, and a few Colonial overprints. The regular issues from 1908 to date, if arranged in strict chronological order, are very confusing, not to say chaotic. But call them all "Series VIII." and take each value in turn through all its vicissitudes of design, dies, printing methods, colour, paper and perforation, before dealing with the next value in numerical sequence, and it is wonderful how easily order arises out of chaos, and, indeed, how much more interesting these somewhat dull issues become.

To proceed to more minute detail, without unduly encroaching on my space, I will show how I arrange the varieties of a single stamp, the 1c of Series II (see illustration).

This stamp appeared first in 1851, the sheets being issued imperforate until 1857, from which date they were regularly perforated. At the same time, the design underwent certain small alterations, such as would appeal to specialists only. Thus we have, according to the latest classification, Types I to V, some of them with one or more sub-types. Now, of these, Types I-IV appear on both the imperf. and perf. issues, and if we were to examine most specialised collections we should find the exhibit opening quite naturally with "Type I imperf." (or at least a space for it!). But on our asking to see this type in its imperforate form, we should be told to turn over the page or pages dealing with the other 1c types imperf., followed by more pages containing the 3c and the other values in all their various types, still imperf.; and only then should we come to what we were looking for—virtually the same stamp, produced from the same plate and maybe at the same printing.

Logically it is clear that the perforated 1c in Type I should follow immediately on the imperfs. of the same type—and so with all the other types of the several designs in the series; and we may shortly hope to learn that specialists in U.S.A. (and other countries) have come round to my way of thinking and have been busily engaged in reshuffling the pages in their loose-leaf albums!

To continue our illustration. In 1875 a series of reprints ("Special Printings") of all the then current and obsolete U.S. postal adhesives were issued and sold to the public at face value. Most of them are very rare, and the collector lucky enough to possess a complete set for (say) "Series II" may, perhaps, be forgiven if he prefers for that reason to keep them together. Were they, on the other hand, quite common, I would insist on the distribution of at least a duplicate set in their appropriate places among the various types of the original issue. In the series under notice, for instance, the "special print" of the 1c—it happens to be one of the commoner ones—is an example of Type I.

Further developments of the principle will occur to the serious student of stamps, but enough has been said, I hope, to justify my plea for "arrangement by design."—Kensington Philatelist.

COLLECTIONS FOR SALE

In our recent purchase of a large dealer's stock, involving many thousands of dollars, a number of excellent collections were obtained. We are not retail dealers and have neither the time to break up the collections nor the market in which to sell single stamps. It is our desire to sell each collection intact at a price low enough to draw immediate purchasers. Many of the offerings are no doubt priced at less than replacement cost, and while we do not know the catalogue value of each individual collection, it is our belief that any one of them will prove a good investment not only for collectors and exchangers, but also for the dealer, and will net an excellent profit when remounted on approval sheets at 50% discount.

OUR GUARANTEE:—We give an unqualified guarantee that each collection offered by us contains all different, undamaged, genuine, postage stamps only—no "cast-offs", telegraphs, revenues, or unlisted minor varieties. We will accept the return of anything which does not meet the above description and the purchase price, plus all expenses, will be refunded without question.

20,000 Varieties For $1,250.00

Our best and most valuable offering. A collection containing more than 20,000 all different stamps in good condition and covering the widest possible range of countries. Many old stamps are included, but the collection is particularly strong in 20th century and new issues. Among the scarce stamps may be found:

United States 1847, 5c and 10c, Columbian Issue, complete, Trans-Mississippi issue complete. All very good.
Ceylon, Tasmania, Queensland, etc., early issues cataloguing up to $15.00 each in good condition. Includes Trinidad 1900, Nos. 81-3, very fine.
Austria—1910 Birthday complete, Military stamps complete, Nos. 451-516, mint and fine.
Bavaria, 1911 to date, Nos. 77-275 complete, mostly unused.
Bosnia—Entirely complete, with a few exceptions. Mostly mint.
Fiume—Almost complete, including complete set on Hungary, 43 values (guaranteed genuine) cataloguing over $80.00. Mint.
German Colonies—Last ship type for all 12 colonies complete. Mint.
Hungary Occupation Issues—Over $100 catalogue value in these rarities. All mint.
Jugo Slavia, on Bosnia complete, Nos. 1-42; on Hungary complete, Nos. 201-228. Mint.
Serbia—Occupation of Bosnia complete, Nos. 401-442, very scarce. Mint.
Siam 1908, 40 tical (cat. $17.50), 1912 2-20 baht, Nos. 152-6, all fine.
Turkey 1913, 200pi, No. 270. Very rare, cat. $30.00.
W. Ukrainia 1919, Nos. 85-103 complete, mint.

This collection absolutely does not contain the many telegraphs, revenues, and unlisted minor varieties found in most of the "imported" foreign offerings. We do not believe it could be duplicated—stamp for stamp—at less than $2,500. We recommend the collection in the highest terms to the collector who wishes to enter the "advanced class" with the least expenditure of money, or to the dealer needing a large variety for counter trade or approval sheets.

10,000 Varieties For $197.50

Similar to the above collection, but containing fewer of the "hard-to-get" varieties. Will catalogue enough to make it a good buy for the approval dealer, and also for the collector, who can in this way add to his collection at wholesale prices. All the stamps are different and in good condition. Neatly mounted by countries in ten blank books, and regularly priced at $300.00. We have two of these collections and offer them at an absolutely rock-bottom figure to clear.

PRICE ONLY $197.50

British Colonial Collection
2,500 Varieties For $150

From our large stock—the accumulation of years—we have been able to assemble a collection of British Colonies (no Great Britain) which we believe to be the last word in real, 100% value, either for the dealer or exchanger. The collection contains OVER 2,500 DIFFERENT STAMPS, with no watermark or perforation varieties, all in good to fine condition, and representing practically every colony of Great Britain, either past or present. We wish to call attention to several of the very fine items contained therein:

Ceylon, Nos. 3, 17, 25, 46, 137, 139, 141d, fine used.
Nos. 84, 104-5-6-7, 119, mint.
India, Nos. 90-96, King George complete, fine.
Gold Coast, No. 11, used.
*Labuan, 1902, Nos. 99a-109 complete, mint and fine.
*St. Helena, 1912, Nos. 71-2, mint.
*Malta, Self Govt., Newfoundland Halifax Airmail on cover (scarce), etc., etc.

All of the stamps are neatly mounted by countries in three blank books and ready for immediate transferring into albums.

SPECIAL PRICE, $150.00

Portuguese Colonial Collection
1,500 Varieties For $67.50

SENATOR GODCHARLES ADDS 700 STAMPS TO HIS COLLECTION OF 27,000.

"My collection numbered 27,220 varieties at the time I ordered the 1500 Portuguese Colony collection (cat. $400) from you at $67.50. I want to say that in all my dealings I have never made a purchase which was so thoroughly appreciated. The stamps were not only good in quality, but also in character, and I added to my large collection, 695 stamps to the value of $248.07, and have 805 varieties with which to make up exchange books. I am indeed pleased with the purchase."
—F. A. GODCHARLES, Deputy Sec. of the Commonwealth, Harrisburg, Pa.

BEST PURCHASE HE HAS MADE IN 20 YEARS.

"Permit me to say that I was very much pleased with the collection of Portuguese Colonies (1,500 varieties) received from you on the 4th. My collection numbers about 25,000 varieties, but during my entire experience I have never received the value which this lot contains."
—WM. F. ANDERSON, 4828 Roscoe St., Chicago, Ill.

A COLLECTION OF 1,500 DIFFERENT STAMPS FROM PORTUGUESE COLONIES ONLY (no Portugal) mounted by countries in three blank books. Most of the stamps are unused and the condition is perfect throughout. Vasco da Gama issues, scarce provisionals, and hard-to-get varieties are included in large numbers. Specially selected for quality, and every stamp is guaranteed genuine. Catalogue Value is almost Four Hundred Dollars, our price practically one-sixth of catalogue!

Collectors and dealers all over the country are beginning to realize the popularity and investment value of Portuguese Colonies, many of which are underpriced and destined to become quite scarce within the next few years. This is positively the most exceptional offering we have ever been able to make. Order immediately, as present stock cannot be replaced.

SPECIAL COLLECTIONS

We always have in stock a large number of collections mounted in 19th and 20th century Scott albums and ranging in price from $25.00 to $1,000.00 each. If you are contemplating the purchase of a good collection, communicate with us before buying elsewhere.

Wholesale Approval Department

Our Wholesale Approval Service has for many years been recognized as the most moderate-priced and efficient in the country. In most cases prices are lower than abroad, as we purchase in large quantities to insure lowest quotations. We have a complete line of the popular pictorial sets, as well as a very fair stock of medium and rare stamps. A written application, supplemented by commercial references, will receive prompt attention.

PRECANCEL NOTES.

By J. D. COOKE, Whippany, N. J.

Madison, N. J., has precancelled all values through the 20c, including the 13c. The type is a handstamp similar to U-3 and is a very pretty issue.

Knoxville, Tenn., Victory double, 1 up and 1 down, is an item that I recently picked up.

The only new 10x11 that I can chronicle this month is Winona, Minn.

Two good new one dollar values are Ithaca, N. Y., and Norwood, Mass.

Great Falls, Montana, up in blue ink, makes a very pretty addition to my collection.

As mentioned in a recent issue of the Phizzle, the New York Coils furnishes an interesting study. Have just added two new types. One is a three line type which is considerably different than any yet put out by the New York office and in addition there is an irregular smudge line horizontally across the stamp. The other one is that pretty box cancellation which appears twice on a stamp, similar to Rochester, Buffalo, etc.

Red Bank, Iowa, is my only new rotary press perf. 10 all around this month.

Palmer, Mass., is using a new type. It consists of large caps and is a horizontal inscription. Have it on the 9c.

Long Island City on the three cent offset inverted is a new one from that city.

It has been reported to me on good authority that the Post Office Department has sent out a questionnaire to all post offices as to whether they would like to use precancelled stamps for all 3rd and 4th class mail. If that were done all stamps would be affixed in the post office and none would be passed out to firms and no permits to use them would be issued. This would greatly widen the collecting field, but it is an open question whether it would be beneficial to the game. It would tend to lessen if not entirely do away with the speculative phase of the game.

East Aurora, N. Y., 1c rotary press, perf. 10 all around, is the latest in this variety.

Scranton, Pa., 6c, perf. 11, inverted double is a sweet item that I recently picked up.

The following Ridgewood, N. J., are not catalogued by Bushnell: Type 1, perf. 11 2c offset up; 9c up; 12c up; 15c up; 20c up; and 10c up; also perf. 8½ coil 1c down; type 2 perf. 10 11c nor.; perf. 11, 2c offset, 2c double; 6c, 9c, 12c and 15c all normal.

How many of these have you in your collection? North Platte, Nebr., perf. 11, 9c up; Scottsbluff, Nebr., perf. 11, 11c normal; Lewistown, Mont., 3c offset; Piqua, O., type U-I, 11c normal; Amarillo, Texas; perf. 11, type III, 20c normal; Shelbourne Falls, Mass., type U-3 3c offset; Owensboro, Ky., 1c rotary press, perf. 10 all around.—Philatelic Phizzle.

STAMPS FOR ASCENSION.

Two "mighty atoms" of the Atlantic Ocean have been in the limelight of late—the islands of Ascension and Tristan da Cunha. The latter, unlike the former, is not yet a candidate for admission to the stamp album, and is in every way inferior to Ascension, which, as exclusively announced in last week's Stamp Collecting, is about to be admitted to "Crown Colony" rank as a philatelic pendant to St. Helena, with distinctive stamps of its own—at first provisional and later definitive.
